After Baetjer and Armstrong are through Tippett takes a hand to show that certain contractors were favored by the Ritchie-Mackall administration. Baetjer and Haskins & Sells to the rescue with long sheets of figures to show that no favors were shown as alleged. The talk is about overruns and underruns and extras.

Carroll lets it out in reply to questions that M. Hampton Magruder, race track fancier and Democrat leader in Prince George's County, got $6,600 from the Roads Commission on account of the Crain highway hullabaloo but presented no detailed bills at all. The amount was handed him in three payments. And there was nothing on the minutes, it seems, about the appointment of two chairmen to handle this hullabaloo and dispense the money for silverware, sandwiches and toy balloons.

Comes then to the stand deposed Chairman John N. Mackall, thrown out by Ritchie dynasty. He proceeds to read a long papered statement. He gives himself a fine coat of whitewash which seems to please the administration partisans. Through with the reading, he is given a polite, courteous examination by Charles McHenry Howard, in that gentlemanly style for which Mr. Howard is well known. He brings out from the deposed chairman the fact that he was born in Calvert County, educated at the Maryland Agricultural College, and all the main facts about the form of organization of the State Roads Commission. Before anything interesting or even allegedly new comes out the committee gets tired. The writer got tired long before that and so did other spectators.

That was the afternoon of one day. Wednesday was another day, a bit more interesting, in which the deposed chairman admitted indiscretions, bad judgment and so on in lesser matters but did not admit bad judgment in big matters.

Little By Little
Some Facts Come Out

Under the questioning of Delegate Dan Joseph and others some facts in relation to the Ritchie-Mackall administration were brought out on Thursday. It was revealed that Geo. H. Dawson was named as auditor for the Commission at a meeting attended by the Governor. It has all along been understood that the Governor made the selection. This was in June, 1920. In his prior testimony Mackall had blamed Dawson for failing to detect the wholesale stealing.

It was also shown that Dawson, in addition to being auditor for the Roads Commission, was also the auditor for the Annapolis-Claiborne ferry, a State-subsidized enterprise, and that part of his work was done in the State roads office. An evidence of how the Ritchie-Mackall machine worked. Roads, ferries, subsidies and thieves all in the same office—all in the same room—and nobody seeming to care until Deputy Auditor Dan Carroll came along and bawled 'em out.

Mackall also testified that the Governor had visited the roads office five or six times within his recollection, but he did not attempt to name the many times he had visited the Governor to confer on the roads construction and other political affairs of the administration. Mackall, however, has already admitted enough to show that the Governor should have known better than make him chairman of the Roads Commission in the first place. At that time the Governor was surrounded by a numerous kitchen cabinet, one of the most active members of which was (and still is) Brooke Lee, and they took part in urging Mackall on the Governor who was then just started on his second term plans and the building up of a powerful political machine of which the Roads Department was to be made the most useful section—the money being there in great hunks.

And, it seems, had it not been for the zealousness of Deputy Auditor Dan Carroll the Roads Commission would be going along today just as it had been going on for years, the thieves taking their one-half of one per cent which the Governor now publicly admits he doesn't think amounts to much. To date no one has shown anything to indicate that the Governor ever went out of his way to see that the roads accounts were properly audited in eight years, even though he knew the department was handling millions of dollars.

And to date neither of the so-called investigating committees has dared to put the Governor on the witness stand and require him to testify under oath and explain his negligence.

Ritchie and Lee
Opposed to Dennis

One of the latest reports that come my way is to the effect that Governor Ritchie and his close adherent, Brooke Lee, are saying they are unalterably opposed to the nomination of Judge Samuel K. Dennis as the Democratic candidate for Governor next year. They argue that Dennis has been eliminated by his appointment to the bench and that he should be satisfied with what has been done for him considering that he never was an admirer of the Governor, anyway.

To be sure there are Democrats who will resent the effort of the Governor and Brook Lee to dominate the party next year when they have had their full share in bringing humiliation upon the State through the way the roads scandal has been handled, to say nothing else.

Ritchie Boom
Is Growing Apace

The Ritchie fourth term boom made a big advance this week following the address of the Governor before the Baltimore realtors last Saturday night. I find two accessions to the fourth term ranks so that the verified total is now 6, a fifty percent increase over last week, when only four could be located.

It is only fair to say that each and every one of the six are office holders who no doubt wish to continue in that patriotic capacity.

There is one question the Democratic leaders will have to find an answer for among themselves and that is whether any man who supported Ritchie for his third term nomination can be elected in November, 1930. That is a grave question.

Republicans May Give Robertson a Bump

They tell me that a little coterie of City Hall Republicans is being formed to take charge of party affairs in the city and show the gate to John L. Robertson, whose name has been frequently mentioned in the State roads scandal. Although Robertson has been active in the present city administration there are members of the party who seem to think he may be more of a liability than an asset and that it is time to give him his political walking papers. It's all very interesting and, by the way, Robertson has just returned from a vacation in Florida while his former partner, Wm. L. Elder, is again setting up shop to bid on paving contracts.

On top of this I hear that Senator Weller, who to date has been too smart to fall into the trap set for him by the Ritchie-Lee crowd at Annapolis, is looking things over and may soon begin to take a quite active interest in city politics now that things seem to be drifting.

Republicans note—some with a grin—that the Wet Blanket people are trying to start a boom for Bladen Lowndes, vice-president of the Arundel Corporation, for the Governorship nomination on the Republican ticket next year and they do tell me Lowndes seriously has the bee in his bonnet. And this is the most encouraging report that has come to the poor Democrat since the day the roads scandal leaked out despite the Ritchie-Mackall efforts to keep it under cover.

Insurance Department
Now Under Fire

Comes now unafraid Delegate Joseph A. Wilmer, of Charles, and tells the Legislature that the Governor's State Insurance Department is not exactly according to Hoyle, and that he wants the super-Grand Inquest Committee of the General Assembly to make an inquiry. Of course if there is anything wrong the Governor never heard of it before as he has a great habit of not having heard things before.

The new Commissioner of Insurance, Harrison Rider, went down to see what was what but it appears that he had a bit of difficulty in finding out as Mr. Wilmer was not shouting from the housetops.

By a mischance I recently referred to Mr. Rider as a horse trader. I am now informed that he is not, as horses are rather scarce, but that he is great on cows.

Automobile Owners
Still Being Bled

I see a committee representing the automobile owners has been down to Annapolis protesting against the retention of the horse power taxes on their cars. It is well known that when the gasoline tax was imposed it was promised by the administration that this would be followed by the removal of the horsepower tax.

But instead of this promise being kept the gasoline tax has been increased so that the taxes are now sky high. But somehow there are plenty of good citizens who are willing to be bilked and thus few have made a noise about this near-fraud of the State administration.

CHALLENGER WEEK TESTS PROVE SUCCESS OF ESSEX

Local Hudson-Essex Dealers Make Speed and Hill Climbing Tests Yesterday Afternoon

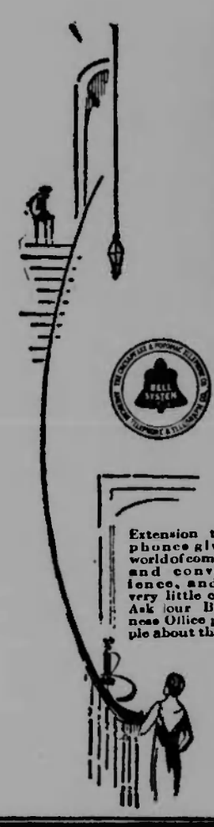
So successful was Essex Challenge Week, March 4th to 11th, that the Hudson Motor car company has decied to extend the program for a month, using the slogan "Essex Challenge and Demonstration Month."

Record breaking performances from coast to coast and from Canada to the Gulf marked Challenge Week. Speed in excess of 70 miles an hour was shown in every section of the country excepting where deep snow drifts completely blocked traffic.

Endurance tests revealed better than 60 miles an hour for 24 hours; hill climbing tests saw Essex annex cups offered for the speediest climbs up Mt. Baldy and Mt. Madonna. New records were established in both cases.

Kerins Brothers, local Hudson-Essex dealers, found themselves handicapped for n speed test owing to the fact that all of their cars were entirely new, but were fortunate in securing a car from one of their customers, and made the test which revealed an average speed of 68 miles per hour for nearly two miles.

The Messrs. Kerins did not desire to abuse a new car running it at an excessive speed and for that reason were obliged to secure one which had been run several hundred miles. They feel confident that upon a perfectly level track a speed of more than 70 miles per hour could be obtained without much effort.



A hill climbing test proved to be the outstanding feature for them during Essex Challenge week, and a new Essex coach, stock car, was used for the test. The test was made on what is locally known as Bush's hill and the climb was achieved, starting at the foot of Wilson street and going to the intersection of Pennington street, at the John O. Thayer residence, thence turning at a right angle and negotiating the hill in high gear. A speed varying between 14 and 25 miles per hour was maintained, which the Messrs. Kerins said was a revelation to them as well as to the public.

Due to the very rough street between Center and Pennington on Wilson, it was impossible to race the car over that section and thus refuted any chance of a run for the real climb.

"Noone need be afraid of not 'pulling' Big Savage or Cadell mountains," said Mr. James Kerins, "if the coach will pull Bush's hill under such rough road conditions.

YOUR telephone rings. It's 'way downstairs. And, of course, you are 'way upstairs. That's always the way. Life is just full of such handicaps. There's only one thing for you to do—run downstairs as quickly as possible, for telephone calls must be answered promptly.

How much better it would be if you had extension telephones upstairs—perhaps two or more,—in the bedrooms and guest rooms. An extension should also be in the living room, another in the pantry—in fact, there should be a telephone wherever and whenever needed.

Extension telephones give a world of comfort and convenience, and at very little cost. Ask our Business Office people about them.

during Nation-wide CHALLENGER WEEK

Kerins Bros. local dealers, in a test made with two models of the New Essex Challenger, made a speed record of 68 miles per hour, and climbed "Bush's" hill without effort. The cars were startling in their quick accelaration and economy on gasoline and oil.

Above we show some of the local records, officially observed by newspaper men, which Essex the Challenger established during Nationwide Challenger Week. Owners here, and owners by thousands all over the country, have duplicated these tests, or, at least, verified the capacity of their own Essex the Challenger to reproduce any or all of these proofs.

IN FAST GET-AWAY—no car is excepted. IN SPEED—anything the road offers up to 70 miles an hour. IN HILL CLIMBING—against any car you choose. IN APPEARANCE—match it for smartness with costlier cars. IN EASE OF DRIVING—note smoothness of motor—ease of steering—roadability and effectiveness of brakes. IN ENDURANCE—60 miles an hour all day long is well within its range.

One million owners know the special advantages of the Super-Six. They are best qualified to compare the Essex the Challenger. To them we offer first opportunity to test the most powerful, the largest, roomiest, smoothest, easiest riding—most complete Essex ever built. But all motordom must be astounded that even with seventy-six notable improvements, the price is the lowest in Essex history—a price but little above the lowest-priced car on the market.

MYTH OF CHAIN ECONOMY

(From The Interstate Grocer)

The Interstate Grocer has consistently contended that the alleged economy buying in chain stores was a myth, as well as the vaunted "mass buying and distribution" about which the chain store corporations prat so much in their advertising. We have maintained that if it were not for the special concessions which they have received in free goods, lower prices than competitors purchasing the same quantity, advertising and window allowances, the chains would have no advantage over the efficient retail grocer operating a single store. And this in spite of the fact that chains pay low wages to help, do not contribute to community endeavors, and fail to pay the same relative taxes of the individual merchant.

It is refreshing, therefore, to have proof of this from an unbiased authority in the shape of Professor H. S. Alexander, of the School of Business of Columbia University. There was no tinge of trade interest in his survey. He went out after the facts to ascertain just what the situation was. He did not make only a cursory survey, either. It was an exhaustive research covering 50 items. His figures were obtained from 400 to 1,000 chain and individual stores, which certainly gave him a good cross section on which to base his findings. The result was that the chains showed but two per cent lower prices on the whole than the independent, yet they have been constantly talking about 10, 20 and even 25 per cent lower prices. Now it dwindles down to but two per cent.

We do not know whether this professor checked weights and other things which enter into the picture as per the disclosures which have been made by the Interstate Grocer. Irrespective of that, however, here are chain stores with their large buying power, single control of vast number of stores, rendering no service, enjoying preferential treatment from thoughtless manufacturers, perhaps less taxes than their competitors and sapping the community of its resources and despite all those supposed advantages are only underselling the independent grocer on the average about two per cent. If they had all of their unfair advantages taken from them it would be interesting to find out how much higher they were selling than their single store competitor whom they delight to belittle so much because he has one store..

The water in the stock of chain stores, the burden of carrying the system through with the complex red tape all demonstrate that the chain stores are not what they are cracked up to be. The consumers have been fooled with the vast figures about buying, the number of stores operated, etc., and this propaganda has been accepted at its face value. Now, however, an independent and unbiased investigator has pulled the mask of economy from the chain store. What Lincoln said about fooling some of the people all of the time, all of the people some of the time, but being unable to fool all of the people all of the time is certainly being verified with respect to the chain stores. Thus, gradually, is the false superstructure of the chain store business being crumbled to earth.

Window Decorations

Modern decorative treatments for windows, including directions for choosing suitable materials and for making the various kinds of curtains and draperies now in vogue, are described by Miss Helen Shelby, of the University of Maryland Extension Service, in a circular now available for distribution.

The purpose of the window, Miss Shelby says, is to give light and ventilation and permit a view of the outside. To be useful, the window decorations must not conceal an attractive view, prevent adequate ventilation or shut out too much sunlight. Windows are curtained to give privacy to a room, to soften the light, to break the severe lines of the window frame, to introduce color and to complete a scheme of decoration.

In planning decorations for a room that is to be occupied a great deal, such as a living room, it is well to remember that it will be more restful if the walls are kept plain and rather neutral in color. With the wall surface plain and dull in effect, one may use pattern or design in draperies, furniture and rugs. On the other hand, rooms may be very sucessful with a decorated wall surface and plain draperies.

The design used in the living room should have dignity. As a rule, the most satisfactory drapery fabrics with patterns are those that do not show a decided contrast in color value, and possess a design that covers the surface without appearing spotted. When drapery material is being selected, it should be arranged in folds and held against the light to see how it will look on the window.

If the walls of a room are definitely figured, one should select plain draperies. Plain draperies should also be used in rooms where there are many pictures and much design in the furniture and rugs. Plain curtains of the same color as the wall are also very successful in small rooms with many windows. They seem to enlarge the background.

The circular is well illustrated, making directions easy to follow. Copies may be secured without cost from the county home demonstration agent.

Resident County Agent,

The General Agricultural Situation

The outlook for the agricultural industry in the United States as a whole for 1929 shows indications of being not far different from the past five years, the annual gross cash income from farming has ranged from $12,000,000,000 to $12,500,000,000. Agriculture in this country is a regional industry. Progress and depression in the industry are not felt equally by all sections. Because of annual variations in production in different sections of the country regional fluctuations will continue to occeur.

The aggregate value of 21 important crops produced in Maryland in 1928 declined about 17 per cent from the value in 1927. This decline in value was due, for the most part, to adverse weather conditions. In the case of early potatoes, the decline, largely due to poor weather conditions, was also responsible for price declines in many of the crops notably in strawberries and some of the other truck crops.

During the past year the livestock industries have fared better than have the crops as a whole.

For the Eastern States, including Maryland, the outlook for 1929 is for better returns than in 1928. The fluid milk industry continues profitable with an increasing demand, and no grain feed shortagees are anticipated. The potato industry which was unprofitable to growers in 1928, is expected to show a recovery in 1929. Fruit growers face continued heavy production, with the long-timed outlook for northern peaches slightly improved. Apple producers and vegetable growers may look forward to continued competition from other areas which ship to eastern markets.

The average dairy cow will consume about 2 tons of good legume hay and one ton cheat roughage. If silage is available legume hay may be reduced.

Ten head of sheep will need about one ton of legume hay. Each work animal will consume about three tons of good roughage. Have you planned to grow enough roughage to meet your needs next winter? Now is the time to plan and plant.

—0—

You can expect from 1 to 1½ tons of hay per acre. If your land will produce 40 to 50 bushel corn per acre you can expect about 10 tons of silage per acre if a good silage variety of corn is used.

—0—

Do you plan on doing any transplanting of trees or shrubs this spring? If you do, make a note for it to be done as soon as the frost leaves the ground. The longer you wait after the frost leaves the ground the less chance you have for a successful transplanting. Remember to take as much soil as possible with the shrubs.

Last Chance to Prune Grape Vines

Unlike most small fruits there is a time limit in the pruning of grape vines and that time limit expires very soon with the coming of warm weather and the rise of sap, which causes bleeding if the pruning is delayed until too late a date.

There is one main factor to be kept in mind in the pruning of grape vines and if observed even the inexperienced can get results. It is necessary to limit the number of buds on the vine to the strength of the vine. Usually it is well to allow only 35 to 40 buds. The most common method is to prune back to one bud keeping in mind that the grapes are born on the present year's growth and not on last year's growth. To the uninformed observer, a properly pruned grape vine may seem to have been cut too heavily but without a heavy pruning, a crop is uncertain. The form of the vine should be kept in mind at the time of pruning. The West Va. University found that the most vigorous buds were not at the base of the cane. Their findings seem to indicate that it is best to allow about four entire canes to remain on the vine.

High Bowling Record Is Broken Again

The high individual record in the Oakland Bowling league for one game and also for three games was broken Monday night when Carrol Elliott, of the Merchants, rolled 217 for a single game and a total of 523 for three games. The former record was held by "Dutch" Walter, of the Presbyterian team.

During the week's play the Methodists won two of three from the Knights of Columbus; the Rotary club took two from the Merchants but lost two to the Postoffice. Crellin also took two out of three from the Merchants. The Presbyterians still lead the league with Rotary second, Postoffice third, and Merchants fourth.

Tonight the K of C. team meets the Presbyterians while the Methodists will clash with the Lutherans.

MT. LAKE PARK.

Continuing the suggestion made last week in relation to the future of the Park, we were rather encouraged to continue along the same line by the reading of an editorial in one of the Cumberland papers wherein the writer put forward some very pertinent ideas as to the reason why that city had not progressed as rapidly as it should have done. Aside from the fact that Mt. Lake is but a fly speck on the map in comparison to the size and importance of Cumberland, many of the suggestions made by the writer of that editorial could apply with force to the conditions here.

It was suggested in that editorial, as was mentioned some months ago in this column, that the appointment of a committee of representative citizens to make a survey and study of conditions, then report the findings to the proper authorities, would lay the foundation for future Park plannings. Among other things the present charter came in for its share of attention. You will probably recall that we said the charter (if any) under which Mt Lake Park is operating is wholly inadequate. In fact, the more we study it, the less we think of it. Under it the community is no more or less than a Ladies' Aid society, created for the purpose of "exercising those police and sanitary powers which the said Mt. Lake Park Association of Garrett county now has * * * * * to preserve order and decorum, to regulate the running at large of cattle and other animals * * * * and to provide for the extension, making, building, etc., of the public grounds, roads, etc." Those are about all the powers granted to the Park by the charter.

We realize that it is too late this year to do anything in the way of basic improvement. In fact, as we view the situation, unless the Mt. Lake Park Association can see its way clear to take the initiative in building a resort worthy of the name, one which will reflect credit upon a Christian organization and stand as a monument to practical Christianity, it is a waste of energy to advocate improvements and the citizens might as well settle down to living conditions that are entirely out of tune with the present day spirit of progress.

We are not pretending to question the policy or the sincerity of those in charge of the Park. So far as we can learn they are all high minded and sincere men, but we can not but think that they are wasting a God-given opportunity to advance the cause they represent in failing to make this Park the Resort Desirable.

Mrs. Frank Murphy and Mrs. J. A. Clark, Jr., and sons were visitors at the Park for a few days this week.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred C. Fleming and Mrs. Cora Bishop, of Fairmont, spent the day here Tuesday.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert C. Tassie entertained a few friends at their home one evening last week.

Work is progressing in a very satisfactory manner on the new basement of the M. E. church. It will be ready for occupancy in a short time.

On the evening of the 16th a very delightful social was given at the home of Mrs. Chance under the auspices of the Ladies' Aid society of the M. E. Church. The entertainment and decorations were in keeping with the celebration of St. Patrick's Day and a most enjoyable time is reported by all who attended.

We are glad to report the slow but steady improvement in the condition of Mr. Eugene Comerford, who is quite ill with an attack of pneumonia at his home in California, Pa.

Mr. John W. Ream was in Fairmont, W. Va., as representative of Camp No. 44 to the Head Camp convention of the Woodmen of the World.

Mr. Frank E. Baker, superintendent, was in the Park this week.

In the M. E. church prayer services were held Monday and Wednesday nights and will be held Friday night of this week, in preparation for Holy Week. On Sunday, services will be held as follows: Sunday school at 10, Communion at 11, Epworth League at 6:45, and evening service at 7:30. Beginning Monday evening, services will be held every night next week at 7:30 o'clock, except Saturday. Easter Sunday there will be a young peoples' sunrise meeting at 8 o'clock; at 10 a. m. special Sunday school services and in the evening at 7:30 an Easter musical.

Mrs. Milton Echard, son Charles, his wife and baby, who spent the winter in Florida, have returned to their summmer home here.

Mrs. K. V. Hardy, who spent the winter with her mother in New York, is back again for the summer.

Mr. Nelson Nethkin is putting in an electric pump to run the water from a well, sunk by J. O. Smith, on the grounds connected with his filling station, which he expects to open in a short time for the convenience of the public.

We are glad to state that Miss Molly Hamill has so far recovered that she is able to be out again. Her sister, who was hurt at the same time, expects to be out in a few days.

DEER PARK.

Mr. Geo. Smith and sons, of Scottdale, Pa., visited his parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Smith.

Mr. and Mrs. James Walter, Sr., went to Fairmont Saturday evening to visit their son Gilmore and family, and daughter Alma, who is just out of the hospital.

Mr. and Mrs. Ervin Bittinger and children, and Mr. Wilbur Crispen, of Bobtown, visited relatives here over the week-end.

Miss Eunice George, who has been at Bobtown for more than a month, has returned home.

Mr. Hammond Friend visited Mr. Jack Rodeheaver recently.

Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Chadderton and child, of Bobtown, visited homefolk here Sunday.

Mrs. C. S. Reis was an Oakland shopper on Saturday.

High School Principals Attend Regional Conference

High school principals of Garrett county, and F. E. Rathbun, superintendent of schools, attended a regional principals' conference, held at Frostburg, Wednesday.

Factors causing eliminations and failures were discussed by a number of people. J. Edward Ford, Grantsville, led the discussion on "Failure to keep parents in close and frequent touch with the progress and attitude of pupils".

Miss Katharine Conley, Oakland, discussed the practice of allowing hackward pupils to elect subjects that require better native ability and better previous preparation than they possess; and failure to give adequate guidance to pupils in the choice of subjects and courses.

Austin A. LaMar, Accident, spoke on the practice of some principals of allowing teachers to fail large numbers of pupils without requiring an explanation of the causes for the same; and W. J. Glenn, Friendsville, discussed the failure of teachers to organize their work in terms of definite, specific tasks that pupils must perform at a stated time.

The objectives of the meeting were to consider ways and means of getting a larger percentage of pupils into high school; of decreasing the percentage of eliminations and failures of high school pupils; and of more nearly equalizing the persistence of graduation of boys and girls.

Miss Marion Leary, principal of the Oakland Grammar school, accompanied the Garrett county instructors.

New Ford Finance Plan Explained by Dealer

Mr. Harvey Gortner of the Motor Service Co., Grantsville, Md., Ford Dealers, returned a few days ago from Pittsburgh, where he received details of the new Ford finance plan.

The new finance plan will be operated by the Universal Credit Co., an affiliated specialized organization controled by the Ford Motor company and operating solely for the purpose of financing Ford products on a time basis.

The cost of their service will be lower than any heretofore available to Ford customers on a national basis, and automatically reduces the price of Ford cars purchased on a time payment basis. It is a further expression of the established Ford policy of giving outstanding values and complete service to the consumer at the lowest possible cost.

The plan also contemplates the purchase by Universal Credit co., of sound and adequate fire and theft insurance, protecting the joint interests of the purchaser, the dealer and the company in the car.

The Universal Credit Co., and the Ford dealer will work together in making this new economical Ford service available to all purchasers of Ford products on a time basis. The Ford dealers of Garrett county will be glad to explain all the deatils of the plan, which applies to both new and used cars purchased from Ford dealers.

MARRIED

Rupp, pastor of the Lutheran church, performed the ceremony. The groom holds a responsible position with the Celanese corporation of America, Cumberland.

FAIRVIEW

For the past week we have been having real March weather, within one day we get at least three different changes—snow, rain and sleet.

Mrs. Henry Nine and daughter Gladys spent the week-end with her aged grandmother, Mrs. Daniel Rinker, near Bayard, W. Va., who has been seriously ill.

Mrs. Frank Childs and son James, spent Sunday at Wesley Harveys'.

Rev. W. H. Cosner conducted funeral services Monday at Locust Grove, near Bismark, for one of his cousins, J. L. Cosner. His death was caused by measles.

Mr. James Harvey, Moundsville, W. Va., gave a social at his brother's home, Mr. A. D. Harvey, on March 9.

That people are finding new uses for the telephone is evident. During 1928 there was a daily average of 76,000,000 telephone calls in the U. S., which was an increase of 3,500,000 over the average day for 1927.

IMPORTANT DISCUSSIONS OCCUPY FORESTRY MEET

Most Enthusiastic Conference Ever Held, is Opinion of District Forester and Officials

"One of the most enthusiastic meetings ever held by the forest wardens of Garrett county," was the way in which H. C. Buckingham, district forester, characterized the annual two- day conference of wardens held last Friday and Saturday at the Court house, Oakland. Approximately 43 wardens were present exclusive of the State men and visitors, and everyone had a part in the discussion of the various questions, Mr. Buckingham stated.

On Friday morning F. W. Besley, state forester, showed how the department of forestry had grown since 1906, and he traced its development through the various stages. He gave entire credit for this rise to the forest wardens.

J. C. Renninger, State's attorney, and J. E. Harned, both g ve splendid addresses, and John R. Curry, assistant forester, spoke on "Forest Fire Prevention." In the afternoon the suppression of fires was taken up and Mr. Curry led a round table discussion in which all wardens had a part. F. B. Trenk, extension forester, spoke on Windbreakes and forest planting in Garrett county and showed the advantages of having them here. H. Y. Forsythe, district warden of the neighboring section in West Virginia, spoke a few words on fire prevention measures.

Fire Fighting Taken Up

Saturday morning the question of actual fire fighting was taken up. Diagrams and charts were used in the discussion and methods of attacking fires was explained, Mr. Besley again spoke to the group.

All wardens are to be furnished with green signs with white letters, telling where to report fires. The signs will be 10 by 15 feet and are to be distributed within the next few weeks.

An interesting feature of the conference was a contest on the State forestry laws. Dan Green, Swanton, showed the best proficiency in this and was awarded first place. He is a smoke chaser for the Bittinger tower. Pete Michael was second.

Tower Being Moved

The Thayerville Tower, about five miles north of Oakland, is now in the process of being moved approximately the distance of ¼ mile, to the top of the mountain. The tower will be 60 feet higher, Mr. Buckingham said, and will protect 25 percent more country. A tower will also be constructed on Dan's Rock, Allegany county in the near future.

Mr. Buckingham has asked that all persons use caution and extreme care during this season, because of the danger of forest fires. The dry leaves and grass spread fire quickly, and care must be exercised in burning brush.

Forestry Report Tells of Garrett County Forests

The report of the State Department of Forestry, University of Maryland, for the fiscal year, 1928, has the following to say about Garrett county forests:

"Three areas, close together, are situated in the west central portion of the county between the Youghiogheny river and the West Virginia boundry. The fourth area, the Kindness tract, is separate, but only a few miles south.

"These four forests were given to the State, three of them, 1,917 acres, by Messrs. John and Robert Garrett, and one, 656 acres, by Messrs Henry and Julian LeRoy White, making a total of 2,573 acres. In addition 253 acres have been purchased, the most recent being 28 acres from the Groves estate, which was added to the Skipnish State forest.

"While the Garrett county area is primarily a timber growing forest there are possibilities for recreation. Situated in the Allegheny Mountains at an average elevation of 2,300 feet above sea level, these State lands, together with the auxiliary State Forests at Swallow Falls, administered under agreement with the Grand Lodges of Masons of West Virginia and Pennsylvania, offer attractions to campers and other forms of out-door recreation. The clear, cool mountain air and the young forest growth, unmarred by fire, are the main advantages. Lack of good roads has held up the use of these areas as camping grounds during the past years."

High School Yearbook Pictures Have Been Taken

All pictures for "The Oak," official yearbook for Oakland High school, have been made, Richard Stemple, editor, has announced, and the cuts are now being made by the Lynchburg Engraving company. When completed, they, with the written material, will be turned over the The Republican office for the presswork.

Several new features will be included in the book this year and the members of the Senior class are enthusiastic over the prospects. The book will be off the press about June first.

4TH ORTHOPEDIC CLINIC TERMED VERY SUCCESSFUL

Twenty-three Cases Examined, Eight of Which Were New Ones—One Is Gratifying

"An extremely satisfactory clinic in every respect," is the opinion expressed by Dr. George Bennett, orthopedic specialist, Baltimore, in regard to the fourth orthopedic clinic held at the Court house, Oakland, last Friday morning. Twenty-three cases were examined, 15 of which were old cases, and the remaining 8, new ones.

The clinic was in charge of Dr. Bennett, and assisted by Dr. Arthur Weinberg, Baltimore, and Dr. Franklin, of the Allegany county health department, Cumberland. Miss Mary E. Church, Baltimore, executive secretary of the Maryland League for Crippled Children, and Mrs. Harry L. Frank, its vice-president, were also present and assisting. Miss Grace Marshall, Baltimore social worker, was also present getting a history of the clinics held in this county.

Lunch was served to the workers by the welfare committee of the Oakland Civic club, with Miss Lottie Loar and Mrs. F. E. Rathbun in charge. Mrs. Milton Sincell and Miss Grace Jones assisted Miss Rhesa M. King, public health nurse.

"Dr. Bennett was very much pleased with the result of the clinic," Miss King said. "All cases back for observation were found to be very much improved. The most interesting of all was the case of a child who had been burned on the hand and face by a celluloid comb about a year ago. After the examination, Dr. Bennett said the scared tissues of the child's body could be cured. This one case made the clinic entirely successful."

FISHING SEASON TO BE USHERED IN ON MONDAY

A Number of Restrictions In Force On Rainbow Trout

Open season on brook trout; open season on rainbow trout except in Deep Creek Lake and in the Youghiogheny river below Swallow Falls, and open season on brown trout will be ushered in on Monday, April 1, according to the fish laws of the State of Maryland.

It is necessary that all persons over the age of 18 years procure an angler's license before being permitted to fish by means of rod, hook and line, in any of the streams not closed in Garrett county, the law states.

Licenses are not required when the owner is fishing from his own property, nor does it apply to his own family, his tenants and their families and employes fishing from the owner's shores, the law provides.

Licenses, when required, may be secured from the Clerk of the Circuit court. The fees are $1.00 for Maryland residents, and $5.00 for non-residents of the State. A special license is required to fish in Deep Creek Lake where the season for all game and fish does not open until June 1.

Trout must be 6 inches in length before taking, according to the statute, except from Deep Creek Lake, where they must be eight inches in length.

Open season on Rainbow trout in the Youghiogheny river below Swallow Falls begins on July 1, and on all large and small mouthed bass and other species of game fish, July 1.

Quite a number of applicants have already secured the required licenses and doubtless there will be many more before Monday, April 1.

Oakland Fire Department Answers Two Calls this Week

The Oakland Volunteer Fire department answered two calls on Monday and extinguished fire, caused by burning grass and leaves. The fire had got beyond control in both cases. The first call came at 11:20 a. m. from Mt. Lake, where the burning leaves were getting close to a garage and several houses, at the top of the hill just entering the Park from Oakland.

The second call came in the afternoon from Rosedale, just west of Oakland, which was extinguished after a short fight.

WILL PRESENT MINSTREL FOR BOYS' BAND BENEFIT

Local Talent to Give "Kentucky Minstrel" Last Week in April—Mr. Gilbert Director

The "Kentucky Minstrel," a local talent show, will be presented at the Maryland theatre, Oakland, sometime during the last week in April, R. R. Gilbert, director, has announced. The minstrel will be for the benefit of the Gilbert-Brown Boys' band, and practice on musical selections is already under way.

The first meeting held on Tuesday night at the K. of P. hall, brought out the majority of the members of the cast, and the second practice will be held tonight.

The "end-men" chosen are James "Yank" Corrick, Donald R. Sincell, Cecil Smith, and Mr. Gilbert. Wade Hinebaugh will be the interlocutor, and there will be 16 other members who will compose the chorus. ## Arrangement of Furniture Discussed By Homemakers

The Bittinger Homemakers club met on Thursday, March 21, at the home of Mrs. S. C. Beachy with 15 present. The topic for discussion pertained to "The arrangement of furniture." Charts were used to make comparisons showing a room 13 by 18 feet with 16 pieces of furniture. In the first grouping too much floor space is used and the scattered rugs create too many lines on the floor. To place the rugs, couch and tables on diagonal lines causes confusion.

In the second grouping the same number of pieces of furniture are placed in this living room. The arrangement is orderly and does not appear crowded. The furniture is grouped for reading, writing, music and relaxation.

"Living rooms are made to live in; that is, to play in, to work in, to read in, to sing in, and to entertain," Miss Elsie Benthien, home demonstration agent said.

Important rules for arranging furniture are:

1. Large pieces of furniture are placed first, parallel to the wall. No furniture should be so placed that it is in the way in passing from one room to another.

2. Arrange furniture so that the room is balanced.

3. Place together the pieces of furniture that are used together.

Plans are being made for a tour of homes in the community in October to visit houses where improvements have been made during the project.

Volunteer Fire Department Gets Check and Letter from Park

A personal check for $5 was received by the Oakland Volunteer Fire Department, from E. E. Friend, secretary of the Community of Mt. Lake Park, expressing appreciation of the action of the department at various times, in extinguishing fires at the Park. The body of the letter follows:

"On behalf of the citizens of Mt. Lake Park, I extend our sincere thanks and express our deep appreciation for your prompt action in so quickly responding to the calls made upon you, and the splendid work done by you in extinguishing fires at Mt. Lake Park.

"I trust that in the very near future our town will be able to give you some financial aid."

TENTATIVE LIST OF HIGH SCHOOL GRADUATES GIVEN

Providing All Requirements Are Passed, 99 Will Be Graduated from County this June

Ninety-nine seniors of the five high schools of Garrett county will be graduated in June, when the schools close for the year, if the members of the classes meet the requirements still necessary for their graduation, according to F. E. Rathbun, county superintendent of schools.

I have completed an audit of the books of your office together with those of the County Treasurer, from April, 1922, to October 31, 1928, inclusive, showing cash receipts and disbursements for said period and assets and liabilities as of October 31, 1928. This statement of liabilities does not include a bonded indebtedness of $219,000.00 for Lateral State Road improvements in Garrett County.

I have filed with your office a report of cash receipts and disbursements for the months of November, December, January and February and a statement of assets and liabilities of February 28, 1929.

You will note there is a difference of $1630.71 in the cash balance as shown by the report and the actual cash on hand October 31, 1928. This is caused by a misinterpretation of the law in reference to Commissions allowed the Treasurer and does not in any way reflect on Mr. Lee as is more fully set out in an opinion filed by your Honorable Council. This amount of $1,630.71 has been satisfactorily adjusted by the Treasurer as is shown by the February report.

I hereby certify that in my opinion the attached reports are correct.

Respectfully submitted,
DANIEL H. CARROLL of P.
Public Accountant.

Baltimore, Maryland,
March 13, 1929.

REV. L. A. RUDISILL

By Mt. Lake Correspondent

It was with profound regret, especially among the older residents of the Park, that word was received of the death of Rev. L. A. Rudisill, at the home of his son in Coatsville, Pa., the state of his nativity. Living beyond his allotted time, in the winter of life, he died at the age of 82. He was laid to rest with a simple burial service read by Rev. Middaugh, in the Oakland cemetery, but a short distance from the village, which he helped to found, and which he loved so well.

For nearly fifty years he was an ordained minister of the Methodist Episcopal church, serving with success in various activities of his church, so that when he was selected as the General Superintendent of Mt. Lake Park, he came endowed with much experience. It was under his management that the Park made its best progress, for Mr. Rudisill was much impressed with the natural setting and favorable location of this resort for the establishment and maintenance of a recreational center which would reflect the faith he had espoused and redound to the credit of the church he had adopted. Many expressions have been heard as to the efficiency of the management of Mr. Rudisill and how the Park grew and prospered during his superintendency. Then thousands visited here every summer, the hotels and boarding houses were filled to overflowing, the farmer had market for his produce, the merchants of Oakland and Mt. Lake Park served many customers and we were a contented and happy community.

It is with regret we note his passing.

On Monday she received a personal letter from President Herbert Hoover, thanking her for her support in the last presidential election. On her one-hundredth birthday, she described events in the early history of the country, recalling the Mexican and Civil wars, the stage-coach and immigrant traffic through Cumberland and Flintstone prior to the Civil war. ### Presbyterian Bowlers Win Six Straight Games

The Presbyterians, going at top speed, won three straight games from the Knights of Columbus on last Thursday night, and three from the Merchants on Monday night, practically assuring them of the league leadership for the second round of the Oakland Bowling League.

The Methodists took three from the Lutherans and the K. of C. took two out of three from the Lutherans, in the remaining games played during the past week. The four clubs standing in the first four positions respectively, are the Presbyterians, Postoffice, Merchants, and Rotary club.

Tonight the Methodist team will meet the Postoffice five while the Rotary club will battle Crellin.

At Du Pont Powder plant, at Gibbstown, N. J., 3000 pounds nitro glycerine let go, killing two men, Tuesday, shaking sections of three states—New Jersey, Delaware and Pennsylvania.

EXTRA WRONG FONTS

By Scoop

Crowded This Week

Because The Republican is crowded this week, because Spring is here, because Scoop is busy elsewhere, this column will have to be short. It isn't cut short for fear of a repetition of the joke pulled on Scoop last week by Wade Hinebaugh, which Scoop will admit had him worried.

Let No Oakland Man Escape

WARNING—Unless the parties, who allowed their dogs to run at large, in the vicinity of Fourth and Alder streets and other parts of town, are tied at once, they will be rounded up and shot.

Camera Arrives

Col. Bell's camera for the Grantsville screen play has arrived but the tri-pod is "busted." No crutches being available, a new piece was sent for. The wedding scene was rehearsed in Col. Bell's studio on Saturday.

Obeying the Law

When Michael Maroney, street commisary, came to the red light on Third street, he was pushing a wheelbarrow, but a vehicle is a vehicle to Mike and he waited for the green signal before proceeding.

Two Tens for a Five

When Bill Welch left the freight office with a pen of chickens he didn't stop to count them; but out on the bumpy roads he discovered that there were only eleven in the cage. He returned to raise thunder with H. P. Stuck, station agent, and the Baltimore & Ohio railroad in general for his loss and their poor management; but on looking up the bill of lading it was found that it called for one pen of six chickens.—Bill didn't return the extra five. Blame this story on Col. Bell.

The Garrett Countian

Gets up at the alarm of a Connecticut clock; buttons his Chicago suspenders to Detroit overalls; sits down to a Grand Rapids table; washes his face with Cincinnati soap in a Pennsylvania pan; eats Chicago meats and Indiana hominy, fried in Kansas lard on a St. Louis stove; puts a New York bridle on a Kentucky mule, fed with Iowa corn; plows a farm covered by an Allegany county mortgage with a Chattanooga plow.

When bedtime comes he reads a chapter (maybe) from a Bible printed in Boston, Mass., and says a prayer written in Jerusalem; crawls under a blanket made in New Jersey, to be kept awake by a Garrett county dog—the only home product on the place, and then wonders why he cannot make more money raising dairy cows, potatoes and alfalfa.

Moral—live at home, buy home products, from home people, and live happily ever after.

Four Reasons Why One Should Own His Own Home.

1. Home ownership gives a stability to one in a business way, for credit is more often extended to a home owner than a renter.

2. Your ability to care for your family is best evidenced in the possession of a home.

3. One has more confidence in his ability to encounter the storms of business and domestic existence when a home is at stake.

4. If you have a sudden call for capital, or are in dire distress money usually can be realized if you have a home to pledge as security.

COUNTY AGENT'S COLUMN.

J. H. CARTER,
Resident County Agent,
Oakland, Md.

Potato Seed Price is Big Yield Factor

While potato plants will produce potato plants, seed pieces of reasonable size is an important factor in increasing yields. It has been demonstrated that seed pieces could be cut so small as to decrease the yield.

A fair size piece of starch is necessary, explains Mr. T. H. White, vegetable Specialist of the University of Maryland, to nourish the plant and provide growth promoting material until the roots from the young plant become numerous and vigorous enough to supply all that is necessary.

The seed piece should not be smaller than 1 oz. or larger than 1½ oz. in weight. A larger crop will be produced from larger pieces but because of the extra cost may not result in a profit.

Anyone wishing to grow certified potato seed may obtain application card for seed inspection from the County Agent's office. Make application early.

According to Mr. C. E. Temple, professor of plant pathology of the University of Maryland, two of the common diseases which are prevalent in Maryland orchards are scab of apples and brown rot of peaches.

The disease can be greatly reduced by cleaning the dead leaves and mummied from under the trees and plowing the refuse under before the spring rains induce spare activity. The clean-up should be done as soon as possible in the spring.

Only a short time left for pruning trees. The pruning should be completed while the trees are in dormant stage.

The 1929 apple spray card will be sent out soon. If you have not been receiving this card, you may do so by sending your request to the County Agent's office.

A number of inquiries have come to the office about certified poultry breeders and bonded hatcheries. This list is now available at the County Agent's office.

If you are purchasing chicks from another state it is advisable to see that the chicks come from flocks which are under supervision and certification by the State Poultry organization and Agricultural college of State in question.

THE HOMEMAKERS CORNER

BY MISS ELSIE BENTHIEN

The custom of coloring eggs appears to be exceedingly ancient. In old England it was a popular custom to roll colored eggs down Greenwich Hill at Easter and we have, in the modern custom of rolling eggs down the green, back of the White House in Washington at Easter time, this quaint custom in a modern setting.

Easter Eggs

To color Easter eggs with Bee Brand Pure Food colors, simply add the contents of each vial of color to ½ cup of hot water. Boil the eggs for ten minutes first, and then place the hot egg in the hot colored water and allow to stand until the desired color has been attained.

Hot Cross Buns

One and one-half cakes yeast soaked in ¼ cup scalded and cooled milk, 1 cup milk, 1 tablespoon sugar, 1¾ cups bread flour.

Mix the above ingredients into a bread sponge and allow to rise until the mixture has doubled in bulk. Then add:

Two tablespoons sugar, ¼ cup melted butter, ½ teaspoon salt, 1 egg (slightly beaten), ½ cup cleaned currants, 2 cups bread flour, (approximate measure.)

Directions: Add second group of ingredients to the bread sponge and mix as for bread dough. Roll dough to ½ inch in thickness and cut in round shapes with a No. 2 cookie cutter. Place in a greased pan and allow to rise until light. Just before baking, make a deep cross with the back of a knife on each hot cross bun. Bake 20-25 minutes in a moderately hot oven.

Note—A few minutes before removing from the oven the buns should be glazed with the following mixture: 2 teaspoons cornstarch, ¼ cup cold water, ½ cup boiling water. Directions—Dissolve the cornstarch in the cold water, add the boiling water, and bring to a boil, stirring constantly. Glaze the hot cross buns with the above mixture and then sprinkle with a mixture of cinnamon and granulated sugar.

Easter Salad

One can of crushed pineapple, (drained well), shape portions into nests on lettuce leaf. Place in nest 5 or 6 eggs—shaped out of cheese, using part Philadelphia cream and part pimento cheese. Sprinkle with paprika and serve with saltines. Serves 6 people.—R. M. K.

To Accompany Salads

Remove crusts from thin slices of fresh bread. Spread with a creamed mixture of pimento cheese, mayonaise and butter. Roll up and fasten with toothpicks. Toast in a hot oven.

Manndy Thursday

Of all the symbolic ceremonies celebrated by Masons of the Scottish Rite, Maundy Thursday is perhaps the most significant.

There are differences of opinion as to how this ceremony originated. But let us consider one setting from which some claim it did originate.

"So when He had washed their feet * * * * *and sat down again, He said unto them, know ye what I have done unto you? Ye call me Master and Lord * * * * *. If I, then, the Lord and Master, have washed your feet, ye also ought to wash one another's feet * * * * *.Verily, verily I say unto you, a servant is not greater than his lord; neither one that is sent, greater than he that sent him."

As the followers of the Nazerene were sitting down to the Passover an unseemly discussion occurred among them as to who should be greatest. Selfishness and egotism had pushed its ugly presence into an hour which should have been sacred and holy. Sullen and envious, these men, chosen as the disciples of the greatest teacher of all ages, forgetting the high purpose of their calling, forgetting that no self-centered, self-serving life insures satisfaction and success, these men sought a selfish advantage, having no consideration of the rights of others. Apparently, Jesus took no notice of their unseemly quarrel, but having performed the service talked to them in tender and beautiful words of the obligation and satisfaction of such ministry. And then, believing the time had come, when the old commandments should be amplified by one which should be the epitome of the whole of his teachings, said, "A new commandment I give unto you, that ye love one another," and from which pronouncement, in the opinion of many the day takes its name—"Dies Mandati," the day of commandment.

From the time when Israel dwelt in the land of the pyramids the pious Hebrew, once a year with loins girded, ate in silence of the unleavened bread and the roast lamb, the blood of which sprinkled on the door posts had warned the angel of death away from that household, which was to him a reminder of the loving care with which He, of the Ineffable Name, had watched over the children of Israel.

But whatever its origin, Maunday Thursday, being the next day before Good Friday and the Thursday in Passion Week, has been the occasion of many customs expressive of the thought which Passion Week has inspired. One of which is for the Kings and Queens of several of the countries to wash the feet of as many poor men and women of their realm as they are years old, and afterwards to bestow on them food and clothing. While this custom is practically obsolete, yet Maunday Thursday, in England, the King's alomner distributes to as many men and women as his sovereign is years old, certain coins called Maundy money, consisting of a silver fourpenny piece, a threepenny piece, a two penny piece and a one-penny piece.

DR. JOSEPH P. FRANKLIN ADDRESSES ROTARY CLUB

Allegany County Health Officer Talks on Duties of Position He Holds In Allegany County

Dr. Joseph P. Franklin, Cumberland, county health officer of Allegany county, was the principel speaker at the weekly meeting of the Oakland Rotary club held last Friday evening at the William-James Hotel. He spoke to members of that body and a number of guests on "The Full Time County Health Officer."

He outlined the program of public health work for Allegany county under six divisions: Pre--natal, child hygiene and infant welfare, school hygiene, life extension, sanitation and disease control, and enlarged upon each of these topics, applying the whole to Garrett county.

The public health officer as a person being trained in sanitary science, who devotes all of his time to public health work and not to private practice, was explained by Dr. Franklin. He spoke briefly of the history of the movement and the fact that the country sections were the weakest link in the sanitary chain. Counties in Maryland having full-time health officers include Allegany, Carroll, Baltimore, Harford, Calvert, Prince George, Talbot and Montgomery.

Applying It To Garrett County.

In applying his address to Garrett county Dr. Franklin said in part:

"There are about 4500 school children in Garrett county. This means that about 3500 have dental defects, about 100 having organic heart disease, about 25 having spinal curvature, flat feet, etc., about 1150 having defective vision, about 1150 suffering from malnutrition and about 1350 suffering from enlarged tonsils and adenoids.

"In 1928 there were 34 deaths under one year of age, 20 of these under one month. In January and February, 1929, 20 of 47 deaths have been due to communicable diseases, exclusive of pneumania. During 1928 there were 38 deaths from heart disease and 11 from neuphritis or disease of the kidneys; 18 deaths from cancer, 6 from tuberculosis, 3 from diphtheria and one from typhoid fever."

As to the expense of such an officer, Dr. Franklin said that the salary would be between $3600 and $4000, with expenses of about $100 per year. This would make a total of approximately $5000, at least $2000 of which would be contributed by the State Health Department. This would leave about $3000 for the county to pay.

Prof. F. E. Rathbun Speaks At Maundy Thursday Banquet

Prof. Franklin E. Rathbun, superintendent of schools for Garrett county, was the principal speaker at the annual dinner of the Scottish Rite bodies of Cumberland held in the banquet hall of the Masonic Temple last Thursday evening. His subject was "The Great Teacher," and he addressed himself particularly to public education and the public school system, and gave an enlightening talk.

Professor Rathbun is not only well posted on the question, but he is a ready and forcible speaker and was able throughout his address to drive home the many good points he made. At the close of his address the entire assemblage arose and applauded him. Quite a few members from Oakland were present at the celebration.

Scholarship Prizes To Be Awarded 4-H Club Members.

Two scholarships, one for boys and one for girls, each for $100, will be made available again this year by the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad Company, it is announced by O. K. Quivey, agricultural agent for the company. The awards will be made for general proficiency in club work and for outstanding achievements along the lines of 4-H club work, similar to that of last year.

It is further announced that these scholarships may be used at any recognized college or university in the country. The Baltimore and Ohio has awarded eight of these scholarships to Maryland club members during the last few years. W. T. James, Harford county, won the award last year.

OAKLAND-TRI-TOWNS ROAD TO BE SURVEYED AT ONCE

Chairman Uhl Promises This To Tri-Towns Delegation.

A promise to survey, estimate the cost of construction and locate the route of the Bloomington-Oakland road was made by G. Clinton Uhl, chairman of the Maryland State Roads Commission, to a delegation of citizens from Bloomington, Beryl and the Tri-Towns (Piedmont, Westernport and Luke), who waited upon him recently.

By the proposed route the distance from the Tri-Towns to Oakland is approximately 23 miles while at the present time it is necessary when motoring over hard surfaced roads to go via Frostburg and Keyser's Ridge, a distance of 68 miles.

The western end of the road has been hard surfaced from Oakland to Mountain Lake Park and from Deer Park to Wilson's Store.

The Board of Garrett County Commissioners has recommended to the State Roads Commission that $79,540 available for road work in Garrett county this year be expended in continuing the improved road from Wilson's Store toward Kitzmiller. This sum will build approximately two and a-half miles, which will take the hard-surfaced road to the vicinity of the cross roads to Kitzmiller, leaving five or six miles to be improved between those points. From the cross roads to the improved road at Bloomington there are ten miles or so of unimproved road, which latter stretch is the part which Mr. Uhl promises to have surveyed at once.

ALFALFA DEMONSTRATION TO BE GIVEN IN COUNTY

Purpose Is To Find Best Seed Adapted To Garrett County

There will be a demonstration on alfalfa production in the county this summer, according to an announcement by John H. Carter, county agent, who has been in touch with the extension service, University of Maryland, and several farmers of this section on the subject.

The demonstrations will be made on the farms of William DeBerry, near Oakland, and W. W. Savage, near Friendsville. The purpose is to ascertain the best seed adapted to Garrett county soils, and for this purpose a certain acreage will be planted in different varieties of seed, obtained from many different sources. A close check will be kept on each kind of seed by the county agent, who will be in charge, and the members of the Extension Division of the University.

"This test will be valuable to farmers of Garrett county," Mr. Carter said. "As this county tends toward dairying, the growing of legumes as food for cows should become an important issue with the farmer."

Charles Kelley, Pleasant Valley, will also conduct a demonstration on the use of arcadian sulphate of ammonia on early cabbage as a side dressing. The Barrett Company, manufacturers of fertilizers, will furnish the sulphate, and the progress of the growing cabbage is to be reported from time to time to that concern. A small plot of the cabbage will be left without any dressing so that the difference in growth may be noted. The sulphate is supposed to stimulate the cabbage in growth, development and in producing a better grade in a shorter period of time.

To Give Benefit Picture

The young people of St. Mark's Lutheran church, under the auspices of the Luther League, will hold a benefit picture in the Maryland Theatre on Wednesday, April 17, at the regular price of 35 cents. There will also be added attractions. William Boyd plays the leading role in the picture entitled "Power."

Mr. Clarence Leighton left Monday for New York, where he has gone to seek employment.

BOY SCOUTS TO FURNISH LODGE ENTERTAINMENT

Will Be Guests of Knights of Pythias Tomorrow Evening

Entertainment for the weekly meeting of the local order, Knights of Pythias, to be held tomorrow night at Castle Hall, will be furnished by members of Oakland Troop No. 1, Boy Scouts of America, G. J. Altstetter, chairman of the committee on arrangements, has announced.

This entertainment will consist of first aid demonstrations, signaling, a knot tieing contest, and a number of games. Forrest Warnick, Crow patrol leader, will be in charge of games; Thomas Gonder, junior assistant scoutmaster, will be in charge of first aid; Leonard Murphy, senior patrol leader, will be in charge of the knot tieing contest among the Tenderfoot scouts; and Bernard Gonder, junior assistant scoutmaster, will have charge of the signaling. All the members of the troop will take part in one or more of the demonstrations.

A short first aid sketch is being planned by the four leaders. The entire troop of approximately 42 is planning to be present.

Plans are being made for a number of overnight hikes, according to the Scoutmaster, and in order that no boy may join to troop just for the sake of going to summer camp, no one will be allowed to join after the latter part of April.

ELIJAH FRIEND BEATEN AND ROBBED OF BIG SUM

Three Assailants Escape With $850 Cash and Number of Securities and Notes Monday

Three unidentified robbers, seriously injured Elizah Friend of E., of Sang Run, by clubbing and beating him, and then escaped with $850 in cash, some bank certificates, notes, etc., worth about $1,000, about 12 o'clock Monday morning at a home he was visiting at Sand Spring, near Friendsville. The robbers have not as yet been apprehended.

Mr. Friend, who is 82 years of age, had received $850 about 10 o'clock that morning as payment on a mortgage, and authorities felt that the three who assaulted him were familiar with this transaction. W. D. Casteel, sheriff, and Joy Griffith, deputy, were notified and they investigated the case as best they could with the meagre clues at hand.

Mr. Friend was unable to identify his assailants as they all wore masks and old clothes. Mr. Friend said he was in the act of tearing a mask from one of the faces when he was struck in the mouth. His mouth was badly cut as was the skin above his eyes, and his hand was badly bruised, where the robbers tied him with wires.

This makes the second time Mr. Friend has been robbed, the first time the assailants burning the bottoms of his feet in an effort to get him to tell where he kept his money, and other securities.

It is expected that arrests will follow in a few days.

Forest Fire Consumes Barn and Covers Large Territory

A large barn in which more than six tons of hay were stored, was completely destroyed, and approximately 200 acres of glade land was burned, in a forest fire yesterday afternoon on the old Reynold's farm, about three miles west of Oakland on the old road to Terra Alta.

The farm is owned by Messrs. John and James Mackin, and was not occupied at the time. The origin of the fire was not known but the underbrush and glade grass had ignited the barn before assistance from Oakland was asked. Led by George Kerins, fire chief, about 12 fire fighters left here and joined the 40 or more who were already busily engaged at the scene of the fire. With this additional help the flames were finally extinguished.

Another forest fire was reported in the vicinity of the old road to Mt. Lake Park, but this was brought under control by Carl Frazee and helpers.

Death of a Child

Donald Evans, aged 5 years, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Evans, Crellin, died of pneumonia and complications. Funeral services were held in the Union church, Sunday, Rev. C. Shilke, officiating. Interment was in the Terra Alta cemetery.

Thayer; water committee, Grover Stemple, chairman, H. P. Stuck, George Little; finance committee, R. T. Thayer, chairman, Jesse J. Ashby and Grover Stemple.

LOCAL GRAMMAR SCHOOL INAUGURATES FIRE DRILL

Members of Fire Department Explain Drill to Children

The inauguration of fire drill in the Oakland Grammar school was effected last Thursday by five members of the Oakland Volunteer Fire department. This was the outcome of a meeting of the Parent-Teachers association on Thursday, March 21.

Fire chief George Kerins, Emroy Bolden, Fred Peddicord, W. R. Browning and L. M. Fraley were the five to inaugurate the system, and they explained the dril to the children in their various class rooms.

The first floor of the building was emptied of children in one-half minute, and the second floor in one and one-half minute, and was done in an orderly manner. Starting next week the bell will be sounded at some unknown time during the week by Harry Hinebaugh, caretaker, and the teachers will form the children in line immediately and take them from the building.

The members of the fire department who inspected the Grammar school building wished to commend Mr. Hinebaugh for the manner in which he keeps the building. "From the cellar to the garrett, everything was neatly and cleanly kept," Mr. Fraley said.

Terra Alta Wins National Guard Championship

The Terra Alta National Guards won the State championship basketball title last Friday evening when they defeated the Mt. ## Lesson for April 7

THE MINISTRY OF ISAIAH

LESSON TEXT—Isaiah 6:1-13; 20:1, 2; 38:1-5.

GOLDEN TEXT—Then said I, here am I, send me.

PRIMARY TOPIC—Being God's Helper.

JUNIOR TOPIC—Being God's Helper.

INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—Finding a Life Work.

YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—Obedient to the Heavenly Vision.

I. Isaiah's Call (Isa. 6:1-13).

1. Isaiah's visioa of the Lord (vv. 1-4).

(1) He saw the Lord on His throne (v. 1). The supreme need of a servant of God is to have a vision of Him.

(2.) He saw the seraphim above (vv. 2, 3). Their position indicated that they were in readiness to do His bidding. The six wings showed their ability to execute the divine will. One pair veiled the head from the divine glory, one veiled the feet which had been soiled in contact with the world, while the third was held in readiness to depart on the divine errand. Their continued cry was, "Holy, holy, holy."

(3) He saw manifestations of majesty (v. 4).

As the seraphim cried, the very door posts moved and the temple was filled with smoke. Smoke symbolizes the divine presence in anger (Exod. 19:8; 29:18). This indicated that the selfishness, idolatry and wickedness of Israel had provoked God's wrath.

2. Isaiah's conviction of sin (v. 6).

When he saw the vision of the Holy God, he was smitten with a sense of sin. The reason men think well of themselves is that they have never seen God. Face to face with the Lord, Isaiah saw himself as wholly vile.

3. Isaiah cleansed from sin (vv. 6, 7).

Having been convicted of sin and made confession, a burning coal sent from the alter purged away his guilt.

4. Isaiah's call (v. 8).

His call from God did not come until after his cleansing. The purged soul is ready for the Lord's service.

5. Isaiah's dedication (v. 8).

As soon as he was cleansed he responded to the call for service. He did not inquire as to the issue, but freely gave himself to that service.

6. Isaiah's commission (vv. 9-13).

Because of the unpromising outlook, Isaiah shrank from his responsibility. The Lord assured him that the people's blindness and sin would not endure forever. They would continue in sin, be taken into captivity, and the land left desolate. Their life, however, would be as the oak which sheds its leaves and is for a time apparently lifeless, but still retains its substance.

II. Isaiah's Prophecy Concerning Assayria and Egypt (Isa. 20:1-6).

The increasing power of Assyria alarmed the Jews who were inclined to turn to Egypt and Ethiopia for help. Isaiah severely rebuked them for turning away from God to Egypt (31:1-6).

1. The prophet's action (vv. 1, 2).

He removed his outer garments and walked about Jerusalem as a beggar in order to make a deep impression upon the people.

2. The significance of the sign (vv. 3-5).

For three years he went about in the dress of a beggar. As he had wandered about naked and barefoot, so would Egypt be led away in shame by the Assyrians.

3. The warning (v. 6).

The people are made to say, "Such is our expectation, whither we flee for help to be delivered from the king of Assyria: how shall we escape?"

III. Isaiah's Message to Hezekiah (Isa. 38:1-8).

Hezekiah had inclined somewhat toward seeking help from Egypt.

1. Hezekiah's sickness (v. 1).

For this disloyalty God sent sickness as a means of chastisement.

2. Isaiah's first message (v. 1).

"Set thine house in order for thou shalt die and not live." This doubtless is to be understood as a prophetic warning rather than a positive prediction.

3. Hezekiah's prayer (vv. 2, 3).

He plead with God for consideration on the basis of his faithfulness.

4. Isaiah's second message (vv. 4-6).

God sent Isaiah to tell Hezekiah that his prayer had been heard, his life would be prolonged by fifteen years, and that Jerusalem would be delivered out of the hand of the king of Assyria.

5. The sign given (vv. 7, 8).

The sign was the going back of the shadow of the sundial ten degrees.

CALIFORNIA COLLEGE GIRL WINS CHAINSTORE DEBATE

"Small Business Is Foundation Of American Ideals and Liberty" She Says

(From the Interstate Grocer)

That the chain store question is not confined to the dealers in all lines who have been the worst sufferers from their competition but is reaching out into all walks of life is becoming more and more evident every day. The subject is being debated in women's clubs; Rotary, Kiwanis and other clubs find it a fruitful field for discussion, and it has reached the point where it is a popular subject for college debating societies.

The Interstate Grocer has been frequently called upon for material for these colleges and high school debates and has furnished considerable ammunition to students. A debate of this character was recently held at St. Ignatius' College, San Francisco, where the subject was "Resolved that the Chain Store System is Desirable." Miss Phylis Haley, a young lady who is taking a legal course at the college, was one of the chief opponents of the chains and won her case by a 2 to 1 vote.

Following are some of the main points of Miss Haley's address as published by the Los Angeles Grocers Journal:

"Small business is the very foundation on which the ideals of American liberty and equality ars based. It is the life of free government. Where small business and trade have existed in the greatest measure—there has been found the largest amount of human happiness.

People's Happiness at Stake

"We are now faced by a momentous problem—Individualism vs. that wolf in sheep's clothing—Centralization or the Chain Store System. The happiness of the people hangs in the balance and it is up to them to assert themselves against this encroaching and exploiting enemy.

"The ownership of the chain stores has fallen into the hands of profiteers or absentee landlords, whose purpose is merely to obtain unfair financial advantage. Service to humanity is secondary to profits and dividends. These manipulators have maneuvered to their present position through anything but industrial virtue. This excessive centralization does away with local determination, pride and initiative.

"The social energy is consumed in keeping the machinery running and there is no surplus for social improvement. It has been the small business man who has aided the development of new communities. It is he who has encouraged the growth of schools and parks. It is he who donated liberally to charity. He has lived and reared his family among his patrons—hence he participates in their interests and aspirations.

"This concentration of ownership in a few hands inaugurates nn inequality comparable to feudalism. The employee is a veritable automaton with no hopes of ever owning an enterprise of his own. Chain stores are desirable and effective in putting the clamps on ambition and individual iniative. They are great institutions for dehumanizing humanity, while at the same time degrading and impoverishing it. Every monopoly is doing with its employees what the mechanic does with the machine—he sets it on certain notches and it turns out the same old thing in the same old way.

"If present conditions continue, we must accept the transformation of our land of opportunity into a land of hired men, with workers known as numbers, not as individuals. They ought to be called "grab all" stores for they seek to drive out and drown out, from the neighborhood in which they locate, the smaller business concerns, so that they can dominate the situation in the various communities, and regulate advantageously to themselves, the business in which they are engaged.

"The methods employed are certainly methods of unfair competition—they desire to buy as they please—and sell as they choose. They stifle fair competition, they reduce employment, and the little corner grocer, whose struggle and sacrifices have built up the community, can no longer stand the presence of these combines, he is driven out, frozen out, and in some cnses bought out at shockingly low prices. These stores constitute a veritable monoply, seeking to destroy fair living in our land of opportunity.

"Yes, my friends, chain stores nre a wonderful adjunct to these commercial instrumentalities for the creation of a money oligarchy—for establishing a powerful plutocracy between which and the people at large an ever widening bridge is being erected—over which the few will not pnss and the many cannot pass, thus thwnrting a meeting on common ground in one contented brotherhood of respectful consideration each for the other."

No Scrub Bulls.

There are only four counties in the United States that are free from scrub bulls. These are Union, Russell and Taylor counties in Kentucky and Gaston county, in Virginia. Now is a good time to start Garrett county on the road to an all purebred bull county. Visit the Better Dairy Sire Special in Oakland April 24th at 2:00 p. m. You will have three breeds to choose from—Holstein, Guernsey and Jersey animals offered for sale at cost.

In dairy sections barns are being erected at an average cost of $500 per cow. Whereas construction cost should not exceed $300 per animal and most cases lower. Barns of the "brace rafter" type are economical in both material and labor. You may secure barn plans through the county agent or through the University of Maryland Extension Service, College Park, Md.

Successful farming requires organizing, working and financing the same as other kinds of successful business.

The time to cultivate a crop is before it is planted. Plan a good depth and prepare the seed bed well.

The best time to turn under green manure or cover crop is about one month before seeding time for the crop to follow. If no crop is to follow, the crop to be turned under should get its maximum growth returning the maximum organic matter to the soil.

Bulletin Pictures Canning Industry.

A comprehensive picture of the Maryland canning industry in so far as the manufacture and distribution of tomatoes, sweet corn and peas, the leading crops, are concerned, is presented in Bulletin No. 301 of the University of Maryland Experiment Station by W. J. Hart.

In this bulletin Mr. Hart reviews the development of the canning industry in the State. All who are interested in the canning industry will welcome such information as found in this bulletin The bulletin may be obtained at the county agent's office or direct from the Experiment Station, College Park, Maryland.

When buying fertilizers do not buy on the basis of cost per ton, but rather on the basis of cost per pound of plant food.

Good seed corn at $1.00 per gallon is cheaper than poor corn as a gift

Buy baby chicks from the nearest certified hatchery. The greater distance the chicks are shipped the greater the chance will be for them to be diseased or chilled when they reach you.

Ten Reasons for Boys' Club Work

Here are ten reasons, and good ones, too, why farm boys and girls should become 4-H club members and then be able to make good farmers and farmers' wives in the communities in which they live:

1. Club work enlarges the vision of the boy.
2. It stimulates his interest in rural life
3. It enables him to make some money for himself.
4. It furnishes recreation and amusement at regular intervals.
5. It trains the boy to keep farm records.
6. It encourages modern methods in farming.
7. It emphasizes the dignity of farm work well done.
8. It reaches the young boy and directs his thoughts and efforts in proper channels.
9. It stresses the importance of organization and cooperation.
10. It assists in building the four most valuable ships: Ownership, Partnership, Leadership, and Citizenship.

Cattle Prices Move in Cycles

It is well known that cattle production and consequently cattle prices move in cycles. Three rather well-defined complete cycles took place in the last half century, says the United States Department of Agriculture.

The first of these price cycles started somewhat before 1880 and ended around 1891, the second started around 1891 and ended about 1906, and the third started around 1906 and ended around 1923.

The cattle industry now appears to be at the low point of a production cycle. Cattle prices reached high levels in 1927 and in 1928, and the department advises producers to bear in mind that a downward trend will undoubtedly take place eventually.

Price cycles and production cycles are, of course, correlated in inverse movements. Declining production tends to be associated with rising prices and vice versa. As the entire process originates in production changes, the prudent cattleman will study carefully recent production figures. Since 1918 a steady decline in the number of cattle on farms has taken place, and the number in 1928 was about the same as the number in 1912, in which year the preceeding cycle passed its low point from the standpoint of the number of cattle on farms.

LARGER DEMAND NOW FOR UNITED STATES PORK

Europe Importing More American Products Due to Smaller Domestic Supply

(From The Wall Street Journal)

Washington, D. C.—Greater interest in American pork products, particularly lard, has been manifested in European markets during the past two months, says the United States Department of Agriculture. In January international trade in the principal pork products was considerably larger than that of January, 1928, and prices were higher.

Supplies of foreign cured pork in British markets, however, were heavier in January thnn a year ago. American cured pork represented a larger share of the stocks than it did a year before. Great Britain's import trade in lard has been heavier this year than it was a year ago. Stocks of lard have not accumulated in any unusual volume, and prices have moved up.

Bacon imports into Great Britain in January totaled 88,002,000 pounds, 11,321,000 pounds over the imports of December, 1928, and of 6,000,000 pounds over the imports in January, 1928. United States contributed 7.9% of the January, 1929, figure, compared with 6% in January, 1928. Imports of bacon from the United States in January amounted to 7,477,000 pounds, the largest total for any month since March, 1928.

Imports of ham into Great Britain in January totaled 8,788,000 pounds. This was a slight increase over the December total, and nearly 2,000,000 pounds larger than the total in January, 1928. The bulk of the imported ham was from the United States. Great Britain's total ham imports for the months November, 1928, to January, 1929, inclusive, exceeded those of the corresponding period of the previous year by about 9%. Total imports of lard into Great Britain in January were 75,923,000 pounds, the largest figure for any month since February, 1924.

German Bacon Imports Increase

Hog receipts of 14 German cities in January were only 285,000 head, smallest month total since July, 1927. Total receipts for the season, November 1 to January 31, were about 13% below those of the corresponding period last year. Bacon imports into Germany in January totaled 1,323,000 pounds, largest total since February, 1927. Lard imports into Germany in January totaled 24,692,000 pounds, largest monthly figure since July, 1927. Most of the imported lard was from the United States. Germany's lard imports for the season, November 1 to January 31, increased nearly 40% over those of the corresponding period of the previous year.

Indications are that Denmark and the Netherlands will have less cured pork for export this season than last. Preliminary figures for Denmark's January bacon exports show a movement of only 35,381,000 pounds, smallest figure for any month since October, 1926, and 18,621,000 pounds below the exports of January, 1928. Denmark's total exports for the first three months of the current season were 14.7% below those of the same months last season.

Exports of pork products from the United States made considerable gains in January. Bacon exports totaled 13,014,000 pounds, a seasonal increase over the December total and an increase of 1,354,000 pounds over the exports in January, 1928. Great Britain has taken about 20% more American bacon this season than last. Germany's total for the season up to January 31, however, was about 38% below last year.

Lard exports from the United States in January totaled 89,932,000 pounds, increase over those of January, 1928, of more than 19,000,000 pounds. Total exports for the season to January 31 exceeded those of the corresponding period last year by about 33%. Germany's takings have increased more than those of the other important European markets. —Advertisement 1t.

CHILD HEALTH DAY TO BE CELEBRATED ON MAY DAY

State to Observe Date for Celebration—Later in Garrett

All over the country, like a clear bugle call, the word has gone forth, for the first day of May to be celebrated as Child Health Day.

The thought first came from the American Child Health Association. Then it was taken up by every organization interested in any way in children. Even the Legislators in the capitol at Washington, stopped long enough in their deliberations over the things at home and affairs abroad, to pass a resolution setting aside May Day as Child Health Day, authorizing and requesting the President of the United States to issue a proclamation inviting all agencies interested in child welfare to unite in observances that would direct attention to the fundamental importance of all-the-year-round program for protection and development of the nation's children. Due to late spring conditions, the day will be celebrated in Garrett county the last of May.

The governors of all of the States have given the plan their official sanction. Here in Maryland, where the day will again be dedicated to the children, their happiness and welfare, Governor Ritchie has issued a proclamation each year, sealing it with the Great Seal of the State, asking the people of Maryland to dedicate the day to the health and well-being of the children of the State.

Dr. J. H. M. Knox, Jr., Chief of the Bureau of Child Hygiene, of the State Department of Health, is chairman of the Maryland Child Health Day committee which is composed of representatives of all organizations interested in the health or welfare of the children of the State. "The real purpose of Child Health Day," Dr. Knox said in announcing the appointment of the committee, "is to focus the attention of the grown-ups on the right of the children to health and happiness not only on one day in the spring, but every day and all the year round. When the celebration of Child Health Day was first proposed by the American Child Health Association, President Hoover, then president of that organization, suggested a 'Bill of Rights' for every child. It expresses the aims and hopes of every one who is working for the health of the children of our country. Here it is:

"'The ideal toward which we should strive is that there shall be no child in America:

That has not been born under proper conditions;

That does not live in hygienic surroundings;

That ever suffers from undernourishment;

That does not have prompt and efficient medical attention and inspection;

That does not receive primary instruction in the elements of hygiene and good health;

That has not the complete birthright of a sound mind in a sound body;

That has not the encouragement to express in fullest measure the spirit within which is the final endowment of every human being.' "

EXTRA WRONG FONTS

By Scoop

Society Tip

Scoop's tip to Oakland society folk this week follows: Frequently when one is introduced to a well-known person, one remarks, "I've heard a lot about you." The well-known person should reply lightly, "Well, you can't prove anything."

Wind Plays Havoc

The strong wind of Monday played havoc with the scenery that had been erected at Grantsville in preparation for the ten reel film, to be taken in that section, which caused a further delay in the works. Col. Bell is getting peeved at the loss of time. "The grass is green, spring is here, love birds are singing, and everybody is make whoopee," he said confidentially. "Let's get started and do something." The crutch for the camera arrived but the lense was discovered to be cracked in two places. "This makes it impossible to focus more than two at one time," the Col. remarked. This will cause a further delay, but will help the proficiency of the characters.

Where was the "Easter Parade," one hears so much about, on Sunday? Very few Easter bonnets were seen on the streets of Oakland.

Fishing Season Opens

A conference of Oakland fishermen was held on Monday to lay plans for the largest catch of the season. Resolutions drawn up and unanimously passed were as follows:

1. To impose a fine of three flies, bait can and sinker, on any member stretching size of any fish caught.

2. To restrict Sunday fishing of anybody who tells a "whopper."

Paul McIntire stated he intended to use Broderick's run for his own personal uses. "Drunkard's Lick" was open to all. Herrington, Sweney's Broadford, Cherry Run, and Little Sewer river open to all members of the society from 4:30 a. m., until 9 p. m.

An inspection of the homes of all members revealed that they had had spring training in casting by use of the bath tub. Worms dangled from the ceilings, grasshoppers hopped and crickets sang beneath the linoleum. All wore hip boots during the practice sessions.

Inaugural Ceremony De Luxe

What was described as the largest parade and celebration of the century, took place Monday evening when the new councilmen were innoculated into office at Oakland. The most interesting sight was the mammoth parade before the introduction and address, which started promptly at 7:30 and lasted until 9 o'clock. The line was over three miles long.

Heading the procession was Mayor L. M. Fraley in the latest model automobile horrowed for the purpose.

Leading the Pack

Following the Mayor were the three holdovers in the council, Jesse Ashby, Ralph Thayer, and Monk Stemple, and behind them came the greatest array of local talent ever to be presented on the Main streets of Oakland.

In the order of their appearance came the Knights of the Golden Rooster, led by Frank Lyon; Knights of Malt and hops, all leaders; J. Notes Post No. 41144, of Henroost club; the Shantytown cadets, the Hungry Hollow Latchstring orchestra, the quality Hill Fife and Drum corps, the Sand Flat and Cannan Valley combined bottle, worm and coil revelers. Behind the revelars rode the Order of Privilege Getters in Garrett county. They all wore masks and many bystanders mistook them for the K. K. K.

Following them in line were the Order of Guzzlers, all well dressed and riding in expensive cars. Behind this array of talent came the three councilmen who received the innoculation. H. P. Stuck and George Little drove up the street in a miniature B. and O. locomotive while Bill Whorton came immediately after in a cement mixer.

Alva Gortner led the "Sons of I will get up," whose emblem is an alarm clock, and following this enormous organization was the Amalgamated Society for the Prevention of Work, led by "Poky, Slim" Shaw. Its members carried signs for shorter hours and more pay. The Women's Tisic club, Papa-Mama-Instructors' society, Mothers' Triangle, African Lesion, Boy Snoots, and the local Boys' Horn club were all represented with large turnouts.

The parade led to the Hinebaugh Opera House where Chief Suds Tom Flanigan extinguished the oath of office to the new councilmen.

Addresses Audience

(Dick Has the Hat On)

Dick Coddington delivered the inaugural address on the "strict enforcement of the law," which was roundly applauded by the multitude present. He upbraided the "shoeleggers" of the county for selling fire water and the citizens for guzzling it. After this the regular meeting of the council was held in its offices on Third street, and the crowd departed to continue the ordinary things of life.

Scoop wonders who got the best of the April Fool joke played Monday afternoon, the ones who put the fifty cents between two bricks on the street, or the one who was so intent on getting it that he got a wedge and hammer and was rewarded with the prize. But maybe the ones who put the money there get their share of the fun by watching the ones who stooped and tried to get it. Anyhow they're out fifty cents, for the successful one wouldn't give it back to the jokesters.

Small Town Wins

Calvin Coolidge upon leaving the presidency of the United States could have joined a New York law firm and his earnings would have been more than $200,000 a year. Instead of living in America's greatest city, and instead of plunging himself into complicated legal practice, Mr. Coolidge chose to return to his home town, Northampton, Massachusetts.

In his home town, he can live the simple life which he so much loves. He can be more free in doing what he wants to do. He will be near the hills of his native Vermont.

With the world from which to choose, he chose his home town to make his home. His action is a fine commentary upon the small town, its opportunities and attractions. It proves that in spite of opportunity to live any place in the world, there is one man at least who prefers the advantages of a small town.

National Notes for Young People

To the Editor of The Republican.

Dear Sir—The quota immigration law is one of the questions likely to come up for consideration in the short session of the 71st Congress. This law was to go into effect Juiy 1, 1929. But doubts are felt as to its accomplishing its intention. The quota bill of 1921 admitted to this country 2 per cent of the foreignborn population of the 1890 census. This law also carried a provision for establishment of quotas based on National Origins. To obtain data for this scientists were to start with the first U. S. census of 1790, analyze growth of population to date with reference to national ancestries, fix thus the proportion each foreign country contributed to the United States' "native stock" and the development of that stock since. Then to the U. S. were to be admitted annually 150,000 immigrants in direct proportion to the contributions their native countries have made to the whole U. S. Negroes excluded. Mr. Hoover himself was on the commission to which this subject referred and their report said: "We wish to state that in our opinion historical and statistical information available raises grave doubts as to the value of these computations." As presidential candidate Mr. Hoover declared, "The basis now in effect (1924 2 per cent) carries out the essential principle of the law and I favor repeal of that part of the law calling for a new basis of quotas." The question was brought up to the 70th Congress, but not fully considered. It promises to be one of those matters to be discussed by the short session before the 71st Congress.

Air trains have been tried out in California and at Berlin. At Berlin the airplane makers hitched a motorless glider to the tail of a regular plane. To the tail of that glider they hitched a second glider. This train attained an altitude of 1,200 ft. The pilot of the rear glider cut loose from the train and coasted to earth. The pilot of the next or first trailer did likewise. Finally the motored plane landed. In California the air train of plane and one glider went for 175 miles. Much is expected from these experiments. Speed, of course, for passengers is promised, also lower cost of passage with increased use; also "a fast-flying train can touch in different airports without stopping, by cutting off its trailers one by one with passengers or freight."

A cornstalk pulp mill has been established at Danville, Ill. This is the only such mill in the world. Its president, Mr. Day, has announced that the first cornstalk newsprint mill will soon start up at Sartell, Minn. In Kalamazoo, Mich., a blend of 65 per cent cornstalk and 35 per cent wood sulphite produced paper of bond quality. But Mr. Day declares that experiments of recent months have proved that 100 per cent cornstalk paper is entirely satisfactory in opacity and strength. Vellum the ancients knew and paper of papyrus, paper of old rags and reclaimed old paper the English manufacturer with his vat at his door experimented upon not so long ago. Wood pulp filled the bill for many years. But cornstalk paper is one of our newest notes. It will also prove a boon to the farmers, especially those of the great fields of the midwest.

FISH DIE AS QUANTITY OF LIME FALLS IN STREAM

Bursting Wall Permits Product To Turn Water into Whitewash

The bursting of a burnt-lime storehouse last week near Grantsville, was responsible for the extermination of trout in Pine run, located on the old Findlay farm between Grantsville and Salisbury. The kiln is on the north side of Pine run, near the stream, and a large storage shed for burnt lime stands at the very brink of the stream high above the water. In the shed were stored about 3,000 bushels of lime.

The wall of the shed next to the stream gave way, due, it is thought, by the air-slacking of the lime, causing the great mass of it to expand and burst loose the weather boarding.

The lime nearly all gravitated into the stream below and converted it into a veritable river of whitewash, killing all the fish in the stream from that point to Boynton, where it empties into the Casselman river. As soon as the water cleared up, dead trout in large numbers, many of them from one to two feet in length, could be seen along the stream.

THE HOMEMAKERS CORNER

BY MISS ELSIE BENTHIEN
Home Demonstration Agent

Color in the Home

The furnishings of a room may be of excellent lines, proportion and balance, but if the colors are not harmonious and subtly blended, the decorations will not satisfy the eye. Thru color may be expressed gayety and quietness, simplicity and luxury. It is a powerful influence in determining the character of a room. Are your rooms large or small, light or dark? Light colors tend to make a room look larger and cleaner and aid in conserving light.

Dark colors tend to make a room look smaller, darker and less cheerful. Large areas call for soft, dull or greyed tones. Bright colors are used in small amounts only to give accent or emphasis to a color scheme.

Rooms with a southern exposure call for cool, restful colors. Use colors tinged with green or blue.

Rooms with a northern exposure require warm colors which are tinged with red, yellow or orange, such as tan or taupe, sand or brown.

Pleasing color effects are comparatively inexpensive to achieve. For the living room the middle values which are neither light nor dark are in general most appropriate. Shades of rose, mulberry, delft blue and the tans or golds no doubt give the most pleasing effects.

The Republican goes into the homes of the best people of Garrett county; its advertising columns bring results.

LOCAL CIVIC CLUB GIVES SUMMARY OF ACTIVITIES

Report Is Submitted at Regular Monthly Meeting of Society

The annual report of the activities of the Oakland Civic club for 1928-29 was read at the last meeting of that body, held Tuesday a week ago. The report was submitted in writing by Miss Thekla C. Fundenberg, of Washington, D. C., a summer resident here, and president of the organization.

The report follows:

American Home

A special paper on "Better Homes," by Miss Benthien of Home Extension Service was given at April meeting of Club.

Fine Arts, Music

A community sing was held during Music Week in May, Gilbert-Brown Boys' band, High school glee club, Grammar school and Parochial school participating, each group having part in program.

A musical program in connection with club meeting in July, featuring a song composed by a resident of the town, and piano music by two young students of music.

Literature

A copy of Garrett county pioneer story, "Forty-four Years in the Life of a Hunter," by Meshach Browning, was presented to Library of General Federation of Women's Clubs in Washington.

A gift of $10.00 was made to the Garrett County Free Public Library.

Legislative

The September meeting of Civic Club was made interesting by an informal talk by Sen. A. D. Naylor on two subjects: Increase of pay for Legislators of the State, and, The need of a County Farm for Aged and Infirm. These subjects were to be voted on in November.

International Relations

October meeting of Civic Club was held in the High school with teachers and pupils present. Over 250 were present to hear Miss Jessie Snow from Baltimore tell of "Geneva and the League of Nations 1928."

Public Welfare

The Civic Club assisted with two clinics for crippled children, one in June and one in October, forty-nine cases at each clinic. Lunch was served and members assisted the nurses. This work was done under Miss King, County Health nurse. Twenty-eight cases have had hospital care, others are treated at home.

A donation of $50.00 was made toward expenses of employing a special messeuse to instruct mothers with children recovering from Infantile paralysis. Civic Club members assisted in order to help in follow-up work. This nurse was in Oakland for three weeks for these lessons.

A gift of $50.00 was received by the Club from out of town donor for work for crippled children.

General

In July a club luncheon was given, over fifty persons attended, with State Director, President of Allegany County Federation and other out-of-town guests.

Nearly all meetings this year have been held at the homes of members, with a "cup of tea" after meetings.

Group study of Mrs. Winters' book, "The Business of Being a Club Woman" was begun in November.

The club now numbers forty members. A number of new members have come in during the year.

Respectfully submitted,
Thekla C. Fundenberg,
President.

FRIENDSVILLE HI HOLDS FATHER AND SON DINNER

Third Annual Gathering Proves To Be Great Success to All

The third annual Father and Son banquet of the department of vocational agriculture of Friendsville High school, was held last Wednesday evening, March 27, in the auditorium of the new school building. The affair was planned and provided by the Frendsville Chapter of Future Farmers of Maryland.

The tables, arranged in the form of an "F," were adorned with Easter lilies and yellow candles. The menu was prepared for the occasion by the Home Economics department, but in order that the attendance might be confined strictly to fathers and sons, the meal was served by boys of the department.

The menu consisted of chicken soup, cream chicken in paddy shells, mashed potatoes, buttered peas, pickles and olives, fruit salad, pie and cake, practically all furnished by the boys of the association.

A humorous dialog, "An Arkansas Swap," given by Karlo Rush and Floyd Umbel, added fun to the occasion while another feature was the music provided by the Browning string orchestra.

J. D. Blackwell, State supervisor of Vocational Education, was present and spoke on "Importance of the Project In Vocational Education," which proved interesting and inspiring.

Ex-Senator J. W. McCullough in awarding the silver loving cup and cash prizes won by Ernest Hauser and Bruce Jenkins in the County Dairy Cattle Judging contest, stressed the importance of character and the formation of good habits as a fundamental part of high school education.

Other speakers and guests present were John H. Carter, county agent, H. W. Beggs and O. T. Graser, teachers of vocational agriculture in Accident and Oakland High schools respectively, W. J. Glenn, principal, Dr. A. J. Mason, Asa Rush, R. O. McCullough, and James Coddington, former student, now attending the University of Maryland.

Bowling Teams Display Good Form on Monday Night

With the best display of bowling seen on the Recreation Alleys this year, the Rotary club, Presbyterian, Knights of Columbus and Postoffice quints rolled the highest total number of pins during any one evening, on Monday when 7,810 were knocked from the alleys. None of the totals of each three game series went below 1892. Eleven scores on these four teams were 400 or better. In these matches, the Rotary club took two of three from the Presbyterians, while the Knights of Columbus took two from the Postoffice.

In last Thursday's games the Methodists took three from the Postoffice and the Rotary club took three from Crellin. Tonight the Methodists will meet Crellin and the merchants will battle the Lutherans. The curtain on the Third Annual Bowling League will be drawn next week and it is probable that the Merchants, winners of the first round, will battle the Presbyterians for the championship of the league.

MARRIAGE BUREAU KEPT BUSY DURING PAST WEEK

Thirty-five Licenses Granted—"April Fool" Disregarded

The Easter season was the occasion for a last minute rush for marriage licenses during the month of March, and the clerk of the Circuit court was busy during the past week ending Monday at noon issuing permits to 35 couples. Because of the large increase in number of couples applying, the records for the same month in 1927 and 1928 were both surpassed. The all-time record for March, however, withstood the attempt to break it. This record of 85 was made in 1918. The record for the past March was 82.

Fifteen of those issued during the past week were granted on Saturday, while the 26th was also a busy day when seven were granted. At noon on Monday, April 1, five licenses had been issued for that day, showing an utter disregard for "All Fools' Day."

A total of 205 licenses have been granted during the first three months of 1929, which is 18 more than for the same time in 1928, and 11 more than in 1927. Five licenses issued during the past week were marked "don't publish," while one applicant was refused a permit.

EARLY DISCOVERY, EARLY RECOVERY

Emphasizing the possibilities of checking tuberculosis, if it is discovered and cared for in the early stages of the disease, special clinics will be held throughout the State during April, under the joint auspices of the State Department of Health and the Maryland Tuberculosis Association. In connection with the clinics, an effort will be made to reaen persons of all age groups, white and colored, showing the early symptoms of the disease or who seem to be threatened with it.

Speaking of the clinics, Dr. R. H. Riley, Director of the State Department of Health said: "Some of the effects of the work that has been done throughout the State for the prevention or control of tuberculosis are reflected in the records of the State Department of Health.

"In 1918, for instance, 2934 deaths from tuberculosis—all forms of the disease, not only tuberculosis of the lungs—occurred in Maryland. In 1928, with a much larger population, there were 1697 deaths from tuberculosis. What this reduction signifies, in the actual saving of lives can be better understood by estimating the number of deaths that would have occurred if the rate prevailing ten years ago had been in effect in 1928. If there had been no change in the rates—that is the proportion of deaths to the total population—there would have been 3432 deaths from tuberculosis in 1928, instead of 1697.

"That is one side of the story and it is a very encouraging one. Here is another. When the records are analyzed, we find that there has been a much greater decline in the deaths from tuberculosis in the white population, than in the colored. In 1928, there were nearly four times as many deaths from tuberculosis among the colored people in proportion to the colored population, as there were in the white population. If the rate in the colored population had been the same as that in the white population, instead of having 698 deaths from tuberculosis, among the colored people, in the State, during the year, there would have been 183.

"It is generally estimated that there are ten cases of sickness in proportion to every death from tuberculosis. Basing our estimates on the deaths from tuberculosis, last year, there are now 16,970 persons in the State—Baltimore City and the counties together—who are ill with the disease—9,990 white and 6,980 colored. Of that number 5,400 white and 3,300 colored live in the counties.

"We have made great strides in the control and prevention of tuberculosis, but figures like this show us that we still have a huge task before us. The clinics that are held each month have been of inestimable value to thousands of our people. There is always a better chance of arresting the disease if it is discovered and cared for, in the early stages. On that account, the 'early diagnosis' clinic schedule for April, are of the utmost importance."

BITTINGER.

At the Sunday morning service in the local Lutheran church seventeen new members were received into the Bittingr congregation by the pastor, Rev. E. E. Campbell. All were young people, most of whom had just completed a course of catechetical instruction under direction of the pastor.

The greatest shock experienced by the people of this community in many years came last Monday afternoon with the announcement of the sudden death of Morris Beachy, third son of Mr. and Mrs. Silas C. Beachy. The young man, so suddenly smitten, was in his twenty-fourth year and was very popular with the young people of this section For the past two years he had driven the bus which carried many students from this neighborhood to the Accident high school daily and in that capacity made many warm friends by his obliging manner and genial personality. The funeral took place on Wednesday afternoon from the Center Baptist church near Accident, with services conducted by the Rev. Scrogum. Interment was made in the cemetery near the church. THE NEWSPAPERMAN AND THE PUBLIC.

A live newspaper is the backbone of the community and yet, perhaps, no other citizen is subjected to so much criticism and has to "watch his step" more carefully than the editor.

Many items of interest come to his desk concerning people and events which would make good reading and would be news, but in reviewing the effect of printing them he comes to the conclusion that it is not for the best interest of the community to give them publicity. He has to subserve his own interests to that of the community.

There is no question but that the newspaper is a public benefactor to the community it serves. And yet how many look upon it as such?

The average citizen expects his paper to always look on the bright side of human nature and to keep everlastingly and continually boosting persons, affairs and the community, salving his conscience with the thought that he has paid his small yearly subscription and that he has done his part toward keeping the editor and his employes in idle luxury.

The editor is supposed to hear everything, see everything and say nothing that will in any way offend anybody.

Does the average reader give the editor a ring on the phone if an important bit of news comes to his personal attention? Does Mrs. Soandso tell him the details of her bridge luncheon which she gave on Tuesday? They do not. And yet the average reader will wonder why the editor failed to publish the important news item, andd Mrs. Soandso is red-headed because the paper failed to notice her party.

Of course, the editor wants to swell his subscription list as much as possible, for upon that, to a large degree, depends his influence and the amount of advertising he secures. Upon this latter depends his success or failure. Subscriptions alone will not pay his overhead expense, nor a small part of them.

The value of printers ink is becoming more and more apparent. There is no question but that newspaper advertising pays big dividends. It has been estimated, however, but that three per cent of the merchants of the United States advertise effetively. Advertising must be done consistently, effectively and consecutively, if the best results are to be obtained. It has been definitely ascertained that the business man who does not set aside from 2 to 3 per cent of his net income for advertising is making a mistake.

Communities should advertise with the same regularity as individuals. Prosperity has been assured to cities and even to states by judicious advertising.

We were forcibly struck with a suggestion made by one of the good citizens here the other day when he presented a scheme for issuing a pamphlet wherein the beauties of our natural setting, the advantages of our location, with views showing points of interest and broadcast to prospective visitors. That would be judicious advertising and in our judgment would pay big dividends.

These few rambling sentences bring us to the conclusion that we should clean up, buck up and then advertise.

Lest we forget: We should first secure a workable and progressive charter.

LITTLE RED SCHOOLHOUSE IS ON DECLINE IN COUNTY

Consolidation Will Eventually Do Away With Traditional Country School

The "Little old red schoolhouse," though still far from becoming scarce in Garrett county, is on the decline if the consolidation of the one-teacher schools, which has been going on for the past few years, is any criterion of what may happen in the future. Fifteen schools in Garrett county have been joined with other schools during this time.

This consolidation has been in accordance with the State and County boards of education and their programs throughout the past several years, following the law as laid down as follows:

Section 50. The county board of education shall consolidate schools whenever in their judgment it is practicable, and arrange, when possible without charge to the county and shall pay, when necessary, for the transportation of pupils to and from such consolidated schools.

Among the elemetary schools from which pupils are being transported according to F. E. Rathbun, Superintendent of Schools, are the following:

1. Sharpless to Mt. Zion.
2. Strecker's to Swanton.
3. Steiding to Deer Park.
4. Brant to Oakland.
5. Thayerville to Dodge.
6. Swallow Falls to Bray.
7. Round Glade to Bray.
8. Deep Creek to Accident.
9. Weir to Lonaconing.
10. Blooming Rose to Friendsville.
11. Cove to Accident.
12. Miller to Grantsville.
13. Meese to Baker.
14. Shade Run to Grantsville.
15. Ridgeley to Grantsville.

A certain number of these transportation lines also receive high school pupils for Accident, Grantsville and Oakland; other lines are no win operation for high school pupils alone, and two others are for elementary pupils from sections where it would have been necessary to erect a school building, had not this method of transportation been available.

These additional lines include Green to Avilton; Chaffee to Vindex; Hutton to Oakland; Crellin to Oakland; Gnegy Church to Oakland; Swanton to Oakland, and Bittinger to Accident.

Costs Less to Transport.

All costs of the transportation lines do not exceed $18,000, Mr. Rathbun pointed out, whereas formerly it cost that much or more for instructors in the fifteen elementary schools which have been closed within the past few years. "This allows seven additional transportation lines for high school students and provides a better training for the elementary children without any additional money outlay," he concluded.

There now remain in the county 117 one-teacher schools; 11 two-teacher schools and 7 three- or more-teacher schools, many of which will in the course of time be eliminated, if the present program continues.

Smooth highways and the very general use of the automobile in the country have lessened distances and brought widely separated families into closer touch, and within ten or fifteen years, it is predicted that one will rarely see one of these rural schools where the pupils cut up and wrestled with the rudiments of the three R's. But even that far in the future one will be able to explore the little-frequented dirt roads of the county that twist their narrow, hilly, rutted courses back into the remote sections and will be rather certain of finding a more or less dilapidated example of one of these school buildings.

But eventually the "little red school house" will be no more.

Minstrel Show To Be Presented.

Although no definite date has been set for the presentation of the "Kentucky Minstrel," a local talent show to go on the boards at the Maryland Theatre, Oakland, some time during the present month, rehearsale are being held regularly, R. R. Gilbert, director, has announced, and from indications the players seem to be grasping their parts.

Mr. Gilbert has announced the next rehearsal for Tuesday night at the K. of P. lodge rooms. The minstrel is to be given for the benefit of the Gilbert-Brown Boys' Band, and the members of the musical organization have been diligent in their practice for the past several weeks for a concert to be given as a part of the minstrel.

MEMBERS OF TWO POTATO CLUBS HAVE BEEN NAMED

ROTARY ANNS PROVIDE LADIES' NIGHT PROGRAM

Mrs. E. R. Jones Gives Distinctive Address on Growth of Oakland—Other Features

The gradual growth of Oakland during the past ten years and the many improvements made in that time were two points stressed by Mrs. E. R. Jones, who was the principal speaker at the ladies' night entertainment of the weekly meeting of the Oakland Rotary club held at the William-James Hotel last Thursday evening.

The entire program was unique in that the ladies themselves arranged and carried it out. The entertainment was very much enjoyed by the club members and with Mrs. Paul Naylor as chairwoman the entire affair seemed to have been put on with enthusiasm, according to those present.

Mrs. Ralph Weber gave a reading; Mrs. L. K. Dixon, a piano selection; Mrs. Delbert Davis, a reading local in its character; several selections were rendered by the boys' band of Oakland; Reeves Blandford sang a solo, and Mrs. Jones spoke on the growth of Oakland.

Oakland Growing.

In speaking of the expansion of Oakland, Mrs. Jones said in part:

The gradual growth of Oakland within the past ten years may be marked by the following signs of development:

Fourteen new residences in the northern section of Oakland; five or six new homes in the section beginning at the corner of Pennington street and including Liberty. Crossing the bridge in the southern section, five new dwellings, and in the section known as "Prosperity Hill," eleven new homes.

In the business section, a new brick building housing a new banking institution, postoffice, modern hardware store and professional offices. Additions have also been made to the Miller building, the creamery and other building. The Piedmont Grocery Company has located a branch store here.

Along public service lines we have better telephone service, continuous electric service; gas shortage has been eliminated and the water system is more efficient.

In the educational field, grade supervisors, two county health nurses, home demonstration agent and other public servants and improvements have been added, as also the parochial school.

A number of streets have been improved along with the advent of better State roads.

The civic growth is indicated by the organization of the Boy Scouts, the Boys' Band, the Rotary Club and the Volunteer Fire Department.

An elaborate menu was prepared and served by the hotel management and the ladies were the recipients of very beautiful favors presented by the club.

Home Demonstration Agent's Schedule, April 17 to 19

CHILD HEALTH DAY TO BE CELEBRATED IN SCHOOLS

Program in Celebration of Event to be Made Public Next Week by Public Health Nurse

That there will be a program arranged for the different schools in the county in celebration of May Day was announced by Miss Rhesa M. King, county public health nurse. This program will be published next week, it was stated. If a meeting place and a time can be agreed upon there will also be a county-wide celebration of May Day, Miss King also said.

May 1 has been observed for several years as Child Health Day and the slogan for May Day, 1929, is: "Youth is the Strength of America; Make American Youth Strong."

"The keynote of May Day," Miss King said, "is that proper recreation is a fundamental of a health program. The children and youth of America need leadership that will provide for them and inspire them to enjoy the kind of recreation which:

1. Takes them into the sunshine and fresh air.
2. Provides exercise through play.
3. Interests them in a variety of athletics.
4. Offers them activities suited to their individual needs.
5. Gives them joyous self-expression through music, dancing and drama, as well as through athletics.

"Child Health Day, emanating from the American Child Health association over which Herbert Hoover has presided since its creation, has become a national event in the United States. The President himself has written the Child's Bill of Rights, while Mrs. Hoover has taken the time and pains to write out her convictions regarding the value of Child Health Day.

SCOUTING DEMONSTRATION GIVEN AT LODGE MEETING

Local Troop Members Guests of Knights of Pythias

A sample of what members of Oakland Troop No. 1, Boy Scouts of America, are accomplishing, was demonstrated before the members of the local Knights of Pythias lodge at their regular meeting last Friday evening at Castle hall.

Thirty-seven boys marched from their headquarters to the K. of P. hall at 8:45 and held contests in knot tieing, pyramid signaling; gave demonstrations in first aid work, and then played several of their more popular games. The entertainment was ended when the scouts lined up in formation and retired the flag of the United States in the usual manner. The affair was in charge of Bernard Gonder and Thomas Gonder, junior assistants; Leonard Murphy, senior patrol leader, and Forrest Warnick, patrol leader.

In a pie eating contest staged by the lodge among six of the scouts, Ward Hinebaugh came off victorious. Lewis Jones won the knot tieing contest, the Fox and Eagle patrols won the tug of war, and Walter Iman and his rider won the game of Horse and Rider. Following the demonstrations the boys were served with "hot dog" sandwiches and coffee, which needless to say, were enjoyed by those present.

Two Made Second Class Scouts

Two boys, Roger Maroney and James Treacy, became second class scouts at the regular meeting on Friday, they having passed all necessary requirements during the past week.

Roy Strawser Given Life Sentence in Kingwood Court

Still maintaining his innocence, Roy Strawser, 24, of Tunnelton, W. Va., Monday heard himself sentenced to serve a life term in the penitentiary at Moundsville for the murder of John Bolyard, 74, of Rowlesburg, who was assaulted in his watchman's shanty at that place on the night of January 13, and died a short time later.

The man was able to make a dying statement, however, in which he declared that Strawser was his assailant, according to evidence presented at the trial at Kingwood, W. Va.

Judge A. G. Hughes pronounced the sentence. The jury which heard the case returned a verdict of guilty in the first degree but made a recommendation for mercy, which automatically set the sentence at life imprisonment. An effort was made to have the verdict set aside and a new trial granted, but this was overruled by the court. Before sentence was passed Strawser said, "I have nothing to say except that I am innocent."

FOREST FIRES LAST WEEK WORST IN SEVERAL YEARS

Flames and High Wind Destroy over $8,000 in Timber.

Forest fires and a high wind caused a timber damage of fire fighting bill in Western Maryland last week upwards of $8,000 with over 2,582 acres of forest land ravaged, according to an estimate prepared by H. C. Buckingham, district forester. Monday of the past week was the worst day for forest fires in many years in Western Maryland, it was stated, with the above figures not including considerable real estate damage.

Flames Traveled Rapidly

Extremely high winds, which began in the morning and continued until after midnight, swept the fire in many cases at the rate of four miles an hour. The fires were, in all instances except one which was started by sparks from a locomotive, started by people burning brush and leaving Buckingham stated.

the fire while they ate dinner. Mr.

Not only was mature timber destroyed but immature forestation was also burned. The woil in many cases was destroyed and large numbers of valuable wild life were burned. Private property worth many hundreds of dollars was also destroyed.

Fire Wardens Praised

In spite of the high winds and the great dryness of the material, the forest wardens who directed the fire fighting did outstanding work in suppressing the fires and reducing damage to a minimum.

Two hundred acres were destroyed near Deer Park, five hundred on Mt. Zion Road, about 200 on Shaggy mountain, 3 miles west of Oakland, and small amounts in various other sections.

James Lee On Lacrosse Squad at Maryland University.

Included in the list of University of Maryland lacrosse players, whose pictures appeared in the Sunday Sun, was that of James Lee, son of Mr. and Mrs. Albert L. Lee, of Oakland. The youth, who is a sophomore this year, is one of the first string substitutes, and his chances for becoming a regular on the team next year, are exceedingly good, it is said.

This is only his second year in competition, having made the Freshman team last year in his first attempt at the difficult sport.

GLEE CLUB TO PRESENT "WINDMILLS OF HOLLAND"

Musical Comedy to be Given at Maryland Theatre April 19

The Glee Club of the Oakland High school will present "Windmills of Holland," a musical comedy, at the Maryland theatre, on Friday afternoon and evening, April 19, under the direction of Miss Viola Broadwater.

The cast of characters includes Mynheer Hertogenbosch, Otto Menear; Vrouw Hertogenbosch, Adeline Sincell; Wilhelmina and Hilda, Susanna Dixon and Dorothy Stevenson; Bob Yankee, Kermit Lohr; Hans, Charles Dodge; Franz, Walter Killius; Katrina, Elizabeth Gonder. There will also be a chorus of farmers' daughters and a chorus of workhands.

The High school orchestra will play a number of selections and the Grade children will present a dance entitled "In Wooden Shoes," and a song "Mill Wheels." The toy symphony orchestra will play several selections.

The proceeds will go to the Oakland High school fund.

BIDS TO BE RECEIVED FOR COMPLETION OF N. W. PIKE

Construction of 3.41 Miles of Concrete Roadway This Year Completes Highway in County

In accordance with the authorization of $150,000 by the State Legislature for the completion of the Northwestern Turnpike in Maryland, during the year 1929 sealed proposals for building one section of State Highway, along the Northwestern pike from Gorman to the beginning of the other finished portion, a distance of 3.41 miles, concrete, will be received by the State Roads commission, Baltimore, according to an order being published in The Republican today.

This distance, from a point near Table Rock to Gorman, completed, will entirely finish the Garrett county portion of the once famous turnpike road from Parkersburg, W. Va., to Winchester, Va. There still remains, however, a section of road between Gorman and Mt. Storm, of several miles, upon which the West Virginia State Roads commission is now working, and it is expected that continuous travel on improved highways from Parkersburg to Winchester will be had before the summer of 1929 has passed.

The Senate Bill No. 225, providing for the stated appropriation for the completion of the Northwestern turnpike in Garrett county, was passed in the Senate. This measure was included in the Governor's road bill but was introduced as a special measure by Senator A. D. Naylor. The bill also provides for aid in the construction of an interstate bridge over the Potomac river.

Runners in Cross Continental Race Pass Through Grantsville

Those competing in C. C. Pyle's Bunion Derby from New York City to Los Angeles, Cal., passed through Grantsville Tuesday, with Giusto Umek, of Italy, leading the hikers. He led at the end of the tenth lap by splashing through the rain from Cumberland to Uniontown, Pa., a distance of 52 8-10 miles, in 10 hours, 18 minutes, 15 seconds.

Philip Granville, Hamilton, Ont., and Peter Gavizzi, England, were tied for second place. Tuesday's run, over five mountains, was one of the toughest grinds since the bunion derby started from New York. Eddie Gardner, Seattle, Wash., negro, retained his lead in elapsed time.

Many of the runners wore pajamas, others wore bathing suits, baseball suits, and other odd uniforms. All were numbered and people in Grantsville and vicinity took delight in reading aloud the names of various stars as they passed through the town. There are 37 remaining in the race. They are to arrive in Los Angeles June 18. C. C. Pyle and Andy Payne, winners of the 1928 race, also passed through on their way to Uniontown.

Oakland High Wins Final Game

After losing to Grantsville high school basketball team at Grantsville last Saturday night, 16-20, Oakland high school came back strong Tuesday night and defeated them on the Oakland floor 38-3. Stemple and Maroney were the high scorers for the local team. This was the final game of the season.

NEW FIRE TRUCK BOUGHT BY LOCAL FIRE FIGHTERS

An American LaFrance Machine Costing $12,500 To Be in Oakland Within 60 Days

That the Oakland Volunteer Fire department had purchased a new fire fighting truck was made public this morning by George Kerins, fire chief. The new truck, an American LaFrance, is next to the largest one that company makes, and will cost $12,500. It is a pumper truck primarily, but has chemical apparatus also. The new machine will be here in about 60 days, it was stated.

The Locomobile truck, which has served Oakland and vicinity since December, 1926, has been sold to an Eastern Shore city for $3,000, and this will be delivered when the new truck arrives. The cost of the new machine will be distributed over a period of six years, and will be paid for by the fire department from its funds.

$1,500 Appropriated

Fifteen hundred dollars was appropriated to the Volunteer Fire company for the year 1929, by the Town Council of Oakland, according to G. C. Stemple, president of the council. This appropriation was made at the last meeting of Council on April 1, and does not call for anymore than the fire company has been receiving in the past, Mr. Stemple said. Prior to 1929 the Council paid all bills of the company, which amounted from $1,500 to $1,600 each year.

An appropriation in a lump sum will be the policy hereafter, and the account will be kept straight by members of the department. In addition to this appropriation the company is to receive $600 annually from the County Commissioners.

In purchasing the new truck the members of the fire department felt that they were doing the best thing available for the interest of the town by keeping the equipment up to the minute.

Lesson for April 14

HEZEKIAH LEADS HIS PEOPLE BACK TO GOD

LESSON TEXT—II Chronicles 30:1-27.

GOLDEN TEXT—The Lord your God is gracious and merciful.

PRIMARY TOPIC—Helping Others to Know God.

JUNIOR TOPIC—Helping Others to Know God.

INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—A Leader With a High Purpose.

YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—The Influence of a Good Ruler.

I. Hezekiah Proclaims a Passover (vv. 1-12).

The way for a sinning and divided people to get back to God and be united is around the crucified Lord. The Passover was a memorial of the nation's deliverance through the shedding of the blood of the sacrificial lamb.

1. The invitation was representative of the nation (v. 2). The king took counsel with the princes and the congregation to show that the proclamation was the expression of the nation's desire.

2. The time was unusual (vv. 2-4). There was not sufficient time to sanctify the people, nor to gather them together at the regular time, so they resolved instead of postponing it for a year to hold it on the fourteenth day of the second month. This liberty had been granted before in an exigency (Num. 9:6-13).

3. The scope of the invitation (vv. 5-9).

It included all of both nations who would come to keep the Passover to the Lord God of Israel. "Israel" is now used to include both kingdoms. The effort was intended to win back the nation which had seceded. The messengers were authorized to supplement the proclamation with urgent exhortation to restore a united nation. This urgent invitation was tactfully put as follows:

(1) It touched ancestral memories—"Turn again unto the Lord God of Abraham, Isaac and Israel" (v. 6).

(2) Recalled bitter experience—"Be not like your fathers and brethren, who trespassed against the Lord God, and were given up to desolation, as ye see" (v 7).

(3) Aroused yearning for captive kinsfolk—"Your brethren and children shall find compassion before their captors" (v 9).

(4) Stirred instinct of self-preservation—"So that they shall come again unto this land" (v. 9).

(5) Pledged forgiveness (v. 9).

4. Israel's reception of the invitation (vv. 10-12).

This invitation in Israel met with a mingled reception.

(1) Some mocked. The urgent and sincere invitation only excited opposition and ridicule. (2) Some with humble hearts came to Jerusalem.

In Judah, God gave them one heart to accept the summons to unite in the Lord around the great Passover.

II. The Passover Kept (vv. 13-27).

1. Altars removed (vv. 13, 14).

In the time of Ahaz (28:24) these heathen altars were erected in Jerusalem. Before there could be worship of the true God all traces of idolatry must be removed. This voluntary act of the people showed a right spirit.

2. The Passover killed (v. 15). The zeal of the people was shown in their going forward with the service, though the priests were not ready for their task.

3. The priests and Levites ashamed (vv. 15-20).

The zeal of the people put to shame the priests and Levites, stimulating them to perform their duties according to the law as given by Moses. The Levites then took charge of the killing of the Passover. Though many of the people were ceremonially unprepared to take part in the most sacred service, they were accepted as worshipers through the intercession of Hezekiah. God accepted the purpose of heart rather than the letter of the law.

4. The praise of glad hearts (vv. 21, 22).

They continued seven days with gladness: (1) The Levites and priests sang God's praise daily with loud instruments (v. 21); (2) Hezekiah spoke comforting words to the Levites (v. 22). He commended them and their teaching of the knowledge of God. (3) They made confession of their sins to God (v. 22).

5. The Passover prolonged seven days (vv. 23-27).

The king's object in prolonging the feast was to make as lasting an impression as possible, so as to result in the thorough conversion of their souls to God.

COUNTY AGENT'S COLUMN.

J. H. CARTER,
Resident County Agent,
Oakland, Md.

Top Dressing Aids Retarded Wheat

Not a small part of the 5.6 bushel average increase per acre in State wheat, from 1880 to 1928, may be attributed to the increasing practice of top dressing winter wheat with nitrogenous fertilizers in the spring, it is said by F. W. Oldenburg, Extension Service Agronomist for the University of Maryland. Top dressing became more popular, especially during the last fifteen years, because of the nitrogen. In addition, interest was aroused through the experimental work which was, and is, being conducted by the educational bureau of the National Fertilizer Association and Educational departments of other fertilizer companies in cooperation with the various agricultural colleges.

Nitrogen is of particular help to the farmers in increasing yields where the wheat made poor growth during the fall and was retarded by a wet spring. Under these circumstances the application of from one to two hundred pounds of top dressing has increased the yield of wheat, per acre, from five to ten and even fifteen bushels. Top dressing should be put on the wheat as soon after growth starts in the spring as possible, which is generally from March 15th to April 15th, depending upon the general location of the farm. The amount of fertilizer to be applied will depend upon the soil fertility and condition of the wheat.

Any grower desiring to top dress his wheat this spring may receive additional information and assistance in doing so from his County Agent or the Extension Service of the University of Maryland.

Early Cultivation Advised for Orchards

In spite of the uncertainty of present weather conditions, orchardists of the State are being advised by A. F. Vierheller, Specialist in Horticulture for the University of Maryland Extension Service, to carefully follow all spray and cultivation schedules so as to insure good development of trees and fruit. This precaution is important, it is asserted, because the trees must be induced to grow for next year's crop even though this year's may be injured by a late frost.

Particular emphasis is placed upon early plowing of the orchards, as this work is not only gotten out of the way and the soil put in better mechanical condition in allowing the turned under organic matter a longer time to rot, but it will help to destroy the dead leaves and mummied fruit which contains the spores of apple scab and brown rot that may also hold fruit moth or curculio.

If fertilizer has not been applied it should be put on as soon as possible. In this connection, it is pointed, if nitrate of soda is the fertilizer to be used it may be applied half at this time and the rest after the June drop. Sulphate of amonia should be applied in the entire amount.

It is asserted while each individual grower, by determining the general soil fertility and vigor of his trees, must decide the amount of fertilizer to use, in general, it has been found that apple trees from eight to twelve years of age require from three to five pounds of fertilizer, while those of twelve years and upward should have from five to ten pounds. Peach trees do not require as much nitrogen and two to four pounds should be sufficient.

Adapt a regular program of sanitation on your farm to reduce the loss of baby chicks. More than half the loss of your chicks occur during the first three or four weeks.

One of the best methods of storing eggs for home use is the water glass solution method, which will keep eggs from 8 to 12 months in excellent condition. The eggs can be stored at approximately 3 cents per dozen. If you are interested you may obtain information from the County Agent's office.

When a $600 or $700 bull will increase your dairy herds to the extent of $100 to $125 per year there can be little argument that the good bull is not most profitable, regardless of the cost. Many a time a cheap sire proves the most expensive in the long run. Visit the Better Dairy Sire Specialist at Oakland on April 24th at 2:00 p. m., and see bulls from dams with high records sold at cost.

Farmers who are planning to sow alfalfa seed this spring should make sure of getting seed of the right type adapted to Maryland conditions. There are two general types of Alfalfa says Mr. F. W. Oldenburg, Specialist in Agronomy for the University of Maryland Extension Service. The variegated of which Grimm and Ontario veriagated are most widely grown. The other type is the common of which there are many regional strains.

The common has been found the best type for Maryland says Mr. Oldenburg, provided you know the type of seed purchased. Seed of the common type grown in Kansas, Nebraska, Montana and the Dakotas should prove suitable to Maryland conditions. Seed from the above states are generally spoken of in Maryland as adapted seed.

A Guernsey Calf Club will be organized at an early date provided enough boys are interested. If you are interested in the Guernsey breed, get in touch with the County Agent.

The Big Corn Race

Since all eyes in the sport world, (including Garrett county) were turned on the cross-continental racers who passed through Grantsville and Garrett county on Tuesday, interest in such a race has reached a high peak in local circles and in response to a great demand a local "Corn Race" will be held under the direction of Scoop, Col. Bell, and The Republican.

The Bunion Derby of the county, with the list of entries already at top peak, bids fair to eclipse all other events put on by Scoop or anybody else fo rthat matter. While those in the continental bunion derby were allowed to wear most anything as a costume, Poky Shaw, president of the Amalgimated Society for the Suppression of Work, which company is financing the project, states that all contestants should wear curly hair and a broad smile.

Those Entered in Contest

Those who will take part and who are already in training are:

Bell will be ready with the flashlight and gun powder. Jerry Stanton has been chosen as the official witness of the breaking of the tape at the finish. Tom Flannigan is the official starter and he will borrow the American Legion gun on the Court House lawn for the occasion.

Route Will Be Difficult

From Washington spring to Crellin to Hutton; cross country to Gorman, to Kitzmiller to Bloomington. Spend night at Ritzmore hotel there. Bloomington to Swanton, to Deer Park, to Sand Flat, to Sang Run, to Friendsville to Hoyes. Spend night at Algonquin Inn. Hoyes to Accident, Grantsville, to Bittinger, to McHenry, to Lakeside to Oakland.

THE PASSING SHOW

By the Man In The Street

From the Observer, Baltimore.

The Legislature has put its final coat of whitewash on the mismanagement of the roads department; the Chesapeake Bay bridge and other near steals have been pushed through the Legislature with few opposing votes; the Sunday movie hill has been killed despite the backing of Speaker Lee who has become a city man in the city and a county man in the county; nothing was done to the prosperous race track business; a new tick and chigger boulevard is to be built in Southern Maryland at a cost of $500,000; the upper Eastern Shore is to have a $500,000 special highway to reach Delaware; Garrett countians are to have a road to lead them to West Virginia; some hundreds of thousands of dollars are to be spent to build a road to Brooke Lee's land development; Senator Eugene Jones killed two of Brooke Lee's pet political schemes by which he was to get more men on the payroll as policemen and census takers; and a big pile of bills has been dumped into the Governor's office where he can pick and choose willy nilly just because his men in the Legislature let it work out that way.

Grand Jury Resumes
Stnte Roads Scandal

This week the Baltimore City grand jury resumed its delving into the State roads scandal and caused surprise by calling some of the Governor's "investigators", including the two chairmen, Messrs. Nelligan and Beck. I have doubts that much information will be obtained in that way, for to date it has been shown that neither of the chairman was able to find out much. They couldn't even find out where the war material went.

Possibly before the thing is over some impertinent member of the grand jury may so far forget himself as to suggest calling the real chief witness—the Governor of the State—even though this procedure would shock some of the hero worshippers in this neck of the woods.

The Governor would be able to tell the jury why it was that he was loth to let the public know about the roads stealings and why it was that it took him nearly a year to oust Chairman Mackall. He might also explain why it was that he removed the Roads Commission from any supervision of the State Purchasing Bureau and why he had the money removed from the State Treasury in large hunks and turned over to the Roads Commission where there were no competent men to watch it.

There is hardly a doubt that the Governor could, if he would, give more information about the working of the Roads Commission than any other man in Maryland except Mr. Mackall. That the latter did not reveal anything about the real workings of the Roads Commission was due, no doubt, to the fact that he was not asked any vital questions to fix the responsibility—or was his reticence due to the advice of the eminent lawyer who attended him as his coach?

Of course, I do not know how much any Grand Jury can find out but the records of the so-called investigations conducted by the Governor and his henchmen will show that little delving was done. And most peculiar of all was the gingerly way the investigators approached the war material. What makes it all the more important to find out where it went.

Governor Struggles On
With Fourth Term Scheme

The flood of bills laid before the Governor by the Legislature in its last hour has not caused him to abate in the smallest degree his struggle for a fourth term nomination. On the contrary he is just as busy at it as he could be had he nothing else to do.

He has his henchmen going here and there trying to arouse sentiment in his behalf. They say: "Who have you got that's any better? The roads business wasn't his fault. He trusted too much to others. Same thing happens in banks and all business institutions. Besides that, what's one-half of one per cent? Haven't we the best and most cheaply built roads in the United States? You don't want Broening for Governor, now, do you? Of course not. Then why not get in line for Ritchie again? He wants vindication. And he's the only one that can beat the Republicans."

They say nothing at all about rotation in office nor about that section in the constitution which would have halted the robbing of the State Roads Commission not later than 1924. They say nothing about keeping the same group in office indefinitely. They make no defense or explanation of the roads department being a political machine. Their only defense is a question:, "Well wouldn't others do the same thing?"

Brooke Lee Now Figures
As New Scarecrow

On top of the foregoing the fourth termers have begun to hold up Brooke Lee as a scarecrow. If they can not scare voters with Broening they mention Brooke Lee as the Governor's possible successor. They know that after Lee's strong arm performance in the Legislature most right thinking Democrats shudder at the thought of his ever becoming Governor of Maryland and packing the offices with his followers and with the State Treasury at their command. It is a picture to cause a shudder all right and the hint is that the Governor, sidestepping Senator McIntosh and his backer, Howard Bruce, and abandoning his fake support of Emory Coblentz, might line up his henchmen for Lee. Naturally many will say they prefer even a fourth term for Ritchie rather than a first one for Lee. Lee is now the bogeyman. And a real bogeyman he is, even though most of the well informed know that the probability of his election would be very remote. Some, of course, would vote for him to get rid of Ritchie.

Lee Facing Battle
Of Life Next Year

Over in Montgomery county the political pot is boiling as a result of the Lee methods and there is much rejoicing among the anti-Lee people over the course of Senator Eugene Jones who accepted the Lee challenge and killed some of the local boss' pet bills. Lee having set himself up as county boss had three members of the House who danced to his music but Dr. Jones in the Senate bucked. He did his own thinking and indorsed the bills he thought good and put the kibosh on those he thought to be bad. Among the latter was the bill for a very expensive court house—a scheme that the county boss had near to his heart. It was materially amended.

Next year a new Legislature is to be elected and of course Dr. Jones will not be on the Lee slate. In his place will be put some subservient fellow who will carry out the boss' orders to the very letter. But that ticket will have to be made in a primary. The antis are growing in strength. Lee will have to open his strong box as well as wield a strong arm. To carry Montgomery for the Lee ticket next year will cost a good bit of the Lee cash. And many there are who predict that there will not be enough Lee cash to carry Montgomery for Lee in the next primaries.

Heading the anti-Lee faction is Albert M. Bouic, a substantial and capable fellow. He has a large following and he is not embarrassed by a strong arm legislative record. His followers should remain intact. On the other hand Lee has his own list of enemies within the Democratic party and now due to his toadying to the Governor in the roads scandal he has the enemies of Ritchie on his back. It is too late for him to escape the latter by repudiating Ritchie. Had he done so before he got himself into the roads mess he might have saved a great deal. But now the damage has been done.

Jackson-Bichy People
Make Excellent Showing

The Jackson-Bichy element of the Democratic party came out of the Legislature with a creditable record excepting of course, their votes adopting the official whitewash of the road scandal and voting for the log rolling, vote catching roads and bridge bills sent down by the Governor in the interest of his fourth term scheme.

Jackson and Bichy did great work in holding their forces together to the end in the face of the fact that they had no offices to give or promise. The speaker was with the other crowd because he thought it a Ritchie crowd even though Billy Curran, the reputed head of that group in the party, is no longer throwing his hat up for the Governor.

Curran, no doubt, has by this time noticed that the Ritchie-inspired Wet Blanket is sticking a pin in him now nnd then, an indication of the fact that the Governor is seeking other and if possible stronger aliances in the city. But I cannot see where the Governor can go. There is no Kelly, no Mahon to deliver anything to him. Kelly and Mahon had become too old and flabby to fight. The younger men who are coming to the front can and will fight.

As for Curran, there is speculation as to what he will do. The most frequent guess is that he will pocket his pride and join with Ritchie in his 4th term scheme. That, it appears, is just what Curran rivals want him to do. For, come what may, it is accepted by those who know the situation that Ritchie will not get a 4th term. Some even go so far as to urge that Ritchie should be permitted to get the nomination for a fourth term by default. This, they argue, would provide a cheap nnd sure finish for him. In a primary fight he might retire to save his face. But, beaten in the general election, he would be done for.

Republicans Take Their
Time to Pick Candidate

Indications are that the Republicans will go slow in picking a candidate for Governor next year and that every effort will be made to avoid a primary fight. The suggestion has been made that there should be a conference embracing every important element in the party so that every possible candidate may have a fair chance.

Some of the leaders are now saying that the boosting of any prospective candidate would be premature and might stir up avoidable strife within the party at a time when the prospect for victory is unusually fine.

Mention in this paper last week of Judge Robert F. Duer of Somerset county as a possible candidate brought some favorable responses from that section and it was indicated that he would prove a strong candidate among the county people.

Meanwhile friends of Representative Zihlman at a banquet in his honor given in Montgomery county referred to him as "the next Governor of Maryland," a title the friends of Mayor Broening had been claiming for that official.

Anti-Ritchie Forces
Planning for Battle

Signs are plentiful enough to indicate that Governor Ritchie will not be able to get a renomination without a tremendous battle, plans for which are already in the making.

Three years ago there was dillydallying with the result that the Governor got the lead on the opposition. Most of those who by their political situation at the time should have joined hands back of Wm. M. Maloy didn't do so for one reason or another and thus they were left behind.

Now there is a determination to agree upon a candidate early and go ahead with the organization of the anti-Ritchie forces behind him. Such a move, at this time, it is figured, will deter many of the heretofore Ritchie lieutenants from pledging their support to the Governor for another term.

Of course it seems impossible for the Governor to get rid of the Presidential bee. This time last year or a bit earlier when the Smith nomination was coming to be a certainty the Governor was repeatedly remarking that his best move might be to abandon his own fight and get behind Smith and then make his own bid for 1932. All of which meant that the Governor was confident of the Smith defeat in the general election. And the Ritchie speeches did Smith vast damage in Maryland.

McIntosh Makes Bid
For Senate Support

Those present at the closing scenes in the State Senate on Monday night last were much interested in the remarks of President McIntosh in reply to the presentation address which accompanied a silver punch or soup bowl given by members of that body.

Mr. McIntosh said he would not return to the Legislature in which he has served since 1914. However, he said his home would always be open to his associates in the Senate and that he hoped to meet with the members of that body under other circumstances in the future.

Sitting beside Mr. McIntosh was Governor Ritchie and his face was quite a study during the delivery of the presiding Senator's remarks. Possibly the Governor was wondering whether it could be that he would not be permitted to spend his entire life in the Executive Mansion.

What Those Figures Showed About Household Problems and How They Could Be Solved

"I had wanted, oh, so badly, to buy a Frigidaire this spring, and I had hopes of getting an electric range and an electric ironer, but with all the other expenses it did not seem possible.

"Then I heard about the new optional rates for electricity where for just a few cents a day I can so lighten and brighten home-making that I can have the time so need for recreation and reading."

"Now I am so happy because these fine appliances can be purchased on liberal time payments and their operation will not be such a drain on our pocketbook."

You, Too, May Solve Your Home Problems The ELECTRICAL WAY

New Optional Rates Mean Cheaper Conveniences

Under the new optional rates of this company, you may secure electricity for your home for eight and a half cents for the first twenty-five kilowatt hours, five and a half cents for the next twenty-five kilowatt hours and three and a half cents for each additional kilowatt hour, this being subject to a prompt discount of half a cent a kilowatt hour. This rate means you can now afford to own and operate those desired appliances which mean so much in the home. For full information on the savings possible under the new rates, have them explained by the contract clerk or any representative of the appliance department.

BIG AND LITTLE SPECULATORS

Financial writers agree that it has been the "little fellow" who suffered lately in the Wall Street shake-down. The big fellows, as usual, knew the game better, and had the chips to play with, and were ready right after the market collapse to make another quick play in their favorite stocks. The little fellows mostly couldn't do much to recoup.

There are an awful lot of those little fellows. A Wall Street reporter writes: "Wall Street is no longer that district from Maiden Lane to Beaver Street in New York City. It now stretches from the Atlantic to the Pacific, for people in all walks of life are 'in the market'. So when the market is hurt, everyone is hurt."

It hurts more than the individuals directly concerned. "The effect passes around the business cycle almost immediately." The money, of course, remains in the country, merely changing hands. But it is unfortunate for the country when the money of so many people, all over, goes into the hands of a few well-heeled manipulators in the big financial centers.

A WISE MOVE.

Repeal of the declarations of intentions act serves to clarify the election laws of the State and eliminate a long-standing hardship upon those who come to Maryland to make their homes. What, if any, reason formerly existed for compelling them to declare their intention to become citizens a year prior to attainment of the right to register and vote has passed. It is doubtful if the law ever had other effect than to harass newcomers and keep them away from the polls.

Baltimore county and Prince George's county are exempted from the modified act. The former expressed apprehension that the influx of people drawn here by various industrial developments might present a serious registration problem. Prince George's seems to be afraid of the Washington overflow. We may readily believe that the fears of both are exaggerated, as they are not confronted by conditions which do not prevail in counties in other States that adjoin large cities and that are met by the ordinary safeguards contained in election laws.

But the price is a small one to pay for correction of an anachronism in our own laws. In course of time Baltimore and Prince George's may recognize the unwisdom of excepting themselves from the general rule, which is a good one. The Legislature is to be congratulated on taking a wise step.—Baltimore Sun.

The Sun has experienced a change of considerable moment in recent years with respect to this reform in the election laws.

When Senator Speicher of Garrett county, introduced a measure in the Legislature when he was a member of the Senate some years ago exempting Garrett county from the provisions of the declaration of intentions act, the Sun condemned the measure and as a result it failed of passage notwithstanding the fact that it was purely local in its provisions. But it may be that the present change was fostered by some member of the Legislature who carried the seal of The Sun or was the personal representative of Czar Brooke Lee or of Governor Ritchie.

THE PRESIDENT AND PRESS

President Hoover indicates his purpose to reform that little understood but most important institution, the White House press conference.

The problem of Presidential press relations is far greater than the technical interests of newspapers or the publicity interest of the White House. It goes to the heart of informed public opinion, upon which all other democratic institutions depend.

The problem is not an easy one. Probably no perfect solution will be found. But it is high time that reforms be attempted.

The Coolidge system protected the President, at the expense of both the press and the public. It tended to encourage the President to use the entire press of the country as his personal propaganda media without taking responsibility for that propaganda. And the system was so rigid that the press was virtually forced to forego its customary protection of the public and to print at times inspired and questionable propaganda on its own responsibility instead of revealing the real source.

Coolidge talked to the correspondents at length in regular semi-weekly conferences, but only at rare intervals were they permitted to quote the President, even indirectly. Finally, Coolidge even prohibited the use of such terms as "the White House spokesman," which the correspondents were using in fairness to themselves and to the public to indicate their authority for the story.

That Hoover understands clearly the nature of the difficulty and his responsibility to the public for perfecting a more honest system is indicated by his statement at his first White House press conference. That statement, by the way, was carried by the press under Hoover quotation marks with his permission, while Coolidge never permitted quotation of what he said on this subject.

"I am anxious," Hoover said, "to clear up the twilight zone as far as we can between authorative and quotable material on one hand, and such material as I am able to give from time to time for purely background purposes on the other."

He proposes to work out an improved system in direct consultation with officers of the White House correspondents and of the Washington news bureaus. Certainly that is the fair and effective way to go about it.

House Bill No. 223 Not Killed But Held Up In Committee

To the Editor of The Republican:

In your issue of April 4, under the sub-heading, House Bills Defeated, you list House Bill No. 223, known as the Kitzmiller Bridge Bill, as defeated in the House.

This bill was held in the Ways and Means committee of the House only after Mr. Clinton Uhl, chairman of the State Roads commission, and Mr. William C. Walsh, speaking for Governor Ritchie, had assured the Garrett delegation that the Kitzmiller Bridge was included in the bridge program of the State and would be built of the Bridge loan of 1929.

I therefore feel that with the above assurance the people of Kitzmiller and vicinity can very reasonably expect their new bridge in the near future. As I had introduced and passed a resolution in 1927 covering this proposition and had introduced House Bill No. 223 at the session just closed, I feel that the people of Kitzmiller should know the facts as herein outlined.

Very truly yours,
ARTHUR H. GREEN.

NEW ELECTRIC RATES ARE APPROVED BY STATE P. S. C.

Became Effective Tuesday, April 9, Applicable At Once.

Word has just been received here by A. T. Shaw, manager of the West Maryland Power Company, which is a part of the Monongahela West Penn System, that the Public Service Commission of Maryland has accepted the new optional domestic and commercial electric rates recently filed by that company and that they became effective April 9.

Announcement in The Republican a couple of weeks ago that the company had placed these rates in effect in the territory it serves in West Virginia and expected shortly to take the same step in Maryland. Applications are now being received from local consumers who desire to take advantage of the new rates, it being necessary for the consumer to signify his intention before he will be placed on the new rates.

These new domestic and commercial rates, Mr. Shaw stated, mean substantial savings to many classes of consumers. They were designed primarily to give home owners the opportunity to use more labor-saving and comfort-giving appliances as economically as possible, and many people are finding that they are able to make substantial savings under the new rates.

The new optional domestic rates are eight and one-half cents a kilowatt hour for the first twenty-five kilowatt hours used, five and a half cents a kilowatt hour for the next twenty-five kilowatt hours, and three and a half cents a kilowatt hour for all additional kilowatt hours. This is subject to a prompt payment discount of half a cent a kilowatt hour, making the new net rate eight, five and three cents in the three blocks.

The new optional commercial rates are eight and a half cents a kilowatt hour for the first seventy-five kilowatt hours, five and a half cents a kilowatt hour for the next seventy-five kilowatt hours and three and a half cents a kilowatt hour for all additional kilowatt hours. This likewise, is subejct to a promp payment discount of half a cent a kilowatt hour.

Sandwiches

Sandwiches are usually thought of as two thin slices of bread put together with a filling such as meat, cheese or eggs. However, there are a great many varieties of sandwiches and serve many purposes.

The kind of filling used determins the place of the sandwich in the meal.

Ribbon Sandwich

Cut white and graham bread in thin slices, butter them and alternate a slice of white with a slice of graham until there are three layers. Place the pile under a weight until the butter becomes hard and then cut down in thin slices.

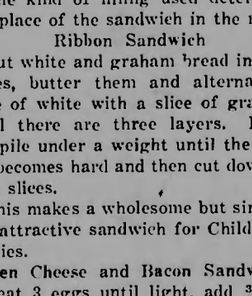
Open Cheese and Bacon Sandwich



Beat 3 eggs until light, add ¾ lb. soft cheese grated or put through a food chopper, 1½ teaspoons table sauce, ¾ teaspoon salt, ½ teaspoon paprika, few grains cayenne. Mix well and spread on 8 slices of bread cut one-third inches thick. Cut ¾ pound bacon in very thin slices the length of the slice of bread. Make bacon still thinner by pressing each strip on a board with a broad knife. Cover cheese with bacon and bake 8 or 10 minutes under gas flame, or in hot oven. Garnish with lettuce.

Sandwich Fillings

Boiled Ham—Put through food chopper, mix with sweet cream to form paste. Equal quantities of cream cheese, and chopped stuffed olives. Mix with salad dressing.

Ready For Any New Challenge Of Speed and Power Your Year May Bring.

The new Seiberling Special Service tire was built in the spirit of preparedness—to be ready for the challenge of any new heights of motor car power and speed that the year might bring.

AF-FIN-ITE—A remarkable new Seiberling compound has brought strength that will take care of a score of miles added to present "top speed." Actually, the tread is 50 per cent tougher. Also, the tread is 35 per cent deeper in anticipation of new "long-distance" travel.

There is more traction than is needed for safety at seventy.

This tire, today, has a definite place in the plan of the man who drives hard—who makes an investment out of buying; car or tires. This man will want to see this tire at our store—to learn more about it.

Mayor Fraley Presented With Basket of Flowers.

Mayor Lawrence M. Fraley of this city was greeted this morning with a tribute of flowers from Mayor Frank X. Schwab, New York, upon the occasion of the opening of the Tenth National Flower Show in that city. Florists of the nation took this opportunity to practice what they preach by "Saying It With Flowers" to mayors all over the country, and thru their international organizations, The Florists' Telegraph Delivery Association, flowers were wired from Buffalo to Mayor Fraley of this city.

This mark of good-will as displayed between two cities is a development of modern good fellowship, and the people of Oakland will be pleased to learn of their share in this expression of friendliness.

The card of greeting on the flowers read:

Greetings:

Upon this occasion, the opening of the 10th National Flower Show in our city, allow me to express the good-will of the people of Buffalo to the people of your city by "Saying it with Flowers" by telegraph. This flower token of civic friendliness was made possible through a world wide organization of 4,500 bonded members of the Florists' Telegraph Delivery Association.

Sincerely,
FRANK X. SCHWAB,

REDUCTION IS NOTED IN DEATH RATE IN STATE

Nearly 19,000 Lives Have Been Saved in Nine Years

A reduction in the general death rate in the State in the nine-year period ending December 31, 1928, has been noted in the monthly bulletin of the Maryland State Department of Health, edited by Dr. R. H. Riley, director.

In 1919, the report states, the general death rate in Maryland was 15.3 per thousand estimated population; in 1928 it was 13.4. If the rate prevailing in 1919 had continued throughout the nine-year period, the total number of deaths that time would have amounted to 211,247. The total number recorded was 191,951, which indicates a saving of approximately 19,000 lives during that time.

The death rate from typhoid fever in 1919 was 11.8 per hundred thousand estimated population; in 1928 it was 5.2—a reduction of over 50 percent. If the 1919 rate had prevailed to 1928 the typhoid deaths would have amounted to 1,628. The total number recovered was 969, a saving of approximately 650 lives in the nine-year period.

Health Record for February

The high death rate of 16.8 in February reflects the prevalence of influenza and pneumonia, which were responsible for over one-fifth of the 2,119 deaths reported during the month.

Four hundred and fifty-seven deaths were charged to influenza and pneumonia, corresponding to a death rate of 363.3 per 100,000 population, as compared with 235.3 in February, 1928. As invariably happens with the high influenza-pneumonia mortality rate, there was also an increase in many of the important causes of death; 15 percent of those dying were under five years of age. This emphasizes the importance of health work in the pre-school group.

In February, 1929, Garrett county reported two cases of measles, 15 of influenza, 2 of German measles, 3 cases of broncho pneumonia.

Thirty-seven births were reported in the county during February, with two stillbirths.

SALESMANSHIP—MERCANTILE AND OTHERWISE.

This is an age of salesmanship. In every luncheon club, in every article by the business expert, in the lectures by the "business pep" man, in the business schools, we hear and read much stressing of the salesmanship idea. Selling merchandise, selling personality, selling ideas, selling your town. Lindbergh, in his different flights to other lands has sold the United States. The Prince of Wales has made journeys to the farthest British possession selling Britain.

The first requisite of good salesmanship is confidence. Confidence in your merchandise, if you are in the mercantile business. If you are selling your personality, confidence in yourself. A preacher is a salesman—he sells religion. The strength of the church evidences the fact that the preachers believe in what they have to offer. If you are selling your town, to be successful, you must believe in it firmly.

No town or community can be built up by citizens who do not believe in its future. Neither can it progress if the citizen who is able so to do lacks sufficient confidence to invest in sound and substantial enterprises looking to the welfare of the town or community.

The great mass of people want to grow, want their community to grow, want to get ahead. What they lack is leadership. Babson, the expert on business conditions, tells us that only four per cent of the people are leaders. That makes it hard to launch new ideas—to get things out of the rut. Successful men are usually too busy looking after their own affairs or indulging in a period of play after years of strenuous effort, or, having made their pile, take no interest in the progress of their town. Consequently, it is up to the younger business men—those fellows who once a week take luncheon together. Many a good plan for civic advancement has been launched during this little period when the man who has worked hard all week has a chance to relax for a short time. These men are the backbone of the community.

In all progressive moves money, of course, is an absolute essential.

Many of the appointments of the President are made by and with the consent of the Senate. It is likewise true that most new things that are started must be by and with the consent of the fellow with the money. And he has to be shown.

This subject could be continued and enlarged almost indefinitely, but the boss scowls with the scowl of the oppressed and afflicted if an article dribbles along beyond a certain number of inches. So, to the point:

We have the talking points of salesmanship. We have everything essential for a good community to start on. Beautiful natural surroundings; superb summer climate; wonderful hard-surfaced roads in all directions; a railroads with the very finest through trains of the nation; an efficient fire department; a corps of physicians and other profession men that can't be beat; good stores, natural gas, picture shows; within a few minutes' ride of beutiful Deep Creek Lake—there is no finer body of water on any mountain top; fishing good and getting better; on the whole, a good lot of citizens; a few grouches, but like flies, they seem to be necessary.

Of course, a few of these things are in Oakland, but we are only three minutes away, and with the community of interest spirit developed, we will soon be joined.

Ninety-six per cent of us are only one-half of one per cent, and without the essential kick.

Let the four per cent fellows come to the front.

Public Health.

In public health the discoveries of science have opened a new era. Many sections of our country and many groups of our citizens suffer from diseases the eradication of which are mere matters of administration and moderate expenditure. Public health service should be as fully organized and as universally incorporated into our governmental system as is public education. The returns are a thousand-fold in economic benefits and infinitely more in reduction of suffering and promotion of human happiness.—From the inaugural address of President Hoover.

Public Health.

In public health the discoveries of science have opened a new era. Many sections of our country and many groups of our citizens suffer from diseases the eradication of which are mere matters of administration and moderate expenditure. Public health service should be as fully organized and as universally incorporated into our governmental system as is public education. The returns are a thousand-fold in economic benefits and infinitely more in reduction of suffering and promotion of human happiness.—From the inaugural address of President Hoover.

Lee LeCompte, State game warden, who cites the section of the Acts of 1927, which provides an open season for all species of trout from April 1 to June 30; open season for rainhow trout in the Big Youghiogheny River below Swallow Falls, July 1 to November 30. It is unlawful for nny person to take in any one day more than twenty trout or hass, the trout to be six inches or more in length. The special will be in Oakland next Wednesday, April 24, at 2 o'clock p. m., at the railroad station.

Five live stock exhibit cars, especially built, provide each animal with a stall and are equipped with feed bins, water barrels and a caretaker's cabinet for pitchforks, brooms, currycombs, live stock remedies, etc. For livestock demonstrations, a platform is made part of the train.

Fifty purebred Guernsey, Jersey and Holstein bulls, selected from the nation's best herds, will be sold at prices considerably below value, to any farmer desiring them.

Quivey, general agricultural agent for the Baltimore and Ohio. The train will make sixteen stops in Maryland and West Virginia, Hancock and Oakland being the only Maryland stations. ## MAY DAY TO BE KNOWN AS PLAY DAY IN COUNTY

Herbert Hoover Has Issued Proclamation Inviting Organizations to Help Childhood

May Day, which is to be observed in Garrett county schools on May 1, will be known also as play day this year, Miss Rhesa M. King, public health nurse, stated. May Day will be a play day because the keynote of the celebration will be "proper recreation is a fundamentel of a health program.

Herbert Hoover, president of the United States, believing that the nation's future rests with children of today, and that good health is fundamental to national welfare, and having been authorized by Congress, has issued a proclamation designating May 1 as Child Health Day, and he invites all organizations to assist in bringing a nationwide understanding of the significance of healthy childhood and the importance of conserving it.

The reason for a play day was explained by Miss King. "We live in a machine age, in other words in an age of diminishing necessary physical activities. Automobiles make walking less and less essential. Washing machines and vacuum cleaners reduce the amount of muscle effort required of the housewife.

"Everything from ditching machines to electric saws tend to eliminate muscular effort from construction projects while devices ranging from tractors to milking machines have shortened the day and made them dry the brow of him who tills the soil. And the end is not yet. Scientists picture a future when even the most lowly of laborers will in reality be a boss, directing machines to do his will.

No Substitute for Exercise

"But nobody has yet discovered a substitute for physical exercise from the health standpoint. Maybe the process of evolution will do that in time, but nothing in sight warrants such a belief. The human body simply does not function right unless it indulges in some physical exertion.

"Thus play seems to be the inevitable answer to the health problem. In teaching children to enjoy play one simply introduces a happy system of promoting exercise essential to health and a means of absorbing pleasantly the leisure of the increasing numbers who have it. Play has other values too, such as the promotion of team work, fairmindedness, sociability and the like.

"For these reasons May Day has come to be Child Health Day in the United States and the State department of public health believes that it is a great thing and therefore urges all to help make May 1 a wonderful Play Day."

The funeral of the late Cornelius N. Friend, of near Friendsville, took place on Saturday last with interment in the Blooming Rose M. E. churchyard. The funeral was largely attended by persons from nearly every portion of the county.

TO HOLD SHORT COURSE ON SOIL IMPROVEMENT

To Be Held at Accident High School April 22 and 23

A short course in soil improvement will be given at Accident Monday and Tuesday, April 22 and 23, in the High school building, according to John H. Carter, county agent. F. W. Oldenburg, agronomy specialist, University of Maryland extension service, and J. M. Snyder, soil specialist, will lecture to all those who attend.

Mr. Snyder will take up the kinds of soils, the way they should be treated, and what you may expect from them; Mr. Oldenburg will take up the study of crops, yield, rotation, etc. The first meeting will be held on Monday night and all who are interested in soil in any way are invited to enter the course. A tour over the farms of that section will be made on Tuesday afternoon, and the concluding meeting will be held Tuesday night.

Arrangements for this meeting grew out of an interview between Mr. Carter and Mr. Oldenburg lastThursday, who decided that the soil of Garrett county needed more soil improvement so as to produce a higher quality of roughage to cut down the grain bill. More yield per acre, instead of more acreage, was also discussed.

ALBERT WILEY COMMITS SUICIDE NEAR BITTINGER

Body Is Found Hanging from Beam in Barn by His Sister, Mrs. Hettie Doolittle

Albert Wiley, of near Bittinger, committed suicide by hanging, last Friday evening about six o'clock. He was discovered by his sister, Mrs. Hettie Doolittle, who found him hanging from a beam in the barn. No reason for the tragedy could be learned.

The deceased, a single man, aged about 58 years, lived with his sister, Mrs. Doolittle, near Bittinger. She had left home about ten o'clock Friday morning to assist a neighbor with some house cleaning tasks, and upon her return in the evening discovered her brother in the barn.

W. A. Gonder, Oakland, justice of the peace, and other county officials were called to the scene, but as no evidence of foul play was discovered it was decided that it was a simple case of suicide and no inquest was held.

Funeral services were held in the Lutheran church, Bittinger, Sunday afternoon, Rev. E. E. Campbell officiating. Interment followed immediately in the church cemetery.

The deceased is survived by one brother, Mr. Henry B. Wiley, Akron, Ohio, and two sisters, Mrs. Hettie Doolittle, with whom he lived, and Mrs. Sarah Resides, of Bellefonte, Pa., besides numerous other relatives.

Late Fall of Snow Blocks Highways for Several Hours

With the mercury standing at 36 or 37 degrees Tuesday morning at seven o'clock, snow began falling and continued throughout the day and well into the night, with the result that roads in some places became blocked until they were opened by road workmen with their motor plows. On Rodeheaver's hill, six miles north of Oakland, a number of cars were tied up for several hours, while on Keyser's Ridge the snow blocked both the Ridge road and the National Highway during the afternoon and night of Tuesday. Nearly all has melted and the roads are now open to traffic.

A man and his wife, driving an Ohio car, remained in a drift at the Ridge from 1 o'clock a. m. Wednesday until 4 o'clock that afternoon before being able to continue to Winchester, Va., where they were going to attend the Apple Blossom festival.

Rev. Shilke Narrowly Escapes Injury in Auto Mishap

Rev. C. A. Shilke, Lutheran pastor, Oakland, narrowly escaped serious injury last Thursday night when the Chevrolet coupe in which he was returning from Bittinger, ran off the road and turned over at a point near Dodge school house, north of Oakland.

Rev. Shilke's vision was impaired greatly on account of the heavy fog, and he was not aware that he was off the road until too late to stop the machine. He received several minor bruises but continued homeward on foot, and the car was brought to Oakland the next day where it is being repaired.

COMMISSIONERS REDUCE TAX RATE SEVEN CENTS

County Board Completes Levy Tuesday—Rate to be $1.83 Per Hundred Valuation

The levy of 1929 for Garrett county, upon which the Board of County Commissioners were engaged for several days, was completed on Tuesday, in accordance with the law and indicates a decrease of seven cents on each one hundred dollars of assessed property in the county, so far as the county rate is concerned, making the rate $1.83 as compared with $1.90 for last year.

The State tax rate this year, fixed by the Legislature, is 25 74-100 cents per $100, which is 10-100 more than last year.

According to the levy made Tuesday the total levy is $371,908.77. Out of this the public school system of the county will receive this year $156,031.47, or $26,787.63 more than the preceding year.

The amount set aside this year in the general road fund is $25,905, and this, added to the special road levy of $47,000, makes the total road levy $72,905, which is more than $4,000 above last year's figures, $17,000 more than 1927, and $32,000 more than in the year 1926.

The levy also sets aside funds for the following: Lateral State roads, $20,450; pauper levy, $10,000; almshouse, $6,500; new road expenses, repairs, etc., $15,000; bridge, $8,000; and contingent fund, $15,000.

COUNTY GRADED SCHOOLS LEAD STATE ATTENDANCE

Percentage for February was 90.9—High Schools Ninth

Garrett county graded schools led all other graded schools in the State in percentage of attendance for the month of February, a report from the State Board of Education, Baltimore, shows. The percentage was 90.9, which is just one-tenth of one percent above the record made for February of last year.

This is the second time this year that Garrett county has led all other counties in attendance in graded schools. In two other monthly records this year, the graded schools were placed second.

Garrett county High schools were ninth among the high schools of the state with a percentage of 90.5; while in percentage of all elementary schools Garrett county ranked sixth.

One-teacher schools in the county were put in seventh place, while two-teacher schools were given sixth position on the percentage scale.

OWNER OF ROCK LODGE PLANTING MANY TREES

Work of Setting 30,000 Red Pine Trees Now Under Way

The work of planting 30,000 red pine trees on the forest reserve of F. F. Nicola, owner of Rock Lodge, near Bittinger, is now under way, and will in all probability be completed within a short time, Carl E. Pfeiffer, assistant State Forester in charge of the work, announced Monday upon the occasion of his visit to The Republican office.

Ten thousand trees were planted during the latter part of last week under the supervision of Mr. Pfeiffer, who has sixteen men under him.

This work of reforestation has been going on every year since 1921 on the Rock Lodge reservation, and there are now many acres of red pine, Norway spruce, Scotch pine, white pine and locust showing healthy growth.

Last year a similar number of red pine trees were set out under the direction of Mr. Pfeiffer on this land.

The trees will eventually cover the mountain, which was swept by fire several years ago. The plan is to put into effect practical reformation as worked out by the State Department of Forestry.

The territory being reforested was once covered by the finest and largest growth of native white pine in Maryland, the tract being known as "The Rights of Man." The timber was cut many years ago and manufnctured into lumber by n saw milling concern operating a large plant near Friendsvile, the logs being transported to the mill by tramroads.

Starting In Young

"Given Surprise on Seventh Birthday,"—Family, Relatives and Friends Gather at home of Mr. J. W. Grimes, Aurora.—Headline appearing in the friendly rival of The Republican, just across the way.

Sprague Wins Blister Parade

Charles Sprague, Kitzmiller entry, won the Corn Race, sponsored by Scoop and Col. Bell, by being the first to crash through the tape in front of The Republican offices 11:43 last night. He semed only slightly exhausted as Col. Bell snapped him, and he gaily remarked that if he hadn't made ten stops to collect on some insurance premiums he would have been in several hours sooner.

Guy Yutzy, Oakland, was second; "Doc" Sollars, Deer Park, third; and Dan Dorsey, Grantsville, fourth. They were behind the winner from two to three hours.

Yutzy's alibi was that some moonshiners of the Sand Flat section kept him detained for three hours on Monday, just for spite, to get even with him for having them arrested when he was sheriff, while "Doc" had to attend to several cases. He carried his pill case with him.

Father Time got the best of a number of them, and they fell by the wayside, only nineteen of the seventy entries finishing. Bill Smith was going strong until he hit Hoyes, but he stopped to get some home cooking and was disqualified.

Interference boots caused George Warnick, Charles Ream, J. O. Thayer, and Noah Pysell to withdraw, because they were lost in the snow drifts at Keyser Ridge. Jake Echard and Lewis Klotz strained their honey and couldn't continue, while Dewey Harvey and John Browning while running neck-in-neck, got into an argument over gas burners, and returned to Oakland to ask Mr. Gilbert's advice.

Six entries were disqualified by the county health officer because they already had too many bunions and callouses. These were J. J. Bender, W. A. Gonder, Henry Speicher, Grover Poole, and Arthur Green. (They weren't all on the feet.)

Bill Kimmell was holding his own until he passed over Bear creek, but here he had to sit down and write a poem about the "tap, tap, tapping of restless running feet as they cross the rippling waters of the deep." He lost 12 hours on account of this and was the last to finish.

Soldier Halsey, at the last minute, was recalled to Deer Park. It was thought he was going to another Legion convention.

Large Crowd at Finish

An immense throng greeted the winner in front of The Republican offices last night and cheered him amid the snow and ice. As he rounded Second and Green streets the Shantytown cadets played "When the roll is called, I'll be there." He was taken immediately to the headquarters of the Amalgamated Society for the Suppression of Work, in Harned's Drug store, where Poky Shaw, president, offered a toast to victorious insurance agent, "He Gets in Somehow." Prizes were awarded at the testimonial dinner early this morning at Stagger Inn.

Apple Blossom Festival

That Garrett county should hold an apple blossom festival within the next week or so, was a suggestion contributed by J. Max Jarboe, champion figure writer for the Garrett National Bank.

Although the weather of the last few days has not been conducive to apple blossoms, it might be possible to run one, or maybe an "apple Jack" festival, and so in order to take the suggestion seriously Reeves Blandford was sent down to Winchester to see how one of those affairs were conducted.

He reported that the first thing was to have a lot of blossoms, the next thing, to elect princes from each part of the county, and to have a king nnmed for the entire county. The next was to have a parade and somebody to spout off at the ceremonies.

To Receive Nominations

So Scoop will receive at his office nominations from nnybody in the county as to who they think should represent their section in the event which might even surpnss the bunion parade. Also suggestions as to what each section will contribute toward the mammoth parade prior to the coronation of the King.

Send in your nominations to Scoop, care of The Republican, and also your suggestions as to what should be done at an apple-jack festival.

Archibaldson Says

Archibaldson, who has been rather quiet lately, says that this is getting to be a noisy old world. About the only place a man can find rest and quiet nowadays is in the store of the merchant who does not advertise.

And by the way, that poem at the tail-end last week was contributed and not of Scoop's own making. The make-up man left off the heading on the thought-inspiring message.

COUNTY AGENT'S COLUMN.

J. H. CARTER,
Resident County Agent,
Oakland, Md.

Tomato seed should be planted eight to ten weeks before time to transplant in the garden, and early cabbage six to eight weeks.

Don't neglect your seed corn, test it before planting.

Are you a successful farmer? The measuring stick is the net return you receive for your work.

Any one wishing to secure Inoculum for Alfalfa, Sweet Clover or Soybeans may do so by making application thru the County Agent.

The closer production is adjusted to demands, the easier will be the solution of marketing problem. If you don't grow what the public demands the other fellow will.

Manure evenly spread is worth several times more than that thrown on in chunks.

A good method to secure higher prices for farm commodities is to lower cost of production. Make your acres produce higher yields by preparing seed bed well before planting, using high-grade tested seed and cultivating in the right way.

A dry mash supplies protein for egg production and does not make hens too fat.

When feeding grain to poultry use yellow corn as it supplies vitamins not present in white corn.

It is very important that animal breeding stock be strong and healthy —so it is with poultry.

Docked and castrated lambs make greater gain for amount of feed consumed and are worth 2 to 3 cents per pound more than those not docked and sactrated. See County Agent for demonstration.

The entire community will derive a benefit from the Firemen's dance to be held on Wednesday. Attend it.

THE PREVENTION OF DEAFNESS AMONG CHILDREN

May 1st Will Be Observed as Child Health Day in Nation

In connection with the all-the-year-round activities for the advancement of the health and well-being of the children throughout the country, advocated by President Hoover in his proclamation setting aside the first day of May as Child Health Day, special thought is being given in many places to the needs of the child who has some physical or mental handicap—deafness, bad eyesight, or who is lame or otherwise crippled or who is mentally retarded. Organizations in Maryland that are interested in helping children who have any of these handicaps are represented on the Maryland Committee for Child Health Day, of which Dr. J. H. M. Knox, Jr., Chief of the Bureau of Child Hygiene of the State Department of Health, is chairman.

Some of the natiton-wide organizations will have special exercises in connection with Child Health Day. Among them is the American Federation of Organizations for the Hard of Hearing which is coupling up its annual observance of Hearing Week with Child Health Day and with the rest of the first week in May. The Maryland branch of the association, from its headquarters at 3 East Center street, Baltimore, is arranging a program including a radio talk on April 30 by Dr. M. L. Brietstein, from Station WBAL, which will call attention to the possibility of preventing much of the deafness that is due to neglect or lack of care.

"In order that the possibility of preventing a large part of the deafness that occurs among children and in later life, may be better appreciated, there is great need," Dr. Knox said, "for a better understanding on the part of fathers and mothers, of the close connection between such deafness and neglected conditions of the ears, the nose and the throat, following certain infectious diseases, such as scarlet fever, measles, persistent colds, the so-called catarrhal infections, or as a result of adenoids or diseased tonsils. A recent survey of children of school age showed that there are over three million school children in the United States who are suffering from the handicap of defective hearing, ranging from slight imperfections to complete deafness. Inquiry into the causes showed that much over half of this deafness could have been prevented.

"The health supervision of children of school age through the periodical medical examinations made after they enter school and of the younger children in connection with the regular child health conferences, or by their family physicians before they are enroled in school, is of the utmost help in locating children in the early stages of deafness. But after these examinations have been made and conditions requiring correction have been pointed out, the resposibility rests with the parents or guardians of the children. In many instances, prompt treatment will not only save much pain and discomfort, and be of benefit so far as the general health of the children is concerned, but it will protect them from the very serious handicap of either partial or complete deafness."

Double Funeral.

Perhaps the saddest occurrence in the history of this community was that of last Sunday when nearly a thousand people witnessed the funeral of Mrs. Henry Kamp, who died on Thursday, April 11, and Mrs. Harry VanSickle, her youngest daughter, who died the following day.

Mrs. Henry Kamp.

Mrs. Martha Kamp, wife of Judge Henry Kamp, died on April 11, aged 71 years, 2 months and 3 days. Her marriage to Judge Kamp occurred in 1881 and to this union were born eight children, five sons and three daughters. One daughter, Lillie, died the day after her mother. Another daughter and one son died some years ago. Five children survive: Clarence, of Minnesota; Jonas and Harry, Accident, and Mrs. Clara Conley, Kingwood, W. Va. In addition to her children she is survived by her husband, a sister and eleven grandchildren.

At the age of fourteen Mrs. Kamp was confirmed a member of St. Paul's Lutheran church and for fifty-seven years was a devoted and faithful adherent. She was active in the mission work of the church and for a long time was a member of the Ladies' Aid Society. Practically her entire life was spent in this community. She was a devoted mother, a faithful wife and a kind neighbor.

Her funeral occurred Sunday at which time also occurred the funeral of her daughter, Mrs. Harry VanSickle, from St. Paul's Lutheran church, Rev. G. W. W. Amick conducting the service, who used as his text John 14:2, which was a favorite scripture of the deceased and was used by request. The pallbearers were the four sons of Mrs. Kemp, Messrs. Clarence, Harry, Harrison and Jonas. The flower bearers were Misses Irene Margroff, Mabel Schlossnagel and Mary Miller.

Mrs. Harry VanSickle.

Lillie Kamp VanSickle, youngest daughter of Mr. and the late Mrs. Henry Kamp, was born November 13, 1895, and died April 12, 1929. Until her marriage on Christmas Eve, 1927, she resided here with her parents and leaves a host of friends in this community to mourn their loss. Her marriage to Harry VanSickle was solemnized at the Lutheran parsonage and for the past year she resided in Friendsville. She was confimed in St. Paul's Lutheran church eighteen years ago and was a member of the various societies of the congregation. Like her mother she was a faithful and devoted adherent to the faith.

Her funeral occurred at the same time as that of her mother. "Whispering Hope," one of her favorite hymns, was sung by request by the Misses Savage, of Friendsville.

The pallbearers were Messrs. Wm. Frazee, James Cover, Oscar Savage, and Dwight Speicher; the flower bearers were Misses Margaret Dunham, Evelyn Lawson, Kathryn Nicklow and Margaret Saylor, of Friendsville.

THE PRESIDENT'S MESSAGE

President Hoover's message to Congress Tuesday was marked by admirable restraint in statement and clarity in reasoning. The outstanding purpose of the extra session is to give the sort of agricultural relief for which the country voted last November. Mr. Hoover's speeches in the Presidential campaign had already outlined the farm policy submitted by the Republican party to the voters. It is for Congress to provide the enabling legislation.

Agriculture, as the President points out, is not one industry, but a score of industries, and the specialization which has come with the last few decades has materially affected direct consumption of products on the farm and thus complicated the problems of marketing. There can be no single sleight-of-hand remedy of a political nature like the equalization fee. The assistance given must be primarily economic, and also varied in character, including financial aid from the government, better tariff protection, improved transportation and broad cooperation with the farmers' associations in eliminating distribution wastes and restraining overproduction. To check overproduction nothing is more important than to discourage the cultivation of unprofitable marginal land, which is the most disturbing factor in the export surplus situation.

The President looks at the farm problem from the engineering point of view. He wisely cautions Congress that the "difficulties of agriculture cannot be cured in a day; they cannot all be cured by legislation; they cannot be cured by the Federal government alone." But a new start can be made and the problem can be approached with economic precision and intelligence. That is the main task of the extra session, says the New York Herald.

As to tariff revision, some other industries besides agriculture deserve inclusion—the ones which, as the Executive says, have suffered from the slackening of activity and decrease in employment. It is not a case, however, of creating a new basis of protective duties. Undervaluation is still troublesome. The foreign value is the normal base on which to levy protective duties. But its ascertainment is hindered in many ways, especially in the case of imports which offer sharp competition with American products.

The President favors only limited tariff revision at this time. He also recommends census and reapportionment legislation and suspension of the national origins clause of the immigration act of 1924. All these questions can be considered within the scope of a relatively short session. Expedition and early adjournment are purposes which the new Congress should also keep steadily in mind.

HELP FOR THE MISSIONS

Catholics who pay no attention to special appeals for missionary efforts under the impression that the ordinary revenues are sufficient for the purpose will do well to consider, among other things, the prediction that allocations to the missions this year from the receipts of the Society for the Propagation of the Faith will not exceed $2,500,000 where $50,000,000 is needed. Manifestly, even with the scantiest of provender for themselves, the missionaries cannot make one dollar do the work of twenty-five, and their reliance must be placed upon special contributions. It is not an ideal situation, as the magazine Catholic Missions points out in its current issue, but the missionaries should not be made to suffer for it, nor their work handicapped on that account. Indeed it holds forth this assurance: that because of the very scarcity of finances in the mission field, a benefactor may be justified in feeling that his money will do its full share of the work. Wherever the missionaries go, churches, schools and hospitals are erected with almost incredible economy. And the need for increasing support is as strikingly shown by the fact that hundreds of missions want the simplest of equipment for lack of a few hundred dollars.—The Commonweal.

GOVERNOR AFFIXES VETO ON 2 COUNTY MEASURES

Bills Relating to County Treasurer and Election Supervisors Are Killed By Executive

In an orgy of final disposition of bills passed by the 1929 session of the legislature, Governor Ritchie last Thursday affixed his signature of 578 and vetoed 56 measures which had received legislative approval. Among the number vetoed were House bills Nos. 333 and 44 relating to governing the auditing and collection of taxes in Garrett county, and providing for half pay to the election supervisors in this county in years when there was no election.

Sixteen of the measures vetoed were duplications of Senate or House bills, and nine were introduced to repeal obsolete laws.

House bill No. 44, providing that the supervisors of elections of Garrett county shall be paid a salary only in those years in which there is an election, was passed by both House and Senate with the amendment that every off year of election the salaries of the election supervisors would be one-half. By the Governor's veto this gives the election supervisors full pay as before.

The other House bill vetoed related to the collection of taxes, the sale of property for the non-payment of taxes, the auditing of the books of the County Treasurer and the bond of the County Treasurer. The bill originally related also to removing the prohibition against the Treasurer succeeding himself, but this was amended to read that the County treasurer could not succeed himself, and the veto by the Governor in no way affects the present law which reads that the Treasurer cannot succeed himself.

The vetoed bill called for the County treasurer to publish a notice the first week of July containing a list of names of property owners or taxpayers, with the amount of taxes due and unpaid on the first day of July in the year next succeeding that in which the same shall have been levied; the notice to contain a statement that if taxes were not paid promptly the property would be advertised for sale, and that the cost of publishing said notice would be paid for by the County Commissioners.

The bill also directed the County commissioners to notify the treasurer to proceed to collect according to law all taxes unpaid and in arrears on July first each year, and that if not collected or advertised for sale within ninety days from said first day of July, the County commissioners should proceed against the bond of the county treasurer.

Taking the fish from the Little Savage river in Garrett county, authority for Garrett county to levy $750 in taxes per year for sheriff's expenses, were two measures signed by the executive.

AUTOMATIC BLOCKS WILL SUPPLANT PRESENT SYSTEM

B. & O. to Install New Appliance from Cumberland to Grafton

Work on the installation of an automatic block system between Cumberland and Grafton, W. Va., has been started by workmen of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad under the direction of Division Engineer Arthur R. Carver.

It is estimated that at least seven months will be required to complete the work, which will cost approximately $900,000. More than one hundred of the automatic blocks will be installed on the 102-mile stretch of road between Cumberland and Grafton. Concrete bases for the new contrivance are now being built by railroad employes who are working from Cumberland westward.

When completed the automatic blocks will eliminate the manual block system and will speed up train movement to a greater extent, it is said. The automatic system will also safeguard trains and prevent accidents, which are possible under the manual block system.

Firemen Subdue Blaze Last Saturday Morning

Fire, supposed to have been caused by a falling spark from a Baltimore and Ohio locomotive, burned a portion of the roof of the dwelling at the corner of Liberty and Wilson streets, on the old electric light plant property, last Saturday morning about 11:15.

The Oakland Fire department answered the call and brought the blaze under control in about fifteen minutes. For a few minutes the flames, fanned by a strong wind, threatened to break out over the entire roof, but by aid of the hose line this danger was averted.

The house is occupied by a Mr. and Mrs. Sines, and is owned by D. E. Offutt. It is said that the building was insured for $1,000.

Are You Enjoying Life to the Fullest?

If you are living a life of drudgery at home you are not getting the pleasures there are in store for all of us.

You have no doubt noticed some women seem to have time for everything, and wondered how they did it. And these women, too, are usually among the busiest.

Sometimes you may think they are neglecting their homes, but generally you will find they are the women who plan their days, and make the best use of time and every other facility available.

Those who accomplish most do nothing by hand that electricity will do equally well, for it works much faster than human hands and leaves women free for the things they enjoy doing.

Women who seem to find time for everything use such electric appliances as: Dishwasher, vacuum cleaner, washing machine, sewing machine, floor polisher, range, ironer, waffle iron, fan, toaster, grill, refrigerator, ventilating fan and percolator.

You, Too, May Solve Your Home Problems The Electrical Way

New Domestic Rates Mean Cheaper Conveniences

Under the new domestic rates of this company, you may secure electricity for your home for eight and a half cents for the first twenty-five kilowatt hours, five and a half cents for the next twenty-five kilowatt hours, and three and a half cents for each additional kilowatt hour, this being subject to a prompt payment discount of half a cent a kilowatt hour.

This rate means you can now afford to own and operate those electrical appliances which mean so much in the home. For full information on the savings possible under the new rates, have them explained by the contract clerk or any representative of the appliance department.

Ready For Any New Challenge Of Speed and Power Your Year May Bring.

The new Seiberling Special Service tire was built in the spirit of preparedness—to be ready for the challenge of any new heights of motor car power and speed that the year might bring.

AF-FIN-ITE—A remarkable new Seiberling compound has brought strength that will take care of a score of miles added to present "top speed." Actually, the tread is 50 per cent tougher. Also, the tread is 35 per cent deeper in anticipation of new "long-distance" travel.

There is more traction than is needed for safety at seventy.

This tire, today, has a definite place in the plan of the man who drives hard—who makes an investment out of buying; car or tires. This man will want to see this tire at our store—to learn more about it.

TEN STATE ROADS NAMED AS NON-STOP HIGHWAYS

State Commission Selects "Boulevards" Where Entrants Must Halt

As the first step in compliance with the boulevard law passed by the last session of the Legislature, the State Roads Commission yesterday announced it had designated ten highways as "boulevards" and will soon mark them as such.

Many other State roads will be so designated after completion of a survey now being made by the commission.

Named As Boulevards

The new boulevards are:

The National pike, the York road, the Philadelphia road, the Belair road, the Annapolis Boulevard, the Crain Highway, the Washington Boulevard, the Defense Highway, the Liberty road and the Reistertown road.

Under the provisions of the boulevard law, after markers have been placed at the intersections of the boulevards and paved or improved roads, all vehicular traffic on the intersection thoroughfares must stop and yield right of way to all traffic before entering or crossing the "boulevard."

Rules On Right Of Way

The Attorney-General, in a ruling, said all motorists who now enter or cross an improved road from an unimproved one, or from private rights of way, without coming to a full stop, are violating the new law. It is not necessary for warning markers to be placed at such intersections before the law becomes effective, the Attorney-General ruled.

Charles D. Gaither, Police Commissioner, is making a study of city streets to determine which shall be classed as boulevards.

FOR SALE—Baby chicks, R. C. Rhode Island Reds; thorobred. Good winter layers. April hatched, $5.00 for 25; $9.50 for 50; $18 per 100. (Miss) Diana Weber, Oakland, Md.—Advertisement 9-tf.

Lesson for April 21

COMFORT FOR GOD'S PEOPLE

LESSON TEXT—Isaiah 40:1-11.
GOLDEN TEXT—As one whom his mother comforteth, so will I comfort you.
PRIMARY TOPIC—God's Love for Us.
JUNIOR TOPIC—God's Love for Us.
INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—The Secret of True Happiness.
YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—The Source of True Comfort.

1. It was nddressed to Isalah and his successors in office (v. 1).

He, as God's spokesman, was to make known the very heart of God to the people who were in great need of comfort. They were in a strange land, in captivity because of their sins. In spite of their apostasy from God—the breaking of their covenant with Him—His favor was about to return.

2. The mutual relation of God and His people (v. 1).

This is expressed in the phrases "my people" and "your God." The believer belongs to God, and God belongs to him. How blessed it is to be thus related to Him. Observe, this was said concerning a people who had sinned and backslidden.

3. Pardon received (v. 2).

In spite of their gross iniquity, their pardon was declared. The receiving of double at the Lord's hands does not mean that there had been undue infliction of punishment, but that the divine pardon exceeded the guilt. The period of the captivity was at an end. Their blessing was not through their own merit, but was to be realized through the sin offering of Jehovah.

II. The Preparation Required (vv. 3-5).

In order to secure the salvation which was to be theirs through the vicarious offering of Jehovah, it was necessary that certain preparation should be made. Observe:

1. The voice in the wilderness (v. 3).

This voice was that of John the Baptist, and actually was heard at the time of the coming of Jesus Christ (Matt. 3:1-3).

2. Prepare ye the way of the Lord. (v. 3). It was the custom on state occasions for some one to go in advance of the king or ruler and make preparation for his coming. This preparation consisted of the actual depression of hills, the elevation of valleys and the straightening of crooked places, so that the monarch could move forward with ease and facility. In its moral bearing, the meaning is that preparation for the coming of the Lord into the hearts and lives of the people consists of the subjugation of pride and selfish ambition, and the straightening of the crooked and perverse things of this life.

3. The glory of the Lord revealed (v. 5).

When there is proper preparation of heart, the Lord will enter, and His glory will be revealed in the life. It primarily refers to the manifestation of the divine glory in the person of the Messiah.

III. The Frailty of Man In Contrast With God's Word (vv. 6-8).

"All flesh is grass and all the goodliness thereof is as the flower of the field. The grass withereth, the flower fadeth, because the Spirit of the Lord bloweth upon it. Surely the people is grass. The grass withereth, the flower fadeth, but the word of our God shall stand forever." Just as the blast of the hot wind scorches the grass and destroys the crops, so everything loved and prized by the natural man will wither and die under the blast of God's judgment, but His Word shall stand forever. The Word of God abides from age to age with perennial freshness. God's promise of ultimate triumph should steady us because no matter through what stress and strain we may be called to pass, when the Lord comes there will be victory.

IV. The Lord God Coming to Zion (vv. 9-11).

1. Behold Your God. (v. 9).

When He comes to Zion there will be no need of fear. This blessed truth can be proclaimed aloud to the cities of Judah.

2. The Lord God will come with a strong hand. (v. 10).

The hope of the world is in the coming of Jesus Christ in power and great glory to establish His blessed rule over the earth. Righteousness and peace can come only with the Messianic rule.

3. He shall feed His flock like a shepherd (v. 11).

The Good Shepherd will search out and provide for His own.

Always Content

We shall be made truly wise if we be made content; content, too, not only with what we understand, but content with what we do not understand—the habit of mind which theologians call, and rightly, faith in God.—Charles Kingsley.

That We May Read Aright

God sometimes washes the eyes of His children with tears in order that they may read aright His providences and His commandments.—T. L. Cuyler.

Notice to Individuals and Others Requiring Trader's License

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN, To all persons engaged in business where a trader's license is required that under the provisions of Senate Bill No. 63, which has recently been passed by the General Assembly of 1929, there is imposed on persons who fail to take out licenses in the month of May a penalty of ten per cent per month on the cost of the license. In other words, licensees may take out licenses at any time during the month of May without having to pay a penalty, but on and after June 1st anyone applying for a license, who was in business in the month of May preceding, is required to pay, in addition to the cost of the license, a penalty of ten per cent per month or fraction of a month. In the case of persons starting in business during the license year they are only required to take out a license for the remaining part of the year, but they must take out their license in the month in which they begin business.

There has also been passed at the recent session of the General Assembly a bill requiring a separate license for each place of business owned and operated as such by individuals or corporations.

The Acts above referred to makes it mandatory upon the undersigned to collect the penalties prescribed by said Acts in the case where licensees are delinquent in applying for their licenses and leaves no discretion on my part as I will be held accountable for the penalty by the State when my books are examined, hence all persons required to take out a license are urged to make early application and thus avoid the undue expense of ten per cent per month penalty imposed by the law above referred to.

Fly Time Again.

A single fly swatted in April prevents thousands and perhaps millions in July. This filthy spreader of disease and dirt is still considered innocent and harmless by many and for that reason is still tolerated in many homes, restaurants, stores and bakeries.

Man's war against disease and of death cannot reach its full measure of success until everyone begins to realize that the dirty fly is the most dangerous "animal" that exists. It is credited with causing more deaths of human beings than all the beasts of prey and poisonous reptiles put together. Flies are known to carry and spread more than 20 diseases, among which typhoid fever, dysentery, infantile diarrhoea and tuberculosis are the worst. They breed rapidly. A single pair of flies beginning May 1 are said to be capable of producing nearly 6,000,000,000 flies by the last of July.

MT. LAKE PARK.

"A-FISHIN'"

Along with many others, we have that "spring foolishness". We caught it through a conversation had with Harry Sincell in front of his store on the "mourners' bench". He told us about a fishing trip he had taken a day or two previous, how many trout he had caught and the size. We won't say just what he told us about the latter, for everyone knows when a fisherman tells his story three or four different times and to different people —well., we don't want the veracity of the statements in this column questioned.

Suffice it to say, we immediately came home and got the trusty can of three in one and oiled the rusty reel and brightened up the rod and tested the line. We then went to the postoffice and there met Bill Edgar who capped the climax by remarking that he thought "they" would strike this afternon. Right off the bat we visualized a certain spot (we are not saying just where) where the swift water dashes pell mell over a rocky bed, dividing around a moss covered stump and gently swirls in an eddy towards the bank among the roots of nn overhanging tree. In our mind's eye we could see a pair of 'em, at least 12 inches, with heads pointed up stream, waiting to dart with lightning-like speed at the small worm, hooked just right once through the middle, wriggling its way down the swift current from a spot probably twenty feet above where we had gently dropped it in the water. Suddenly the water churned, then parted and quick as a flash the speckled beauty struck and with a quick twist of the wrist, with just force enough, we snagged him and then gave him the line. The reel sang and the fun began.

Well, we went to bed thinking about it and when we awoke in the morning it was snowing like the dickens. We could only console ourselves with the thought that we are not a very good trout fisherman at the best, and we might have lost him anyhow.

That brings us to the suggestion that the lake here at the Park, with a little preliminary work, would make an ideal fishing hole. We are not so sure trout would thrive in it, but we are advised that pike and pikerel would make normal growth.

But we do know that the Little Yough is the natural habitat of trout and if properly stocked and protected it would soon attract a goodly number of sportsmen from adjoining states, thus starting the season a month or six weeks earlier.

Sportsmen are drawn to good fishing grounds as flies to molasses, and as trout is the first to be fished for in this section, the trout fishermen get the "spring foolishness" all over quick.

With proper fish planting and protection, memories would be revived of the time when the late President Grover Cleveland and many other noted sportsmen had Garrett county on their fishing list.

With Gene Comerford, Fred. Fleming, Wiley Welling, Ben Harvey, Brice Gibson, Bill Edgar, Marvin Harmison, E. E. Kesner, McC. Clayton, Rev. Middaugh and many other residents and summer visitors, we have the nucleus of a dandy Wild Life League which could take charge of the whole thing.

If we can have good sidewalks we can have good fishing.

Scouts Pass Additional Tests— Will Not Plant Trees.

A march around a city block in troop formation, playing of gnmes and the passing of numerous tests occupied the attention of members of Oakland Troop, No. 1, Boy Scouts of America, at the regular meeting of the organizaion held on last Friday night.

The members of the troop passing tests included William Tillett, James Treacy and Roger Maroney, 14-mile hike; William Kahl, knots; Lewis Jones and Walter Dawson, first aid, and George Kerins, safety.

William Kahl, by passing his knot test, was qualified to become a Tenderfoot Scout. Richard Gonder joined the troop at the last meeting and has passed all the requirements for a Tenderfoot. When all become registered the troop will number 43 members.

Will Not Plant Trees.

The tree planting project will not be undertaken this year, according to the Scoutmaster. It was found that the width of the highway right-of-way was not sufficient for tree planting purposes, and the State will not furnish trees except those which are to be planted on the right-of-way. The Crellin-Oakland highway will be measured, and if found suitable, application will be made next year for this section, the Scoutmaster stated.

VOLUME 53. OAKLAND, MARYLAND, APRIL 25, 1929. NUMBER 10

GRANTSVILLE HI SCHOOL OPENS; PRINCIPAL MOVED

Friction Over Time Allotment for Studies Ends When J. E. Ford Quits as Head.

Grantsville high school re-opened its doors last Friday after a two-day suspension of studies due, it is said, to a row between the students and members of the faculty on one hand and the principal, J. Edwin Ford, on the other.

The row was said to have originated over the division of the students' time during periods for recitation. Mr. Bridgewater, history instructor, stated, it is alleged, that the required time was not given for a test in history and other matters, which caused confusion with the teachers and pupils during the year.

As a result of the disagreement, Mr. Ford has been relieved as principal of the school and has been sent to another school in the county, following a meeting of the patrons of the school held on Wednesday afternoon, when a petition to the Board of Education was circulated asking that the board remove Mr. Ford as the head of the school.

Orders Fires Be Not Built.

According to the teachers and students, Mr. Ford, angered at their opposition to a change in the curriculum, dismissed both the grade and high school students last Tuesday at the noon hour and ordered the janitor not to light the fires and to keep the doors closed against everyone, including the eleven members of the faculty and the 300 students. He also, it is said, ordered that bus service to and from the school be discontinued Wednesday morning.

Being advised of the conditions existing at Grantsville received by telephone at the office of the Board of Education in Oakland, County Superintendent F. E. Rathbun went to Grantsville Wednesday and after an investigation Mr. Ford was given instructions to open the school Thursday at the regular time, while Mr. Bridgewater and Mr. Leatherman, both of whom are instructors in the school, were requested by the superintendent to remain away from the building for a few days.

Mr. Ford, according to his instructions, opened the school Thursday morning with two pupils in attendance. With this condition existing, Miss Eva Falkenstein, home economics teacher in the school, was named acting principal and the school, with all members of the faculty with the exception of Mr. Ford present, reopened Friday morning with four pupils absent, all being from legitimate causes, according to school authorities.

As soon as practicable Miss Falkenstein will be relieved of her present position by the appointment of a regular principal.

Indignation Meeting in Progress

When Superintendent Rathbun arrived at Grantsville Wednesday afternoon he found more than forty of the residents of Grantsville assembled in the school building, the meeting being presided over by Dr. N. R. Davis, one of the trustees of the school at which the action of Mr. Ford was denounced and the re-opening of the school at once urged as a matter of public policy.

The spring schedule of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad, which goes into effect at 12:01 a. m. Sunday, has made five changes in the running of the passenger trains through Oakland.

One change in train numbers has made train No. 4 an all-Pullman train which does not stop in Oakland or in Cumberland, and has substituted another train due in Oakland at approximately the same time that No. 4 now arrives, according to information given out by Howard P. Stuck, station agent in Oakland.

Train No. 55, westbound, running at 9:21 a. m., will run at 9:09. Train numbers 1 and 21 have been switched, No. 21 now running at 10:14 p. m., will be known as No. 11, and will run at 10:07; No. 11, now running at 3:29 p. m., will be known as No. 21, and will keep the same schedule.

No. 56, eastward, now running at 3:35, will be changed to 3:10 p. m.; No. 4 will pass through Oakland at 4:32 a. m., and will not stop here. In its place train No. 40 will be run from Parkersburg, W. Last year the school was a wonderful success, and this year it is the thought of those undertaking it to excel the interest and attendance then evidenced.

Anyone desiring information of the summer school is requested to write Miss Emma Hamill, secretary, Mountain Lake Park, Md.

FUNDS FOR FIRE COMPANY WILL REACH $225, SAID

Money Received Through Donations, Food Sale and Dance

Funds, amounting to approximately $225 will have been realized by the Oakland Volunteer Fire Department when the proceeds of the food sale, benefit dance, and donations have all been counted and turned over to the treasurer, it was learned this morning.

Donations include a check for $25 from Mr. W. Harrison, a check for $25 from the Oakland orchestra, and money and food from 110 or more Oakland ladies. A. D. Naylor donated the use of the hall for the dance, H. Weber and Sons company donated flowers, and Carroll Elliott furnished the piano, and the department wishes to extend its thanks for these gifts and also wishes to thank those who patronized the food sale and dance.

These funds will go toward the purchase price of the American LaFrance fire engine which will arrive in Oakland in the very near future. This truck was recently purchased at a cost of $12,500, and will give Oakland as good fire protection as towns of much greater size.

WORK HAS BEEN STARTED ON ADDITION TO HOTEL

William-James To Add Twenty-two Bedrooms With Baths

Work has been started preparatory to the erection of an addition to the William-James hotel, plans for which were drawn and specifications adopted late in January, according to J. A. Towler, proprietor.

Plans and specifications for this were furnished by George F. Sansbury, architect, and call for an addition of twenty-two bedrooms with bath or shower to each room.

The plans also call for a new office, lobby, banquet hall, dance hall and the general overhauling of the present building. The porch will be extended to include a sun parlor.

The fixtures and furniture to be installed will be of the highest class and modern in every respect, Mr. Towler stated, and the work will be completed sometime during the summer.

CLAUDE FULK IS FATALLY INJURED IN MINE MISHAP

Died from Shock on Way to Hospital at Cumberland—Funeral Conducted Sunday Afternoon

Claude Harold Fulk, aged nearly 20 years, of Crellin, son of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Fulk, was fatally injured in the mine of the Stanley Coal Company on Friday last when he had his right leg crushed when caught between a mine car and a rib of the mine heading. He died in Bolden's ambulance at a point near McHenry while being taken to a Cumberland hospital, death being attributed to shock and loss of blood.

The young man was employed as a conductor in the mine and had just turned a switch when one of the cars of the train left the rails and crushed him against one of the mine ribs.

Following a brief service conducted by Rev. C. A. Shilke at the family home the remains of the youth were taken to Red House where a formal funeral service was held in the church there and interment was made in the churchyard.

Besides his parents the deceased is survived by four brothers, Fred, Morgan, Albert and Floyd, and by one sister, Leena.

SCHOOLS ARE ARRANGING HEALTH DAY ACTIVITIES

Programs to Follow Plans That Will Train Participants in Sportsmanship

Special programs in several of the schools are being planned for May Day or Child Health Day, to be observed in Garrett county on May 1, according to Miss Rhesa M. King, public health nurse, the most elaborate of these being at Grantsville and Kitzmiller. Mrs. Samuel Cole, health nurse of the Kitzmiller district, has arranged a program to be followed in the schools of her section, and instructors in the Grantsville school are arranging for their special entertainment on that day.

The county as a whole will not observe May Day, Miss King said, as it is impossible to agree upon a definite time and meeting place for everyone in the county.

The programs in the schools will follow plans that will train participants in a spirit of sportsmanship, and the students will give health plays and other active entertainment. The programs will close with a May pole dance, given by the children, with invited parents and patrons of the festival present.

"This play day plan of athletic competition is new, thrilling, and practical," Miss King said. "It makes it possible for every member of the school and community to participate, takes them into sunshine and fresh air; offers them activities suited to their individual needs; gives them self-expression through music and folk dances as well as through athletics, and provides exercise through play."

A number of pre-school clinics are being planned by Miss King for the latter part of May, the schedule of which will be announced later.

TRANSPORTATION MODES PLEASE STATE EDUCATORS

Spent Two Days in County Investigating Local Methods

Expressing themselves as being highly gratified at the system of transportation of school children in Garrett county, Albert S. Cook, state superintendent of schools; W. K. Klingaman, high school supervisor; Clarence G. Cooper, county superintendent Baltimore county; and James M. Bennett, county superintendent Wicomico county, returned to their homes on Wednesday after a visit and inspection in Garrett county.

The four men were in conference with F. E. Rathbun, county superintendent of schools on Monday and Tuesday, and investigated the methods used in this county in transporting school children to larger communities, for the purpose of improving the school system here.

Records in the office of the superintendent show that the school board is successfully transporting 195 elementary school children, and 178 high school students.

102 VISIT DAIRY TRAIN; ONE HOLSTEIN BULL SOLD

Number Attending Was Below Average at Other Stops

More than a hundred dairymen, farmers, and other interested persons were present at the Better Dairy Sire special train yesterday afternoon in the yards of the Baltimore and Ohio railroad, and heard the lectures, and inspected the large number of Guernsey, Jersey and Holstein cattle in the various cars. One hundred two were registered while several visited who did not take this opportunity. This was below the average.

John H. Carter, county agent, had charge of the program, and he introduced J. A. Conover, dairy specialist, W. E. Wintermeyer, U. S. department of Agriculture; H. T. Pancoast, dairy farmer, and O. K. Quivey, of the railroad company.

Jacob Beachy, Aurora, W. Va., bought a seven months old Guernsey bull, bred by Burnside Farm, Eeleston, Md., and was said to have been one of the best bred on the train.

Nine dairy articles were given away to farmers. The train consisted of ten coaches; a lecture car, exhibition car, five live stock exhibit cars, and pullmans and diner for those traveling with the train.

The special exhibited in Petersburg, W. Va., this morning, and will exhibit in Moorefield this afternoon.

M. E. SUNDAY SCHOOL TO CELEBRATE CENTURY YEAR

Special Features Will Mark Observance at Local Church on Sunday, May 5th.

The first Sunday school to be organized in this section of Garrett was formed in the spring of 1829 in a log hous a few miles distant from where Oakland now is. Out of this school grew the present Sunday school of St. Paul's Methodist Episcopal church of Oakland, and on Sunday, May 5th, the one hundredth anniversary of the founding of the school will be celebrated.

Special features in keeping with the day will mark the regular Sunday school session and the morning service at the Methodist church, but the anniversary service proper will be held in the evening. At this evening session a special program commemorating the one hundred years of existence of the school will be rendered and a number of interesting features will mark the same.

A cordial invitation is extended by the church and Sunday school to everyone to attend and participate in the celebration of this anniversary, but those in charge are particularly anxious to have present as many as possible of the former members of the school.

In connection with this celebration the officers of the school are desirous of locating some of the old records which have seemingly become lost, and if anyone knows where these are and will communicate the information to the Superintendent, Mr. E. R. Jones, it will be greatly appreciated.

To Hold Young People's Conference on May 15

A Young People's conference, under the direction of the Garrett County Council of Religious Education, will be held on Wednesday, May 15. The place has not been definitely fixed, but it probably will be held in Oakland, those in charge stated.

This will be an all day conference with three sessions, lecture, study periods, and a social hour with moving pictures and an address in the evening. Each Sunday school in Garrett county is asked to elect and send five delegates, two boys, two girls and one adult.

Col. and Mrs. Joseph Cudlipp, Baltimore, will have charge and will have new and interesting things for the young people.

Outlook Bright for Good H. S. Baseball Team

The prospects for a successful baseball season look very bright after having had a practice session Monday and again on Tuesday of this week, Foster O. Spicher, coach, has announced. Colaw, Forman, Spoerlein and Butler remain from last year's squad, and several members of the freshman class look good. The schedule for the high school teams will be announced some time during the present week so that the county championship may be decided by May 15.

EVERYTHING IS READY FOR BOYS' WEEK CELEBRATION

Program For Youths To Be Carried Out Under Auspices of Oakland Rotary Club

The Oakland Rotary Club, through its Boys' Work Committee, has about completed its plans for Boys' Week, to be observed April 28 to May 4, and is asking the co-operation of the community people to make it a success.

The following program has been worked out:

Sunday morning, April 28, every boy in Garrett county to be in some Sunday school, then to remain with his parents at a church service, when the pastors of the churches will deliver a special sermon to them.

Sunday afternoon at 2:00 o'clock a mammoth boys' parade in Oakland is planned. The assembly will be in the grammar school lot. Three bands will be in line, including the Terra Alta High School band, which won first prize at the Apple Blossom festival, Winchester, Va., last week; the Crellin and the Gilbert-Brown Boys' bands. The Terra Alta band will lead the parade. The Terra Alta Rotary Club will be guests of the local club and will march in the parade also.

Va., and Roy Yoke, former Rotary governor of the Morgantown District, and Alumni secretary of the University of West Virginia, will address the boys in the Maryland theatre following the parade. This will be a treat to every boy. There will be other features. Mr. Roland R. Gilbert and Charles Ream will have charge of the two local bands, Wade Hinebaugh and Wm. Gibson the music in the theatre, and Harry Sincell, Paul Naylor and Lawrence Dixon will line up the parade and have complete charge of its movements.

Selby will have charge of the boys during this period. A volunteer fire company will be organized when an address will be made on the method of keeping fire equipment in order and on fire protection in general. Emroy Bolden, W. O. Davis and Harry Miller will be in charge of this feature.

Friday afternoon, 2:15, the boys of Oakland and the surrounding communities will be guests of the Rotary club at a movie in the Maryland theatre. Bernard Gonder, Howard Reinhardt, Wade Hinebaugh and Wm. Gibson to be in charge.

Friday evening, a nation-wide radio hook-up, with special addresses to boys.

Saturday is boys' day out of doors, suggesting that boys spend the day in hikes or games.

A prize will be awarded the community outside of Oakland which has the largest representation in the parade.

Three New Members Received Into Scout Organization

Gerald Iman, George Stuck and Richard Gonder were new members added to Oakland Troop, No. 1, Boy Scouts of America, at the last meeting held on Friday evening. All tests necessary for becoming a Tenderfoot scout were passed by these three boys. After this week no boy will be permitted to join the troop until after the camp period, which will be near the middle of August.

Fred. Peddicord passed first and second class thrift, and Lewis Ray Jones passed his last requirements for a second class scout and was enrolled as such.

The entire troop is planning on marching as a body in the Boys' Week parade Sunday afternoon.

Wire Typewriters Used in 48 States

Also Reach Canada and Cuba —Service Uses 245,000 Miles of Telephone Wire

The telephone typewriter, a modern mechanical device, enables one to write letters and other communications which appear simultaneously in one or more distant cities. This service, the use of which is being extended rapidly, now includes 1,650 installations reaching every state in the Union with connections to Canada and Cuba. More than 245,000 miles of telephone wire are used in the operation of this system.

Practically every business is represented among telephone typewriter subscribers, according to officials of the Chesapeake and Potomac Telephone Company. Prominent among the users of this service are newspaper press associations, financial and brokerage firms, and large manufacturers with plants located at widely separated points. The telephone typewriter service is such that communications transmitted from one office may be duplicated in one or more offices in other cities. These machines with efficient operation transmit about forty words a minute, but in the course of an eight-hour day many of the subscribers to the service handle from 10,000 to 15,000 words over a single installation, although the full capacity of the service is much larger.

Travel Affected By Telephone Use

Railroad Report Shows That Efficient Communication Methods Reduce Necessity For Travel

Since the beginning of the world, transportation and communication have been two important factors in the march of progress. The first indication that efficient communication methods had in any way affected the operation of transportation utilities came with the recent announcement of the Pennsylvania Railroad that during 1928 its passenger traffic had fallen off to a marked degree. Among other factors given as a reason for this decrease in travel were "the greater ease of communication by telephone; the more general use of the telegraph; and faster mail schedules, including air mail. All of these in greater or less degree have had a tendency to reduce the necessity for rail travel," the report shows.

Service Record Cause For Boasts

Telephone Employees Proud of Long Years With Organization

Employees generally are proud of long service records—in fact, in many organizations they boast of it.

In Maryland, Virginia, West Virginia and the District of Columbia, territory served by the Chesapeake and Potomac Telephone Company and associated companies, there are many telephone employees with long records of service. A recent report compiled by company officials shows that 2,370 employees have five years or more of service; 1,133, ten years; 582, fifteen years; 371, twenty years; 262, twenty-five years; and 34 have been thirty-five years or longer with the system.

18 MARRIAGE LICENSES ARE ISSUED DURING WEEK

Total for Month of April Now Reaches Sixty-one.

Eighteen marriage licenses were issued for the week ending Monday at noon at the office of the Clerk of the Circuit Court in Oakland, thus making the total for the month of April 61. This figure is seventeen less than for the same month last year and is fifty less than the number for April, 1927, when a record was established.

Five of the number issued were applied for on Saturday and five on Tuesday of last week, showing that Saturday, for that week at least, had lost its popularity so far as the number of permits goes. Three licenses granted were marked "don't publish," while one applicant was refused a license.

THE HOMEMAKERS CORNER

BY MISS ELSIE BENTHIEN

Propagating the Dahlia

Increasing stock of dahlia varieties may be accomplished in various ways. The commonest method is simply to divide the clumps in early spring. It should be remembered that the eyes are clustered around the crown at the base of last year's stem and not on the tuber as with potatoes. It is essential to have a section of the crown containing an eye attached to a tuber, if a good plant is to result. If one is in doubt as to how to divide the clump, set in warm dark room for a few days until the buds start to develop. Be careful not to break the neck of the tuber as this interferes with the young plant's getting needed nourishment.

A sharp kitchen knife and a small pair of pruning shears are useful instruments for the operation of separating the clump.

Some varieties grow in such shape that separation takes place readily and almost every tuber will produce a good division. Other varieties are less easily handled and often only two or three good divisions are secured.

Dahlias grow readily from seed and the majority of plants will bloom the first year if started early. The quality of resulting seedlings will depend pretty largely upon the source of seed. The better the seed the more likely will good types of flowers result. However, they are all interesting and a group of seedlings in bloom may be depended upon to give a riot of color.

Flowering Azaleas

Nurseries in the east are propagating extensively a large list of beautiful flowering Azaleas hardy enough to thrive under conditions existing in the milder sections of Maryland. There are both evergreen and deciduous sorts and require soils free from lime. They combine especially well with rhododendrons and other broad leaved evergreens. The flowers range in color from white through varying shades of pink to brilliant orange, scarlet and rosy purple. The azaleas are mostly early flowering types, and for brilliance of effect and profusion of bloom there is no other group of shrubs to equal them. A moist, semi-shady location suits them best.

Grass Under the Trees

Situations under the shade of large trees are the most difficult to maintain a good grass turf. Red fescus and Fine-leaved fescuses seem best adapted of all the grasses to succeed in these difficult locations. Many gardeners do not succeed well in getting grass established when the seed is sown under the trees. The grass starts readily but soon kills out. One of the best ways to overcome this difficulty is to seed an area in the garden or in some sodding section under the trees. Grass particularly in these situations should be fertilized liberally and an occasional soaking in dry spells are beneficial. A combination of bone meal and pulverized sheep manure is excellent for use on the lawn. Chemical fertilizers may often be used to advantage but there is greater danger of injuring the grass unless applied just before a rain or soaked in thoroughly with the hose.

Should you care to receive the notes issued each month, please call the Home Demonstration Agent's Office and have your name placed on this mailing list.

DEATHS GREATER THAN BIRTHS DURING JANUARY

Other January Statistics in Maryland Health Department Bulletin

During January, 1929, there were 215 more deaths than births in the State of Maryland, a monthly bulletin, published by the Maryland Department of health, R. H. Riley, director, reports. The births totalled 2691 with Garrett reporting 20. The total death rate for the month (annual basis) was 21.1 per 1,000 population. During January, 1928, the death rate was 14.3. The increase was due to influenza and pneumonia, which caused 32 percent of all deaths. The State rate for January from these causes alone was 6.8 per 1,000 population.

The death rate in the counties from influenza and pneumonia was 6.6 per 1,000 population. The counties having the largest rate from these causes were as follows: Montgomery, 9.1; Worcester, 8.8; Allegany, 8.7; and Calvert, 8.5. The county having the lowest rate was Harford, with 3.4 per 1,000 population.

The plan of cooperative health work followed in the counties of Maryland has developed as a result of field experience and has been adapted to meet local conditions. The County or Deputy State Health Officer is given full responsibility for the work of his district. He represents the Director of the State Department of Health in the field and at any time can secure advice and assistance from the Department.

The program in each county includes the control of communicable diseases, sanitation of private homes and public places, supervision over dairies, tuberculosis control, infant welfare, medical inspection of school children, dental clinics and veneral disease control.

Medical Examination of School Children

Of the 5,150 school children, thru the counties, examined during January, conditions needing correction were found in 2,142, or 62 per cent.

Bureau of Child Hygiene

Health conferences for babies and pre-school children were held in ten counties during January and 171 children were examined. A report of the findings in each case was sent to the family physician.

Influenza

The epidemic of influenza reached its peak in January. The total number of cases reported in the State during the month was 19,545, of which 13,906 occurred in the counties and 5,639 in Baltimore City. The largest number of cases occurring in any county in relation to population was in Carroll county. Garrett reported 386.

Some doubt was expressed in certain sections of the country as to whether or not the outbreak of the present season was due to influenza or was caused by an unusual prevalence of colds and other respiratory diseases. The experiences of Maryland leave little doubt as to the influenzal character of the recent outbreak in this State. Compared in virulence, however, with the 1918 epidemic, it may be described as due to "a diluted virus, as it were, mild in proportion to its volatility and swiftness." The death rate from influenza in Maryland, in 1918, was 362 per hundred thousand population; the death rate for the year closing December 31, 1928, was 19.1. In this connection it is necessary to remember that the rate for 1918 was based upon the deaths reported before the epidemic.

Typhoid Fever

Only four cases of typhoid fever were reported in the counties during January, the smallest number reported in any one month since such records have been kept.

Smallpox

Five cases of smallpox occurred in Washington county during the month. Vaccination of all contacts was immediately undertaken.

Other Diseases

Scarlet fever and measles remained below the normal expectancy. Fifty three cases of diphtheria were reported in January in comparison with 63 cases in January of 1928. Garrett reported 16 cases of measles.

Imaunizations

During January, the three injections of toxin-antitoxin necessary to protect them from diphtheria were given to 1,062 children; 251 persons were vaccinated against smallpox; 28 were immunized against typhoid fever.

While Col. Bell, Mrs. Col. and the two little tinkles were sojourning at the Winchester festival, they took a number of pictures showing how the local visitors were acting down in "Old Virginny." The only one he would give out for publication, however, was the one showing Jim Kerins in a narrow escape from one of the more modern floats. Jim was in the act of getting crowded when an unknown hero from the sidelines called him a "common Irishman," and this aroused enough action to save sim.

Show Is Over

Before the extra piece for the special camera to be used in that ten-reel film at Grantsville could be unloaded by Walter Hardesty, news came from the Garrett county Hollywood section that the "Show" was over.

A couple of the actors got tired of waiting and left, and several, in fact a couple hundred of the understudies, were actually "froze out." They were also barred from the house where they always practiced, and since they had to walk if they wanted to get there anyway, they gave up.

The leading actor was supplanted by an understudy, and the "villain" in the play returned to his Oakland office, there to await new developments in Hollywood or any other section of the county.

Corn Festival A Certainty

Due to the lateness of the appearance of apple blossoms in Garrett county, J. Max Jarboe, originator of the apple blossom festival idea, has consented to let Scoop and Col. Bell run a Corn Festival and Mardi Gras because "corn" is always plentiful in Garrett county the year 'round.

Nominations already received from various people in the county show that Cal Menhorn is going to run a hot race with Sam Nightingale for "King Corn." These two are leading with Dewey Harvey and Ray Kight not so very far behind. Final decision rests with Scoop ns to who is presented with the crown of sugar. The following nominations have been received thus far:

Prince Tassel, Bill Shaffer; Count stalk, Louie Waingold; discount shock, John Browning; Noae count stubble, Pat Helbig; roasting ear, Dave Collins; cornsilk, Clyde Breedlove; fodder, Bud Custer; yellow bantam, Alfonse Borilla; cob; Jim Nelly; borer, Guy Gilson; unfinished ears, Jesse White, John Swauger, George Burkholder, George Irvin and Walter E. Smith.

It is possible that more letters next week will bring further nominations.

Col. Bell has decided to have the "Grain" parade next Wednesday evening about sundown, so the several districts of the county had better get their representatives to town early. Those coming on time get preferred positions in the parade. King Corn will be seated on his regal throne and will be borne through the streets on a water wagon, prepared for the purpose. The most elaborate procession of the year is planned.

Prizes to be awarded include 1 ton of sugar, 50 cans of lye, 25 gallons of wood alcohol, (for use next winter in one's car radiator) a mountain of charcoal, one white mule, (never kicks twice on the same person) and orders for 50 cases of "mineral water" from Oakland's reputed good citizens.

Many Factors Involved in Making Seed Bed.

Plowing at the proper time and to the right depth, harrowing as soon as possible after plowing and keeping the soil properly pulverized, constitute the important factors in preparing a good seed bed for spring corn planting, it is pointed out by O. C. Bruce, professor of soils for the University of Maryland. In this connection, it is declared important to get the corn planted early so as to give it plenty of time for growth during the long, hot days of summer, and yet, not so early that germination might be prevented through an unforseen cold spell late in the spring. In general, however, it has been found that soil is ready for plowing if it will crumble after being in the hand. This, of course, is somewhat dependent upon the type of soil under consideration.

Six to seven inches have been found sufficient depth for plowing, according to Mr. Bruce, since additional labor needed for plowing deeper will not be compensated for by the slight increase in yield. On the other hand, the soil should be plowed at least five inches or the vegetable matter will not be sufficiently covered, it issaid.

A very important feature in preparing a good seed bed is to harrow the land the same day that it is plowed, Mr. Bruce declares. This may be done very readily by going over the newly plowed ground with a spike tooth harrow in the evening, having the teeth set fairly straight. This early harrowing will give the maximum pulverization to the soil, will aid in conserving the misture and will prevent a crust from forming.

The field should be cross-harrowed before the corn is planted, and about a week after the planting the harrow should be drawn over the field again, this time with the teeth slanting backward.

As soon as the corn is up the field should be harrowed once more, and a last time, when the corn is about three or four inches high. However, a precaution must be taken to do the last harrowing late in the morning or early in the afternoon so that there will be little danger of breaking down and cutting off the stalks.

Potato Certification Procedure

Application for certification must be made by sending an application blank, properly filled out, to the Maryland Seed Certification Board, at least three weeks prior to the date of planting.

Each application for certification must be accompanied by one dollar per acre or fraction thereof. If the potatoes are disqualified at the first inspection, 75 cents for each acre or fraction of an acre will be returned to the grower. If disqualification is made nt the second inspection, 50 cents for each acre or fraction of an acre will be refunded. The same refunds will apply when request for discontinuance of the inspection is made in writing. An additional fee of five cents for seal and tag included will be charged at the final inspection.

FIRST CALL FOR MARYLAND PRE-SCHOOL CHILDREN

Early Examination Sought By State Health Officials

Health forces throughout the State are being mobilized for the early examination of the children who will reach school age this year, in order that they may he as free as possible from preventable physical handicaps when they start on the road to the three R's. The examinations are being arranged under the joint auspices of the Bureau of Child Hygiene of the State Department of Health, the Deputy State Health officers, the State Department of Education and the Parent-Teacher Associations.

Special attention will be given by the physicians who make the examinations to weight, posture, heart, the lungs, throat, nose, teeth, vision and hearing, because of their important bearing upon the general health of the children and their freedom from, or their susceptibility to, disease. Conditions that need correction will be pointed out and the parents will be urged to take the children to their family doctors for the necessary care.

Just how important this checking up of the health assets and liabilities of each child before he is enrolled in school, is to the individual child—particularly when the parents have the necessary medical or dental care given to the children—may be gathered from the reports prepared by the State Department of Health, of the results of the health examinations of the prospective first graders each year.

The record for 1928 shows that out of a total of 6,516 children examined at the child health conferences held during the year throughout the State, 2,975 were under five, ranging in age from the babies a few weeks old to their older brothers and sisters four years old, and 3,541 were getting ready for admission to school and were from five to seven years old.

Of the 3,541 prospective first-graders, considerably over half, a total of 2,019—of which 1,866 were white and 153 colored—had decayed teeth and needed dental attention. Unfavorable throat conditions were observed in 1,245—1,173 white and 72 colored—who had enlarged or infected tonsils. Adenoids were present in 547—516 white and 31 colored, and among them were 197 mouth breathers—185 white and 12 colored.

One-fifth of the total, 713—653 white and 60 colored—were underweight. Unfavorable conditions of the lungs were present in 143—136 white and 7 colored; and of the heart in 114—104 white and 10 colored. Bone changes due to rickets were observed in 78—72 white and 6 colored, and faulty uosture in 142—134 white and 8 colored. Vision was defective in 56—53 white and 3 colored; hearing in 45—44 white and 1 colored. Mental retardation was noticed in 26—21 white and 5 colored. More than two-thirds of the children getting ready for admission to school had not been vaccinated against smallpox and the parents were notified that in accordance with the Maryland law the children could not be admitted to school until they were vaccinated.

Good-Will Day aad Its History As Reviewed by a Contributor to This Columa.

To the Editor of The Republican.

Newspapers and speakers, schools and Sunday schools and clubs and people generally are talking more about Good-Will Day in this year 1929 than ever before. What to do on Good-Will Day and what does Good-Will Day mean are chief topics. But one is interested too in knowing how the observance of Good-Will Day started.

The day is usually thought of as something of very recent date, certainly an observance of these days after the World War. Yet is goes back about thirty years. Thirty-one years ago the Czar of Russia sent an invitation to all nations to meet in a great peace conference at the Hague and there consider "How armaments could be reduced and international disputes settled peacefully."

The Conference opened on May 18, 1899, and a woman most enthusiastic about the meetings, Frau Selenka, of Munich, proposed that on this day of May 18th there should be held everywhere, all over the world, and by all nations, a demonstration for peace.

In the United States, the American Peace Society forwarded such a movement in 1901. Lucia Ames Meade, member of the Society, and a Boston woman, persuaded the Massachusetts State Board of Education to send out in 1905 the first letter urging observance of the day in all schools. Ohio, New York and Kansas followed the movement in 1906, the U. S. Commission of Education recommended it. In 1923, "the teachers of all nations who wished to do everything in their power to free the world from war and to protect children against its waste and destruction, met in a World Conference on Education at San Francisco" and again took up the subject. And from that time interest has grown until it has come down to 1929 when papers and people and clubs are all talking about the day and planning for its observance.

One of the most interesting things which has grown out of Good-Will Day is the broadcasting of friendship messages by the children of the world and this started in 1922, the year before the 1923 meeting. The children of Wales then cast the first of such messages. "Will you," says a part of this message, "millions of you, join in our prayer that God will bless the efforts of the good men and women of every race and people who are doing their best to settle the old quarrels without fighting? Then there will be no need for any of us, as we grow older, to show our pride for the country in which we were born by going out to hate and to kill one another."

The first year there was no answer to this call, the second one or two important people here and there responded. Now all over the world, from nation to nation, the children call to one another for peace. Here is a part of what the children of Japan said in 1928:

"We, the children of the land of cherry blossoms, wish to join on this International Good-Will Day, the children of Wales who sent us a message last year, and to join the children of other lands in the cheer and prayer for a more peaceful world. We too would rather settle old quarrels without fighting. We even hope to think and talk without quarreling. We prefer to build more schools and less battleships by getting rid of hate and prejudice."

This year the air will be filled with voices of children from all quarters of the world calling for peace and friendship on Good-Will Day.

DECISION IS WITHHELD IN SUIT OF MARTIN RUSH

Flintstone Residents Sued to Enforce Payment of Note

Testimony and argument in the suit of Martin Rush, of near Oakland, against W. P. Heavner, Silas Kifer, Frank Roland, Edward Bane, W. S Stonestreet and W. Stickler, of Flintstone district, was completed last Thursday afternoon in the Circuit court at Cumberland before Judge Albert A. Doub, who withheld decision.

Rush sued to enforce payment of a promissory note, in connection with the sale of a stallion, "Infernal De-Iluyst." The defendants, forming a stock company known as the Belgian Horse company, at Flintstone in May, 1926, purchased the animal from the Ohio stock company, Terra Alta, W.

A promissory note for $2,400 was endorsed by the defendants. The note was reduced, by payments and discounts, to $533, when it was sold to Rush, who resides near Oakland. The makers of the note then declined to pay, claiming that the note was obtained from them by fraud and that the animal was worthless.

Rush was represented by George W. Legge, Cumberland, and E. R. Jones, Oakland.

RIFLE ORGANIZATION AT CRELLIN STILL GROWING

Now Boasts 43 Members, Modern Clubhouse and Gallery

From a small organization of eleven members formed February 17, 1927, the Youghiogheny Rifle and Revolver Association of Crellin has grown until at present it has forty-three members, a clubhouse free of debt, a number of extremely good marksmen, and is now challenging any team in this county or the surrounding communities to a match.

The officers are L. C. Yutzy, president; William Hoover, vice-president; R. C. Ford, secretary-treasurer, who have been re-elected each year since the organization of the club.

Plans for the erection of the clubhouse and indoor shooting range were made in the spring of 1927, and through a finance plan of the Stanley Coal Company, the building is now completed and is up-to-date in every respect at an approximate cost of $1500. It contains an indoor range, movable backstops to any distance up to 25 yards. The club room, 20 by 26 feet, adjoins the shooting range. The gallery is so arranged that ten persons may shoot at one time—five from the standing position and five in either the prone, sitting or kneeling position.

The club has eliminated, so far as possible, all danger, the targets being so arranged that each one may be drawn to the firing line without anyone approaching beyond that point.

The lawn about the clubhouse is in fine condition, and this will be beautified by the planting of flowers. Many other improvements are being planned for the summer months, the members already being engaged at work on a running deer target. The target will be operated on a cable among undergrowth and will have much the appearance of a live deer.

A 200-yard range, on which high-powered rifles may be used, has also been completed. The backstop is so constructed that the bullets will be imbedded directly in a hillhide. With these diversions the marksmen of Crellin are planning for many good times dring the coming spring and summer.

Presbyterians Win the Bowling League Championship

The Presbyterians, winners of the second round of the Oakland Bowling League, defeated the Merchants, winners of the first round, in a championship match played at the Recreation alleys on Monday night. The Presbyterians won four out of five games played and scored 2777 to 2527 for their opponents.

Lewis of the Presbyterians, was the highest individual scorer for one game with 170, while Walter was the highest in five games with 753. Elliott was the highest scorer on the Merchants outfit with 156 for a single game and 704 for five games.

Walter, Lewis, Browning and Dawson bowled for the Presbyterians, while Elliott, Smouse, Gortner and Criss composed the Merchants team.

The match Monday evening brought to an end the third annual bowling league contest.

Oakland Homemakers Discuss Window Curtains at Meeting

"Curtains for your windows" was the problem discussed at the last regular meeting of the Oakland Homemakers club on Friday, April 19. In choosing window curtains the members were told to keep in mind that the purpose of the window is to give light and ventilation and to permit a view of the outside.

To be useful, the window decorations must not conceal an attractive view, prevent adequate ventilation or shut out too much sunlight. Windows are curtained to give privacy to a room, to soften the light, to break the severe lines of the window frame, to introduce color and to complete a scheme of decoration.

Glass curtains should harmonize with the general color value of the room. Cream, tan and ecrue are the most satisfactory colors for glass curtains. White curtains may be used in rooms with light walls and white woodwork but even here the light cream will give a softer light and be more attractive.

For the sake of the good appearance of the outside of the house, it is desirable to have the glass curtains at all windows alike, or at least have all on the floor alike.

Consider these points:

1. Usual length of straight hanging glass curtains is to the sill.

2. Ruffle tie-backs come to bottom of apron.

3. Side drapes come to bottom of apron.

4. Valance is 1-6 the length of curtain or draperies, whichever one it is used with.

Lesson for April 23

THE SUFFERING SERVANT OF JEHOVAH

LESSON TEXT—Isa. 52:13-53:12
GOLDEN TEXT—With his stripes we are healed.
PRIMARY TOPIC—Jesus' Love for Us.
JUNIOR TOPIC—Jesus' Love for Us.
INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—What Our Salvation Cost.
YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—The Suffering Savior.

This prophecy is the grand center of the Old Testament. The bond servant of Jehovah with great wisdom gloriously executes the divine purpose at the cost of great suffering.

I. The Servant's Triumph (52:13-15).

By the servant here is meant the coming Messiah (42:1).

1. His wisdom (v. 13).

"He will deal prudently," for his name is "Counsellor" (9:6). He was filled with the spirit of wisdom and understanding (11:2).

2. He shall be exalted (v. 13).

He was to be extolled and magnified because he was the "Mighty God (9:6), even Immanuel." Because of Christ's devotion to His task of redemption, God has highly exalted Him and given Him a name which is above every name (Phil. 2:9).

3. The appearance of the Servant (v. 14).

Because of His marred "visage," He wholly disappointed the expectation of the carnal minds who looked for outward signs of royalty and worldly greatness. Jesus, as Jehovah's servant, was tortured and beaten by men as He went about doing the business committed to him.

4. The issue of His ministry (v. 15).

"He shall sprinkle many nations." This reveals Him as the great High Priest sprinkling the nations with His blood, cleansing them from their sins. Just as the people were astonished with the silence of Jesus in the midst of His shameful treatment, so shall the kings and great men of the earth be dumb before Him when the suffering Servant shall be exalted.

II. The Servant Despised and Rejected (53:1-3).

1. The unbelief of the Jews (v. 1).

(1) They disbelieved the words of the prophets.

(2) They did not recognize the hand of the Lord in the miracles and wonders which He wrought.

2. The origin of the Servant (v. 2).

He sprang out of the stump of Judaism. The sad condition of the people at that time is expressed by "dry corn."

3. The Man of Sorrows (v. 3).

He was afflicted and rejected.

III. The Vicarious Suffering of the Servant (53:4-6).

1. His griefs and sorrows were ours (v. 4). This awful suffering was looked upon by the world as occasioned by sin—"we did esteem Him stricken, smitten of God, and afflicted."

2. He was beaten for us (v. 5). That which was our due was meted out to Him. Observe the words, "wounded," "bruised," "despised," "stripes"—how awful they picture His treatment, and yet "our" shows that His suffering was vicarious.

3. The reason for (v. 6).

All humanity, Jews and Gentiles, had gone astray. God laid upon Him the iniquity of us all.

IV. The Death of the Servant (53:7-9).

1. The strange silence (v. 7).

He opened not His mouth. He went as a lamb to the slaughter. "He answered them never a word, insomuch that the governor marveled greatly" (Matt. 27:14).

2. Unconcern of multitude (v. 8).

They failed to discern the fact that He suffered in their stead.

3. Buried with the wicked and the rich (v. 9).

The prophecy was fulfilled in His crucifixion between two thieves and burial in Joseph's tomb.

V. The Servant's Ultimate Victory (vv. 10-12).

1. His sufferings expressed the divine will (v. 10).

The Lord Himself laid this burden upon Him, and through His sufferings the law was vindicated and redemption was accomplished.

2. A spiritual progeny resulted from His death (v. 10).

The fundamental law of the universe, which is life out of death, found supreme expression in His death on the cross (John 12:24).

3. Through death shall come to realization His fondest hope (v. 11)

He shall see the travail of His soul and shall be satisfied.

4. The divine reward (v. 12).

The divine Conqueror shall share the spoils of victory.

He Bares Our Sicknesses

When the even was come, they brought unto Him many that were possessed with devils; and He cast out the spirits with His word, and healed all that were sick: that it might be fulfilled which was spoken by Esaias the prophet, saying, Himself took our infirmities, and bare our sicknesses.—Matthew 8:16, 17.

Possible With God

The things which are impossible with men are possible with God.

Notice to Individuals and Others Requiring Trader's License

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN, To all persons engaged in business where a trader's license is required that under the provisions of Senate Bill No. 63, which has recently been passed by the General Assembly of 1929, there is imposed on persons who fail to take out licenses in the month of May a penalty of ten per cent per month on the cost of the license. In other words, licensees may take out licenses at any time during the month of May without having to pay a penalty, but on and after June 1st anyone applying for a license, who was in business in the month of May preceding, is required to pay, in addition to the cost of the license, a penalty of ten per cent per month or fraction of a month. In the case of persons starting in business during the license year they are only required to take out a license for the remaining part of the year, but they must take out their license in the month in which they begin business.

There has also been passed at the recent session of the General Assembly a bill requiring a separate license for each place of business owned and operated as such by individuals or corporations.

The Acts above referred to makes it mandatory upon the undersigned to collect the penalties prescribed by said Acts in the case where licensees are delinquent in applying for their licenses and leaves no discretion on my part as I will be held accountable for the penalty by the State when my books are examined, hence all persons required to take out a license are urged to make early application and thus avoid the undue expense of ten per cent per month penalty imposed by the law above referred to.

The Light-Hearted Settlers of Maryland

ENTERED ON ADVENTURE WITH APLOMB AND CHEER

(By C. W. WHITMORE, in Baltimore Sunday Sun.)

Maryland undoubtedly has a unique flavor. Some dislike it so heartily that they would read us out of the Union. Others like it so well that they would reverse the process and eliminate all the other States, leaving the Maryland (somewhat) Free State alone.

It is not all in the cuisine. Shore dinners, to be sure, have helped. But this is not the whole story. Maryland's spell comes up from the roots. If Maryland is today, as she is in general, in spite of irritating exceptions, tolerant, gracious, leisurely, comparatively free and wholesomely merry, it is because such qualities were planted here by the founders and early settlers of the colony.

Maryland was not settled by Pilgrims, unless it be by such delectable pilgrims as Chaucer sang. There were "gentlemen adventurers" and their irresponsible, rollicking retainers; peasants with a wholesome determination to own land; bawdy millers; a "goodly parsonn;" hardy laborers escaping servitude; debtors escaping prison, rich men; poor men; Catholic and Protestant; pious and profane; all sorts and conditions of men out of an adventure that was something more than a lark, but which their high spirits refused to permit to degenerate into a deadly solemn crusade. They were seeking their fortunes and they preferred to have a good time doing it. They weren't even going to make a solemn business of Business.

If this seems sordid or frivolous as a motive for founding a colony let it he noted that these sordid mercenaries or frivolous playboys did not kill witches, banish those who differed from them or massacre Indians. They created a commonwealth free alike of "starving times" and bigotry. They set up an abundant life free of gloom and solemn pretense. There were brawls, horse racing, cock-fighting, and gaming. Coarse fellows drank liquor noisily at Jelly's Tavern. Gentlemen and ladies drank wine and Jamaica rum quitely at home. Naughty young folk and others not so young loved and laughed while the colony grew in grace without anyone's smiting his breast. Colonial Maryland, in short, was a decent and interesting plaee to live, a land of sanctuary indeed; sanctuary from boredom and hypocracy.

How did it get that way?

The answer is—George Calvert. The founder of Maryland was no crusader. He was a tolerant, gracions, kindly, capable man of affairs with deep human sympathies and understanding, coupled with a taste and talent for colonization. He was no saint; neither was he a tyrant; he had occasional lapses and bad moments, just as Maryland has now.

The story really begins with a futile bit of royal match-making. Calvert, son of that rarest form of human life, a prosperous farmer, had won instant favor and rapid advance in the State Department, which he entered after his graduation from Oxford. His hearty support of King James in the king's favorite but highly unpopular project of a Spanish and Catholic marriage for Prince Charles captured the royal hear and secured his promotion from an under secretaryship to clerk of the Privy Council and then Secretary of State.

Money was needed to support this promising political career, for in England high office has always been a luxury for the rich. Accordingly, James granted Calvert a large estate in Ireland to which the title Baron of Baltimore was later added. In the meantime Calvert had embarked on his colonization career as a member of the Council upon Virginia Affairs. In 1620 he purchased on his own account as an investment a large piece of land in Newfoundland and in 1623 he petitioned the king to add to it by royal grant. The king's response was generous in the extreme.

The entire southeastern peninsula of Newfoundland, known as Avalon, was granted to Lord Baltimore as a palantinate. As proprietor he was given regal power and what seemed to be the assurance of a legal income. At this point Calvert took a step which threatened to wreck both his career and his fortune. Hitherto he had been a member of the Church of England, but had aroused considerable suspicion among the Puritans by displaying a marked sympathy with Roman Catholics, and in 1624 he announced his conversion to that church. As his fellow-communicants were at the time suffering under legal disabilities, he felt constrained to resign his office. He also returned the grant of land in Ireland because it required conformity to the Church of England. The king, however, refused to to accept the resignaiton and returned the grant of land with the conformity clause removed from its title. Meanwhile the king continued to help with the Avalon in many ways, so that Calvert lost nothing by his declaration of change of faith, though real danger had actually threatened. In alotting credit for the glory of Maryland toleration this contribution of King James should not be forgotten.

Calvert, however, wishing to develop his Colonial enterprise, gradually withdrew from public life and determined to devote himself exclusively to colonization. But the Newfoundland investment proved to be a very unprofitable one. Writing to his friend, Thomas Wentworth, Earl of Strafford, Calvert said:

I must either go and settle it in better order or else give it over and lose all the charges I have been at hitherto, for other men to build them fortunes upon. And I had rather be esteemed a fool by some for the hazard of one month's journey than to prove myself one certainly for six years by-past if the business be now lost for want of a little pains and care.

Accordingly, he went to Avalon with his wife and family together with a number of additional colonists. But a long and severe winter, an epidemic of illness and many deaths among the settlers completely disheartened him. He decided to abandoned to enterprise as a colony; left it in charge of a few hardy fishermen to salvage what income might remain in it, and set sail for Virginia, having first sent an appeal to Charles, who was now King, for a grant of land in the unsettled parts of that colony south of the James river.

This petition was granted with one modification and the charter of Avalen eventually was duplicated for that part of Virginia north of the Potomac which was named "Maryland" in honor of Queen Henrietta Maria, wife of Charles.

It is interesting to note the motive which led to the substitution of the "parts of Virginia north of the Potomac" for those which had been asked for "south of the James." William Claiborne, of Virginia, together with certain sugar planters, intended to establish extensive sugar plantations in Carolina, protested against the southern grant, whereupon it was pointed out that the Dutch colony of New Amsterdam was rapidly extending southward. The Dutch had already got as far as the Delaware river, and it would be a good idea for England to forstall further advance by occupying the intervening territory. Thus Maryland was set up as a sort of bufer state and so fulfilled the primary purpose of the original palatinates of England.

Unfortunately, at this auspicious moment with his plans for extensive colonization activities at the point of fruition and with a vast principality and royal powers within his grasp, George Calvert died. His eldest son, Cecilius, however, had inherited his ability and point of view and carried on his father's project as it had been planned.

When Cecilius started recruiting the Maryland colony he did what every business man does. He advertised. It seems likely that he even anticipated modern high-powered salesmanship and had personal appeals made in every shire. Even so, he had difficulty at first in securing settlers. Though he himself was a member of the Catholic church and the project was suspected of being a Catholic plot, there was no rush of Catholics. Only a few could be induced to join the company. Religious toleration was offered as a special inducement, which it was hoped would appeal to both Catholics and Puritans. The former were still suffering under the handicap of legal disabilities and penal laws which, although they were not enforced under Charles with any more regularity than our prohibition laws are enforced, were still on the books and might at any time be used as a weapon in the hands of the enemy. The Puritans at the same time were being severely manhandled by Archbishop Laud, who was hellbent upon enforcing conformity upon non-conformists.

As part of the publicity incident to interesting possible colonists, Calvert had a pamphlet prepared, presumably by Father White, a Jesuit priest, who later went to Maryland with the first settlers, proclaiming the advantages of Maryland, which run the gamut from opportunity for missionary work among the Indians to "weasels which do not destroy hens and eggs as ours do." We would not for a moment cast discredit upon the information contained in this pamphlet, but we can say with conviction that for Maryland weasels this age of innocence has now entirely vanished.

The pamphlet contains these words significant of the businesslike spirit in which the settlers were recruited. "Because most men are drawn secretly or openly by pleasure, honor or riches, it was ordained by the wisdom of God that this enterprise should offer to men every sort of inducement and reward."

Shortly after the settlement Father Copley wrote home: "Here certainly nothing is wanted but people. Let it be peopled and it shall not yield up the most flourishing country for profit and pleasure."

It is certainly not without significance that so much stress was laid upon these motives of profit and pleasure in advertising the enterprise, and it is equally significant that the long continued and widespread publicity work of Calvert, backed by the wealthy and influential Catholic nobles, the Howards, the Arundels and the Blounts, as well as by the active support of the Jesuit Society, succeeded in drawing to the first expedition only a small handfull of Catholics. The first band of colonists was made up of only twenty "gentleman adventurers" and approximately three hundred others, comprising small freemen, indentured servants and laborers. Of these the majority of the leaders were Catholics and the majority of the others were assorted Protestants. It seems probable that the bulk of the Church of England people had been influenced by the so-called "high church" or Catholic movement promoted by Archbishop Laud, for shortly after their settlement in St. Mary's they are officially referred to by the peculiarly appropriate hybrid title, "Protestant-Catholics."

In any case the colony reflected a catholic attitude toward life, and it was this, together with the tolerant spirit which George Calvert insisted upon in the face of every effort to pervert it, which gave to the Maryland colony its unique flavor—a happy blend of piety and jollity which has never entirely disappeared, though frequently subject to almost overwhelming attack.

Enemies, indeed, were always on hand. No sooner was the colony proposed than it was attacked. Because it was Calvert's project and because Calvert was a Catholic it was pictured as a papal plot to turn England over to the Pope by way of Spain. The expedition was said to be preparing to sail away to Spain and every conceivable obstacle was put in its way. The ships were inspected, attached for alleged debt and then reinspected. The people were examined and reexamined. They were made to swear allegiance, released, pursued and pledged again, all to keep them out of the arms of Spain and the Pope.

Finally they got away, sailing from Cowes, in the Isle of Wight, November 22, 1633. After all the suspicion about Spanish plots, it is interesting to note that once they had set sail their one anxiety was to keep away from these very Spaniards they were supposed to be seeking. The Spanish constituted their one human threat. The journal of Father White, which gives a detailed account of the voyage, is full of allusions to this fear of meeting Spanish ships, which was an object of anxiety until it was seen to fly some other flag than that of Spain.

Once they had passed out of the zone of Spanish danger, however, the voyagers managed to have a good time. There was an exciting race with a British merchantman. Ecstatic experiments were carried on with tropical fruits and vegetables at the islands visited en route. Father White waxes lyrical in his praise of the pineapple, which is called the queen of fruits. They even had a party aboard in celebration of Christmas and the party evidently became too wild for some of them, for many were taken sick because of too much wine and twelve of them died. This hampered their spirits for a short time, but they soon revived under the spell of continued fair sailing on a beautiful sea.

Thoughtful consideration for others which was a marked characteristic of Calvert, was strikingly illustrated in his strict order that all acts of Catholic devotion be performed as inconspicuously as possible, so as not to offend the sensative feelings of the non-Catholics aboard.

The voyage took over four months. Those who are familiar with Maryland's leisurely pace will not be surprised at this. The ships lingered for days at every port of landing. When almost at the Barbaboes the leaders suddenly decided to turn back and seek a cargo for the return trip to England at an island off the cost of Africa. After sailing 200 miles on this detour it dawned on them that their provisions might fail if they went so far out of the way. So they changed their minds again and headed back to the Barbadoes, where they "had hoped of securing many articles of trade from the English inhabitants." They were disappointed in this, as their fellow-countrymen thought they saw a chance to take advantage of needy voyagers and jumped the price 500 per cent. The prospective Marylanders, however, were not to be gypped and satisfied themselves with potatoes "which grow in such abundance that they can be carted away for nothing." Here they saw cotton picked and "the seed removed by a kind of wheel." * * *(This in 1634 * * 159 years before Eli Whitney and his cotton gin.)

Eventually they arrived in the Chesapeak February 27, 1634, and cast anchor off Point Comfort, Virginia. They were "full of apprehension," as the journalist wrote, "lest the English inhabitants, who were much displeased at our settling, should be plotting something against us." Commendatory letters from the King, secured for them a courteous reception. The Virginians explained that they for their own part had suffered much apprehension because it had been rumored that their new neighbors were coming with "six Spanish ships to subdue everything under the yoke of Spain."

In spite of the fact that the voyagers were so near their promised land, there was still no hurry. They lingered on for many days. When they finally tore themselves away they made a leisurely trip up the bay to the Potomac and up the Potomac approximately thirty miles to an island which they named St. Clements. Here they cast anchor and the women landed "to do their washing." It is worth recording that women were the first to land on Maryland soil and that they landed to clean things up. Unfortunately they upset the boat in the process and much linen was lost.

The Potomac river is described in the journal as the "largest and most beautiful river" the writer had ever seen. The Thames seemed a mere rivulet in comparison. Fine groves of trees appeared on each side, "not choaked with undergrowth, but spaced so that a four-horse carriage might be driven about through their midst." "The natives marveled at the "huge canoe like an island" and wondered where a tree could be found so great as to be carved out into so big a ship.

On March 25, the Feast of the Annunciation, mass was celebrated on St. Clements Island, a cross hewn out of a tree was set up and the Litany of the Holy Cross was read "with much emotion." This is generally treated in histories and orations as the first landing of the settlers on Maryland soil, but it is perfectly clear from the narratives that there had been previous landings, not only of the women for laundry purposes, but of considerable bodies of men who explored the island and planned a fort and settlement. The account of Father White also seems to state that the religious ceremonies of March 25, 1634, were confined to the Catholics among the company.

St. Clement's Island has been identified with the island now known as Blackistone's Island at the mouth of St. Clement's Bay The only difficulty in the way of this identification is that whereas St. Clement's Island was stated to be "above 400 acres in extent" Blackistone's Island is today very much smaller than this.

It was the original intention when the expedition cast anchor off this island to establish a permanent settlement there as protection from sudden attack by the Indians and to hold a strategic outpost against any possible trouble from Virginia. This seemed not at all unlikely to them, inasmuch as relations between the two settlements were still uncertain and strained with mutual suspicions. It was finally decided, however, that the island was inadequate for a settlement and explorations were made in search of a more suitable site.

Capt. Henry Fleet, a guide from Virginia, led them to the spot which was destined to he selected, a spot "so charming in its situation that Europe itself can scarcely show one to surpass it." On the 27th of March they sailed up the beautiful St. Mary's river, which empties into the Potomac near its mouth, and after effecting a landing on what is now known as Chancellor's Point, they marched a mile around the shore to a ridge projecting out into the river and commanding an exquisite view in all directions. Here they found an Indian village and after negotiating under the old mulberry tree they purchased from the Indians with "axes, hatchets, rakes, and several yards of cloth" some thirty miles of territory, including the site of the Indian settlement. Here they established the first capital of Maryland, called St. Mary's City.

When One Moves and Finds There Are Not Enough Convenience Outlets, Especially as the Cost of Operating Additional Appliances Is Becoming More Attractive

Houses today, happily, are being equipped with more of those points for electrical contact so essential for the complete comfort of the modern home.

And what a boon this plentiful supply of convenience outlets is proving now that more and more electrical devices for the relief of drudgery and the promotion of happiness are being installed.

It seems but a short time since many families felt they could not afford these electrical conveniences which through modern methods of purchase and constantly reducing cost of operation have become necessities.

The electric bill is being looked upon any more as trifling compared to the amounts ordinarily spent for temporary or superficial comforts or pleasures. Comforts which come from the use of electrical devices are real and lasting.

New Domestic Rates Mean Cheaper Conveniences

Under the new domestic rates of this company, you may now secure electricity for your home or eight and a half cents a kilowatt hour for the first twenty-five kilowatt hours, five and a half cents a kilowatt hour for the next twenty-five kilowatt hours, and three and a half cents a kilowatt hour for all additional kilowatt hours. This is subject to a prompt payment discount of half a cent a kilowatt hour.

This rate means you can now afford to own and operate those desired appliances which mean so much in the home. For full information on the saving possible under the new rates, have them explained by the contract clerk or any representative of the appliance department.

Monongahela West Penn Public Service Co.

"We Value Your Friendship as We Do Your Patronage"

New Rates for Electric Service Now In Effect.

Applications are now being received at the office of the West Maryland Power Company from local people who desire to receive electric bills under the new optional domestic and commercial rates of the company. Where request is made at the company's office, the persons applying for these new rates will receive their bills for the first time under them with the May 1 billing, it is announced by A. T. Shaw, local manager.

The new optional rates which are especially designed to afford the opportunity for home owners to take advantage of the use of more electrical appliances as economically as possible, are as follows:

Eight and a half cents a kilowatt hour for the first twenty-five kilowatt hours; five and a half cents a kilowatt hour for the next twenty-five kilowatt hours, and three and a half cents a kilowatt hour for all additional kilowatt hours. This is subject to a prompt payment discount of half a cent a kilowatt hour.

The new optional commercial rate is eight and a half cents a kilowatt hour for the first seventy-five kilowatt hours; five and a half cents a kilowatt hour for the next seventy-five kilowatt hours, and three and a half cents a kilowatt hour for all additional kilowatt hours. This likewise is subject to a prompt payment discount of half a cent a kilowatt hour.

MT. LAKE PARK.

An Active Instruetor in Local School

The spring athletic meet of the pupils of the Garrett county schools, under the auspices of the Playground Athletic league, will be held this year May 28. This is the thirteenth meet.

As heretofore, the pupils of the Mt. Lake school will, so far as possible, participate. It was the intention of the principal to prepare a team for the Dodgeball contest but it was discovered that the boys were too heavy, the weight being limited to 95 pounds. While this speaks well for the health of the boys, it is rather disappointing that they will not be able to enter this event. However they will compete in the 60 yard dash, and if possible in other contests.

In seeking information on this subject we had a little talk with Miss Hamill, the principal, and found her to be fully alive to the desirability of directed athletics and much interested in having her pupils take the coveted honors.

There are enrolled in the Park's school some 64 pupils about evenly divided as to sex, with possibly a little predominance in favor of the boys. The school, which functions for ten months will close June 19, at which time exercises exemplifying the work of the school, together with a program, will be held.

While the school of the Park is small, yet we find that under the direction of Miss Hamill, interest is being sustained among the pupils in those progressive endeavors and practices which have made for so much progress in matters educational in the last decade. This progress, of course, is due very largely to the wise selection of progressive, upstanding and outstanding county superintendents, but at the same time the personality and individuality of the principal and teachers are dominant factors in carrying out and sustaining interest in these endeavors.

New books and other equipment, including a number of records of value in the music department, have been added during the year. The parent-teacher association, the 4-H club and Bird study club are numbered among the activities. Altogether, the Park school, for a community of this size, seems to be in a very healthy condition.

A baseball game, scheduled on last Saturday between Loch Lynn "Bear Cats" and the Mt. Lake "Rinkey Dinks," the first of a series of three games, was forfeited to Mt. Lake by the non-appearance of the Bear cats. While no reason was given for failure to appear, rumor runs through the Mt. Lake squad that the Bear Cats were a little afraid of the result.

Mrs. Bessie Zohn was called to Uniontown, Pa., Tuesday by the illness of a relative.

Mr. Oscar Hutchens, father of Mrs. Charles Echard, who accompanied the Echards from Florida this spring, and who has been visiting here since, has left for his home in Holbart, Okla.

Mr. C. P. Martin has returned from Baltimore where he has been in attendance, as a representative, at a meeting of the Grand Lodge, I. O. O. F.

A meeting of theBoard of Directors of the Mt. Lake Park asociation was held here on Monday, Superintendent Baker being among those present. No information was given out as to what business was transacted.

Mr. Reno Fleming, connected with radio station WMMN, Fairmont, W. Va., was a business visitor here Monday.

Arrangements are being made for the Mountain Top to broadcast over WMMN during a week in June, the program to be sponsored by the business men of Mt. Lake, Oakland and possibly other communities. Undouhtedly it will prove to be good advertising. It is hoped the association will join in the forward looking movement.

The barber shop has opened for the season over the postoffice.

Extensive improvements are being made, both inside and out, to the I. O. O. F. hall in Loch Lynn.

Mr. Harrell and family, who have been living in the Baptist parsonage, are preparing to move to Bayard.

Mr. Hull and family, H street and Oakland avenue, are moving to a farm nearby.

Fifteen hundred bushels of seed peas were delivered to the farmers of the county by the Mt. Airy Canning company, the first of this week.

Robert, the small son of Mr. and Mrs. John Stevenson, has again entered the Western Maryland hospital for treatment. He suffered an attack of pneumonia during the winter from which he has not fully recovered.

Word has been received here from Mrs. M. E. Whitaker, Lochmont, N. Y., that she expects to arrive here in June. She has not been in her usual good health during the winter months.

Mr. and Mrs. G. B. M. Friend are in Connelsville, Pa. attending the funeral of a grandson who died there a few days ago.

Mr. P. T. Lipscomb has returned from a short visit to his mother who resides in Bethlehem neighborhood. Mrs. Lipscomb is past 80 years old but enjoys good health.

Mr. J. M. White, who resides near Loch Lynn and who is past 90 years of age, has been housed up most of the winter but is now able to be out. He was in town yesterday circulating among his friends and predicting that we would have four more snows this spring. His presence was welcomed but his snows will not be.

Mrs. Etta Sanders and sister, Miss Dessie Rodeheaver, who spent the winter months in Uniontown, Pa., returned to their home in the Park last Friday.

PYTHIANS ARE PLANNING CELEBRATION ON MAY 17

Candidates From Garrett, Allegany and Preston Counties to Receive Rank of Page

Candidates for the three ranks in the Knights of Pythias lodge, from Garrett county, Allegany county, and surrounding counties in West Virginia will receive the rank of Page at a mammoth celebration to be held in Oakland on Friday, May 17, it has been announced by Milburn W. Mann, chancellor commander of the local lodge.

The feature of the occasion will be that the candidates will be given the obligation of their rank on the Bible on which the Knights of Pythias order was founded by Justice Rathbone at Washington, shortly after the Civil war. Harry M. Love, supreme keeper of records nnd seal, will bring the Bible here and obligate the candidates. The class will be known as the Rathbone Bible class, and it is expected that the class will be one of the largest in history.

Nelson W. Russeler, supreme representative; A. Elwood Martak, grand keeper of records and seal; and Geo. W. Stephens, grand chancellor of the State of Maryland, will also be present to see the rank conferred.

Prior to the conferring of the rank, a parade will be held on the streets of Oakland, and will consist of members of the order, two or three bands, and possibly other organizations, it was stated.

Lodges from Terra Alta, Kingwood, Thomas, and other places in West Virginia, Garrett and Allegany counties, Maryland, are now planning to bring a number of candidates here for that evening.

The rank of Knight was conferred at the regular meeting of the local lodge last Friday evening in Castle hall.

To Repair Building

At a meeting held last night it was decided to ask for bids for the brick veneering of the Pythian building on Third street. The specifications call for the brick veneer in front from the second story to the top, the entire height on all three sides. The plans call for stone window sills in front. Bids will also be asked on the erection of a room, to be built above the dressing room in rear of the theatre. D. W. Walter has been named as chairman of this committee.

CALVES PURCHASED FOR COUNTY PROJECT WORK

Members of Agriculture and 4-H Clubs to Have Charge

Seven Guernsey calves, for project work among members of the Agriculture club of Oakland High school and 4-H clubs of this section, were purchased last week-end by Carl Frazee, C. F. Kelly, Q. T. Graser, instructor in agriculture, and John H. Carter, county agent, who made a trip to Lancaster, Pa., for that purpose.

The theory taught in vocational agriculture in the high school and the principles learned in 4-H club work will be practiced on these calves, and their development will be noted carefully.

Those who have undertaken the project are Allen Kelly, Wayne Hamilton, Wilbur Hollar, Hagan Frazee, and two younger brothers, all sons of Mr. and Mrs. Carl Frazee; and Paul Frazee, Jr. The calves will be brought to Oakland this week-end by truck. Carl Frazee also purchased a cow while visiting the farms in that section.

Many farms were visited on the trip. The party met Charles Carey, supervisor of vocational agriculture of the schools surrounding Lancaster; visited Woodside farms, managed by S. N. Root, and known far and wide for its cattle; saw about 20 imported cattle from the islands; and three animals that will go to the National Dairy show. Some excellent bulls were seen, the dam of one of them producing 900 pounds of butter fat per year. When the average cow in Garrett county produces less than 200 pounds, the advantage of having good cattle can readily be seen, it was stated.

Some of the milk from the herds visited retailed in Lancaster and vicinity at 20 cents per quart. It contained only 2,500 bacterial counts per cubic centimeter, Mr. Graser stated.

Four of the calves were purchased from Jacob Rohrer; one from H. H. Snavely; and two from H. L. Mumma.

POTOMAC MANOR MINER FOUND GUILTY OF LARCENY

Victim of Theft in Keyser Hospital With Broken Back

After deliberating twenty minutes, at noon, on Saturday, a jury in the Circuit Court nt Keyser, West Va., returned a verdict of guilty with a recommendation of mercy in the trial of Chares Matches of Potomac Manor, charged with larceny.

Matches, a coal miner, was accused of entering the house of George Lee at Potomac Manor and stealing a cook stove, rocking chair and other household goods. Lee is a patient at Hoffman Hospital, Keyser, with a broken back which he received in a mining accident at the Boyd Mining Company's mine at Potomac Manor in January.

Special Constable Harold Holland of Blaine, testified that he tracked footprints to Matches' home in the snow, and later, with Lee's sister, searched Matches' home and she identified the articles stolen.

SPECIAL SERVICES WILL MARK 100TH ANNIVERSARY

Centenary Celebration of Saint Paul's Methodist Episcopal S. S. To Be Observed Sunday

As announced in The Republican last Thursday, the one hundredth anniversary of the founding of the Methodist Sunday school of Oakland will be celebrated next Sunday, May 5th, with special services in the local church.

During the Sunday school hour in the morning a number of special features will be presented and recognition given to members of the present school who have been connected with it over a period of years. Recognition will also be given for perfect attendance. A large attendance of past and present members is expected. The preaching service which will follow will also be in keeping with the day's celebration.

The anniversary service proper will be held in the evening at 7:30 o'clock. At this time there will be addresses by prominent members of the Sunday school, special vocal and instrumental music and other features of interest.

A number of the old records have been located and these will be on exhibit and also be referred to during the service. It is hoped by those in charge that a number of the former members of the school will be in attendance and take part in the portion of the program which has been especially set apart for them.

OAKLAND GRAMMAR HAS MAY DAY CELEBRATION

Mary Sue Bell Is Crowned Queen At The Festivities

Amid all the splendor that the instructors of Oakland Grammar school could devise, Mary Sue Bell was crowned Queen of the May at the Health Day exercises yesterday afternoon at the school building, in accordance with the proclamation of Herbert Hoover setting aside May 1 as Child Health Day.

With the parents of the children as interested spectators, each grade in the school took part in the program. Following the procession from the school building the queen mounted her throne and was crowned by Schell Hoye. The queen's train bearers were Lois Sincell and Vera Blanch Welch. The children then sang several songs and sixteen girls of the sixth and seventh grades enjoyed a May pole dance.

After this a number of games were played as announced by Richard Gonder. A potato race was won by Frances VanSickle, James Wilson, Lucile Browning, Bobby Tibbetts and Harvey Winters. The fourth grade won a game of dodge ball from the third grade 13-14. The fifth grade played relay ball, Capt. Nordeck's team wining.

The sixth grade played floor tag, Capt. Irving Broadwater's team being winners. In the seventh grade the girls played the boys a game of volley ball, the boys winning. The winners nlso met and defeated the high school girls' team.

The teachers of the different grades, Miss Marion Leary, principal; Mrs. E. C. Liller, Mrs. Mabel Sollars, Miss Lucille Mitchell, Miss Beulah Loughridge and Miss Edna Baker hnd all students trained in such a way that the entire program was completed in record time.

BOYS' WEEK INAUGURATED WITH PARADE AND TALKS

Several Thousand Witness Celebration Sunday—Hughes and Yoke Delight Boys

A mammoth parade and an enthusiastic meeting in the Maryland theatre, inaugurated the celebration of Boys' Week in Oakland on Sunday afternoon, people from Garrett county, Md., and Terra Alta and Kingwood, Preston county, W. Va., contributing largely to its success.

The parade at 2:30 was witnessed by several thousand people, and after the boys had been given seats in the theatre, as many as could crowded into the theatre to hear Judge A. G. Hughes, Kingwood, and F. R. Yoke, Morgantown, give the addresses.

The parade was headed by the Mayor and Town council of Oakland, and was followed by the Terra Alta High school band, which took first prize at Winchester, Va., a short time ago. Following the band was the Terra Alta Rotary club, 17 members of the Kingwood Boy Scout Troop, Crellin Band, Oakland Troop of Boy Scouts, a number of local boys, Gilbert-Brown Boys' Band, and the Oakland Rotary club. A number of Kingwood Rotarians also took part in the celebration.

Speakers Hold Audience

Both speakers of the occasion held the attention of the audience for the short time which they filled on the program. Judge A. G. Hughes, of the Circuit Court for Preston county, stressed the enforcement of the laws of the United States, and much greater respect for them. He urged the boys to grow up with these thoughts in mind.

F. Roy Yoke, alumni secretary for West Virginia University, brought out four points to the boys present. These were: 1. To find what you like to do and do it; 2. To learn to do a number of things you dislike so that it will prepare you better for the things you do like; 3. Be prepared so that when your chance comes, you will be ready for it; and 4. Stick to your job. These four points were illustrated by striking personal experiences of Mr. Yoke during his school teaching days, and held the attention of the boys to the end of his talk.

The Kingwood Boy Scouts were presented with a baseball glove, ball and bat, for having the largest group of boys from out of town in the parade. The presentation was made by Joseph E. Harned, Oakland Rotary club president, who spoke a few words of greeting.

This closed the opening day celebration. Monday and Tuesday were known as days in school, and members of the Oakland Rotary club visited schools at Oakland, Grantsville, Accident, Kempton, Crellin, Friendsville, and Kitzmiller, and gave short talks on the meaning of Boys' Week.

Wednesday evening was known as boys' evening at home, when parents were asked to have something special to interest their boys at home, and to emphasize that boys should spend more time at home for study and rest.

HIGH SCHOOL OFFICIAL TO FIGHT AGAINST REMOVAL

J. Edward Ford, Former Principal of Grantsville School, Says He has Counsel and Will Fight

J. Edward Ford, who, according to County Superintendent F. E. Rathbun, has been transferred from the principalship of the Grantsville high school, declared last Saturday upon the occasion of his visit to Oakland that he had retained counsel here and intended to "carry the case to the limit."

In a letter sent The Baltimore Sun, Mr. Ford charged his former assistants with insubordination and declared that according to rumor his former aids at the school had "deliberately plotted an insurrection" among the pupils after the two had refused to recognize his authority.

Still Has Post, His Claim

He also has said that he had not resigned nor been transferred. Superintendent Rathbun contends that he, as superintenrent, has the right to remove principals under him and that he wrote Mr. Ford several days ago informing him that he had been transferred from Grantsville to Turner, where he was to be principal of an elementary school. Since Mr. Ford declined to accept the principalship of Turner school, that school has been closed and the pupils are now being transported by bus to the Grantsville school.

Superintendent Rathbun is authority also for the statement that the communication had been returned by Mr. Ford and bore a notation to the effect that the high school principal "declined" to accept the transfer. This means, Mr. Rathbun said, that Mr. Ford does not now have a school position under the county system.

Superintendent Cook in Grantsville

Albert S. Cook, State Superintendent of Education, was in Grantsville on Tuesday and conferred with Mr Rathbun. Later he said he agreed "one hundred per cent with the attitude Mr. Rathbun has taken in the matter."

The situation causing Mr. Ford's removal is said to have been caused by disagreements between him and his assistant teachers. The exact nature of the trouble, or its cause, has not been made public officially.

Reports Are Made at Civic Club Meeting on Tuesday

The April meeting of the Oakland Civic club was held Tuesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Townshend Naylor. The meetings of the Northern District of the Federation of Women's clubs at Cumberland and the State Federation at Baltimore were reported by Mrs. C. M. Sincell and Mrs. James Willison, respectively.

Mrs. James Treacy was appointed chairman of the committee for the observation of National Music Week, and plans for an appropriate community program will be announced later.

After the regular business of the club was concluded delicious refreshments were served by the hostess.

MOVIES FRIDAY, MAY 10, FOR BOY SCOUT BENEFIT

Proceeds to go Toward Defraying Camping Trip Expenses

"The Desert Pirate," starring Tom Tyler, will be the picture shown at the Maryland theatre on Friday, May 10, the proceeds of which will go toward defraying the expenses of the Boy Scouts' Annual camping trip on Deep Creek Lake, according to Mrs. Bernard I. Gonder, president of the Ladies' Auxiliary.

"Each year the cost of the two weeks' trip is about $375," George Hanst, scoutmaster, stated. "When the boys are able they pay $5 each for the trip. If they are not able to pay, they are taken along anyway, providing they have had a good troop record during the preceding year."

This picture next Friday, May 10, is to help take care of the deficit for the trip, it was stated. The Scouts are planning their trip this year for the last week in July and the first week in August.

VINDEX MINER IS KILLED WHEN HE RESISTS ARREST

James G. Burton, Kitzmiller, in Self-Defense, Strikes Man With Butt of Pistol

William Loughrey, 35, a coal miner of Vindex, this county, near Kitzmiller, seventeen miles southeast of Oakland, was instantly killed about 5 p. m. Monday when, it was said, he attempted to resist arrest by Patrolman James G. Burton, of Kitzmiller, who had been deputized to arrest Loughery on a warrant charging him with wife beating.

Loughery, according to information received here, drew a gun on the policeman when he attempted to serve the warrant, and Burton, in self-defense, struck Loughery over the head with the butt of the pistol, killing him instantly.

An inquest was held, W. A. Gonder, Oakland justice of the peace, presiding as coronor. The man was not held.

Loughery is said to have been a fugitive from the Garrett county jail, from which, it is reported, he escaped some time ago while serving a sentence for theft.

Legion to Make Plans for Memorial Day Activity

Plans for Memorial Day celebration in Oakland will be made at a meeting of the Proctor Kildow Post, No. 71, American Legion, to be held Monday evening at 8 o'clock in the City hall, E. P. Knhl, post commander, announced. All members are urged te be present. There will be refreshments, he added.

It is probable that some speaker of note will be brought here for the celebration. Local organizations will take part in the parade, to be held in the morning.

Mr. Paul McIntire will entertain the Owls' club at his home tonight.

BOYS WILL HAVE CHARGE OF TOWN AFFAIRS TONIGHT

Mayor and Council and Other Civic Officers Were Named at High School Tuesday

Civic problems that usually confront the Mayor and Town Council of Oakland, will confront a new mayor and town council, composed of high school boys, this evening in the town hall, in accordance with the Boys' Week program sponsored by the local Rotary Club, which has been going forward with interest since Sunday.

At a meeting of the student body of the local high school on Tuesday, in charge of Mayor L. M. Fraley and Grover C. Stemple, president of the council, the following students were elected to serve for the evening:

Kermit Lohr, mayor; Bernard Gonder, Richard Stemple, Morris Butler, Elvin Iman, Francis Nethkin and R. Lohr, councilmen; Thomas Gonder, treasurer; Lester Winters, chief of police; Charles Dodge, attorney; Bill DeBerry, weighmaster; Ralph Turney, magistrate; Richard Stemple, chairman water committee; G. Harris, street commissioner; C. Browning, tax collector; J. Nordeck, water superintendent; Howard Rathbun, city clerk.

These officers will have charge of the town and its affairs this evening from 7:00 until 8:00 o'clock and will be called upon to decide a number of civic questions to be brought before them by citizens of the community.

A volunteer fire company has also been organized and will be addressed by a member of the fire department.

Dr. McComas addressed the high school students Monday on "Health," and Mayor Fraley addressed them on Tuesday on "Education."

Tomorrow afternoon at 2:15 the boys of Oakland and of the surrounding communities will be guests of the Rotary Club at a movie in the Maryland theatre. Friday evening a nation-wide radio hook-up, with special addresses to boys, may be heard.

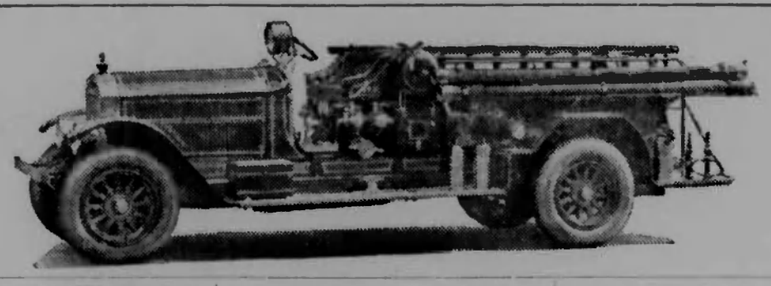
Saturday is the Rotary's suggestion that the boys spend the day out of doors in hikes or games, which will bring to a close the first annual celebration of Boys' Week here.

Thus far the week has been an enjoyable one both for the boys and the men who have taken an active part in carrying out the set program. Rev. C. A. Shilke, H. C. Sincell and R. R. Gilbert composed the committee and arranged the program.

SERIES OF FOREST PLANTINGS IS BEGUN IN GARRETT

Four Thousand Trees Being Set Out on Brier Ridge.

Four thousand trees are being planted on Brier Ridge, near Swallow Falls, in Garrett county, which marks the beginning of a series of plantings by the State Forestry Department according to H. C. Buckingham, district forester, in charge of the work. Two thousand trees of all kinds are being planted in open fields and two thousand are being used for experimental purposes.



The two thousand trees for experimental purposes are being planted beneath thorn bushes to ascertain whether or not they can overcome the hardships. The thornbushes, Mr. Buckingham stated, will be subject to a poisonous preparation which should kill them.

"The forestry program for the last two years has laid special emphasis upon the need of State forests," he said. "Up to a year ago the totnl area of State forests was a little less than 5,000 acres. This past year, however, 5,000 acres was added and the Legislature of 1929 has made available the sum of $50,000 for the next two years for further purchase of land for State forests. While this is a small amount compared with the present needs, it is a real beginning, and places Maryland in line with the more progressive states to the north of us which have definite forest acquisition programs."

The erection of a lookout tower on Dan's Rock, which was under Mr. Buckingham's charge, has been completed. This is one of the highest points in Allegany county, near Midland, and forests can be observed in all of that section and in parts of West Virginia. A. L. Sines, district forest warden, was in charge of the masonry work at this tower.

In connection with cooperation from other states, Mr. Buckingham stated that Pennsylvania had been showing fine courtesy along the northern border of Garrett county.

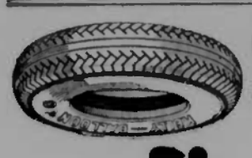
- Oakland's New Fire Truck Has Arrived -

The American-LaFrance, type "75" tripe combination pumper, fire fighting apparatus, recently purchased by the Oakland Volunteer Fire Department for the sum of $12,500, arrived in Oakland on Tuesday and will be unloaded by a member of the LaFrance company, assisted by the members of the department either this afternoon or tomorrow.

The new truck has a capacity of 750 gallons per minute. The most important specifications nre as follows:

Motor, six cylinders, 5½-inch bore by 6-inch stroke; 115 horsepower; wheelbase, 172 inches; gasoline capacity, 50 gallons, gravity feed; 1 electrically operated siren horn; a hose cnpacity of 1200 feet of 2½-inch hose; 200 feet of ¾-inch chemical hose carried in box at rear; one 20 foot extension ladder; one 12-foot roof ladder with folding hooks; two lengths suction hose, two 2½-gallon Babcock extinguishers; and other necessary equipment.

In place of the 40-gallon chemical tank, there is an 80-gallon booster tank, which will contain wnter, and which can be turned on any fire thru the chemical hose.



The American-LaFrance "75" is used by nearly two thousand fire departments and the company claims that it leads its field in every State.

The Locomobile truck, which has served Oakland and vicinity since December, 1926, has been sold to an Eastern Shore city for $3,000. This still leaves the Oakland department with the Dodge chemical truck which has 170 gallons of chemical ready for any need, and with the addition of the new combination pumper truck, Oakland's volunteer fire fighters are ready to subdue the most serious blaze at short notice, Mr. George Kerins, fire chief, stated.

Chemical Truck to Remain in City

"The chemical truck will not go to fires outside the vicinity of Oakland hereafter," Mr. Kerins said. The new pumper truck will be able to take care of any needs, where no water connections are available, and the chemical truck will be retained in Oakland for any emergency that might arise during the absence of the pumper."

The cost of the new machine will be distributed over a period of six years and will be paid for by the fire department from its funds.

Better Dairy Methods Gain Millions

One of the ways to secure more profit or secure a better price for farm products is to lower the cost of production. If we hope to continue our dairy program and compete with dairymen who have spent their lives in the dairy business we are goirg to have to adopt improved practices. The following is a report from B. H. Crockeron, director of extension work in California on work done in California, which could be demonstrated in Garrett county just as well as in California.

"At the beginning of 1920 the California extension service set up as a goal, to be reached in 10 years, a state average production of 265 pounds of butterfat per cow. Seven years' concentration on a dairy improvement program, including proper feeding, breeding, and culling, has brought them well on their way to accomplishment of the goal within the time set.

During the seven years the number of cows under test in the regularly organized cow-testing or dairy-herd improvement associations increased from 30,000 to over 70,000. The work of these associations is the basis for the improvement program. From the testing records is derived the information necessary for proper feeding, or breeding and the detection of unprofitable animals in the herd.

Other factors in bringing up the average in butterfat production have been competitions both in individual production and community records, efficiency studies of individual herds, use of better breeding stock, improvement of health of herds, provision of better facilities for care and management of herds, introduction of better management methods and better stock through the dairy work of boys and girls who are 4-H club members Only the sustained effort of the extension staff and dairy cattle owners on a long time program, however, director Crockeron believes, has made it possible to thus move forward the entire production of a state and collectively influence the average of over half a million animals

It is better for a poultryman to spend his money on proper feed and equipment than on dead chicks.

—0—

Most of the parasitic forms of infection found in poultry are soil borne. The spread is from infected stoek through the soil to the healthy chick. Sanitation is the best method of control and a sanitation program should be followed in every detail.

For best results cockrels should be separated from pullets just as soon as they can be recognized. This will give the pullets more room and the males can be forced for an earlier market.

May is the time for bugs and insects to begin to appear. Insects that feed on plants by eating the foilage may be controlled by a poison spray or dust, while the sucking insects may be controlled with a contact spray.

Habits are formed by doing things. Let's be more careful of the things we do.

SCHOOL COSTS IN COUNTIES OF STATE PUT AT $7,787,000

Sum for Maintenance In 1928 Was $270,000 More Than in The Year Preceding

It cost $7,787,000 to operate the public schools in twenty-three counties of Maryland last year, according to an announcement made Saturday by the State Department of Education. The State contributed $2,478,000, or 32 per cent, of the total amount, and the counties levied $5,309,000, or 68 per cent.

The sum for current school maintenance was $270,000 more than the preceding year, the increase in the State appropriation being $149,000 and in the county levies $121,000.

There was great variation in the percentage of the county school expense budget contributed by the State, namely, from sixty-two per cent in Somerset down to nineteen per cent in Allegany.

Somerset, Calvert, Charles, Garrett and St. Mary's received more than half of the amount expended for the schools, other than debt service and capital outlay, from State funds. The counties are arranged below in the order of percentage of funds received from the State:

| | Per Cent from State |
|---|---|
| Average county | 32 |
| *Somerset | 62 |
| *Calvert | 60 |
| *Charles | 58 |
| *Garrett | 57 |
| *St. Mary's | 54 |
| *Caroline | 48 |
| *Worcester | 48 |

| Allegany | 19 |

*Receives equalization fund.

Equalization Fund Explained

The equalization fund is explained as "any county which cannot carry the minimum State program for trained teachers and the minimum State salary schedule on a local county tax rate of 67 cents on the assessable basis taxable at the full rate is given sufficient aid from the Equalization Fund to make it possible to carry the minimum program."

Of every dollar spent in the counties for conducting the public schools last year 71 cents were used to pay teachers' salaries, 5 cents for books and educational materials, 2 cents for supervision of schools, 3 cents for general administration, 7 cents for cleaning and heating buildings, 3 cents for repairing buildings, 7 cents for transporting pupils, health work and school libraries, and 2 cents for tuition to adjoining counties, insurance, rent and other miscellaneous items.

Increase in Pupils Noted.

The average number of pupils enrolled in the country schools for whom this money was expended totaled 147,000, an increase of 3,100 pupils over the preceding year.

The cost per pupil, obtained by dividing maintenance costs by the average of pupils enrolled in all types of schools—elementary, high and colored—was $52.62, an increase of 65 cents over the preceding year. Queen Anne's, Baltimore, Calvert, Frederick, Allegany, Harford and Washington counties had lower expenditures per pupil in 1928 than in 1927. The largest increases were found in Cecil, Howard, Anne Arundel, St. Mary's and Garrett counties, all of which employed a larger proportoin of trained and experienced teachers than in the preceding year.

Cost Per Pupil Varies

The cost per pupil varied from $67 in Garrett county, which has many small one-teacher schools and no colored enrollment, to $41 in Charles county, which has a large colored enrollment. The counties in order of amount expended per pupil enrolled are as follows:

| | 1928 Cost per Pupil |
|---|---|
| Average county | $53 |
| *Garrett | 67 |
| *Carroll | 64 |
| Allegany | 62 |
| *Kent | 58 |
| Montgomery | 57 |
| *Queen Anne's | 57 |
| Cecil | 56 |
| Baltimore | 56 |
| Howard | 53 |
| *Prince George's | 51 |
| *Caroline | 51 |
| Talbot | 51 |
| Anne Arundel | 49 |
| *Worcester | 49 |
| Frederick | 49 |
| *Wicomico | 48 |
| Harford | 48 |
| *Dorchester | 48 |
| Washington | 45 |
| *Somerset | 43 |
| *Calvert | 43 |
| *St. Mary's | 42 |
| *Charles | 41 |

*Received equalization fund.

High school pupils cost twice as much as elementary school pupils. The education of the average county pupil in the white elementary schools costs $48 and the instruction for the average white high school pupil costs $96.

On our own streets Essex the Challenger, under competent observation, averaged 20 miles per gallon. The average owner in this city can expect 18 to 20 miles and upward. Commercial users operating large fleets of Essex cars say that service and maintenance costs, covering millions of miles of operation, are lowest of any car ever tested.

ESSEX challenges the performance, the style, the luxurious roomy comfort of any car at any price, on the basis that no other gives you back so much for every dollar you put in.

That is why the big buying swing is to Essex. That is why motorists by thousands are switching from past favorites, and trading in their old cars for the big values Essex the Challenger gives. Essex challenges:

IN SPEED—challenging anything the road offers up to 70 miles an hour. IN FAST GETAWAY—any car regardless of size or price. IN RELIABILITY—60 miles an hour for hour after hour.

Essex offers a completeness of fine car equipment formerly identified only with costly cars, and available, when at all, only as "extras," at extra cost on cars of Essex price.

CHILD HEALTH DAY

The day so-called has been observed before, but Mr. Hoover, long president of the Child Health Association, has this year attracted country-wide attention to the celebration by designating the first of May as a day set apart for "mobilizing the good will of the country toward childhood." The President's proclamation stated with obvious truth that "the march forward of our country must be upon the feet of children." Usually stress is laid only on the education of the youth who will later have the destinies of America in their hands. But developed minds without sound bodies can not go far, and so President Hoover urges "every reasonable effort to bring about a nation-wide understanding of the fundamental significance of healthy childhood and of the importance of the conservation of the health and physical vigor of our boys and girls throughout every day of the year."

A prompt response to this appeal from the White House took the form of the munificent gift of ten million dollars from Senator Couzens for the promotion of "the health, welfare, happiness and development of children." So much money for such a purpose ought to have enduring as well as beneficent results. But just how, in what best ways, can it be explained? This question from the interested has not been answered. But, with undoubtedly good reason, "it is assumed that it will be spent in such approved ways as the Child Health Association and other organizations of sound purpose and practical experience advise."

In Recognition of Mother.

Sunday, May 12, has been officially designated as Mother's Day. For that reason it has more than usual significance and a special appeal to millions of men and women, boys and girls throughout the land.

From pulpits and from newspapers will come words of praise for the mothers of the land for their loving sacrifice, for their unselfishness, for their goodness

So long as the love of a good mother continues to rule our hearts, so long as she sits enthroned in our deepest affections, just so long will the standard of right thinking, of clean living, of humanity and generosity be recognized and respected.

We may be thankful for Mother's Day if it does nothing more than cause us to pause long enough to pay a loving tribute to those mothers living and to shed a tear in loving remembrance of those who have passed on.

Sousa to be Heard over Radio Next Monday

John Philip Sousa and his world famous band will be heard over the radio for the first time on Monday evening, May 6, in an hour broadcast, sponsored by Chevrolet Motor company to signalize the achievement of placing on the road over a half million new six cylinder cars in four months time.

The radio debute of the famous "March King" will come through the National Broadcasting company coast to coast chain during the regular General Motors "Family Hour, starting at 8:30 p. m.

According to H. C. Edwards, local dealer, Chevrolet was particularly fortunate in seeking an attraction to emphasize its latest record to secure the first radio performance of this famous director-composer who has been an American institution for the past two decades.

"Naturally, we Chevrolet dealers are proud that our company has been instrumental in introducing Sousa and his band to the microphone," Mr. Edwards said. "We are equally proud, however, of the occasion marked by Sousa's first broadcast. By putting on the road over 500,000 new Chevrolet sixes since January 1, we have established a record never before duplicated by any dealer organization distributing six cylinder automobiles. In fact, no other dealer organization in the history of six cylinder manufacture has ever equalled this record in the course of a full year."

MRS. RICHARD M'KENZIE

Funeral services for Mrs. Richard McKenzie, aged 65 years, who died at her home near Avilton, Garrett county, on Monday, were held yesterday morning from St. Anne's Catholic church in Avilton. Rev. ### MRS. JEANETTE C. HURST

Mrs. Jeanette C. Hurst, widow of the late William B. Hurst, departed this life Friday, April 26th, after an illness of several months, at her home in Cambridge, Ohio. Funeral services held in that city were very largely attended. Her remains were brought to Oakland for interment, accompanied by Mr. Ralph R. Castor, her brother; Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Spec, brother-in-law and sister; Mrs. Hamilton and Mrs. Brown, sisters; Mary Jeanette, ten-year old daughter, and Mrs. Snow, sister-in-law, of Galesburg, Ill., with whom Mary Jeanette will make her home in the future.

The party arrived at the Weber home Monday afternoon where brief services were held in the presence of former neighbors and friends, after which interment was made in the burial plot nearby.

Many people of this community will remember Mrs. Hurst from her pleasing personality and estimable qualities. She was an active member of the International Bible Students Association, with which she was affiliated for a number of years. She was wholly devoted to her Lord and was happy in His service. She believed implicitly in the near approach of the Kingdom of God, which will rule over all the earth and which will prove to be "the desire of all nations." She is now forever with the Lord as a member of that company variously styled by the New Testament writers as a "holy nation," a "peculiar people," "the bride of Christ," "the little flock," "members of Christ's body," etc., who will reign with Him a thousand years on the earth as kings and priests.

In other words, licensees may take out licenses at any time during the month of May without having to pay a penalty, but on and after June 1st anyone applying for a license, who was in business in the month of May preceding, is required to pay, in addition to the cost of the license, a penalty of ten per cent per month or fraction of a month. In the case of persons starting in business during the license year they are only required to take out a license for the remaining part of the year, but they must take out their license in the month in which they begin business.

BAITS NOT DIGNIFIED IN MERCHANDISING, IS PLEA

Prof. Boyle of Cornell University, Points Out Damage Done Agricultural Interests By Methods of Chain Stores

FARM PRICES DEPRESSED

Use by Chains of Farm Products as Baits Demoralizes Markets and Farmers Suffer—Urges Cooperative Associations

(From The Retail Grocer)

Warning the farmers that the chain stores will put prices down as low as the traffic will bear, Prof. James E. Boyle, professor of Rural Economy of Cornell University, Ithaca, New York, suggests a strong national organization of farmers as the only hope of dealing with the demoralization caused by the tactics of the chain stores in depressing farm prices.

Probably no man in the country is better able to discuss the chain store problem as it affects the farmers of the country than Prof. Boyle, who is a distinguished economist and who has made an intensive and extensive study of the subject. He has written a number of articles on the effect the practices of the chain stores have had on agricultural interests that have attracted nation-wide interest.

In an article just written for an agricultural publication, Prof. Boyle discusses in a logical and convincing manner the damage chain stores have done to the farming interests and suggests organization on the part of the farmers as the only remedy to counteract the damage. He severely criticises the methods of the chains and declares that the methods used are hardly worthy of an honorable merchant.

Chains Are Dangerous Competitors

"The greatest market development of the last fifty years is the chain store movement," says Prof. Boyle. "These stores are retailing every farm and factory products now on the market, but their greatest growth is in the food lines, that is, in those lines which most concern the farmer. Already eight hundred grocery chains operate sixty thousand unit stores doing a business of three billion dollars a year.

"The largest of these, the A. & P., had 8,500 stores five years ago, and today it has 17,000 stores with a total business of $700,000,000 a year. It is estimated that in another year the chains will control at least 50 per cent of the retail food business of the country. Their admitted economies prove that they are here to stay. Their strong financial position makes them dangerous competitors for the independent retailer, for the jobbers and the wholesalers."

Prof. Boyle says that this tremendous growth of the chain store means that certain new and serious questions face the farmer, such as the following: "What effect will they have on the price of his product? What effect will they have on the standardization of agricultural products? What effect will they have on the consumption of farm products?" He then answers these questions.

Demoralized Potato Market

"In the fall of 1928," he states, "many of the chain stores put on a special 'potato week,' selling their potatoes below cost There was a big crop of good potatoes. Regular potato buyers were nervous over the future trend of the market, and they were on the verge of becoming panicky. Therefore, when the chain stores used the potato as a leader or as bait, it was the last straw.

"The market was demoralized. There is no mystery about the psychology of the market. Dealers facing a probable loss simply withdrew as buyers and waited. Especially is this true in the fruit and vegetable market, where the stuff itself is perishable and the wholesale buyer can not protect himself with forward contracts.

"So the price of potatoes fell so low that many fields remained undug; in other sections farmers sold for as low as ten cents a bushel. The big crop meant a low price, it may be admitted; but chain store policy still further depressed this low price. The farmer was the shock absorber. He bore the brunt of it, for he could not shift either the risk or the loss to other shoulders."

Is Typical Chain Merchandising

Prof. Boyle points this out as unfortunately typical of chain store merchandising policy. He then takes up the canning crops and says that every year some canner of peas, corn, tomatoes, peaches and so on cans too big a pack. He rushes to the chain stores with his surplus. They recognize this surplus as "distress" merchandise and drive a hard bargain, often buying below cost of production.

This stuff then becomes a leader. The effect, if the chain be a large one, is to depress prices of the product over the whole United States, for the market is very sensitive Here again the farmer is the shock absorber in the end, for canners protect themselves best by paying farmers less.

"This type of merchandising, offering bait to lure customers, is not dignified merchandising," says Prof. Boyle. "It is harly worthy of an honorable merchant. Our merchant princes, our Filenes, our Wanamakers, our Marshall Fields, our Jevnes—have not resorted to such dodges. May the chain stores see the error of their ways! Genuine clearance sales have nothing in common with the 'bait' system now used by some chains."

Famous For Depressing Prices

"The buyers of the chain stores," continues Prof. Boyle, "are famous for their power in pushing for lower prices. They consider themselves frankly as the consumer's agents and representatives. The economies in mass buying they claim to pass on to the consumer. This is their main claim to patronage. When the farmers, through their co-operatives, sell to the chain store, there is direct conflict of interest—the co-operative representing the producer and the chain the consumer.

"About one half of the co-operatives in the United States that have done business with the chains have found the business satisfactory, about half of them found the business unsatisfactory. Thus, a New England egg co-operative tied up with a chain store as its sole outlet. Then the chain began to beat down the price. In the end the co-operative was put completely out of business. On the other hand, a large co-operative in the middle west was asked to sign up with a chain for its total output. It declined, with thanks, and built up outlets through several different channels. Now it is a prosperous and powerful co-operative.

While Prof. Boyle criticises the methods of the chains, he gives the devil his due and points out as one of the better aspects of chain merchandising, the fact that they are forcing standardization on some farmers' co-operatives. He points out that the chain can buy to advantage only well standarized products. And greater standardization, he declares, is one of the most fundamental needs of co-operative marketing today.

Farmers Must Change Methods

Another claim in favor of the chain, he finds, is that by its process of lowering prices and promoting standardization and quality, it is hereby increasing consumption of these same food products "But," he asks, "how get your increasing production along with lower prices? This question brings us to the final effect the chain stores will likely have on farmers." This, he finds, will be to cause the farmers to change their marketing methods and adjust their production to the demand.

Chain stores, as buyers, may be compared with an army facing a mob. The farmers who have stuff to sell to the chain need to be mobilized as one cooperative manager puts it, "the only successful way to cope with the situation is for producers to combine in strong, well financed, and ably managed co-operatives, the management of which has the guts to initiate a strong sales policy and stay with it in spite of hell and high water."

"The chains," concludes Prof. Boyle, "will put prices down as low as the traffic will bear, that is, to the point where the efficient farmer will get all his stuff is worth but no more."

Are You Always Ready to Entertain a Neighbor Or Do You Dread the Coming of Company?

Of course this depends on how the house looks and how you feel. If you have had a strenuous day of cleaning and in the kitchen you are in no mood either to go out or to entertain at home.

In short, your mental attitude depends on how much work you do yourself and how much you permit electricity to do for you. If you risk your health and happiness trying to do work which electricity will do so well for just a few cents a day you cannot expect to be at your best either to family or friends.

Recently since new optional rates for electricity in the home were announced here, housewives are finding they can operate many more appliances so economically it is folly to worry about doing work by laborious old-fashioned methods.

New Domestic Rates Mean Cheaper Conveniences

Under the new domestic rates of this company, you may now secure electricity for your home or eight and a half cents a kilowatt hour for the first twenty-five kilowatt hours, five and a half cents a kilowatt hour for the next twenty-five kilowatt hours, and three and a half cents a kilowatt hour for all additional kilowatt hours. This is subject to a prompt payment discount of half a cent a kilowatt hour.

This rate means you can now afford to own and operate those desired appliances which mean so much in the home. For full information on the savings possible under the new rates, have them explained by the contract clerk or any representative of the appliance department.

Use Listerine

The elephant gave a mighty toot,
The length of his proboscis,
The dainty monkey pinched her snoot
And hollered, "Halitosis." (unpleasant breath.)

The Chicago wrecking crew, led by Simon Legree Cogley, attained a world's record for endurance when they razed the large edifice adjoining the William James, last week. The last post hole was filled in just three days, three nights, four hours, 31 minutes, and 51 seconds after the signal to begin.

Big Time Stuff

Not kidding a speck, the parade on Sunday was well worth watching, for several reasons. The snappy appearance of the Terra Alta outfit was a sight to behold, and could they not have played a measure, their appearance would have more than made up for it. But they played too.

The Boys' band came down the street like veterans, and although they didn't have the military bearing so outstanding in the Terra Alta band, they had music in their system and they let it out to the satisfaction of the spectators. In fact, the whole affair was well worth the attention of all. Scoop had Col. Bell snap a picture of Oakland's drum major as he cavorted through the streets.

"Show" Not All Over

Circumstances during the past week lead Scoop and Col. Bell to believe that all may not be over at Garrett county's Hollywood town. One of the actors, at least, seems to be "acting up," and since there is still a chance of framing the ten-reel film Col. Bell has ordered the grandstand and all the props and property to be left in that vicinity for use whenever necessary. The machine, which arrived last week, has been set up and is shown with the Col., getting ready for the Corn Festival, due now most any time.

Corn Festival Postponed a Week

For reasons stated below the Corn Festival is going to be postponed at least one week. Some of the details have not as yet been arranged, and as everybody is looking for this to be the big affair of the year, it should not be held until everything is in readiness.

Those in charge are hard at work on advertising and publicity matters, in hope that a number of varieties of corn may be exhibited from counties in West Virginia, Pennsylvania, Virginia, and Maryland.

Here are just a few reasons:

1. It's too wet.

2. One of the nominees has copper poisoning.

3. Weather is too cool, but as soon as the bloom comes out, the time will be ripe.

4. The candidates are in an argument over which kind of shirts they will wear in the parade—stiff bosom, or silk. The danger of a stiff bosom shirt, they say, is that if it rains or a drop would hit the shirt, it would bounce, and perhaps cause damage, at least leave a mark.

5. Another of the candidates is limping around town due to the fact that he has his corn mashed and he won't be in shape for at least a week.

Other Nominations

Scoop has received a number of extra nominations from numerous sources, but these are being withheld for at least a week and maybe longer. (Scoop is open to bribery.)

It is rumored that a small majority want the corn festival discontinued indefinitely, but for the good of Garrett county, a festival of this kind should be held every now and then.

At a special meeting of the American Legion last Friday night the members heartily endorsed the corn festival as sponsored by Scoop and Col. Bell, and gave their permission to use the gun that is now on the Court house lawn. The cannon balls don't fit, but that doesn't matter. It's the principal of the thing that counts. They also gave Scoop permission to use the collection of machine guns, helmits, bullet proof vests, etc., now stored on the second floor of The Republican office.

Other societies backing Scoop include Allegany Chapter No. 2, Order of Night Prowlers, and the Ancient Society for the Cure of D. Ts.

MT. LAKE PARK.

The Art of Thinking and Other Arts

As we sat on the porch admiring the purplish haze hanging over Backbone mountain and wondering what we could put in the space devoted to the Park that would perhaps be interesting to a few, and finding our thoughts barren, we picked up a little volume entitled "The Art of Thinking," by Ernest Demnet, a French Abbe. The theme is as fascinating as the manner in which it is presented. When we had read a portion the thought (not new or startling) came to us that there is an art in every worthwhile thing we do, great or small.

The Art of Printing, whether of books or newspapers, has benefited countless millions. Civilzation would not have reached its present high state had it not been for the books and public press. Connected with it is the Art of Make-up. We are pleased when the news is properly presented.

We stand entranced before the works of Art—a picture, a sculptured figure, a beautifully designed home or decorated room. We are lost in admiration and sometimes envy the skill of the artist.

There is the Art of Cooking. The chef who can prepare and artistically serve an attractive and appetizing dinner, commands our admiration. He is an artist in his line.

Then there is the Art of Merchandising and the Art of Advertising and so on almost indefinitely.

None of these arts, however, except perhaps the Art of Printing, touches the great mass of people. But there is another Art that does, and that is the Art of Community Building.

The man or set of men who can arouse and direct public spirit that will not be satisfied until all branches of public service and all factions of civic life are unified and enlisted under the motto: "All for one and one for all," will live in the hearts of future generations.

Who will so inflame public spirit to the point where it is not satisfied with anything less than the best for the town or community, to the point where the differences of all sects and creeds will be forgotten when the public good is at stake; to the point where there are no Democrats or Republicans, no Methodists, Baptists, Catholics, Presbyterians or agnostics, but all citizens of the town and community—that man, or set of men, that woman, or set of women, will erect a monument of love, affection and service to which his children's children will point with pride.

The Art of Community Building should be developed.

Celebrated Her Natal Day

Mrs. Mary A. Busselle quietly celebrated her birthday last Saturday surrounded by her family and a few friends.

We could not help but recall the sentiment that "to so live the passing years that contentment and serenity will be life's portion, is a gift of the gods."

Facing the sunset of life, firmly fixed in the faith that "there is a Divinity that shapes our ends, rough hew them as we may," Mrs. Busselle has that happy faculty from the association of her many friends and within her family circle.

Personal Mention.

Dr. and Mrs. Logan Carr motored to the Park from Baltimore Monday for a stay of a few days, returning to the east Wednesday.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred. C. Fleming spent a few days at the Park recently, having motored from their home at Fairmont, West Va.

Everyone seems to have the clean-up spirit. The Park looks fine.

State Game Warden E. Lee LeCompte has notified the District Wardens, including Wiley Welling, stationed at the Park, that it is unlawful to permit any dog to run at large on other property than that of the owner between March and September 1.

For a violation of this act a fine of $25 to $100 is provided. Arrests are also to be made for violations of the law respecting fishing. Better be safe than be sorry.

Mrs. E. L. Winchell is having her cottage, "Journey's End," remodeled and repainted.

Mr. Bruce Falkenstine, employed in Pennsylvania, has been spending a few days at his home here.

Mrs. Laughlin, who has spent the winter with relatives in Fairmont, W. Va., arrived at the Park this morning.

Marvin Harmison, employed on a dairy farm in Pennsylvania, about 18 miles from Pittsburgh, is home for a few days. We understand that his father, Mr. B. L. Harmison, of near Romney, West Va., has been quit ill but is now improving.

Mrs. Alma Bell and daughter Vivian have moved to Cumberland, where they are employed.

Rev. Fultz, U. B. minister, has been assisting Rev. Westfall of Deer Park, in a series of revival meetings.

State Senator Fookes, president of the Mount Airy Canning Company, whose home is in Denton, Md., was a business visitor here this week.

Mr. B. W. Harvey has returned home from a business trip to Monterey, Va.

Mr. and Mrs. H. V. Leighton, with their daughter Helen, of the Park, and Mrs. Frank Jenkins, of Terra Alta, motored to Lima, Ohio, Friday, where they visited Mr. and Mrs. L. W. Stephenson until Monday, when they returned.

Mr. H. C. Leighton returned home on Sunday from Fairmont, W. Va., accompanied by Mrs. Leighton, who had been on a visit to relatives there.

A carload of oranges and grape fruit has been received from Florida which was harvested on the property of the Mt. Lake Fruit Company, owned by individuals of this community.

Crystal Spring and the property of the Association on the lake has all been changed in appearance, while Pilgrim's Rest on the walk toward the postoffice and railway station has been re-roofed.

The repair and painting of buildings on every hand is going on and as a result the Park begins to present a different appearance.

Mr. G. B. M. Friend has returned to his farm in Pleasant Valley and has rented his Park cottage to Mr. F. J. Turney, who is moving into it today.

Mrs. J. P. Allen, of Cumberland, is here opening her cottage for the summer.

Fire Department Answers Call From Jasper Riley Tuesday

Fire, supposedly originating from the chimney was discovered at the home of Jasper Riley, a farmer, south of Loch Lynn, about noon Tuesday.

A call was sent in to the Oakland Volunteer Department and the two trucks made a record run to the place, but neighbors had the fire well under control and practically extinguished when the local company arrived. A portion of the roof was destroyed.

BOYS LEARN HOW COUNCIL MEETINGS ARE CONDUCTED

Local High School Youths Enter Into Affairs of Government Showing Unusual Interest

Lessons in parliamentary procedure and in conducting city affairs were learned by a group of high school boys last Thursday evening at the City Council chamber, Oakland, in the program of celebrating Boys' Week, sponsored by the Oakland Rotary Club through its Boys' Work Committee.

Decisions as to the repair of streets, erection of buildings, etc., were made by the council as if its members were really conducting the governmental affairs of the town.

The meeting was called to order by Kermit Lohr, mayor; Elvin Iman, the president of council; Bernard Gonder, Jr., Richard E. Stemple, Francis Nethkin, Robert Lohr and Maurice Butler, councilmen; Thomas Gonder, Jr., treasurer; Lester Winters, chief of police; Frank Welling, city attorney; Joseph Sollars, weighmaster; Ralph Turney, magistrate; Cheston Browning, Jr., tax collector; Howard Rathbun, clerk, were all present and took active parts in the proceedings.

The minutes of the meeting were as follows:

Report of the water committee by James Nordeck, stating that there was ten feet of water in the reservoir and that two dozen new meters were required, was laid over until the next meeting.

The street committee, Bernard Gonder, chairman, reported that the following streets needed repair: Second street, between Pennington and Liberty; gutter on Green street, corner Third and Oak streets to railroad bridge and from the Youghiogheny River bridge to corporation line. Motions to repair were carried. Steps on hill above Browning's filling station to be built of wood was recommended and on motion was laid over until next meeting.

Refused Permit for Garage.

Rev. Charles A. Shilke and Delbert Davis requested that they be permitted to erect a filling station and garage on the vacant lot opposite the Lutheran church. Request was refused.

Lester Winters, of the police department reported that the town was very orderly. He reported the arrest of a man a few nights ago when attempting to rob Dixon's store.

Cheston Browning, tax collector, reported that he had had no refusals to pay taxes.

Committee appointed to ascertain the cost of building a gymnasium for town.

Citizen John Melatire petitioned that Main street be repaired. "It is hard on bicycle riders," he said. Action deferred until next meeting.

Adjournment was had at 9:00 p. m.

The method of collecting taxes was explained to the junior council by A. G. Ross, City Clerk, and Rev. Shilke, R. R. Gilbert, Delbert Davis and E. R. Jones, explained other necessary proceedings of the council when in regular session.

Unusual interest was shown by the boys, according to those present, and it was felt that the effort had been well worth while.

The rest of the week was celebrated hy the boys of the community when they attended the Maryland Theatre Friday afternoon to witness the presentation of a movie, and in spending Saturday out of doors as much as possible.

Dr. A. B. Riker. Former M. E. Pastor Here, Dies

It was first announced that "The Desert Pirate" would be the attraction, but it was stated that Freckles would be a much better picture for the occasion.

The Ladies' Auxiliary is also planning on a card party in the K. of P. hall during the week of May 20. Everybody is asked to help the scouts. The proceeds will go toward camp expenses.

Arrested For Not Sending Children To School

William DeWitt, Crellin, was fined $10 and costs by Justice of the Peace E. I. West Saturday after he had been adjudged guilty of violating the school attendance law in keeping his children from school. Mrs. Amos Moats, also of Crellin, was fined a like amount on the same charge. In default of payment of the fines and costs both parties are spending ten days in the Garrett County Jail.

Minstrel Is Postponed.

On account of the busy spring season, the Kentucky Minstrel, a local talent show, which was to have been presented at the Maryland Theatre early in May for the benefit of the Gilbert-Brown Boys' Band, has been indefinitely postponed, R. R. Gilbert, director, has announced.

"Just at this time everybody has the travel fever and is too busy with other things," Mr. Gilbert said. "The minstrel will probably be given in the fall of the year."

Priest To Become First Flying Missionary

Shilke, of Oakland, motored to Gettysburg, Pa., Monday where Revs. Waybright and Shilke are attending a meeting of the alumni of Pennsylvania College and the graduaing exercises of Gettysburg Theological Seminary. They expect to return to Oakland Friday.

COMPLETION OF HUNDRED YEARS OBSERVED SUNDAY

Oakland M. E. Sunday School Finishes Century of Usefulness and Activity in Community

The Sunday School of St. Paul's Methodist Episcopal Church celebrated the completion of one hundred years' of activity and usefulness in this community last Sunday, May 5, having been in continuous existence since April, 1829.

A service of commemoration was held at the regular session of the Sunday school at 9:45 o'clock in the morning, and at the night service a very large congregation, including a large number of out-of-town visitors, attended the formal celebration of the centenary event. The program, in charge of Mr. E. R. Jones, superintendent, was as follows:

Traces Development

Mr. Thayer, in his address, told of the organization of the Sunday school in 1829 by Colonel Isaac McCarty, at the George Loar farm, now known as the George Shartzer farm, near Oakland. He traced its development, referring to old records and minutes, still extant, which show that it was next housed in a school building on the McCarty farm (now called the Totten farm and owned by George Helbig), and when the town of Oakland was laid out by Colonel McCarty was moved to the original Methodist church structure, the pioneer church of the town, on the site of the present building. He referred to the close association between the history of the Sunday school and the town, both of which had the same founder, and related that in the century of its existence the school had had but eight superintendents: Col. McCarty, Rev. Thomas Sampson, William Loar, Singleton L. Townshend, Ralph Thayer, the Rev. John M. Davis (who served 41 consecutive years) Fred. A. Thayer and Ernest Ray Jones.

Mr. Harned spoke of the present status of the Sunday school and contrasted modern methods of teaching with those of the past, stressing the thought that attentive and persistent reading of the Bible itself was unfortunately declining, while Mr. Delbert Davis stated that the opportunities and responsibilities of the Sunday school in the future would be greater than ever before and that the rise of new conditions demanded even better and more earnest work than in the days gone by.

Mr. James A. Enlow made an interesting impromptu talk, referring to his early days in the Sunday school and church, and a letter of congratulation from St. Mark's Lutheran church was read by Mr. Jones.

In front of the chancel the gold-topped cane presented to Rev. John M. Davis upon his retirement from office in 1906, and no wheld in trust by his successor as superintendent, was exhibited, together with Mr. George Loar's ancient Bible and manuscript meetings of the Sunday school.

Upon leaving the church following the evening service each person was presented with a memorial pamphlet containing much valuable information and history of the Sunday school and church.

Two Arrested Following Automobile Accidents

William Golia, Coketon, West Va., was arrested Monday following an accident in which the car he was driving collided with the car driven by James Knepp, of Red House. He will be given a hearing on Saturday by W. A. Gonder, justice of the peace.

Seymour J. Lee, of West Virginia, was fined $25 and costs by Justice W. A. Gonder on Saturday following an automobile accident on the highway between Oakland and Crellin. His car came into collision with another car, also driven by a West Virginian.

No one was injured in either of the above accidents.

MAYOR PROCLAIMS WEEK FOR BEAUTIFYING THE CITY

To Begin May 20 and End May 25—Town to be Spotless Memorial Day—To Furnish Trucks

In order to have the town cleaned up and beautified by Memorial Day, May 30, the Mayor and Town Council decided to have clean-up week from May 20 to 25 this year, instead of holding it during the middle of June as was formerly the case.

In connection with the clean-up campaign the City council passed an order to the effect that all rubbish on the properties of residents in Oakland would be hauled away free of charge after it has been raked up and placed conveniently for trucknen to load it. Trucks will be at the disposal of residents on May 23 and 24.

Members of the Oakland Fire Department will assist in washing the Oakland streets.

Decision to strictly enforce the ordinance concerning the traffic lights was made at the council meeting held Monday night. The street committee reported that rock was being broken on Pennington street, Center street, and Wilson street as a foundation to the macadam.

A letter from the Boy Scout Court of Honor, stating its appreciation for the repairs made at the scout hall, and for the council's cooperation at all times, was read at the meeting. Monthly bills were passed and other routine business transacted. The next meeting will be held June 3.

TESTS MADE OF NEW FIRE TRUCK ARE SATISFACTORY

Pumper has Capacity of 780 Gallons of Water Per Minute

Tests made of the American-LaFrance fire fighting apparatus, which was recently purchased by the Oakland Volunteer Fire Department, show that the machine has measured up to expectations in every respect, according to Fire Chief George Kerins and other members of the organization present when a series of tests were made under direction of an engineer from the works manufacturing the apparatus.

The truck was unloaded from the railroad car in which it was brought to Oakland last Friday and a test was made that same day. More sesevere tests were made Monday and Park, and also at Oakland, proving conclusively that the machine had a capacity of forcing 780 gallons of water per minute through a series of hose. Three hose lines were used in the tests. On the straight section of road between Oakland and Crellin the speed of the truck was noted at 65 miles per hour with a full complement of men and equipment.

The old Locomobile truck, which has rendered efficient service, destined for an Eastern Shore city, will be driven to that point the first of the week by Fire Chief Kerins.

BUCKINGHAM ADDRESSES LOCAL TROOP OF SCOUTS

Number of Tests Passed at Meeting and on Short Hike

H. C. Buckingham, district forester, and also a member of the Cumberland Council, Boy Scouts of America, addressed the local troop of Boy Scouts at its regular weekly meeting last Friday evening in the Scout hall. The speaker stressed the importance of the preservation of the forest trees, flowers and other beauties of nature, and made suggestions concerning scout activities both in becoming first class scouts and in merit badge work.

Tests Passed.

A number of the Scouts were busy at the last meeting passing their required tests. David Walter, first aid; Loring Steiding, all of his Tenderfoot requirements but that of tieing knots; Richard Glotfelty, service, safety; Richard Gonder, second class signaling; Gerald Iman, pacing; Jack Treacy, first and second thrift, second signaling, pacing; Bill Kahl, first and second thrift, second signaling; Geo. Stuck, first and second thrift, pacing; Fred. Peddicord, oath and laws; Bud Hamill, first aid.

Eighteen members of the troop went on a hike Sunday afternoon and the following tests were passed: Geo. Stuck, fire building; Fred. Peddicord, and Richard Glotfelty, tracking; Bud Hamill, first signaling and nature.

Get ready to clean up and paint up.

DATE OF PARADE CHANGED TO MAY 20; THREE BANDS

Plans Being Laid for Mammoth Celebration on That Date

That the mammoth celebration of the Knights of Pythias, to be held in Oakland prior to conferring the rank of Page on a large class of candidates, would be held on Monday, May 20, instead of Friday, May 17, as originally planned, was announced by Milburn W. Mann, chancellor commander of the local lodge.

This change was made necessary, Mr. Mann stated, because the supreme keeper of the records and seal found it impossible to be here on the night of May 17. Thus far it is certain that the Terra Alta High school band, Crellin band, and the Gilbert-Brown Boys' band of Oakland will take part in the parade, as also will the D. O. K. K. drum corps and patrol team of Cumberland.

All lodges in Allegany and Garrett counties, Maryland, and perhaps neighboring counties in West Virginia will participate. Several applications for membership had been received, Mr. Mann stated, and the largest number ever to be given the rank in one evening, is expected to be present.

Bids for Repairs Asked

Advertisement asking for bids for the repairing and brick veneering of Castle Hall appears in The Republican today.

Garrett County Has Three Applicants For Citizens' Training

To date only three applicants in Garrett county have filed their papers for the C. M. T. C. training this summer from July 6 to August 4, according to those in charge. These three applicants are Waller Hoye, Ronald Lohr and Andrew Gonder, all of Oakland. Bernard Gonder, Jr., was the only boy to go from this county last year.

The county's quota is ten this year and as the quotas from other counties of the State are being filled, it is urged upon those contemplating attending the camp this year to make their applications as soon as possible.

Application blanks may be obtained from County Superintendent F. E. Rathbun, W. J. Glenn, A. A. LaMar, Miss Kathhrine Conley, Foster Speicher, Asa Lewis, Clarence E. Topping and the principal of the Grantsville high school or any member of the Officers' Reserve Corps.

A physical examination which is necessary before being accepted may be obtained from the family physician. Boys 17 years of age or older are eligible for camp. "The month spent with Uncle Sam at one of these camps will never be regretted," a former attendant states.

POTATO DEMONSTRATION WILL BEGIN TOMORROW

To Be Made in Effort To Control Potato Diseases

The demonstration for the control of potato disease and potato blight, to be conducted on the farm of Perry Umbel, Friendsville, will begin Friday, according to J. H. Carter, county agent. At that time Dr. R. A. Jehle, specialist in pathology, Mr. Walrath and James Coddington will apply the fertilizer.

The work done on Mr. Umbel's farm will be with sprays, dusts, and fertilizers and will be in charge of James Coddington, student at the University of Maryland. The progress will be noted by professors of the university who will make short trips here at various times during the summer.

There will also be some work done at the farm of H. P. Miller, Grantsville. "Much work is being done on the improvement of seed potato stock in Garrett county," Mr. Carter said. "There are now twenty-four applicants for certified seed. H. P. Miller and Olin Yoder, Grantsville, were the only two certified growers last year.

Mr. Carter is planning to have a "potato tour" at the end of the season when the results can be inspected by all those interested and valuable information obtained for next year's crops.

Rev. I. S. Middaugh Speaks To Lutheran Brotherhood

Rev. I. S. Middaugh was the speaker at the regular meeting of St. Mark's Lutheran Brotherhood, held Tuesday evening. His subject was "Enthusiasm." He appealed to the men of the church to get enthusiasm for the work of the Christian religion, to keep pace with the times, and to get excited about the welfare of the church. About 20 were present.

THREE ARRESTED CHARGED WITH ROBBING AGED MAN

Frank, Oliver and Lloyd Sisler, Brothers, Furnish $1500 Bond Each for Appearance at Court

Frank, Oliver and Lloyd Sisler, all brothers, and living near White Rock, south of Friendsville, were arrested early yesterday morning by Deputy Sheriff Joy Griffith and Constable Andrew Shartzer on warrants charging them with the robbery of Elijah Friend of E., of near Sang Run, on April 1st. The three prisoners were brought to Oakland where they waived preliminary hearings and were released from custody upon furnishing bonds in the sum of $1,500 each for their appearance at the June term of the Circuit Court.

The warrants upon which the men were taken into custody charges them with assault and robbery. On the morning of April 1 Mr. Friend was assaulted by three masked men, was beaten and robbed of $850 in cash and some valuable papers. It is stated that Mr. Friend had received the cash as payment on a mortgage from the father of the three boys held on the charge. The money was paid to Mr. Friend about ten o'clock and the assault occurred at noon the same day.

At the time Mr. Friend was unable to identify his assailants as they all wore masks and old clothes, but the aged man's housekeeper states that she feels sure she knows who they were. Mr. Friend was struck in the mouth when he attempted to tear the mask from the face of one of them and his hands were severely cut by wire which had been used by his assailants to tie him.

AMERICAN LEGION MAKING PLANS FOR MEMORIAL DAY

Parade Will Occur Followed by Services at Cemeteries

Decision to have a parade, followed by services at the cemetery in Oakland on Memorial Day, May 30, was made at the last meeting of the local post, American Legion, according to E. P. Kahl, post commander.

The tentative program calls for a street parade about 9:30 and at the cemetery some speaker of prominence will make the address.

The members of the American Legion, Boy Scouts, Knights of Pythias, Gilbert-Brown Boys' Band and other organizations will take part in the parade, as well as members of the G. A. R. and soldiers of the Spanish-American war organization.

Louise Lauer Wins Girls' Contest at O. H. S.

Louise Lauer won first place in the girls' preliminary declamation contest, held at Oakland High school on Monday, and will represent the school in the county-wide contest, to be held at Friendsville on May 17. Betty Gonder was awarded second place. Dorothy Welch and Susanna Dixon, the other two contestants, were so near the two leaders that it was a difficult problem to make the final decision.

Kermit Lohr was awarded first place in the boys' contest with Charles Dodge, second.

Athletic News

The Tiger Lady and a special feature program will be given at the Maryland Theatre Thursday evening, May 16, for the benefit of the high school athletic association. Everyone is asked to make the program a success by being present. The added attractions are most unusual, it is said. Tickets will be 50 cents.

Allegheny Boat Club Preparing For Season

Preparations for the coming boating and swimming season were made at the initial meeting for the year 1929 of the Allegheny Boat club held last night at the City hall.

Probable merger of the Deep Creek Lake Improvement association and the boat club was discussed and this is to be decided at a joint meeting next Wednesday evening. A committee was appointed for this and also one to report on improvements needed at the boat house.

Probabilities that Gorman Thayer would erect a refreshment stand on the club property and in return guard the clubhouse and boats, were also brought out at the meeting.

Mr. and Mrs. E. R. Jones spent yesterday in Cumberland.

Lesson for May 12

THE EARLY MINISTRY OF JEREMIAH

LESSON TEXT—Jeremiah 1:6-10; 26:1-24.

GOLDEN TEXT—We must obey God rather than men.

PRIMARY TOPIC—Doing Hard Things for God.

JUNIOR TOPIC—Doing Hard Things for God.

YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—Fidelity in the

I. Jeremiah's Call (1:6-10).

1. His [illegible] (vv. 1-3).

Before Jeremiah was ordained him a prophet.

2. His difference (v. 6).

This seems to have grown out of his youth and inexperience.

3. His hesitancy overcome (vv. 7, 8).

God graciously appeared unto him and ninistered that he should (1) Go where sent. (2) Speak as commanded. (3) Be unafraid of their faces. The servant of God is called upon to face strong caeulos. (4) Be assured of the divine presence.

4. The divine message given (v. 9).

Not merely the thoughts, but the proper words to express the thoughts, were put into the prophet's mouth.

5. Nature of his ministry (v. 10).

It was to be wider than that of prophesying. Six words are given as descriptive thereof. The first four are destructive in their implication—"root out," "pull down," "destroy," and "throw down"; two constructive, "build," and "plant."

II. Jeremiah's Grief (9:1, cf. 6:10).

The unbelief of the people made him [illegible] less. Seeing so clearly the awful doom which awaited his people and nation, and their willful opposition, he wept sorely.

III. Jeremiah's Prophecy in the Temple Court (26:1-24).

1. Jeremiah's solemn warning to Judah (vv. 1-7).

The Lord commanded him to stand in a conspicuous place in the temple and proclaim the judgment which was about to fall upon them because of their sins. The object was to move them to repentance (v. 3). If they [illegible] Lord and not taken like Shiloh, abandoned, so would it be with the temple.

2. Jeremiah on trial (vv. 8-11).

(1) Cause of arrest (v. 8). It was for faithfully speaking all that the Lord had commanded.

(2) The charge (vv. 8, 9). Thou shalt surely die. They charged him with a capital crime. According to this charge his guilt was twofold: a. Pretending to speak for God. b. Speaking against the temple and the city. According to this charge he was guilty of blasphemy and sacrilege. The one who prophesied without God's command was to be punished by death (Deut. 18:20). Blasphemy was also punishable by death. (Lev. 24:16).

(3) The princes sit in judgment (vv. 10, 11). Matters of state were not entirely in the hands of the priests and elders, but were in part controlled by members of the royal family.

3. Jeremiah's defense (vv. 12-15).

Threats of death did not deter him from preaching, but only made him repeat his message with clearness.

(1) Reiterates his divine commission (v. 12). He plainly told them that he was God's messenger and in opposing him they were opposing God.

(2) His exhortation (v. 13). He urged them to amend their ways and obey God and thus turn aside the divine judgment.

(3) He gave himself up (v. 14). He did not resist the powers of government (Rom. 13:1).

(4) Warns of fatal consequences (v. 15). He told them that God had sent him and that if they killed him they would be guilty of defying God.

4. Jeremiah saved (vv. 16-24).

(1) The judgment of the princes (v. 16). They found him "not guilty."

(2) The speech of the elders (vv. 17-23).

The elders pled for Jeremiah and adduced two cases in illustration: a. Micah (vv. 18, 19). Micah had prophesied against Jerusalem, but King Hezekiah instead of putting him to death, repented, and thus turned aside the punishment which was impending.

b. Urijah (vv. 20-23). Urijah prophesied against the city and the land and thus incurred the wrath of Jehoiakim, who even brought him back from Egypt and slew him.

(3.) Rescued by Ahikam (v. 24). Ahikam must have been a man of influence, to be able to interfere.

Faith

Faith is not blind acceptance of absurdity. Faith is the completion of a transaction in which we commit ourselves to a personal relationship with an unseen and living Master. Faith is such an adventure as every sailor makes when he sets out for an unseen port. Faith is our response to our yearning for the God who has made us for fellowship with himself. Faith is the answer of the vibrant human spirit to the music of Eternity.—Ozora S. Davis.

SAYS UNITED G. O. P. IN STATE WILL BEAT RITCHIE

Galen L. Tait Asserts Victory Will Result If Party Members Work In Unison

If the Republicans in the State avoid factional conflicts and disputes and work in unison "with the intelligent and experienced leadership" of Senator Phillips Lee Goldsborough, Maryland finally will cease to become "A Ritchie principality with life tenure in office and will take her place in the column of dependable Republican States."

This view was expressed Saturday by Galen L. Tait, chairman of the Republican State Central Committee, speaking at the annual spring rally of the Maryland Federation of Republican Women at Towson.

Opposition Divided.

"Now, while the opposition party is divided, the Republican party is united," Mr. Tait said. "No one who strives to break that unity is serving his party interest.

"Let us Republicans, whether leaders, workers or party officials, work in unison with the intelligent and experienced leadership of one who has been a master of Republican politics in our State for a generation—State's Attorney, State Comptroller, Federal official, Governor of Maryland, leading citizen and financier—and now chosen by an overwhelming majority of 50,000 votes to the highest honor of our State—that of United States Senator from Maryland, Phillips Lee Goldsborough.

Four Measures Presented

"If we follow successful and disinterested Republican leadership, then we can hope and expect that Maryland will finally cease to become a Ritchie principality with life tenure in office, a border or doubtful State, and Maryland will take her place in the column of dependable Republican States."

Governor Ritchie and members of the Legislature were criticized because of opposition to the bills sponsored by the federation

The organization presented four measures at the session. Three were passed in amended forms and the fourth was killed.

OLD-TIME FIDDLER OF THIS COUNTY GIVEN SURPRISE

Love of Garrett Home Precludes Acceptance of Ford's Offer

At the home of John Olin Wilhelm, near Avilton, Garrett county, on last Wednesday, a surprise party was tendered in celebration of the honoree's sixty-sixth natal day. Mr. Wilhelm is a country fiddler of repute who recently was offered a position as second violinist in Henry Ford's famous country fiddler's orchestra, with all expenses paid and a handsome salary. Because of his love for the old home in Garrett county he refused Mr. Ford's offer. He featured the celebration at his home with numerous selections on the violin, being accompanied by his daughter-in-law, Mrs. Julius Wilhelm. A birthday supper was served at 12:00 o'clock Wednesday night.

EXTRA WRONG FONTS

By Scoop

The members of the Legion want to know what has become of the check given to Milton Sincell by Ed Offutt, for the benefit of the Unknown Soldier's widow. They think Mit is still trying to find out for whom it is intended.

This Isn't Much Conceit

Scoop received a letter from a Garrett county Scotchman the other day stating that he always BORROWED the paper from a neighbor about a week after the neighbor had finished using it, but if Scoop didn't stop writing his column he would have to subscribe for The Republican and get it sooner. "He couldn't vait."

Better subscribe for Garrett county's leading newspaper instead of reading your neighbor's. You never know what is going to appear next—it might be an account of Scoop's own funeral.

More Money and Less Work

Nothing has been said of the Amalgamated Society for the Prevention of Work lately, simply because they have been working on a plan whereby they won't have to work. Poky Shaw, the head man in the organization, just announced this morning that through his society's efforts, there will be a building erected in the old cow pasture lot wherein will be housed machinery for the manufacture of noisless alarm clocks.

"Enough orders can be obtained from Oakland people to keep the members of the amalgamated society from working for three years and a half," Bill Frazee, one of the members, jubilantly figured out. The idea was presented through the efforts of Reed Smouse and Tom Flanigan, and for this distinctive service, these two will become life members of the order. Details of this will be worked out later, but the amalgamated members, including H. C. Sincell, Betty Dawson, and his running mate in the drug store, Andalusia; Milton Sincell, Soldier Halsey (just joined), Wilbur Davis, Jerry Stanton, Dr. Grant, Neil Fraley, and Dr. McComas, honorary member, are rejoicing over their expected good fortune.

Orders for these clocks have already been received from Alva Gortner, Hiram Kahl, Mose Sincell (Archibaldson)' and Walter Newman.

Now For the Big Festival

Amid a downpour of grain; with thousands of makers and partakers along the line of march, the Corn Festival parade took place last night as predicted.

Last minute nominations from all sections of the county caused the election of a dark horse from the fair grounds as King Corn and he was seated astride the water wagon on his journey to the celebration grounds. On his right was P. T. LargeHades, prince of the Dead Pond district; on his left, Silent Womanhorn, who made a close run for first honors.

The Prince of Quality Hill, Bonus DailyCanary, was unable to be present at the coronation, as he was called away to more peaceful climes.

Following the three leading characters were C. Lovebird, Huey Darvey, K. Right, L. Silvertwain, John Whiting, Cave Dollins, Cud Buster, A. Gorilla, and others.

The Canaan Valley symphony band and the Sand Flat Warblers combined to make one of the largest musical organizations ever to parade in Oakland, and representatives from all sections of the county were in line.

The parade, after filling all streets of the town, headed across the swinging bridge for the bier garden where an effigy of a white mule was set on fire and the speaker of the evening introduced.

The speaker, I. M. Stude, was from the Smokehole district of West Virginia, and he gave an inspiring address. "One might suppose that rocks would hinder the growth of corn," he exclaimed, "but the Smokehole regions are full of rocks and we raise more corn there than any other section of the State. We also raise trouble, but that is neither here nor there."

Then the dark horse was crowned with a bridle wreath and the celebration commenced. Evidently it is still going on for a number of cars have been seen coming from and going in that direction.

WE TAKE a personal interest in every purchaser of a Ford car and we are fully equipped to give you good service. Our mechanics are specially trained and our new precision service equipment duplicates factory manufacturing methods. That's why we say this is a good place to buy your new Ford car.

MOTOR SERVICE CO.,
GRANTSVILLE, MD.

Your MODEL T FORD is still a good car

THE Model T Ford led the motor industry for twenty years because of its sturdy worth, reliability and economy. Those same reasons continue to make it a good car.

As a matter of fact, nearly one-fourth of all the automobiles in use today are Model T Fords. Millions of them can be driven two, three and even five more years with reasonable care and proper replacements. Figures show that the average life is seven years.

Don't sacrifice your Model T, therefore, but take it to the Ford dealer and have him estimate on the cost of putting it in A1 shape. A very small expenditure may be the means of giving you thousands of miles of additional service.

For a labor charge of $20 to $25 you can have your motor and transmission completely overhauled. This price includes new bearings, reboring cylinders and any other work necessary. Parts are extra.

Valves can be ground and carbon removed for $3 to $4. The cost of tightening all main bearings is only $6. The labor charge for overhauling the front axle is $4.50 to $5—rear axle assembly, $5.75 to $7.

New universal joint will be installed for a labor charge of $3. Brake shoes relined for $1.50. Rear spring and perches rebushed for $1.75. The cost of overhauling the starting motor is $3. A labor charge of approximately $2.50 covers the overhauling of the generator.

It will pay you, therefore, to see your Ford dealer and have him put your Model T in good running order. By doing so you will protect and maintain the investment you have in your car and get months and years of reliable transportation at a very low cost per mile.

MOTHER'S DAY.

Happy indeed is he who is guided through life by the invisible rays of a mother's love.

Implanted in the mother's breast is an inexhaustible force which when released penetrates and brightens the shadows and makes more poyful the joys of life; envelopes with loving care him whom she calls son, guiding his footsteps along life's journey, snatching him from the brink, bringing him through storm-tossed waves to the haven of rest in her loving arms at the journey's end.

From the cradle to the grave the mother shares the joys and sorrows, the hopes and fears, the successes and disappointments of her child; she laughs when he laughs; she weeps when he weeps; is glad when he is glad; is sad when he is sad.

No matter where, or with whom his lot is cast, no matter how far he may stray, how indifferent he may seem, her love, wafted on the wings of prayer are re-broadcasted from the Heavenly throne on a wave length to which his heart is attuned, until finally it is to her to whom he turns in times of stress.

"God sent the birds and sunshine
To gladden all the world;
He sent the foliage and the flowers
In radiance unfurled;
He sent the June, the stars, the moon,
The pearly dew drops sweet,
And then He sent you, mother dear,
To make it all complete."

WE ARE INDEED A FORTUNATE PEOPLE

As Mother's Day approaches, celebrating as it does God's best earthly gift to man, our minds advert to that other sentiment so deeply implanted in our hearts—love of country.

As we noticed in the daily press the disturbances on May Day in foreign lands, we wondered if we, in this country, fully appreciate the blessings which are ours because of our form of government and high ideals of citizenship.

In Paris, Budapest, Moscow, Berlin and other foreign capitals, large bands of men and women, sometimes numbering thousands, marched and counter-marched, singing communistic songs and bearing inflamitory banners, all aimed at one object of discrediting or destroying the existing government of the countries in which they live.

Violent riots in many instances followed, leaving in their wake the dead and dying, while here there was hardly a ripple to disturb the peaceful calm.

We are aware that we have gang warfare and underworld killings. Crime seems to be the order of the day. Husbands are killing wives and wives are instigating the murder of husbands. But this condition is not aimed at the destruction of the government.

The war between rival bootleg gangs for control of the illicit liquor traffic is responsible for many murders and as long as they kill each other, without harming respectable citizens, we sometimes wonder if the law should interfere. In respect to this, a careful reading of the news columns of the daily press convinces one that in nearly every instance the names of the gang leaders and associates indicate a foreign birth—men who in their native land have always set at naught constituted authority. If our government errs, it is on the side of leniency. If we would deport these foreign criminals, when convicted of crime, deny them the right to live under the protection of our benign government, much of the law violation resulting in murder, would cease.

As long as human nature remains as it has been for centuries, we will have crimes of passion. Greed, avarice, selfishness, misdirected ambition, unbridled license will always produce potential murders. Most of our crimes are based on the uncontrolled baser elements of human nature—none are aimed at the destruction of government.

We are indeed a fortunate people.

COUNTY AGENT'S COLUMN.

J. H. CARTER,
Resident County Agent,
Oakland, Md.

Dairy Industry Favorable.

The U. S. Department of Agriculture reports that butter production in all dairy regions except the Northeast states increased from 1918 to 1927. The greatest percentage of increase was in the Southern states. The output in the Mountain states has increased steadily since 1920.

In New York and Minnesota, two important dairy regions, the price of butter has been higher than the average price for the United States. Mississippi, a deficit state, and Nebraska, a surplus state, have had prices lower than the United States average.

Quality of production and marketing efficiency are the factors in these regional differences. It is well for us to remember that these two factors are very important in our county.

The potatoes for the 4-H Potato Clubs have arrived and have been delivered to the boys. The projects will soon be under way and the public is invited to observe the results obtained from the new seed stock.

The stock is tuber unit Rural Russet from Michigan. H. P. Miller, Grantsville; Earl Michael, Frostburg, and Paul Brown, Friendsville, also obtained some of this seed stock.

There will be a demonstration on the use of sulphate of ammonia as a side dressing on early cabbage on the farm of C. F. Kelley, Oakland, Md.

If you have not been treating your seed oats for smut, get in touch with the county agent and make a test plot. See if it pays.

If you don't dock and castrate your lambs your price will be docked when you market them this fall.

Scalloped Eggs

Hard cook 6 eggs. For this number of eggs make a white sauce using 1 cup of milk, 2 tablespoons butter, 2 tablespoons flour, ½a teaspoon salt, dash of pepper. Melt the butter, add flour and season and stir until smooth, gradually add the milk and cook over low flame or in top of double boiler, stirring frequently until mixture thickens and the starch is not raw tasting. Cut eggs into quarters while hot. Place a layer of the quartered eggs in a buttered baking dish. Pour over this a layer of white sauce, then sprinkle with buttered bread crumbs. Then place another layer of eggs, white sauce and crumbs. Place in oven a few minutes to heat through and brown crumbs on the top. A little bit of finely chopped ham or crisp bacon sprinkled in with white sauce gives a very pleasing flavor. This dish is a good substitute for meat.

Baked Eggs

Another good meat substitute. Butter muffin tins quite thoroughly. Break an egg into each. Cover each egg with a tablespoon of milk and a small lump of butter. Season with pepper and salt and bake in a moderate oven until white and firm.

Egg, Tomato and Lettuce Salad

I am describing an individual serving. Pile shredded lettuce on salad plate, sprinkle with salt and a teaspoon of salad dressing. Over this place 2 or 3 slices of tomato. Then quarter a hard cooked egg and place around the edge of the lettuce equal distance apart. Garnish with salad dressing on top or at the side.

Egg Souffle

This is a little more difficult in preparation but is very delightful egg dish. Two tablespoons butter, 2 tablespoons flour, 1 cup milk, 1 cup cream, 4 eggs, 1 teaspoon salt and a few grains cayenne. Cream the butter, add flour, and pour on gradually scalded milk and cream. Cook in double boiler five minutes, and add yolks of eggs, beaten until thick and lemon colored. Remove from fire, add seasonings, and fold in white of eggs beaten until stiff and dry. Turn into a buttered dish, or buttered individual moulds, set in pan of hot water and bake in a slow oven until firm. Serve at once. Egg souffle may be served with white sauce, highly seasoned with celery salt, paprika, and onion juice, or tomato sauce.

Paradise Pudding

One package lemon Jell-O, 1 pint boiling water, ½ cup blanched almonds, 12 marshmallows, cut very fine; 12 maraschino cherries, coarsely cut, 6 macaroons, crushed; ¼ cup sugar, ¼ teaspoon salt, 1 cup heavy cream, whipped.

Dissolve Jell-O in boiling water, when cold and slightly thickened, beat with rotary egg beater until consistency of whipped cream. Mix and add cherries, nuts, marshmallows, macaroons, sugar and salt. Fold in whipped cream. Turn into mold. Chill until firm. Serve in slices. Serves 8.

$436,583 SPENT LAST YEAR TO CARRY COUNTIES' PUPILS

1928 Amount For Transportation Is Gain Over 1927 Figure —Keeps Some From School

The counties of Maryland last year spent $436,583 of the public funds for the transportation of 15,907 public school pupils, according to an announcement made Saturday by the State Department of Education. The increase in expenditure over 1927 was $63,000, which equals the total amount spent on transportation in 1920. Last year 2,500 more pupils were transported than in 1927.

It cost the counties $342,822 to transport 11,975 elementary school pupils to the larger consolidated schools and $93,761 for transporting 3,932 high school pupils who lived more than two or three miles from the nearest high school. The amount shown as paid for high school transportation, except in a few counties, includes only part of the cost.

Parents Contribute

The parents of high school pupils, in all counties except Allegany, Dorchester, Somerset, Worcester and Wicomico, last year contributed amounts varying from $11 to $4 per month. In Carroll, Calvert and St. Mary's counties the parents had to arrange to pay the entire cost if their children need transportation in order to attend high school. It is quite possible, the announcement said, that the expense of transportation is keeping children from high school who would profit by it.

Since the high school is now accepted in the United States as a part of the public school system, the announcement continues, there seems to be no justification for charging high school children to ride on the school bus. The democratic principle of equality of educational opportunity would seem to require high school as well as elementary school facilities within easy reach of all children without cost for tuition or transportation.

Expenditures Listed

The county expenditures for the transportation of pupils from 1910 to 1928 is as follows:

| Year. | Expenditures for transportation. | Number of counties. | Number of pupils transported |
|---|---|---|---|
| 1910.... | $5,210 | 4 | No record |
| 1915 | 17,270 | 10 | No record |
| 1920.... | 64,734 | 18 | No record |
| 1921.... | 84,870 | 18 | No record |
| 1922.... | 90,011 | 18 | No record |
| 1923.... | 132,591 | 20 | 4,334 |
| 1924.... | 188,516 | 21 | 6,499 |
| 1925.... | 242,041 | 22 | 8,618 |
| 1926.... | 312,495 | 22 | 10,567 |
| 1927.... | 373,168 | 23 | 13,385 |
| 1928.... | 436,583 | 23 | 15,907 |

Baltimore county transported more high school pupils than any other county. Montgomery ranked second. Carroll, Calvert and St. Mary's transported no high school pupils under county auspices and Harford, Cecil and Howard transported only 16, 32 and 37 pupils respectively.

County Owns Busses

Baltimore and Anne Arundel counties transported the largest number of elementary school pupils. Baltimore county, which transported 1,890 elementary pupils against 1,783 in Anne Arundel, spent $9,499 less for transportation. The explanation of the difference is probably due to the fact that Baltimore county owns a number of busses for this purpose. Harford, Garrett, St. Mary's Wicomico, Cecil and Kent were the only counties which transported fewer than 160 elementary school pupils.

The distribution of the cost to transport 15,907 pupils last year is as follows:

| County | Pupils transported | County expenditures for transportation |
|---|---|---|
| Total counties.... | 15,907 | $436,583 |
| Baltimore ..... | 2,536 | 53,637 |
| Anne Arundel.... | 1,942 | 50,793 |
| Allegany ..... | 884 | 32,604 |
| Frederick ..... | 849 | 24,536 |
| Dorchester ..... | 926 | 24,023 |
| Somerset ..... | 654 | 20,475 |
| Worcester ..... | 721 | 20,243 |
| Montgomery .... | 1,053 | 20,158 |
| Carroll ..... | 675 | 18,581 |
| Caroline ..... | 776 | 18,441 |
| Queen Anne's.... | 587 | 18,247 |
| Talbot ..... | 673 | 17,875 |
| Prince George's.. | 721 | 17,783 |
| Washington .... | 562 | 16,852 |
| Wicomico ..... | 380 | 12,702 |
| Charles ..... | 532 | 12,397 |
| Kent ..... | 310 | 11,109 |
| Howard ..... | 292 | 10,413 |
| Garrett ..... | 265 | 9,449 |
| Calvert ..... | 188 | 9,203 |
| Cecil ..... | 182 | 8,393 |
| St. Mary's ..... | 119 | 5,599 |
| Harford ..... | 80 | 3,070 |

Some Vehicles Hired

Of 481 vehicles used for transportation of pupils, 34 were owned by the counties and 447 were hired. Montgomery owns 18 busses, Baltimore 12, St. Mary's 2 and Anne Arundel and Garrett 1 each. The cost of the 34 busses owned was $65,466. All of the vehicles used for transportation were motor-driven except seven, which were horse-drawn. Montgomery county had three horse-drawn vehicles and Baltimore, Caroline and Kent one each. Calvert continued to use motor boats for transportation in one section of the county.

The total mileage one way covered by the 481 vehicles used was 3,908, indicating an average per vehicle of eight miles one way. This is an average covering routes for both high and elementary schools, the high school routes being much longer than those of the elementary schools. In Anne Arundel, Baltimore, Dorchester, Montgomery and Somerset counties average mileage one way was over ten miles.

The average cost per pupil transported to elementary schools was $28.65, which was two cents lower than last year. For high school pupils the average cost to the county was $23.85, 18 cents more than in 1927. Costs for elementary pupils ranged from $65 in Garrett, $49 in Calvert, $47 in St. Mary's, $45 in Cecil and $42 in Harford, down to $23 in Montgomery and $21 in Baltimore county.

High school costs to the county, exclusive of amounts paid by parents of pupils, varied from $49 in Cecil, $38 in Allegany and $36 in Kent down to $113 in Caroline, $12 in Charles and Montgomery and $10 in Anne Arundel.

Transportation Costs Vary

The actual cost of high school transportation per pupil, if amounts paid by patrons were included, are probably in excess of the amount for each elementary pupil, because not as many of the older boys and girls as of the younger ones can be accommodated in a given bus and transportation routes are longer for high school pupils. Miles covered, the type of road, the type of vehicle, insurance carried, the length of term of contract—all are factors which determine the cost of transportation.

Transportation was provided to 17 one-teacher schools in eleven of the counties, to 35 two-teacher schools and to 83 graded elementary schools. There were 69 schools to which high and elementary school pupils were transported. Of the remaining 37 schools, having both high and elementary grades, twenty-nine had transportation for elementary pupils only, and eight had transportation for only high school pupils. There were eleven separate high schools to which pupils were transported. The sixteen Negro schools to which transportation was provided included one more than last year. Calvert being the additional county. Negro pupils were transported to four schools in Baltimore county and four in Frederick county.

Coming Conferences of Health Bodies

The State Department of Health will be represented at the following conferences:

May 9, National Congress of Parents and Teachers, Washington, D. C.

May 14, and 15, Third Annual Conference of the Maryland Water and Sewerage Association, Salisbury, Md.

May 31 and June 1, State and Provincial Health Officers, Washington, D. C.

Installation of Public Water System Follows Typhoid Outbreak

The program for the Third Annual Conference of the Maryland Water and Sewerage Association, at Salisbury, May 14 and 15, includes a report by F. W. Casperi, Division Engineer of the Bureau of Sanitary Engineering of the State Department of Health, on the typhoid epidemic in the late summer of 1928, at Eastport, an unincorporated community of 2,750 population, in Anne Arundel County and an account of the relief measures applied. Thirty-seven cases of typhoid were detected in connection with the outbreak. No public water supply or sewerage facilities were available. Private wells furnishing approximately 500 properties were of shallow depth and after a storm resulting in excessively high tides, accompanied by heavy rains, the outbreak occurred. Disinfection of wells was obtained by hypo-chlorite of lime and other emergency measures were put into effect.

The necessity for a public water supply was obvious and in a few weeks this was requested by the community. In accordance with the arrangement followed in such matters, the necessary authority was obtained from the Anne Arundel County Commissioners for the project and for the issuance of bonds, amounting in this instance to $55,000, to finance it.

Plans were immediately put into operation for the installation of a public water supply system, the water to be drawn from the public water supply of Annapolis. The work was begun and within four months after the outbreak occurred, and before the close of 1928, the entire distribution system had been installed—a record-making achievement. The work was done by and under the authority of the Anne Arundel County Sanitary Commission.

Mr. Walter W. Dawson, who spent several weeks at Cumberland University, Lebanon, Tenn., where he took a further course in law, returned home Sunday afternoon, having been met at Cincinnati by Mrs. Dawson and their son Walter and Mr. Reeves Blandford, from which point they motored to Oakland.

Thousands of young people are going to be graduated from our public schools in a few weeks. They have been educated, or at least given the opportunity of an education at the expense of us, the taxpayers. Has the investment, on our part, been a good one? What do we get for our money? These young people may be too young to feel much of a sense of responsibility, but are they going to feel that responsibility a little later? What are they going to give us in return for our investment? Schools are expensive institutions. Do pupils often think of that? Will they think of it when they are of an age to regard citizenship in more serious fashion?

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Stanton announced the arrival of their third son on last Thursday morning.

It is said that 82 cents out of every dollar spent by the government goes for war—past, present or prospective. Something wrong about that. This is not civilization. Figures like that belong to an age of barbarism. A battleship costs at least $30,000,000. Sixty school houses there, at $500,000 each. One doesn't have to be a pacifist to see that the emphasis is all wrong.

A committee composed of members of the local lodge Knighs of Pythias has the work in hand looking to the improvement of the Pythian building in Oakland. In addition to some contemplated alterations in the structure, it will be veneered with brick. Proposals for the work are being asked in an advertisment appearing in The Republican today. Mr. David W. Walter is chairman of the committee to whom all communications appertaining to the same should be addressed.

Notice to Individuals and Others Requiring Trader's License

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN, To all persons engaged in business where a trader's license is required that under the provisions of Senate Bill No. 63, which has recently been passed by the General Assembly of 1929, there is imposed on persons who fail to take out licenses in the month of May a penalty of ten per cent per month on the cost of the license. In other words, licensees may take out licenses at any time during the month of May without having to pay a penalty, but on and after June 1st anyone applying for a license, who was in business in the month of May preceding, is required to pay, in addition to the cost of the license, a penalty of ten per cent per month or fraction of a month. In the case of persons starting in business during the license year they are only required to take out a license for the remaining part of the year, but they must take out their license in the month in which they begin business.

There has also been passed at the recent session of the General Assembly a bill requiring a separate license for each place of business owned and operated as such by individuals or corporations.

The Acts above referred to makes it mandatory upon the undersigned to collect the penalties prescribed by said Acts in the case where licensees are delinquent in applying for their licenses and leaves no discretion on my part as I will be held accountable for the penalty by the State when my books are examined, hence all persons required to take out a license are urged to make early application and thus avoid the undue expense of ten per cent per month penalty imposed by the law above referred to.

Will Mother Have to Spend Her Day in the Kitchen?

You cannot brighten Mother's Day if she has to spend it in the kitchen following other days of toil in preparation for it. She no doubt will appreciate flowers, messages and gifts, but complete enjoyment of the day is impossible if she is burdened with laborious household duties.

However, if Mother has been provided with an electric sweeper, an electric range, an electric refrigerator, an electric percolator and the other comfort-giving and labor-saving electrical appliances, Her Day will be one of rest, content and peaceful reflection.

Recently since new domestic rates for electricity for household use were put into effect, Mother can do her work much more economically and satisfactorily by electricity than ever before. There is nothing you can get for Mother which will bring her more satisfaction than those electrical appliances she has so long wanted.

New Domestic Rates Mean Cheaper Conveniences

Under the new domestic rates of this company, you may now secure electricity for your home at eight and a half cents a kilowatt hour for the first twenty-five kilowatt hours, five and a half cents a kilowatt hour for the next twenty-five kilowatt hours, and three and a half cents a kilowatt hour for all additional kilowatt hours. This is subject to a prompt payment discount of half a cent a kilowatt hour.

This rate means you can now afford to own and operate those desired appliances which mean so much in the home. For full information on the savings possible under the new rates, have them explained by the contract clerk or any representative of the appliance department.

It is very important that we put ourselves in position to take advantage of the protection offered by this new equipment. ## Speaker for Memorial Day Program to be Named Soon

Although the speaker for the Memorial Day program, to be held in Oakland, May 30, has not yet been obtained, Delbert Davis, chairman of the committee in charge, intimated that one would be named within the next few days.

Negotiations for some prominent out of town speaker have been unsuccessful because all well known speakers already have engagaments, Mr. Davis stated. The remainder of the program is complete, and will include a parade in the morning, and following the speaking, the graves of all war veterans will be decorated.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Hardesty, Pennington street, celebrated their silver wedding anniversary yesterday afternoon and last night when their many friends and neighbors called to pay their respects and extend best wishes.

Mrs. Hugh Teets will entertain the Thursday night Bridge club at her home this evening.

FIRST SERIES OF TREE PLANTINGS IS COMPLETE

Experiment Being Made With Chinese Chestnut Trees

Approximately four thousand trees have been planted on Brier Ridge, near Swallow Falls, this county, which completes the first of a series of plantings by the State Forestry Department, according to H. C. Buckingham, district forester, in charge of the work.

One-quarter acre of land was planted in Chinese chestnut trees, as an experiment, Mr. Buckingham stated, and if this experiment turns out to be successful more of the same species will be planted in the future.

The Chinese chestnut is considered blight resisting and may eventually take the place of the native chestnut supply, which is rapidly diminishing due to the fatal blight. These trees are being furnished to the State Department of Forestry by the U. S. Department of Plant Industry.

The remainder of the trees planted under Mr. Buckingham's supervision were of all species. Two thousand of them were used for experimental purposes to ascertain whether or not they can overcome the hardship of surviving among thorn bushes. The thornbushes were subjected to a poisonous preparation which should kill them.

Graves of War Veterans To Be Conditioned for Memorial Day

The first overnight hike in several years was enjoyed over the week-end by twenty-three members of Oakland Troop, No. 1, Boy Scouts of America, when they, in company with their scoutmaster, spent Saturday night at a point about two miles west of Oakland.

Arriving at the camp site about two o'clock shelter for the night was prepared and the boys indulged in games of speedball, etc. Following the supper hour a number of the younger members were taken for a "snipe" hunt."

Sunday school was conducted at the camp, the boys returning to Oakland about 10:30 Sunday morning.

PYTHIANS ARE READY FOR BIG CELEBRATION MONDAY

Conferring of Rank of Page to be Held in K. of C. Hall—Temporary Quarters

That the Knights of Pythias celebration, scheduled for May 20, would be held on that date, was announced by Milburn W. Mann, chancellor, following the fire Wednesday morning which partly destroyed the Maryland theatre and damaged the K. of P. lodge rooms to some extent. The conferring of the rank of Page will be held in the Knights of Columbus hall, third floor of the First National bank building, it has been announced.

Plans for the mammoth parade at 7:30 Monday evening and the conferring of the rank of Page upon a class of candidates has been going steadily forward, and everything will be in readiness for the celebration.

Candidates from Allegany county, Preston county and Garrett county will be given the rank on that evening and they will be obligated on the Bible on which the Knights of Pythias order was founded by Justice Rathbone, at Washington, following the Civil War. Harry M. Love, supreme keeper of records and seal, will bring the Bible here and obligate the candidates. Other representatives; A. Elwood Martak, grand keeper of records and seal; and George W. Stephens, grand chancellor of the State of Maryland.

Large Parade Planned

Prior to the conferring of the rank a parade will be held, beginning at 7:30 p. m. All members of the lodge are asked to meet at 7 o'clock. The parade will consist of the Terra Alta High school band, Crellin band, and the Gilbert-Brown Boys' band, the D. O. K. K. drum corps of Cumberland, the Oakland volunteer Fire department, the Boys' Scout troop and members of the local lodge. The parade will be headed by the Mayor and Town council of Oakland and the grand lodge officers.

The parade will form on Alder street, facing east, and will traverse Alder, Fifth, Oak, Third and Second streets before disbanding at the hall.

Committees have been appointed to take care of all details. Alva Gortner, Alva Martin and Wade Hinebaugh are in charge of the parade; J. C. Renninger, Paul Naylor, and Harry Stemple in charge of the program; and J. C. Renninger, H. W. McComas and F. E. Rathbun have charge of the reception.

At the meeting last week the local boys' band gave a concert and Rev. B. T. Trevey was the speaker.

ONE FINED FOR DRIVING UNDER LIQUOR INFLUENCE

Other Minor Cases Heard By Justice W. A. Gonder.

William Golia, Coketon, W. Va., who was arrested a week ago Monday following an automobile collision, was fined $100 and costs on a charge of driving a car while under the influence of liquor by Justice W. A. Gonder on Friday last. He was also fined $1 and costs for reckless driving and a judgment of $45.90 was entered against him in favor of James Knepp, Red House, with whose car he was in collision. The fines were paid, but the judgment still stands against him, according to Justice Gonder.

E. A. Browning, Sang Run, was found not guilty on a charge brought by the State of Maryland, U. S. Department of Forestry, of having been responsible for the starting of a forest fire. H. C. Buckingham, district forester, appealed the case.

Harry McRobie, Glendale, was fined $1 and costs on the charge of being drunk and disorderly.

FIRE EARLY YESTERDAY DAMAGED K. OF P. BUILDING

Blaze of Undetermined Origin Discoved On Stage of Theatre by Officer Nethkin at 4:15 A.M.

Fire of undetermined origin partially destroyed the Knights of Pythias building on Third street, Oakland, about 4:15 o'clock yesterday morning, when it was discovered that the theatre, which is on the first floor of the structure was ablaze.

After a stubborn fight the fire was brought under control by the Oakland Volunteer Fire Department, which responded promptly to the alarm.

Two theories have been advanced as the cause of the fire, either a defective electric light wire or a lighted cigarette thrown on the floor back of the stage and communicated to a pile of scrap paper and thence to the scenery. The fire had originated on the stage of the theatre and had gained considerable headway before being detected by Officer Nethkin, who was making his rounds just at that time. He immediately turned in the alarm and in a few minutes the members of the department as well as a large number of the residents of town were on the scene.

The blaze was difficult to reach and before it had been brought under control it had spread to the third floor where it broke through the outside wall. At times three or four streams were being thrown on the building, two of them being forced through by the new pumper truck which had its first trial at a fire and the work done by it was satisfactory in every respect according to the men handling the machine. The dense smoke, however, hindered the firemen materially in their work.

Inside the theatre the heat was so intense that the rear of the balcony was badly scorched and a number of the seats rendered useless. All the scenery as well as the moving picture screen were completely destroyed by the fire.

The damage has been estimated as between $4,000 and $5,000, which is covered by insurance, the amount carried by the Pythian Association being $10,500. The scenery, screen and fixtures in the theatre were well covered by insurance, according to Mr. Bernard Gonder, manager.

James Kelly, a member of the fire company, was overcome by smoke but recovered before the fire was finally extinguished and continued his work.

Repairs to the building were begun shortly after the fire had been extinguished.

CONSTABLES GIVE CHASE AND ARREST LAW VIOLATOR

Wm. Garlitz Taken In for Keeping Children From School

William Garlitz, Avilton, after a foot race of some distance through the woods, was finally captured and placed under arrest by Constables S. D. Cole and Joseph Callis Monday evening on a charge of violating the school attendance law by not permitting his children to attend school.

Garlitz was brought to Oakland and given a hearing before Justice of the Peace E. I. West, who fined him $10 and costs or serve a sentence of 30 days in jail. He elected to serve the jail sentence and is now in the county prison.

Garlitz was summoned upon three former occasions to appear in the local court on the delinquency charge but failed to put in his appearance. Upon the occasion of his arrest he espied the officers approaching and ran but was finally overtaken.

A number of other persons were also arrested during the past week and after trial were found guilty of contributing to the delinquency of their children in school attendance.

Saturday, before Justice West, Ernest Michael, Avilton; Sam McRobie, Hoyes, and Henry Miller, Accident, were each fined $5 and costs on the school law violation. Noah Fazenbaker, near Accident, was found guilty on the charge, but paroled, as he has two children in school with excellent marks.

Monday, before Justice Grover C. Poole, Kitzmiller, Lee Lipscomb and Van Evans were fined $3 and costs and $5 and costs, respectively, for violating the school attendance law. Evans elected to serve his sentence in jail but when the officers were about ready to start with him for Oakland he paid the fine and was released from custody.

Lesson for May 19

JEREMIAH CALLS TO OBEDIENCE

LESSON TEXT—Jeremiah 7:1-26.
GOLDEN TEXT—Hearken unto my voice, and I will be your God, and ye shall be my people.
PRIMARY TOPIC—Obeying God.
JUNIOR TOPIC—Obeying God.
INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—Doing What God Commands.
YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—Obedience Essential in True Religion.

The prophet stood in the gate of the temple in order that the multitudes might hear him. The occasion was the coming together of the people from all over the country to attend some feast.

I. What God Requires (vv. 1-7).

1. Amend your ways (v. 3).

Their general course of living should be reformed, bad deeds giving place to good ones. On the basis of this change, God would permit them to remain in their city and country. Failure to do this would eventuate in their expulsion.

2. The folly of trusting in religious forms (v. 4).

The people regarded the temple as a charm against evil, irrespective of the condition of their hearts. Without a heart experience, the most sacred institutions and ordinances are valueless.

3. Social justice (v. 5).

The proof of their having reformed was the execution of judgment between man and his neighbor. The proof of one's being in touch with God is his fair dealing with his fellowmen.

4. Not to oppress the helpless (v. 6).

The stranger would likely be ignorant of the laws of the land. The widows and orphans could easily be imposed upon. Protection for the weak is a requirement of godliness.

5. Not walk after other gods (v. 6).

Worship of idols and conformity to heathen customs go hand in hand. True morality is determined by the attitude of the individual toward God.

II. Solemn Warnings (vv. 8-15).

1. Teaching of false prophets (vv. 8-11).

These prophets taught the people that attention to ceremony, and observance of religious forms, exempted them from strict attention to morals. Those who heeded the words of the lying prophets were not slow to steal, murder, commit adultery, swear falsely and practice idolatry. They would even come into the Lord's house and claim freedom to practice such abominations. The sacred temple itself, filled with such worshipers would be a den of robbers.

2. Warning of Shiloh (vv. 12-15).

God caused His tabernacle to be set up in Shiloh, but in Eli's time He gave it into the hands of the Philistines because of the idolatry of the people. (Psa. 78:56-60). Even so would He do with the temple, the city and the whole country. This He had already done with Ephraim, the northern kingdom.

II. The Hopeless Condition of the People (vv. 16-20).

Their propensity to do evil was so strong that all efforts at reclamation were futile.

1. Pray not for them (v. 16).

There is such a thing as sinning unto death, in which case prayer is useless (I John 5:16).

2 Entire families devoted their energies to that which provoked God's anger (vv. 17-19).

This was done by young and old—men and women. This they did to provoke God's anger. He assures them the outcome of such conduct would be their utter confusion.

IV. Judgment to Fall (v. 20).

Because the people poured out their offerings to idols, the furious anger and wrath of God would be poured out upon man, beast, tree, and the fruit of the ground. How this has been fulfilled, the history of the Jews makes clear.

V. Obedience Better Than Sacrifice (vv. 21-26).

The prophet appealed to history to show that God requires heart service rather than the observance of religious forms. Blessings came to Israel through obedience, while cursings followed disobedience. On the condition of obedience to His requirements, God promised to own them as His people and to bless them.

Confidence in Prayer

And this is the confidence that we have in Him, that, if we ask anything according to His will, He heareth us; and if we know that He heareth us, whatsoever we ask, we know that we have the petitions that we desired of Him.—1 John 5:14, 15.

No Discharge in That War

There is no man that hath power over the spirit to retain the spirit; neither hath he power in the day of death; and there is no discharge in that war; neither shall wickedness deliver those that are given to it.—Ecclesiastes 8:8.

A Neglected Bible

A neglected Bible means a starved and strengthless spirit, a comfortless heart, a barren life, and a grieved Holy Ghost.—F. B. Meyer.

The Last Hours of a Doomed Queen

At fifteen, Marie Antoinette was married. At nineteen she was a queen, a creature lovely to look upon. At thirty-seven she died on the guillotine—one of the most pitiable as she was one of the most conspicuous among all the thousands upon thousands who lost their heads in the French revolution.

Born the daughter of Emperor Francis I of Austria and his ambitious and gifted consort Marie Therese, she was reared, for a princess of the blood, among exceedingly simple surroundings. Small wonder that the transition from what almost had been a cloistered life to the most brilliant, the most dissolute, the most extravagant court in Christendom should have proven disastrous for her.

From the hour when she became the wife of the heir apparent to the French throne, the pathway of the girl-bride was beset with difficulties and pitfalls. She was under the exacting dominion of her imperious father-in-law, Louis XV; she was under the hostile eye of Louis' shrewd and unscrupulous mistress, Madame du Barry. She was enmeshed in intrigues, envies, jealousies, feuds and plots. That she was frivolous and headstrong and wasteful; that she made enemies by her interference in public affairs; that she estranged those who should have been her friends and her devoted allies—these charges not even her most sympathetic partisan among the chroniclers could deny.

But when the monarchy fell in bloodied ruins; when the time of the terror came to Paris; when she was insulted, imprisoned, widowed by violence; when she barbarously was torn from her children, including that hapless boy who went down in history as the Lost Dauphin; when at her trial she so gallantly faced atrocious accusations affecting her moral character; when finally she was led forth bound like a dangerous malefactor to be done to death before a shrieking exultant mob, then her courage, her faith and her noble bearing redeemed Marie Antoinette for all the grievous shortcomings of her youth. As a ruler she fell short, as a wife she had her faults, as a royal politician she was an abject failure. But as a mother, as a woman rising to sublime heights of fortitude in the face of a hideous doom, she stands forth for posterity, an heroic and noble figure.

Her old secret foe, Madame du Barry, was born like a commoner and died like a craven of commoners. Being condemned to the knife she went screaming and struggling to her fate—writhing in her hands, begging for mercy with her last breath, practically crazed with fright. But in her death, at least, Marie Antoinette was regal and splendid.

THANKS be to the books of hundreds of chroniclers and to at least one historic painting, every well-informed school child knows something of the last anguished hours of Marie Antoinette—how before being led forth for death she protested against the shame of having her hands lashed behind her as though she were a common criminal, and pointed out that her husband had been left unpinioned in his ride to the place of execution; how her enemies disregarded her plea and so tightly corded her wrists that the kindly priest who accompanied her on the dreadful journey repeatedly pressed against the knotted rope in an effort to ease the pain in her bruised flesh; how in a crude cart she jolted over the cobbled streets of Paris, her head held erect and her face bared to the taunts and jeers of the populace; how when passing the palace where she had spent her happiest hours the widowed queen fell into a faint; how, reviving both her will and her spirit, she did not wince at sight of the guillotine, but with dignity climbed its wooden steps and even begged the pardon of one of the executioners upon whose toe she accidentally trod in mounting the platform; how she suffered herself to be strapped to the board and how quietly she lay there while they were adjusting the mechanism of the great blade which a moment later sheared through her slender neck. In years she was still young—only thirty-seven—but eye-witnesses recorded that she looked that morning like an old woman, worn and haggard. Her hair in less than three months had turned almost white.

Thanks also to many veracious accounts, we know of the proud courage of so many of Marie Antoinette's fellow-prisoners, doomed as she was, to be sacrificed to the fury of the populace acting through the caprices of a tribunal which gave to each of them the mockery of a trial and the certainty, in most cases, of conviction. Aristocratic ladies locked in foul prisons almost gayly cropped their heads in anticipation of the fall of the knife. Courtly gentlemen, nobles of the old regime, rehearsed them in the etiquette suitable for those condemned in order that no one might be confused or awkward when the summons came; they practiced bidding each other. The women discussed the question of appropriate dressing of the neck. A whole code of manners was evolved by these gallant souls that awaited a legalized slaughter.

Simple Fare for the Nobility.

The vivacious Madame Roland, who, by the narrowest of margins, escaped the fate of so many of her compatriots, was one who lived to record the heroisms and the miseries which the gentry class underwent. The place of her confinement was Saint-Pelagie, a noisome hole. With irony and a trace even of humor, she told of her debut as a guest of the state:

"Whilst my name was being registered as a newcomer, an evil-looking fellow opens my bundle, fingers it inquisitively; I notice it at the moment when he is placing on the concierge's desk some printed matter which was in it (it was some newspapers); surprised and offended by a proceeding which ought only to take place in the instances of persons secretly imprisoned, I remark that at any rate it ought not to be left to a man to examine with such indecency a woman's night-clothes; he is ordered to leave it alone; but he is the turnkey of the corridor in which I am to live and I am doomed to see his ugly face twice a day.

"I am asked if I want a room with one or with two beds.

"'I am alone and don't want a companion.'

"'But the room will be too small.'

"'I don't care.'

"They look and find there is no single-bedded room vacant; I go into the double-bedded one; it is 6 feet long by 2 feet broad, so that with the two small tables and the two chairs there is hardly any room left. I hear I must pay in advance the rent for the first month.

"'But there is no water-jug or other conveniences.'

"'You must buy them,' observes the ugly fellow, extremely eager to offer services the selfish aim of which is obvious. I learn that here the state gives nothing for the prisoners.

"'How then do they live?'

"'There is merely a portion of beans and a pound and a half of bread a day, but you will not be able to eat either one or the other.'

"'I can well believe the fare is not like what I am used to; but I like to know the peculiarities of every situation and to live on the level of that in which I happen to be; I wish to try it.'

A Maid as Reporter.

"The part of the building set aside for women is divided into long, very narrow passages, on one of the sides of which are small cells like the one in which I was lodged; there, under the same roof, on the same level, separated by a thin plastering, I live with prostitutes and murderers. On one side of me is one of those creatures whose trade is to seduce youth and sell innocence; above me is a woman who has forged assignments and torn to pieces on a high road an individual of her own sex with the help of the monsters in whose hand she is enrolled; every cell is shut with a big lock and key, which a man comes every morning to open, looking insolently to see if you are up or in bed; next, their tenants meet in the corridors, on the staircases, in a small courtyard or in a damp and stinking hall, a receptacle worthy of such scum."

What Madame Roland so blithely endured, the majority of her captive fellow-aristocrats also endured—that and worse, for nearly all of them perished, whereas she escaped. Royalty fared no better. Thousands saw how Marie Antoinette faced her end and, as I have just said, distinguished historians recorded the scene while famous novelists embroidered it with fictional touches, but it remained for an humble witness, a serving maid, to tell future generations how the poor queen passed the final hours of her life. This moving account was handed down to us by Rosalie Lamorliere, a young woman of lowly birth who attended Marie Antoinette during the latter's confinement in the conciergerie.

Her occupation as a domestic in that dismal pile first brought her into contact with the queen. She was frequently, at times constantly, with the imperial prisoner from the date of her arrival at the prison on August 2, 1793, until the beginning of the third week of October when sentence was inflicted. Of the concluding acts of the tragic drama this Rosalie Lamorliere wrote as follows:

"At last came the awful day of October 15; the queen went up at 8 a. m. into the hall of audiences to receive sentence, and as I do not remember having taken her that day any kind of nourishment, I suppose they made her go fasting.

A Doomed Queen.

"In the morning I heard some people talking about the hearing of the case. They said; 'Marie Antoinette will get off, she answered like an angel; they will only have her deported.'

"Toward 4 p. m. the doorkeeper said to me:

"'The meeting is suspended for three-quarters of an hour; the accused is not to come down. Go up quick, she is asking for a bouillon.'

"I immediately took an excellent broth which I kept in reserve on my stove and went up to the princess. As I was approaching near a hall close to her one of the police commissaires named Lahuziere, a short stumpy fellow, snatched the soup-basin from my hands and handling it to a young woman who was excessively got up, said to me:

"'This young woman is very eager to see Widow Capet; it's a delightful opportunity for her.' And the woman at once went off carrying the soup, which was half split.

"It was no use any begging and entreating Labuziere, he was all-powerful; I had to obey. What must the queen have thought at receiving the basin of soup from the hands of a person she did not know?

"A few minutes past four on the morning of October 16 they came to tell us the queen of France was condemned! I felt as if a sword had stabbed my heart and I went and wept in my room, stifling my cries and sobs. The concierge was grieved to hear the news but he was more accustomed to such things than I. he pretended to take no interest in it.

"About 7 a. m. he ordered me to go down to the queen and ask her if she wanted any nourishment. On entering the room, in which two lights were burning, I saw a gendarmerie officer sitting in the left corner, and approaching madame I saw her all dressed in black lying in the bed.

"With her face turned to the window, she leaned her head on her hand.

"'Madame,' I said, trembling, 'you took noth' ; last night and almost nothing during the day. What do you wish for this morning?'

"The queen shed floods of tears. She answered:

"'My girl, I don't want anything more; it's all ended with me.'

"I took the liberty of adding:

"'Madame, I have kept on my stoves a bouillon and a vermicelli; you have need of something to keep you up; allow me to bring you something.'

"The queen's tears redoubled, and she said:

"'Rosalie, bring me some soup.'

Prying Eyes.

"I went for it; she took a sent and could swallow only a few spoonfuls; I call God to witness her body received no other food.

"A little before this day an ecclesiastic authorized by the government presented himself to the queen and offered to hear her in confession. Her majesty, learning from him that he was one of the practicing Paris priests, understood he had taken the oath and so she refused his offices. The incident was talked about in the house.

"When daylight had come, that is to say about 8 a. m., I returned to madame to help her dress, as she had suggested when she took the small amount of bouillon on her bed. Her majesty went into the little space I usually left between the feather bed and the wall. She herself unfolded a chemise which had been brought her, probably in my absence, and having signed to me to remain in front of the bed so as to keep the sight of her body from the gendarme, she stooped down and doffed her dress in order to change linen for the last time. The gendarmerie officer at once drew near and, stopping by the foot of the bed, watched the change. Her majesty immediately put back the linen on her shoulders and observed to the young man with great gentleness:

"'In the name of decency, sir, permit me to change my linen without a witness.'

"'I could not agree to it,' was the gendarme's rough reply. 'My orders are that I must have my eye on all your movements.'

Wretched Remains.

"The queen sighed, put on her last chemise with all possible precautions and all possible modesty, took for her outer garb not the long mourning dress which she wore in the presence of her judges but the white deshabille which served ordinarily as a morning costume, and unfolding her large muslin fichu, she crossed it under her chin. The worry caused by the gendarme's brutality prevented me from noticing whether she still had the medallion of M. le Dauphin; but it was easy for me to see that she carefully rolled up her poor chemise; she wrapped it in one of her sleeves as if in a sheath, and then pressed this linen into a space she perceived between the canvas-paper and the wall.

"The day before, knowing she was about to appear before the public and the judges, she had arranged her hair rather high from a feeling of decorum. She had added to her linen cap, which was bordered with small ornamental folds, the two streamers with she kept in a cardboard box; and under these mourning streamers she had neatly adjusted a black crepe, which gave her a pretty widow's headdress. On her way to death she kept only the simple linen cap, without streamers or marks of mourning, but having only one pair of chaussures, she kept on her black stockings and her kid shoes, which she had not put out of shape or spoilt at all during the seventy-six days she was with us.

"I left her without returning to bid her good-by or even to make her a single curtsey for fear of compromising and distressing her. I went and cried in my room and prayed to God for her.

"When she had left that fearful establishment, the first usher of the tribunal accompanied by three or four persons in his own employ, came and asked the concierge for me and ordered me to follow him to the queen's late room. He let me take back my looking-glass and the cardboard box. As for the other objects which had belonged to her majesty, he commanded me to wrap them up in a bed-sheet. They made me sweep up even a bit of straw which happened, I do not know how, to be on the floor of the room, and they took away with them these wretched remains of the best and most unhappy princess that ever lived."

Remarkable Ink

A concern that once produced a marking ink had the following to say about its product: "It is remarkable for requiring no preparation, pre-eminently pre-engages peculiar public predilection; produces palpable, plainly perceptible, perpetual perspicuities; penetrates powerfully, precluding previous pre-requisite preparations; possesses particular prerogatives; protects private property; prevents presumptuous, pilfering persons practicing promiscuous proprietorship; pleasantly performing plain practical penmanship; perfectly precludes puerile panegyrics, preferring proper public patronage."

Sidelights on the Fire

Since the fire Percy Frantz has decided to keep the new fire truck.

It takes a fire at 4:30 in the morning to persuade a lot of people that cosmetics are a boon to the majority of womankind.

The K. of P. goat, held in readiness for the big celebration on May 20, will have to have a substitute as it was overcome by smoke.

The kitchen, however, is still intact, and "refreshments will be served as usual," or is it "the usual refreshments?"

The big bass horn of Rabbit Lyon's in the band hall, had plenty of smoke behind it for once.

It is undetermined whether the fire was caused by Abie's Irish Rose, or the sparks from the violin of one of the Tweedy Brothers.

There were enough bosses at the scene to put out ten fires, but it's all right when the members of the fire department can work as well as talk. And they sure do work.

Maybe "Abie couldn't vait."

Advertisements asking for bids on repairing and brick veneering the K. of P. building certainly came at an opportune time.

Contractors should make a donation to the Fire Department for helping remove part of the stucco.

Somebody should teach officer Nethkin how to turn off as well as turn on the fire whistle.

In order to get the best picture of the corn festival parade Col. Bell brought up the rear of the procession last week. He says he got several good snaps, but before the parade ended he had crossed and recrossed the street so many times that he became dizzy, and it looked like all the test had become dizzy from the same reason.

"It looked more like a snake dance than a parade," the Col. said, and Scoop doesn't doubt but that the idea of "snakes" had something to do with the leader of the procession and his aides. Under these snakelike conditions Col. Bell had to use discretion in taking pictures, and here is how he got the one of the King which appeared last week.

WHERE THE YOUGHIOGHENY WASHES

Where the Youghiogheny washes
Through the Allegheny hills
With its waters plunging o'er the Swallow Falls,
Stood a little whitewashed cottage
With the grapevine 'round the door
And the morniag-glory twining on its walls.

Refrain

Though the little whitewashed cottage
Where once the grapevine grew,
The woodshed and the toolhouse
Have vanished from my view;
I still can see so clearly
'Round this beloved spot
The faces I loved dearly—
By many now forgot.

There in bygone days I've wandered
In the evening's silent shades
Or by moonlight to that home I loved so well.
Here the boys and girls would listen
To the tuneful violin
And the stories Uncle Daniel loved to tell.

Scenes have changed about the homestead—
The old folks I see no more;
They are sleeping 'neath the maple on the hill.
And when I think of bygone days,
Those early friendship ties,
There's a happiness that lingers with me still..

IN MEMORIAM

In memory of my dear grandson, Odis Glenn Blocher, who departed this life eight months ago today, September 15, 1928.

From this world of grief and sorrow
To the land of peace and rest,
God has taken you, dear Glenn,
Where you will find eternal rest.

We cherish memory of you, dear one,
And many tears we have shed;
It is only those who loved and gone
Who know the bitter, bitter cost.

We are so sad and lonely—
Your footsteps we cannot hear;
We miss your voice and cheery smile,
We miss you everywhere.

We ask the Lord, console our hearts
And give us grace to bear our grief,
And some sweet day we'll meet our Glenn
Where no tears are shed.

But you have left a blessed hope
That you were going to heaven
To live with Jesus for evermore
And wear a starry crown.

You bid us all goodbye
And said meet me in heaven;
And if we all will faithful be
We will meet our loved one there.

Oh, how sweet it will be
When we shall meet our loved ones
With songs on our lips and harps in our hands
To meet one another again.

—Written by his grandmother,
HARRIETT A. BLOCHER.

JONES PROHIBITION LAW

Senator Wesley Jones, the author of the much discussed act bearing his name, which provides penalties for the violation of the prohibition laws, spoke in Pittsburgh recently and explained both in an interview and to his audience the provisions of this act.

That it has been grossly misrepresented by a large and influential part of the press of the country is well known to a few people but not to most of them. It has been represented that any one who possesses liquor ean be sentenced to imprisonment for a period of five years and even William Randolph Hearst, the publisher of many newspapers thruout the country, in criticising President Hoover's last address on law enforcement said that a man who takes a drink of liquor might be sent to prison for five years.

The Jones act, which was passed by congress by the largest majority ever given any prohibition legislation, simply provides for penalties to fit the crimes committed under the 18th amendment. It applies only to those who manufacture, sell, import and export liquor for beverage purposes. Under its provisions the big bootlegger who is engaged in a city-wide, a state-wide or even a nation-wide traffic in liquor may be sentenced, if convicted, to five years imprisonment and fined as high as $10,000, but the small fry in the bootlegging business can be fined as low as $1.00 or imprisoned for but one day.

The question of sentence is not fixed by the law but is left to the discretion of the judge who has heard all the testimony in the case and is best able to determine whether or not the guilty party is deserving of a heavy, light or medium sentence.

The Jones law after all does not differ very much from most of the other criminal laws. One banker who systematically has been robbing the people for years and finally gets away with some hundreds of thousands of dollars usually gets no sympathy from the people or mercy from the court when convicted and a sentence of several years in the penitentiary is a deserved one. A young clerk in a bank in a time of temptation and of stress takes a few dollars and is guilty of exactly the same crime but the court is more lenient with him.

The Jones act has been held up by the "wet" newspapers and the opponents of prohibition as being a drastic law, one which provides penalties all out of proportion to the character of the crime or violation.

We believe that every fair minded person in this country will agree that the man who commercializes the liquor traffic deliberately and with the hope of making large illicit profits, who floods the market with a beverage which poisons men or drives them crazy, is deserving of a sentence of five years. He is not only a menace to society but corrupts officials and encourages all other forms of crime.

The great increase in crime during the past few years has not been due to prohibition, as Senator Jones well said, but to the lack of prohibition. If we had real enforcement in this country and conscientious observance of the law by all our citizens who believe in law, there would be less crime of all kinds.

The tendency to break the laws has not been due to prohibition but to the breaking down of that spirit of restraint and control. Too many are demanding personal liberty, but there is no liberty for free citizens in this republic or in any other except liberty under the law.

A WIDESPREAD BLESSING

Remarking that our age, though still "cursed with inhuman savagery and want," provides us with "superhuman pleasures," William Bolitho pays the following tribute in the New York World to the inventor of the radio: "His mark is the antenna wire, which for countless miles of hopeless backdoors is hung out to mark that there lives one who has broken thru loneliness, conquered poverty nnd forgotten misery in the possession of a pragmatical secret that was out of reach even of the dreams of ancient magicians. This wire that slants or sags from millions of chimney pots to forlorn trees, or to the copings of soot-rotted walls, ties its owner to the life of the whole world from which he seemed endlessly separated; and by the most immediate and living of senses, not cold sight, but human and familiar hearing."

Not the least of the blessings thus conferred on the world's millions is pleasureable education in music. Reference is not to the daily jazz, shrill sopranos and bawling baritones, but to the highgrade music at stated times of such orchestras as the Philharmonic of New York, and the concerts conducted by Walter Damrosch Saturday evenings for adults and Friday mornings for children. It is reported that during the past season some eight million persons listened-in to the evening concerts and from two to three million school children to the morning recitals—with educative as well as pleasurable results. It is now announced that this long-famed conductor will hereafter give his whole attention to music "on the air" and the increasing number of listeners can not fail to grow in appreciation of music in its higher forms.

Was the Census of 1920 Wrong In Showing Declines in the Population of Both Oakland and Mountain Lake Park?

To the Editor of The Republican.

The majority of people hesitate to look facts in the face.

Some, even if their health seems to be failing, fear to seek the advice of a physician, apprehensive that he will discover a condition necessitating hospitalization or even an operation, tho the knowledge might restore health and prolong life. So, they continue to suffer. It is that way in our daily affairs. But the time comes when conditions must be met.

In seeking some information about Maryland the other day, I picked up a geography used in the public schools and came to the portion listing the population of several towns and cities of the State. I was somewhat surprised to note that according to the census of 1910, Oakland had a population of 1366, but according to the census of 1920, it had dropped to 1225, a loss of over ten per cent, and that Mountain Lake Park had dropped from 335 in 1910 to 231 in 1920, a loss of over 30 per cent.

We would not attempt to analyze the situation, leaving that for those who are better acquainted with the conditions in the period named. But there must be some cause for it.

No doubt some of the loss sustained may be accounted for by removals to the large industrial centers where employment is more constant at a higher rate of pay. But does this account for the entire loss?

We believe the time is opportune to consult a good diagnostician (and there should be one or more in Oakland) and see if he can determine whether our community is suffering from a merely temporary derangement which can be relieved by administering judicious doses of energy and pep, or, whether in fact, we are suffering from a malignant civic growth which can only be cured by the application of the knife.

Perhaps a Board of Trade or Chamber of Commerce might help solve the problem. But some one says, "We have already tried that." Well, there is a city close by that has had at least a half a dozen such organizations and they have all failed, BUT THEY ARE NOW ORGANIZING A NEW ONE, backed by the Rotary, Business Men's and other clubs.

The citizens, realizing their city needs something to lower the temperature brought on by a period of financial inactivity, are willing to try again and keep on trying until the proper remedy is discovered and applied. F.

Plans Completed for Women's Short Course.

Plans which have been completed for the Seventh Annual Rural Women's Short Course to be held at the University of Maryland, June 17 to 22, call for a program that will be just as interesting and instructive as in the past, according to a recent statement of Miss Venia M. Kellar, State Home Demonstration Agent.

Those who are planning to attend the course again this year will be glad to learn that Dr. Esther L. Richards, who has assisted with the program for two years, will again deliver her popular lecture on "Nerves." Dr. Richards is associate professor psychiatry, Johns Hopkins Hospital, Baltimore, and has had a wide experience in the study of the nervous system.

In addition to Dr. Richards, Mrs. Evelyn Tobey nnd Miss Edna Bryte, of Columbia University, New York; Miss Lucile Brewer and Miss Grace Morin, of Cornell University, Ithaca, New York; Miss Ella Gardner, of the Children's Bureau, United States Department of Labor; Miss Mary Dank, Chicago, and Mrs. Claribel P. Welch, Universlty of Maryland, will have prominent parts In the program.

Following the schedule of former years, the course will offer instruction in foods and nutrition, household management, house furnishing, clothing, home health and sanitation, ornamental gardening, home dairying, poultry production and parliamentary law.

As has been the procedure in the past, the opening day will have no classes, but will be devoted to the location of rooms in the various dormitories and to registration. In the evening a reception will be held and next day, June 18, instruction will begin. Tuesday evening there will be a reception by President R. A. Pearson of the University of Maryland.

It is expected that a large number will attend the exercises incident to the presentation of certificates to the fourth year class on Friday, as this has always been a big occasion for the relatives and friends of the class members.

The Baltimore and Ohio offers a special rate of fare. The goal for 1929 is that Garrett county may be represented by 20 women at the Rural Women's Short Course. Thus far there are three who are expecting to attend.

COUNTY AGENT'S COLUMN.

J. H. CARTER,
Resident County Agent,
Oakland, Md.

The Mexican Bean Beetle will soon be making its appearance. Prevention is the best method of control, therefore, it would be a good practice to spray or dust before the beetle makes its appearance.

As both the adults and the larvae feed from the underside of the leaves spraying or dusting must be done from that side as well as on top to be effective.

1.—Dust 20% copper sulfate (finely ground), 20% calcium arsenate, 60% hydrated lime.

2.—One pound magnesium arsenate, 3 to 5 pounds hydrated lime.

Spray—Three gallons Bordeaux mixture 4-4-50, 1 tablespoon of flour, or other spreader; 4 tablespoonsful of calcium arsenate.

Sweet Clover

Altho sweet clover is better for pasture and soil improvement than for hay, the crop does make a nutritious hay when cut and cured at the proper time. The crop should be cut for hay as soon as the first bloom buds appear. If left until the crop is in full bloom the stem becomes woody and most of the leaves are lost. The crop should be cut high leaving some green stem buds on the stubble. Sweet clover does not send up a second crop from the roots as alfalfa does. Therefore if the green stem buds are not left the crop will be killed the first cutting. If you are going to make hay from sweet clover plan your work so as to cut the clover at the proper time.

The County Agent will be glad to furnish further information about sweet clover.

Since the passing of a new law by the U. S. D. A. it is possible to tell when you are buying imported red clover or alfalfa seed.

All imported seed are stamped, and it will be very helpful if you remember the markings which are as follows:

a. If grown in regions that produce seed not adapted anywhere in the United States about 1% of it must be stained red.

b. If from regions that produce seed that may be adapted to some regions in the United States, some of the seed is dyed green.

Acclimated Seed Corn Project To Be Started

In an effort to establish a local source of acclimated seed corn, the University of Maryland Extension Service in cooperation with the Tri-State Packers' Association, will conduct a corn seed saving project in 1929 to be very similar to the tomato seed saving campaign carried on by the Tri-State Packers' Association for the past four or five years.

As a result of many requests, four different strains of corn are to be planted in Western Maryland in the following nmounts: Five acres each of Stowell's Evergreen, Narrow Grain Evergreen and Shoepeg and ten acres of Hopeland, a hybrid selection developed by Dr. W. B. Kemp at the University of Maryland Experiment Station.

The planting are to be made in Western Maryland so ns to nvoid ear worm injury, it is declared, and approximately one acre breeding plots will be kept in addition to produce stock for the following year. These plots will be carefully rogued to eliminate extremely late and early maturing plants and those showing evidence of disease and other undesirable characteristics. Selections will be made in the field as well as in the drying shed. The ndvisability of testing for starch content will be taken into consideration also. For further details see the County Agent.

The Extension Service of the University of Maryland will cooperate in supervising the general field growing and drying of the seed and will assist in conducting the breeding plots for the stock seed.

KEEP YOUR DOGS AT HOME IS WARNING BY WARDENS

Game Protectors Cite Law Prohibiting Dogs Running at Large

Section 20, Chapter 568, Acts of the General Assembly of Maryland, provides that it is "unlawful for any person to allow any dog or dogs belonging to him to run at large on other property than that owned or tenanted by him between March 1 and September 1, and pursue any game or destroy the eggs or nests. Any person harboring a dog or dogs shall be termed the lawful owner of same."

The penalty for violating this act is not less than $25 fine nor more than $100 fine for each offense.

In February, 1929, 10,000 posters were mailed to the district deputy game wardens of the counties who have posted their counties thoroughly with them, calling the attention of the public to this act and in addition to the posting of these notices, the deputy wardens have called on hundreds of persons requesting them to keep their dogs either under leash or inclosed.

March 1 to September 1 is the height of the propagating season for upland game and it is very essential that the dogs be kept from running at large during this period. It is fully believed by the State Game Department that the dogs running at large during this period kill more game than the hunters kill annually.

A mother rabbit has no chance of escaping a dog during this period and thousands of infant rabbits are killed in their beds by dogs; also thousands of quail and other ground-nesting birds' nests are destroyed annually by the unleashed dogs.

The department earnestly appeals to the dog owners of Maryland to cooperate with them in prohibiting this great destruction of the upland game by dogs and to those who will not cooperate the department will be compelled to prosecute for violation of the law, was the statement of E Lee LeCompte, State Game Warden.

Their great-grandfather came to America with William Penn and built a log cabin on the old home place, where a log is inscribed with the date of the settling.

MT. LAKE PARK.

THERE ARE LITTLE THINGS IN LIFE AS WELL AS BIG THINGS

We are all prone to think of the big things of life, forgetting the trite saying that "big oaks from little acorns grow."

We read with secret longing that Roger Babson, the statistician, recently announced in The Forum that there are at least twenty ways, all new, by which a man could easily make a million dollars. We look over his list of inventions, day dream, then sigh and cast them aside as being too much for us.

We read of Pickford, Fairbanks, Chaplin and a score of other screen favorites whose incomes run into the hundreds of thousands and perhaps have a sneaking idea that we, too, if given an opportunity, might do as well. We again sigh, cast that aside and nothing comes of it.

But we fail to enthuse or "get all het up" over what, to us, seem the small things. We cannot understand how a German scientist could possibly spend ten years of his life working out a theory relating to space, his whole ten years' work being reduced to calculations that fill a very small pamphlet selling on the market at 25 cents, and which, apparently no one but the author understands.

Or, that Michleson, physicist of the Chicago University, could spend years of his life and thousands of dollars just to ascertain whether his former calculations that light traveled at the rate of 186,284 miles a second, is correct to within one or two points in a million.

Yet these two men, working at what the great mass of people believe to be trivial things, are adding much to the sum total of human knowledge that will not only benefit us but future generations.

So it is with our everyday community life. While we are thinking about and planning for the bigger things for our town and community, let us do the small things at hand. Clean up our town; beautify our property; keep our streets and alleys in good condition; get rid of the unsightly and unsanitary out buildings; be friendly and courteous; impress on the visitor that he, himself, is as welcome as his dollars.

Do the small things and the big ones will follow.

STUDIES NEEDS OF PLANT LIFE

University of Maryland Learns Fertilizer Requirements by Feeding Plants Growing in Clear Water

The soil is the logical place to grow tomato plants, or so the majority of farmers have long believed, and yet at the University of Maryland Experiment Station Dr. Earl S. Johnston is growing big healthy plants in clear water, in glass jars with no sand or soil for theis roots. This is so decidely unusual as to seem improbable and yet it is comparatively simple, for plant foods must be in solution before the plant can absorb them.

By this process of growing plants in water solutions Dr. Johnston expects to help the farmer immeasurably. He can find out just what chemicals are necessary to the plant's health and just what a lack of them will do. The water is distilled so that all chemical impurities are removed. Then by adding all the essential plant food elements except calcium, for example, it is easy to tell just what symptoms a calcium-free diet for the plant will develop. This, in fact, was one of the experiments tried out at the University of Maryland. The result was that inside of a week the growing point of the plant wilted and died while the plants grew to only half the size of normal ones grown with calcium included in their diet.

The same procedure was carried on with six other elementat foods and striking results found in each case. If the plant got bumpy and looked diseased, then it needed magnesium. Without nitrogen and sulphur the leaves turned yellow within a week. A lack of potash caused a characteristic spotting of the leaves.

Probably the most interesting experiment was with boron. For a long time no scientist knew that this was necessary for the growth of the plants. They had been carrying on their experiments in brace earthenware jars, which had enough boron in them to allow the plants to grow. However, when the same experiments were carried out in the glass jars the plants did not grow, although they were given the same food matter. Through experiments it was found that boron was the necessary missing element for growth. Experiments were run with boron and without it, and run in clear glass containers, astonishing results were obtained.

At the end of three weeks those plants that were grown with one part of boron to two million parts of water, were big healthy plants while those grown with no boron whatsoever were dwarfed to half size and dying. The amount of boron necessary for the health of the plant was "only a breath and yet the plant could not grow without it.

Dr. Johnston also has used this method for showing the importance of air for plant growth. Two plants were given all the foods necessary for perfect growth, but air was forced through the solution for one plant and omitted in the other. The result was a strong healthy plant in the jar through which air was forced and a small dwarfed plant in the one the roots of which could not get air.

Dr. Johnston's method is interesting. He fills a clear glass mason jar with distilled water. This is covered either with a thick layer of paraffin and vaseline, or a paraffined cork. The tiny plant is inserted through the cork and the roots dropped into the water. Elemental chemicals are added to the water to feed the plant, among them nitrogen, phosphorus, calcium, sulphur, potassium, magnesium, carbon, hydrogen, oxygen and iron, but little manganese is also added and just a slight trace of boron, a substance which is found in borie acid. Only one part of boron to two million parts of water is necessary to the growth of the plant and as large an amount of boron as five parts in a million of water will prove disastrous to the plants.

The jar is covered with a neat piece of white or brown paper and left at room temperature or slightly above room temperature where the plants grow perfectly.

The Republican Commercial Printing Department is the best equipped printery you could care to inspect.

Notice to Individuals and Others Requiring Trader's License

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN, To all persons engaged in business where a trader's license is required that under the provisions of Senate Bill No. 63, which has recently been passed by the General Assembly of 1929, there is imposed on persons who fail to take out licenses in the month of May a penalty of ten per cent per month on the cost of the license. In other words, licensees may take out licenses at any time during the month of May without having to pay a penalty, but on and after June 1st anyone applying for a license, who was in business in the month of May preceding, is required to pay, in addition to the cost of the license, a penalty of ten per cent per month or fraction of a month. In the case of persons starting in business during the license year they are only required to take out a license for the remaining part of the year, but they must take out their license in the month in which they begin business.

There has also been passed at the recent session of the General Assembly a bill requiring a separate license for each place of business owned and conducted by individuals or corporations.

The Acts above referred to makes it mandatory upon the undersigned to collect the penalties prescribed by said Acts in the case where licensees are delinquent in applying for their licenses and leaves no discretion on my part as I will be held accountable for the penalty by the State when my books are examined, hence all persons required to take out a license are urged to make early application and thus avoid the undue expense of ten per cent per month penalty imposed by the law above referred to.

HEALTH DEPARTMENTS WEEKLY LETTER TO PRESS

Oysters Are Off the Menu and Replaced by Crabs

Applying the remarks of the famous Finnegan to seafood products, oysters are off the menu and crabs are "on agin". Oysters went into retreat officially when the R's dropped out of the months and just as they made their exit, crabs came in and took the center of the gastronomic stage. Judging from the early catch the season promises to be a good one and lovers of the luscious crab meat can enjoy it to the limit of their pocketbooks and their appetites, served as they like it, at home or elsewhere, hot and savory, steamed or in soup; cool and refreshing in salad; brown, crusty and deliciously seasoned in cakes, or back in the shells in imperial style, or just plain deviled.

Because Maryland is the center of the crab industry, responsibility for the sanitary supervision of the conditions under which handling and shipments of the appetizing delicacy are carried on, rests upon the Bureau of Food and Drugs of the State Department of Health.

The State Board of Health rules and regulations governing the operation of crab-packing and distributing houses, require the work to be carried on in rooms or buildings of suitable construction and equipment, and the operations carried on in such a manner that the purity and wholesomeness of the product are carefully safeguarded. In general, the requirements for cleanliness, sterilization of the equipment and icing of the product closely follow those in effect for the oyster industry.

Buildings must be screened, sufficiently lighted and equipped with adequate plumbing and drainage. Work benches must be kept clean and must be washed frequently with a solution of chloride of lime; floors must be cleaned daily and establishments must provide convenient facilities for employes to wash and sterilize their hands. Packers are also advised to have their employese examined medically as is done in the oyster industry.

Copies of the regulations have been sent to all crab-handling concerns by Mr. A. L. Sullivan, Chief of the Bureau of Food and Drugs of the State Department of Health, who has also asked that prompt attention be given to conditions which do not measure up to the requirements and that an abundant supply of steam or hot water be provided in each establishment for cleansing purposes.

The observance of this day calls for a parade at ten o'clock in the morning which will form on Third street in front of the City Hall, facing north. The route of the parade will include Third and Second streets and from Second street the march will lead to the cemetery, where the memorial services will be held.

SAYS DEVICE IN CELLAR NOT A STILL BUT STOVE

Garrett Countain Convicted in Federal Court on Dry Law Charge—Fined $500

Peter Hoy, living near Johnson's in this county, west of Frostburg, was found guilty by a jury in the Federal court in Cumberland after a few minutes deliberation before noon Thursday, of possessing articles designed for the manufacture of liquor.

He was defended by J. Phillip Roman and E. J. Ryan, of Cumberland. The case took up the greatest part of the morning. Hoy was very voluble and argumentative on the stand.

Waraed to Quit Business

Judge Morris A. Soper fined him $500 and costs, warned him to get out of the business, and told him if he came back before him and was convicted, Hoy woul dgo to the penitentiary.

The Federal officers testified that on January 15 they went to Hoy's farm house in an isolated place from the roadway near Long Stretch, and found a 75-gallon still set up in his cellar over a metal barrel used as a heating stove, but no coil. In the room above were 2800 pounds of rye and corn meal, and 450 pounds of granulated sugar.

Won Gold Medal For Preserving

Hoy put up an unusual offense that the still was an improvised stove, for the purpose of heating his house, in cold weather. He denied that the materials found in his house were rye, but declared the sacks contained oats, potatoes, rice and other grains, some grown on his fifty-acre tract, or bought for sowing this spring. He declared the sugar was only 250 lbs. and that he did winter canning of apples and fruits, living alone and had a gold medal for his preserving in Baltimore. U. S. District Attorney asked to see this medal but Hoy forgot to bring it with him.

During his cross examination by the Federal attorney Hoy described in answer to questions the operations and how liquor was made. The government showed Hoy had been convicted of making liquor in the same cellar previously and that the agents found broken stills and parts in his woodshed. Hoy at intervals sought to verbally spar with the Federal and his own attorneys over his alleged heating plant, which District Attorney Woodcock declared "was wonderfully made and an unusual contraption for heating cellars."

Motion to Quash Overruled

Trial of his case was held up yesterday, when Hoy sought to quash the indictment, alleging that his home was searched without a warrant. The Federal officers testified that Hoy showed them in his cellar and also upstairs where the materials were kept. When his case was called on last Thursday morning inference was given that he would plead guilty, but after Hoy consulted some time with his counsel the Court informed them this decision should be made promptly without taking up time of the court and jury. Hoy apparently went over his counsel's advice and pleaded not guilty.

OAKLAND–GRANTSVILLE WINNERS IN DECLAMATION

The girls' contest was sponsored by G. A. Fraley, cashier of the Garrett National Bank, Oakland, and the boys' contest by Delbert Davis, cashier of the First National Bank, Oakland. The judges in the contest were John L. Dunkle, principal of Frostburg State Normal School, and two of his assistants, Misses Rickets and Brady.

The Community Sing, held during National Music week, at the Maryland theatre under the auspices of the Civic Club, was a success. The Gilbert-Brown Boys' band, the High School glee club, high school orchestra and others assisted in the program, which was well attended.

Fined for School Law Violation

Thomas Wilt, of Fairview, was fined $5 and costs before E. I. West, justice, last Thursday, on a charge of violating the school attendance law. In default of payment he was sentenced to 30 days in the county jail, but after a few days had been served the fine was paid.

ALL SHOULD TAKE PART IN CLEAN-UP CAMPAIGN

Every Citizen Should Assist in Beautifying Oakland

"Due to the inclemency of the weather, Clean-up Week will be extended to May 29," Mayor L. M. Fraley stated this morning. Trucks will be at the disposal of residents on May 28 and 29, he added.

"Every citizen who has not as yet taken any part in Clean-up Week should utilize the time in beautifying his property and getting Oakland spotless for Memorial day," he said.

The proclamation which appeared in The Republican last week, if followed, will make this one of the cleanest towns in the State, he said, and it can be done if everybody has a part in the work.

All of this week and the first three days of next week remain of Clean-up and Beautify Campaign Week, and in cooperation with the proclamation the City Council has provided trucks for hauling free of charge.

Clean-up week is being held earlier this year in order that Oakland may look its best for Memorial Day, and it is hoped that every citizen will back the proclamation and beautify Oakland.

ANNUAL TRACK AND FIELD DAY MEET TO BE TUESDAY

Large Number of Entries Expected To Compete in Thirteenth County-wide Event

The thirteenth annual county-wide Field and Track Meet will be held at the Fair Grounds, Oakland, on Tuesday, May 28, with a larger number of entries competing than ever before, if present indications can be taken as a forerunner of the event, according to Foster Speicher, chairman of the committee in charge.

The meet will be held under the auspices of the Playground Athletic League of Baltimore, and under the authority of F. E. Rathbun, county superintendent of schools.

A number of schools have already sent in their entries to the chairman of the committee, and several of the schools of the county have held local field day meets in their respective communities in preparation for the county-wide contest. Oakland High school is expecting to specialize in the high jump this year, and have stellar performers in Moore, Spoerlein, and Casteel. Other contestants have not as yet been picked for the other events.

There will be various running events, relay races, broad jump, high jump, shot put, etc., for the 80-lb., 96-lb., 115-lb., junior and senior unlimited classes, and boys' speed ball, girls' volley ball and dodge ball contests and other games for all schools participating.

Kitzmiller High school has won the meet for two consecutive years. Last year Accident High was second and Oakland High third. The year previous Kitzmiller Grammar was second; Accident third and Oakland high fourth.

The committee in charge is composed of Foster Speicher, Oakland High, chairman; W. J. Glenn, Friendsville High; John Leatherman, Grantsville; Arthur Scrogum, Accident; and Paul Custer, Kitzmiller.

Posture Program Is Held at High School

The Biology club of Oakland High school presented a posture program and a play, "Wanted, attendants for the Princess," last Friday afternoon. The princess, chosen as the girl having the best posture was Hasaleah Yutzy. Others winning badges for good posture were Gladys Aronhalt, Lavinia Root, Margaret DeBerry, Virginia Paulie, Annabelle Stemple, Mary Welling, Harley Dawson, Harland Biggs, Richard Glotfelty, Richard Roy and Joseph Sollars.

During the week badges will be presented to all high school pupils who stand, walk and sit in correct posture.

Badly Bitten By a Dog.

Jane, the 8-year old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Harmon, residing in East Oakland, was bitten by a dog yesterday morning, the animal sinking its teeth deep into the child's right leg below her knee. She was brought to the office of Dr. McComas, who dressed the wound and administered hydrophobia serum.

SYNOD TO CLOSE SESSION WITH ORDINATIONSERVICE

Three Young Men to beOrdained into Ministry this Evening—Brotherhood Organizes

REV. W. P. CLINE REELECTED

At this morning's session of Synod, Rev. W. P. Cline, Jr., Fairmont, W. Va., was reelected president for the ensuing year.

Other officials chosen were Rev. Charles G. Anrand, Wheeling, W. Va., vice-president; Rev. Paul L. Foulk, Clarksburg, secretary; Mr. B. F. Becker, Huntington, W. Va., treasurer; Rev. C. E. Butler, Huntington, statistical secretary; Rev. Simon Snyder, Wheeling, historian; Rev. P. L. Foulk, editor The Young Lutheran.

The Seventeenth Annual meeting of the West Virginia Synod of the United Lutheran Church in America, of which the local church is a member, will close its three-day session this evening when three young men will be ordained into the ministry. Those to be ordained are Loyal T. Riley, of Oakland, graduate of Lutheran theological seminary, Gettysburg, Pa.; Howard Amick, graduate of Hamma Divinity school, Springfield, Ohio; and Frank B. Heizel, graduate of Gettysburg seminary. Rev. Simon Snyder, Wheeling, will preach the ordination sermon. The service is open to the public.

Prior to the opening session of synod on Tuesday evening a synodical brotherhood was organized. Two representatives, together with the pastor from each of the churches of the synod, constituted the organization. O. C. Wilt, Clarksburg, was elected president; R. E. Roberts, Fairmont, secretary; and M. O. Loy, Keyser, treasurer. W. H. Shafferman, Grafton, was named as a member of the executive board.

A banquet was held in the basement of the church at which covers were laid for eighty. The toastmaster was Wellington Yutzy, Oakland. The principal address was delivered by Dr. J. W. Kapp, of Cincinnati, O., general secretary of the U. L. C. A. Brotherhood, and he spoke of the importance of the manhood of the church taking part in religious advancement.

Synod Formally Opened

The synod was formally opened at 8 o'clock Tuesday evening. Rev. W. P. Cline, Jr., Fairmont, president of synod, delivered the sermon, and the vested choir composed of fifteen members from Rev. Cline's church, had charge of the music. The music was of the highest class and the efforts of the singers were highly appreciated by the large number who heard them.

The Rev. F. F. Fry, D. D., New York, Executive secretary of the board of American missions of the U. L. C. A., delivered the address yesterday evening which was unusually interesting and inspiring to all. The men's choir of St. Mark's Lutheran church, Oakland, furnished the music. Both evening services were very well attended.

Business sessions of synod were held through the morning and afternoon sessions. About 40 pastors, together with their laymen from various churches, are in attendance.

Floral decorations on the altar each evening were donated by the H. Weber and Sons company.

Lesson for May 26

GOD'S LAW IN THE HEART

LESSON TEXT—Jeremiah 31:1-40; John 1:17.

GOLDEN TEXT—Thy word have I hid in my heart, that I might not sin against thee.

PRIMARY TOPIC—Knowing God.

JUNIOR TOPIC—Knowing God.

INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—How Can We Know God?

YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—God's Law in the Heart.

I. Restoration of Israel (vv. 1-14).

1. Time of (vv. 1-5).

This points to the glorious future. Not only the children of Judah, but the other tribes as well, shall be restored to their land. They shall be drawn by Jehovah's everlasting love (v. 3). God gave them the land. The peculiar distinctions of the chosen nation shall again be manifest. The time is coming when not only shall peace spread over that land, but it shall again be tilled, and fruitful.

2. The Lord will conduct them to their own land (vv. 6-9).

(1) The cry of the watchman (v. 6). This will be the signal for return.

(2) Exultant prospect (v. 7). The prospect of deliverance will call forth a song of joy.

(3) Prayer of the Jews (v. 7).

God incites all true prayer, moving the people to pray for that which He is about to do unto them.

(4) The returning remnant (vv. 8, 9). They shall come from all parts of the world whence they have been scattered. When they shall look upon Him whom they pierced, their consciences shall be smitten, causing them to repent of their sins.

3. Appeal to the nations (vv. 10-14).

(1) Sound forth the good news (v. 10). The one who scattered them will now gather them in and shepherd them.

(2) Ransomed by the Lord (v. 11). Their deliverance is preceded by the provision of the ransom.

(3) The exiles shall flock back to their land to enjoy God's goodness in it (v. 12).

(4) Their mourning shall turn to joy (v. 13).

(5) They shall be satisfied with God's goodness (v. 14).

II. The Desolate Condition of Ephraim (vv. 15-20).

1. Rachel weeping for her children (v. 15).

This pictures Rachel, ancestress of certain of the tribes, weeping for her banished children.

2. Ephraim will surely return (vv. 16-19).

The nation is seen showing penitence for sin, requesting divine help in turning back and in confessing sin.

3. Their tender reception (v. 20).

In spite of chastisement, God loves Israel and will with open arms receive her back.

III. Action Urged (vv. 21-26).

Something is required of Israel. Before the prodigal could enjoy the blessings of his father's house, he must return thereto.

1. Israel must return and take possession of the land (v. 21).

2. Israel was to take the initiative (v. 22).

This is expressed by the declaration that the Lord hath created a new thing in the earth, namely, "a woman shall compass a man." It is usual for the man to take the initiative—to make overtures to the woman, but in this case God shall create a new thing. The custom will be reversed. The woman "compassing" the man pictures Israel with eager affection approaching her divine husband.

3. The land shall be made righteous (v. 23).

The people are responsible for the restoration of prosperity and the righteous rule of the land.

4. A satisfied people (vv. 24-26).

IV. The New Covenant (vv. 29-40).

1. Freedom from the power of heredity (vv. 29, 30).

Those who are joined to Jesus Christ are in possession of a new law of life superior to the law of heredity.

2. The law within (vv. 31-33).

Through regeneration the heart has within it not only the desire but also the power, by the Holy Spirit, to rise above and to be free from carnal impulses.

V. The Source of the New Covenant (John 1:17).

Through the incarnation the Son of God identified Himself with the race by the incorporation of Himself with it. Those in Christ are new creatures.

MENACE OF THE TYPHOID FEVER CARRIER REDUCED

This Accomplished by Protection of Public Water Supplies

Speaking recently of the gradual decrease in both the number of cases and in the deaths from typhoid fever throughout the State, Dr. R. H. Riley, director of the State department of health said that much of this reduction paralleled the gradual protection of public water supplies from pollution but there is still much to be done in this field, he said. "There is another source of infection," he continued, "that is often overlooked—the typhoid carrier—the person who is the spreader of the germs of typhoid through uncleanly habits. Some of the most serious outbreaks that have occurred in our town and in other states have been traced to carriers.

"Whenever a case of typhoid fever is reported to the department, effort is made by the local health officer or the deputy state health officer to discover the sources of infection. Usually the major problem is to locate the carrier. A recent checking up of the histories kept by the bureau of communicable diseases shows that we have the record of 84 carriers to whom 346 cases of typhoid fever that occurred in the counties of Maryland were traced.

"Of the total number of carriers, 55 were white, 23 colored, and the color of six was not recorded; 27 were male and 57 female. Two-thirds of the total had something to do with the preparation or handling of foods—35 were housewives, 10 were milk handlers, 8 cooks, 4 shellfish handlers. The rest were farmers, laborers, or were engaged in some other occupation. One-third of the cases occurred in the families or the homes of the carriers; two-fifths on milk routes, and one-tenth in households in which the cook was found to be the carrier. The largest number of cases traced to one individual was 56. Another carrier was responsible for 47; a third for 22 and still another for 15. Fifteen of the cases occurred in 1884, and the rest between 1912 and 1928.

"It will be seen from this review of our records that the greatest menace in connection with carriers comes from those who handle foodstuffs. The known carrier is not permitted to engage in any of the food handling occupations, and as far as possible we keep a record of the carriers to whom cases of the disease have been traced, and see that they do not endanger the lives of others.

"Because of the danger that arises from sources that cannot be guarded against, as the season for summer outings and of eating at all sorts of places approaches, the department advises those who have not been vaccinated against typhoid fever within the last two years to avail themselves of the protection afforded by such vaccination. Three inoculations one week apart are necessary to complete the immunization. The state department of health provides the vaccine free to all physicians who apply for it. All that it will cost will be the physicians fee and a few minutes of your time. If you have no physician go to the nearest health officer."

Sulfur Dust Advised to Control Red Spider

Dusting with a finely ground sulfur dust is the most effective means known for controling the common red spider which has done so much damage to the strawberry crop in Maryland during the last three years and which bids fair to outdo itself this year, according to P. D. Sanders, horticultural inspector for the University of Maryland Extension Service.

The severity of the attack has been so great as to necessitate a thorough and complete campaign of control with a dust application when the buds begin to form and dustings at intervals of from a week to ten days thereafter, depending upon the frequency of rains, until the berries have formed. From forty to seventy pounds of sulfur dust should be applied at each application, Mr. Sanders states, and the best control has resulted when the sulfur was put on while the plants were wet and the temperature at seventy degrees Fahrenheit or above.

Damage, it is pointed out, may be caused by the spider in one of two ways: First, by sucking the sap from the plants in the early spring, (April and May), thereby lowering the vitality of the plants, resulting in lowered yields; or, second, by sucking the sap from the berry "caps" causing them to turn brown. Plants, that have been seriously injured, often turn reddish brown early in the season. The Gandy and Lupton varieties seem to be the ones that the pest attacks most readily. Early varieties, while they have been injured in some sections, are generally harvested before the red spider can attack them.

When mature, the red spider is about the size of a common poultry mite and varies in color from a pale green to red. The adult spiders pass the winter in the tightly curled green leaves about the crown of the plant and are protected by a blanket of dead leaves and grass. As new growth puts forth in the spring, the spiders move upon it and reproduce. Injury then shows at an early date and continues until after picking time.

Dusters for applying the sulfur are obtainable in all sizes which must depend upon the acreage to be treated.

The Pomona Grange will hold its next quarterly meeting in the Grange hall at Ryan's Glade on June 6, at 10:00 a. m.

Plans are being made for a program in the afternoon which everyone will enjoy. Remember this date and make your plans to be at the meeting.

The wool market has been very slow this season. The Farm Bureau is again offering 37 cents this week.

Following is a quotation from Boston: "Boston is distinctly easier in price this week, and it is possible to buy on a lower level than you could ten days ago. I do not believe this condition will change until there has been some buying, and prices are established. You know how it is when a manufacturer is offered wool today at one price, and tomorrow it is offered to him for less money. It does not beget any confidence in the situation.

It may also interest you to know that some of the manufacturers have been reducing their prices on duplicate business over in New York, and they are creating in the mind of the New York cloth buyer that he is getting to get distinctly cheaper prices."

ROTARY AND THE PROBLEM OF PHYSICALLY HANDICAPED YOUTH

The following address on "Rotary" was delivered recently at one of the Rotary conferences at St. Paul's Lutheran Church, Cumberland, the author of the same being Walter N. Kirkman, of Maryland, chief of the division of personal accounts, Maryland State Board of Health. This address is considered of much interest, because it contains information with reference to legislation recently passed providing for the establishment of care for the under-privileged children:

Text of Address

The problem of aid to physically handicapped children is one which challenges Rotary Clubs in many communities to help in solving. I think that the term "physically handicapped" should be substituted for "crippled" as a term inclusive of all those unfortunates who, for any physical reason, are handicapped in competition with normal persons. There are two aspects of this problem which are appealing and compelling.

First, the humanitarian side. Certainly there is nothing which enlists our sympathies with quite as much force as the prospect of helping those children who begin the race of life handicapped by physical disabilities. In the brief time at my disposal I shall not attempt to recite individual cases. Those of us who attended the District Conference at York last year doubtless retain the vivid memory of the demonstration of corrections which were obtained for crippled children by the Rotary Club. It was an outstanding piece of work for the entire district, and one of tremendous value to the community. In these brief observations I shall merely attempt to call attention to some of the fundamentals of such a program.

The second aspect of this problem appeals to us as business men. It is distinctly economic in its nature, as distinguished from the humanitarian side, which is distinctly a social problem. A physically handicapped child frequently becomes a community liability. Unable many times, because of their physical condition or lack of adequate specialized training to be self-supporting, such individuals become dependent upon their families, friends or the government under which they live. Therefore, anything which can be done to enable these unfortunates to become independent, at least in part, to that extent relieves the burden on others, and in effect converts the liability into an asset. Not the least important is the feeling of self-respect which inures to the individual because of his independence. It increases his self-respect, which is a valuable and necessary quality. Admitting these general observations to be true, the question arises, what part can a Rotary Club have in a community program to help physically handicapped children? Naturally, there are two parts to the answer of this question.

First. Ascertain the amount and kind of help needed. This, of course, contemplates inquiry into the number of children in a community who are physically handicapped, the kind of assistance or correction needed, and Second. To discover or provide remedial measures or supply the necessary help.

In these activities Rotary Clubs may render important help. I do not propose a burdensome program which the busy men composing Rotary Clubs would find difficult or impossible of accomplishment. It is usually not necessary for clubs to do the detail work. Frequently such information is available from official or unofficial sources, or both. For example, in Maryland, a law recently passed by the Legislature requires the State Department of Education to notify the State Department of Health of all cases of physically handicapped children ascertained by taking a census. The Health Department examines such children and reports back to the Department of Education such children as need or should have special treatment or training.

The Educational Department is therefore the depository of information, and may be the source from which the program will start. The next step is to discover or provide medical or surgical treatment for correction or amelioration of diseased conditions. In the larger cities where orthopedic hospitals and orthopedic surgeons are available the problem is greatly simplified. In the smaller communities it is frequently necessary to bring the facilities, particularly the orthopedist, to the child.

Having put the child, physically in the best possible condition the next step is to cooperate with the educational authorities in securing facilities for specialized education, in schools especially equipped to teach physically handicapped children; the courses should be largely vocational, which will fit such children as far as possible to become independent. Crippled children present a difficult problem in education since they require as an ideal to be sought for, fire proof buildings of one story, with specially constructed desks and other equipment; and not infrequently a physician or nurse to give orthopedic treatment.

As I see it, the function of a Rotary Club in movements of this kind is to cooperate with other agencies, official or unofficial, engaged in work of this kind. In fact, I think that as a general proposition service clubs should cooperate with existing agencies and supplement their work. In cases where Rotary Clubs initiate a piece of civic work, it should be done as a demonstration, with a view of interesting the proper authorities who are responsible for the welfare of the community. This, I believe, should be the function of non-official organizations.

May I illustrate the point I have in mind by referring to the situation in Baltimore City where the work among crippled children has developed along normal lines, with a proper balance between official and unofficial agencies. Two years ago I had the privilege of serving as chairman of the Boys' Work Committee of the Baltimore Rotary Club. This committee holds a weekly luncheon meeting in addition to the regular club luncheon and there are in attendance from 25 to 35 men. One of the objectives of the committee is to aid all physically handicapped children and through two sub-committees definition was made and put into practice of the part our club could play in this important and appealing community service. I may say in passing that Baltimore is well provided with hospital facilities and ample and competent medical and surgical services. So it was not necessary for our club to concern itself with that portion of the program.

One sub-committee was concerned with efforts to secure adequate educational facilities, and the other subcommittee endeavored to find positions for physically handicapped boys. For a number of years the Crippled Children's League had been doing excellent work in securing needed appliances used in the treatment of crippled children, and in providing recreational features. About the time the club became actively interested in this work, The Crippled Children'sLeag ue, in order to better meet the demands upon it, expanded into the Maryland League for Crippled Children, with a State wide program. Dr. Wm. S. Baer, the famous orthopedic surgeon, was named President. Two of the members of our Boy's Work Committee were elected to the Board of Directors, so our club has had an active participation in the development of the work.

Subsequently, the Baltimore City Department of Education assigned a school building especially for the education of crippled children. Insufficient bus facilities were provided and our club succeeded in securing adequate transportation. Many conferences were held with the school officials relative to the construction of a suitable building for the education of crippled children. The Legislature, at its last session, authorized a bond issue for the construction of school buildings in Baltimore City, a part of which I understand will be used for the construction of a special building for the education of crippled children. So the problem of education of physically handicapped children in Baltimore seems in a fair way of solution.

Up to this point in the program, you will see that our club functioned in cooperation with existing agencies and certainly was able to accomplish far more than if we had attempted alone a program of this magnitude and this experience is recited simply to emphasize that point.

But now we come to the place where the Rotary Club supplemented the work of other agencies. A survey made by the Maryland League for Crippled Children developed the fact that there were a number of children in the City, who because of their condition, principally because they were bed-ridden, were unable to attend school. The public school authorities were unable to send teachers to the homes of these children so the Rotary Club undertook to supply this service. We employed Goucher College students, who were taking the teacher's training course, and who in addition were interested in the sociological aspect of the problem, to go to the homes of some of these children who could not go to school, and teach them the elements of an edueatlon. We found many children, 12, 14 and 16 years of age, unable to read or write and their minds a blank so far as the riches of literature were concerned. These children have been taught to read and write, and an entirely new world has been opened to them. I have an abiding satisfaction and gratification that this work was started in my administration as Chairman of the Boy's Work Committee. It is one of the best and finest of all the many benefits I have received from my membership in Rotary.

The work continues, and we employ six Goucher College students and have had under instruction about 25 children. The cost is about $35.00 per month. The student teachers are paid 75c an hour for their services and their earfare.

A recent survey by the State Department of Education indicated that there are approximately 800 physically handicapped children in the counties of Maryland, of whom 343 or approximately 43% are not in school. In addition, there are between 900 and 1000 in Baltimore City. So there is work enough and glory enough for all the Rotary Clubs in Maryland to have a part in this service.

I have stated that a law passed by the last Legislature of Maryland provides that the State Health Department will advise the State Department of Education of physically handieapped children in the State who are in need of special educational facilities. To make this Act effective, the Governor included in his budget which was approved by the Legislature an annual appropriation of $10,000.00 for the education of physically handicapped children. The State Department of Education will establish the qualifications and standings of special educational units, with a minimum of 10 children and to such units as meet these standards, the State will give $2,000.00 per year. So provision is made for 5 units. It is hoped that one of these units will be established here in Cumberland.

And so it developes that Baltimore City and the State have realized and accepted the responsibility of training physically handicapped children. I believe that with these examples and demonstrations the counties of Maryland will not lag behind.

It costs very little to recondition a
MODEL T FORD
THE Ford Motor Company is making a new car, but it is still proud of the Model T. It wants every owner of one of these cars to run it as long as possible at a minimum of trouble and expense.
Because of this policy and because of the investment that millions of motorists have in Model T cars, the Ford Motor Company will continue to supply parts as long as they are needed by Ford owners.
So that you may get the greatest use from your Model T, we suggest that you take it to the nearest Ford dealer and have him estimate on the cost of any replacement parts that may be necessary.
You will find this the economical thing to do because a small expenditure now will help to prevent costlier repairs later on, increase the value of the car, and give you thousands of miles of additional service.
For a labor charge of only $2.60 you can have your generator put in first-class condition. A new universal joint will be installed for a labor cost of $3. Overhauling the carburetor costs $1.50; steering gear, $3.50; radiator, $7.50. A complete overhauling of the rear axle assembly runs between $5.75 and $7 for labor. An average price of $22.50 covers the overhauling of the motor and transmission.
These prices are for labor only because the need and number of new parts depend on the condition of each car. The cost of these parts is low, however, because of the Ford policy of manufacturing and selling at a small margin of profit.

LABOR'S SHARE

The test of prosperity is its distribution. Is enough of the saving from production efficiency and mass output passed on to the consumer? And does labor get its share of the profits?

The old-fashioned employer operated on a public-be-damned and labor-be-damned policy. He didn't ask these questions, and he didn't care.

That attitude has changed. Modern employers aim at small sales profit and a large turnover. They make it their business to have contented and adequately paid workers.

This change is due partly to higher ethical standards of employers, partly to the more fortunate economic position of the United States permitting a more generous business attitude and partly to the increased bargaining power of organized labor.

But the change is due chiefly to the basic discovery that exploited workers are poor producers, that industrial strife is waste and that sustained prosperity depends on a high degree of capital-labor co-operation.

The new system is supplanting the old because it works better for both parties; it is economically sound.

THE REVOLT AGAINST CIVILIZATION

No more notable utterance has been made by a President in years than that of President Hoover at the meeting of the Associated Press in New York. It is a message which the American people must take to heart if their civilization is to be preserved. Strong as the utterance is, much was left unsaid which thoughtful men and women can easily read between the lines.

President Hoover called attention to the fact that in individual lawlessness America leads the world. He declared that it is evident that the national habit of law-breaking did not begin with the enactment of the Eighteenth Amendment, but that the violation of the prohibition amendment and laws was only the continuance of a tendency alarmingly apparent before this change occurred. Those whose memories run back to pre-prohibition days will have no difficulty in recalling that lawlessness in connection with the liquor traffic was rampant before the prohibition policy was seriously considered, and indeed accounted for the development of public sentiment which made this drastic legislation possible.

Such lawlessness is not hard to explain. The greater political freedom achieved by a people, the greater the relaxation of arbitrary authority, the greater the danger of a lack of obedience to law. Yet that obedience to law is an essential accompaniment of greater freedom; otherwise the experiment of popular government will fail. The citizen owes more implicit obedience to law under a representative republican government than under autocracy; for laws under a popular form of government are necessarily an expression of majority rule. In liberty is the seed of anarchy, unless it be guarded by eternal vigilance.

The situation in America is complicated by the fact that we have absorbed into our population millions of aliens unaccustomed to free institutions. Long held under the heel of despotism, they find it difficult to look upon laws and institutions in a new land in the spirit that should characterize a citizen of a free government. It is not accidental, therefore, that a vast majority of those who have become identified in this country with organized crime, are newcomers to the United States. They constitute but a small percentage of our total foreign population, but their activity constitutes a growing menace to public order and safety.

But after all, so long as a certain section of the American metropolitan press persists in glorifying the criminal, and attacking rather than defending the officers of the law who are constantly called upon to risk their lives in the battle with the underworld, we cannot flatter ourselves with the thought that the causes of this revolt against law and order are of foreign origin. So long as many newspapers, some of them of vast circulation and influence, persist in sneering at and attacking certain of our criminal laws, and in surrounding the commercilized activities of lawbreakers with the halo of resistence to oppression, what wonder that crime has increased to the point that in cities like Chicago there is some doubt as to whether the goverament or the racketeer is supreme?

Some years ago a notable book "The Revolt Against Civilization" called attention to the fact that as civilization advances it developes within itself subversive forces which tead to weaken and then destroy it, and that human history is a succession of cycles in which progress is succeeded by retrogression. There are signs that our civilization is revolting against itself. There is an identity of effect, if not of purpose, in the commercilized activities of the rumrings, the racketeers, the radical agitators of armed revolution against the United States and the highly organized and financed movements to disarm the United States in the face of peril created by the growth of elements which violently resist law. into the network of this general subversive movement many well intentioned people with heads as soft as their hearts are drawn, while on the part of the general public there is an ominous indifference to the results which if the teaching of history, is worth anything, must bring the most serious consequences.

In view of these conditions, these words of President Hoover should be read and re-read by every editor responsible for the policy of his publication, aad by every citizen as well:

"I am wondering whether the time has not come, however, to realize that we are confronted with a national necessity of the first degree, that we are not suffering from an ephemeral crime wave, but from a subsidence of our foundations.

"Possibly the time is at hand for the press to systematically demand and support the reorganization of our law enforcement machinery—federal, state and local—so that crime may be reduced, and on the other hand to demand that our citizens shall awake to the fundamental consciousness of democracy which is that the laws are theirs and that every responsible members of a democracy has the primary duty to obey the law.

"It is unnecessary for me to argue the fact that the very essence of freedom is obedience to law; that liberty itself has but one foundation, and that is the law."

SNOBS

It takes all kinds of people to make the world. In this country, where every respectable person is as good as his neighbor and wears his sovereignty under his hat, where men of humble origin, without the veneer apparently necessary to gain admission to the inner sanctum of the socially elect, have been elevated to the highest office within the gift of the people, it seems to most of us that it is a waste of valuable time of important officers of the Government to be called upon to decide whether a certain person should be seated nearer the head of the table at public functions than some other person.

The daughter of a late president decided that she would snub another woman and perhaps reprimand a hostess because a woman in the official circle was slated to be seated near the social throne at a particular dinner. Now this trait was not handed by her distinguished father. Whether he was dining with the "Rough Riders," who vounteered under him in the Spanish War and eating beside a camp fire from a mess kit, or whether his knees were beneath the folds of a real Irish linen tablecloth and his food being served upon sterling silver platters in the halls of kings, made no difference to him If his associates were "good fellows" they could sit where they pleased and he would take the chair assigned him. He was so big that he was not required to pose as a big man.

Apropo: A story is going the rounds of the papers about a man who dreaaed he was dead. When he arrived at the place where he was assigned to spend eternity, he at once set out to look for a particular lady friend who, while on earth, held her nose high in the air and did not hesitate in making her associates feel humiliated. His guide took him to the diningroom and pointed to a blue-blooded, high-class police dog seated at the table. The man said: "You don't mean to say that Mrs. Soandso has to set next to that police dog?" "Oh, dear no, sir," his guide replied, "her place is farther down the table on the other side of that little yellow cur."

James Lee, student at the University of Maryland, spent the week-end with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Lee, at their home on the State road just north of town.

COUNTY SCHOOL PUPILS INCREASE IN NUMBERS

State Department Reports Enrollment Last Year 1,800 Greater Than in 1927

The county white school enrollment last year showed an increase of 1,800 pupils, as compared with 1927, according to an announcement made yesterday by the State department of education.

Due to the iacrease of population in the congested districts of the state, the number of pupils in the upper elementary grades and high school to be provided for continues to mount, the announcement said.

129,000 Last Year

Last year the county white enrollment totaled 129,000 pupils. Not only are the public schools growing, according to the announcement, but similar conditions are also found in the Catholic parish and private schools. The white country enrollment in Catholic schools for 1927-28 was 3,500. Approximately 1,400 were reported enrolled in private schools in the counties.

The public school population in Baltimore city also is growing, the white enrollment last year being 91,039. The Catholic schools showed an enrollment of 29,000 and the private schools nearly 1,300 pupils.

No More in Caroline

Baltimore, Allegany and Montgomery counties showed individual gains from 1927 to 1928 of from 450 to 750 white pupils. Every county except Carroll reported more white pupils in average attendance last year than it reported for the preceding year.

The enrollment in county white high schools was 21,811 last year, or seven percent higher than the preceding year, while the attendance was 19,080 and showed an increase of 1,576, or nine percent over 1927.

Enrollment Figures

The enrollment and attendance in approved county white high schools from 1916 to 1928 is as follows:

| Year Ending July 31 | Enrollment | Average Attendance |
|---|---|---|
| 1916 | 7,000 | 5,804 |
| 1917 | 7,567 | 6,327 |
| 1918 | 7,936 | 6,477 |
| 1919 | 8,302 | 6,685 |
| 1920 | 9,392 | 7,798 |
| 1921 | 10,900 | 9,294 |
| 1922 | 12,815 | 11,188 |
| 1923 | 14,888 | 12,716 |
| 1924 | 16,026 | 13,685 |
| 1925 | 17,453 | 14,982 |
| 1926 | 19,003 | 16,218 |
| 1927 | 20,358 | 17,504 |
| 1928 | 21,811 | 19,080 |

The number of schools for white pupils open less than 180 days, the time required by law, has decreased considerably since 1926. In the latter year there were 124 such schools, in 1927 there were 83 and last year 33.

Thirteen counties did not have one school open less than the required time. Montgomery, Frederick, Carroll, St. Mary's, Dorchester, Somerset and Charles counties each had two to four schools which did not fulfill the requirements on the length of session.

OILING OF STATE ROADS TO BE COMPLETED JULY 1

Twenty Percent of Resurfacing Is Already Finished

Oiling of macadam and gravel roads in the state will be completed before the heavy summer traffic begins July 1, Harry D. Willar, Jr., chief engineer of the State Roads commission, has stated.

Approximately 42,000 tons of chips and 1,200,000 gallons of oil will be spread over 462 miles of the roads throughout the State to renew the surface of the macadam and gravel roads, Mr. Williar said.

One-third Each Year

Of the 1,472 miles of macadam and gravel roads, approximately one-third are oiled annually, he added.

Of the Eastern Shore roads in the nine counties, only thirty-four miles will have to be oiled this year. In Prince George's, Howard and Montgomery counties fifty miles will be oiled; 147 miles in Anne Arundel, Calvert and St. Mary's counties; 90 miles in Baltimore and Harford counties; forty-one miles in Carroll, Frederick and Washington counties, and one hundred miles in Allegany and Garrett counties.

450 Miles Last Year

Last year 490 miles of the macadam and gravel roads were oiled and the chips placed. Twenty percent of the oiling has been completed thus far, Mr. Williar asserted. The work started April 29.

"It is necessary for the commission to oil the roads before the heavy summer traffic begins," Mr. Williar said, "because of the interference of traffic to the work. Traffic also is hampered by the fresh oil and stone."

U. OF M. TO BEGIN BUILDING PROGRAM

Extensive Improvements Will Result From Recommendations Made By Governor Ritchie After Close Study of State's Needs

As a rosult of the action of the last two Legislatures, and because of economies affected in the management of the institution, the University of Maryland will, in the next two years, carry out a program of improvements that, when completed, should make it a university in which the State can begin to take real pride. The program will enable the university to better take care of its work and render improved service in many of its departments.

This building program involves construction which will affect every branch of the university. It will include the Horticultural Building, Library, Central Heating Plant, Girls' Dormitory, and a large addition to the present Engineering Building.

Funds for the Library were provided by the Legislature of 1927 but construction has been delayed due to the studies made of the Campus for the placing of future buildings. Money for the other buildings was provided by the Legislature that recently wound up its work.

All funds were appropriated as a result of recommendations made to the Legislature by Governor Ritchie, after a close and detailed study of the needs of the university. Governor Ritchie left no stone unturned in his efforts to determine how he could help the university best to serve the industries and also meet the educational demands of the people.

For example, in the Horticultural industry Governor Ritchie interviewed many of those prominent in the industry to learn just what they felt was necessary to enable the university to serve them adequately. And his recommendations to aid horticulture, which includes canning and preservation of foods as well as their production, were based largely on conclusions he reached as a result of these interviews. And it might well be stated in this connection that what the university is doing for this industry and is doing for many other industries in no small measure has been made possible by the recommendations of Governor Ritchie to the Legislature after just such studies.

The Library Building will be the most beautiful on the campus. Contract has already been let and work will begin very shortly. Money for the other buildings will not be available until next summer; however, plans will be worked out so that construction can be started as soon as the money is available.

The Horticultural Building is one of the most needed buildings included in the program. It will be used for research in canning and work to aid the fruit growers and vegetable growers of the State, as well as for student teaching purposes. No definite plans for the Central Heating Plant have been made public so far but it will centralize heating for all buildings on the campus and will relieve much of the congestion and waste caused by individual plants now located in each. The new Girls' Dormitory will cost $125,000.

Though it has doubled in membership, the Engineering College is still cramped into the same buildings that were considered adequate fifteen years ago. This year, however, money was appropriated for a new addition to the building, which will enable it to take care of all of the engineering work in good shape.

By refurnishing the old Chemistry Building, which last year was replaced by a new and larger one, roomy and pleasant quarters have been arranged for the Home Economics College and new Girls' Rest and Recreation Rooms. The building has been renovated, a new entrance built, and new doors laid throughout.

Plans for completion of the stadium and for the placement of several athletic fields and new tennis courts on the site just across the Washington-Baltimore Boulevard, will continue this summer. The erecting of the horseshoe curve which will complete the stands; a six-hole golf course for the use of faculty members and students, will be included in the program.

EXTRA WRONG FONTS

By Scoop

Archibaldson Says.

Archibaldson has been rather quiet for some time, but in the back office the other day he was heard to remark: "Marriage is a good institution; no family should be without it."

New Decorations Worn

Colonel Bell had an opportunity of getting a picture of all the new uniforms which were shown off to advantage in the parade of Monday evening. There were five distinct organizations in the parade and each one had its new outfit, consisting of yellow, black, green and whatnot, all supposed to be non-leakable.

Due to insufficient light and the lack of high-powered flashlight powder, all uniforms looked alike under Col. Bell's camera, but anyway he got a snap of Mayor Fraley and Monk Stemple, Councilmanic President, as they paraded down Second street.

Pretty Nearly Frozen

Anglers Get Busy

Since the rain has caused bad fishing weather as well as bad working weather, the members of the Isaac Walton association have been holding several important meetings. Those in attendance have included Hon. Jim Painter, Isaac; Jim Kerins, assistant Isaac; the poor fishers: Carroll Elliott, Harry Mickey, H. C. Sincell, Geo. Kerins, Ed Shaffer, Bill Glotfelty, Cot McComas, George Littman, Howard Rathbun, Lou Lawton, Paul McIntire, Joe Hinebaugh, Betty Dawson, Neil Fraley, Emroy Bolden, Commodore Haulenbeek, Bill Johnson and Soldier Halsey.

Upon motion of H. C. Sincell which was seconded by the next biggest fish story prevaricator, it was decided to get some "liar's licenses" which would give the society additional protection. As a result it is suspected that more and bigger fish than ever before will be caught in Maryland streams this season.

Elastic Rulers Permitted

The license will "empower" the bearer to "lie, prevaricate, and show every other recklessness with truth, considered expedient by him, in connection with all matters relative to fish and fishing, for the current season."

The regulations provide that the bearer may use elastic rulers, borrowed or rented fish and that the scales for weighing fish may be "doctored."

It is reported that the editor-in-chief of The Republican has been made an honorary member of the society. Fisherman can join the society only after having stretched their imagination in a tale told before the fishermen's court in Harned's Drug store. Members of the society are the jurors and if found guilty of prevarication the candidate is swallowed into the order with hook, line and sinker.

H. C. Attempting to Cast

Bootleggers Get Idea

Bootleggers were given an idea the other day when Peter Hoy, of near Johnson's, was convicted on a dry law violation charge in a Federal court at Cumberland. He stated that the "still" wasn't a still at all but a device used for heating his house in the wintertime.

This stove idea might be worked to advantage as a last resort among the Oakland "shoegaiters" but just now it isn't necessary. This information should be laid up in one's "safe" for future reference. Camouflage is a great idea, but it won't work forever.

Oakland Broadcasts

Station LIT, Oakland's pioneer broadcasting station, was heard on the air very very early Monday morning. In fact, it awakened more people than the backfence cat, and as they "tuned in" on the program they heard the "Far from Near Beer Trio" rendering a selection, "It's three o'clock in the morning." At least, if that wasn't the name of it, is should have been.

The trio was accompanied by musical emanations from a portable victrola, a ukelele and a violin. Policeman Nethkin, after locating the station, turned off the current, and the spectators, a large number it is said, hastily made their exit. For all Col. Bell or Scoop know the three may have continued their national hook-up a little later in the quality hill residence, the windows of which are cased by bars. Date of next program is indefinite, but may be turned on most any time.

Col. Bell and Scoop are working on a contest, the like of which has never before been attempted in cities of less than 100,000 population. More details next week. A Testimonial

"I was literally 'out on my feet' for three years; was unable to do the family wash, plant geraniums, fry potatoes, or sleep without covers in the wintertime. A friend told me to subscribe for The Republican. I did, and now I will never be without it, because it has been of untold benefit to me. I get all the news of the county while it is news, and while I am still unable to fry potatoes, I take up the time that would have been spent in that occupation in reading The Republican."

MT. LAKE PARK.

Keeping Your Feet On The Ground and Your Head Above the Clouds

Those who are permitted to spend a few months or a longer time on the mountain top, with a view of the higher range in the distance, perhaps fail to realize what a blessing it is to be able to look at a landscape pointing in a direction where, symbolically, our hope lies. The dwellers of the low lands, where there is no vista but the leval country, may go about their daily tasks, month after month and year after year, without having their minds lifted above the sordid selfishness of the practical, bread and butter humdrum of life, with no incentive to look out and up.

But up here, every day, we have the opportunity of gazing upon the hills that surround us. These hills are always restful and present a tranquil picture. To us they are always beautiful. Whether they are over-hung with the purplish haze of autumn, or snow laden clouds of winter; whether they are covered with the green foliage of the summer months, or the bare limbs and trunks of the winter, they are always majestic, bringing to one's consciousness the belief that Nature's God has been lavish in her spiritual signboards. Whether we realize it or not, the picture of these hills helps us to get our minds off irritating affairs of life and inspire thoughts that rest the body and mind and exalt the spirit.

For Fire Company Benefit

The citizens of this resort "within the three-mile limit" of Oakland are preparing to give substantial evidence that they appreciate the efficient service of the Oakland Fire Department. Already plans are under way for a series of benefits to be given during the summer season with a view of raising money to be donated to the department for its use in and way it may deem necessary. We are glad to learn of this movement as there is no single effort that will have a tendency to enhance values more than an increased fire protection organization. When these contemplated plans materialize, we feel that we need not urge universal support, for we are sure the citizens of both the Park and Oakland will cooperate to the fullest extent.

MUCH IS ACCOMPLISHED AT ANNUAL MEETING OF SYNOD

Three Ordained and Three Approved For Ministry at Recent Session—Brotherhood Formed

The organization of a synodical brotherhood, unanimously passing the question of amalgamating three seminaries into one, the ordination of three young men into the ministry, and the admittance of three young men upon the funds of the synod as applicants for the ministry, were a few of the outstanding accomplishments of the Seventeeth Annual convention of the West Virginia Synod of the United Lutheran church in America, which was held in St. Mark's church, Oakland, last Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday, May 21 to 23.

The synodical brotherhood adopted as its slogan "a brotherhood in every parish in the synod," and prior to the banquet on Tuesday evening O. C. Wilt, Clarksburg, was elected president; R. E. Roberts, Fairmont, secretary; M. O. Loy, Keyser, treasurer. W. H. Shafferman, Grafton, a member of the executive committee. Dr. J. W. Kapp, Cincinnati, O., addressed the 80 present following the banquet.

The question calling for the amalgamation of the seminaries of Gettysburg, Susquehanna, and Selins Grove on a neutral territory was passed almost unanimously. Washington was favored for its location instead of Philadelphia.

The synodical secretary of religious education was empowered to represent the church in the West Virginia council of religious education, and it was decided to have a review of the religious educational work done by the various churches and Sunday schools included in the annual report.

Rev. Loyal T. Riley, Rev. Frank B. Herzel, and Rev. Howard Amick, were ordained into the ministry at the closing of synod. Rev. Simon Snyder, Wheeling, preaching the ordination sermon. Three young men were also admitted upon the funds of the synod and were approved by the synod as worthy applicants for the ministry. They will begin their studies with the opening of college in the fall. Kermit Lohr, Elwood Hauser, of Oakland; and Howard C. Shaffer, Jr., Morgantown, were the three applicants.

Rev. C. A. Shilke, of the local church, was elected as a member of the board of directors of Loysville orphanage, and will attend a meeting of the board next Wednesday, together with Elmer Shaffer, Red House, the other member of the board from this section.

All evening services were well attended by the people of the community. The sermon of Rev. F. F. Fry, of New York, on Wednesday evening, was a master sermon. The members of synod were entertained in the homes of the church members. The eighteenth annual meeting will be held next year at Wheeling, it was announced.

Homemakers Clubs to Hold Second Annual Gathering

The Garrett County Homemakers clubs will hold their second annual program and tea on Tuesday, June 4, at 2 o'clock p. m. in the Town hall, Oakland. Features of the afternoon's program will include an art exhibit and a lecture on "Pictures for your Home," by Miss Helen Shelby, district agent and clothing specialist, University of Maryland extension service.

The Mt. Lake-Loch Lynn Homemakers club will put on a "skit" entitled "How to have a successful club."

There will be a dress review of cotton dresses not exceeding $2 in cost, made by the various club members. Following the program tea will be served.

An invitation is extended to all who are interested in the activities of the various Homemakers clubs throughout the county.

Council to Meet Tuesday

The regular monthly meeting of the Mayor and Town council, which is scheduled for Monday, June 3, will be held on Tuesday, June 4, Grover Stemple, president of the council, has announced.

This change is made to accommodate those who expect to go to Fairmont on that night to participate in the radio broadcasting program being put on by a number of Oakland merchants.

OAKLAND RADIO PROGRAM TO BE HEARD ON MONDAY

Local People will Broadcast from Station WMMN, Fairmont

The first of a series of radio programs, composed of local talent, will be given through Station WMMN, at Fairmont, W. Va., on Monday, June 3, Mayor L. M. Fraley, announced a day or two ago. These programs will be heard each Monday night in June from nine until ten o'clock, and are being sponsored and financed by a number of Oakland business men.

The program Monday night will include an address on "Oakland," by Mayor Fraley, music by the Harmony Boys, with individual selections by Wilmer Brown on the accordion, William Gibson on the piano, and several selections by the Hawaiian trio.

NEW SCHEDULE MUST BE ARRANGED FOR CLINICS

Change in Methods Necessitates Revision of Dates

That a new schedule for pre-school clinics would have to be made out was announced yesterday by Miss Rhesa M. King, public health nurse. At a meeting of the State deputy health officers, held last Thursday at Baltimore, new arrangements on methods of conducting these clinics were made by officials present, and this necessitated the change.

Dr. J. L. Franklin, deputy state health officer for Garrett and Allegany counties, will be in charge of the clinics. Before the new schedule is announced, all parents whose children are eligible to begin school in the fall will receive a personal letter from the health officer requesting that they bring their children to the clinic center.

The clinic centers will be determined by the number of parents in each locality, and the new schedule will be announced later.

ADVANCE IN EDUCATIONAL PROGRAM CONTINUES HERE

Oakland Grammar Now Has a Teacher For Each Grade—Children of Dodge Transported

Another step toward the realization of the State and county's educational program was reached on Monday when the children of Dodge school, located three and a half miles north of Oakland, were transported to the Oakland Grammar School, according to County Superintendent of Schools F. E. Rathbun.

The larger number of the pupils in attendance at the Dodge school during the past three years have been transported to that school from the closed Thayerville school and en route.

Beginning the transportation of the Dodge school children to Oakland has brought about a two-fold achievement, Mr. Rathbun said, in that Oakland Grammar now has seven teachers where formerly there were six, and in continuing the program of giving rural children the benefits of elementary schools where there is a teacher for each grade.

The transportation of the Dodge school children makes the eighteenth school to be transported and closed within the past two years, and since the closing of the one-teacher schools not one of the number has ever been reopened.

Miss Editn Sommer, teacher of the Dodge school, is now teacher of the fifth grade in the Oakland Grammar, permitting Mrs. Liller and Mrs. Sollars, assistant teachers in the local school, to devote their entire time each to one separate grade. The fifth grade, prior to last Monday, was divided between the two instructors.

The advance step was taken in the Oakland elementary school on Monday, and is now the only school in the county where the rural children may have a teacher for each grade, which provides decided educational opportunities of the most modern type for rural neighborhoods.

The State Department of Education has been striving for the realization of this program for a number of years and it is felt by educational authorities in Garertt county that eventually it will succeed.

In this same connection attention has been called to Section 223, Chapter 173, of the Acts of the General Assembly of Maryland, page 122 of the 1927 edition of the Public school laws, the same reading as follows:

Any person who induces or attempts to induce any child to absent himself unlawfully from school, or employs or harbors while school is in session any child absent unlawfully from school, shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor, and be fined not more than fifty dollars.

All Civil War veterans and veterans of the Spanish-American War will be provided with automobiles and organizations marching in line will include the American Legion, Knights of Pythias, Boy Scouts and others. Music will be furnished by the Crellin Boys' Band and the Gilbert-Brown Boys' Band of Oakland.

The graves of the veterans will be decorated by a detail of the American Legion, assisted by Boy Scouts, and immediately following this the address will be made.

In the local cemeteries there lie more than sixty soldiers of the various wars in which this nation has been engaged during the past three-quarters of a century.

The sale of poppies, the proceeds of which will go to the relief of disabled veterans of the World War, will be continued today. A large number of the symbolic flowers have already been disposed of, Harold Dawson, in charge of the sale, stated.

FISHING SEASON IN DEEP CREEK OPENS ON JUNE 1

No Special License Is Required This Year for Privilege

The season for all game and fresh water fish, for Deep Creek Lake, Garrett county, for which a special license has hitherto been necessary, will be ushered in on Saturday, June 1, it has been announced by the Clerk of the Circuit court.

No special license to fish in Deep Creek waters will be required this year, A. G. Ross, deputy clerk, stated, as a recent enactment of the legislature makes the regular county fishing license valid for Deep Creek waters also. As the enactment does not go into effect until June 1, it has been unlawful to fish in Deep Creek waters since the beginning of the county fishing season on April 1.

Next year, however, fishermen may try their luck in Deep Creek Lake as soon as the fishing season opens in the spring of the year. Approximately 1,800 licenses were issued each year for special permission to fish in Deep Creek Lake.

All species of trout taken from the waters of the lake must be at least eight inches in length, with a creel limit of ten in one day; all other varities of fish must be five inches, with a creel limit of 50 in one day. The fishing season for Deep Creek will be closed on August 15.

NATION'S TRIBUTE, AT HOME AND ABROAD, TO THE BRAVE MEN WHO LAID DOWN THEIR LIVES WHEN DUTY CALLED

Tha cold rain falls on Dun-sur-Meuse tonight,
My brothers of the Marne, do you fare well,
Where, by the ford, or on soma wind-ewept heigbt,
You lie among the hamlets wbere you fell?

Do you eleep well these wet spring nights,
Where there is never any brusbwood blaze,
To cast within tha dugout wavering lights,
And warm the chill of these benumbing days?

Romagne-sous-Montfaucon! The little towns
That scatter from the Somme to the Moselle,
Soma silent sentry on their bigb-backed downs,
Harks still to every far whita church's bell—

The humble little church of misty hills,
Set where the whita roade cross, with ruined fane,

While stars of Alsace light the Vosges at night,
Ae long as Lorraina's cross shines in the sun,
While moons on Bar-la-Duc send bombers' light,

Where, through the window-gaps with war-ecarred sills,
A battered Christ looks out into the rain.

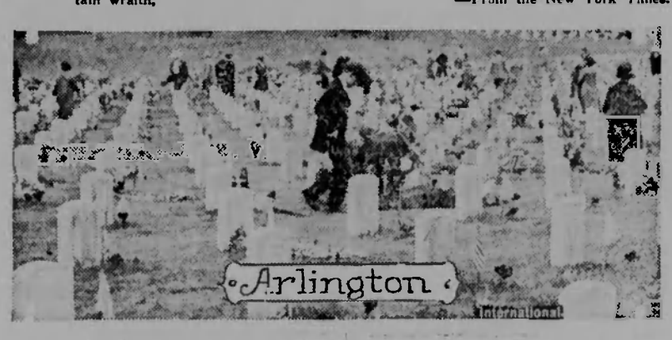
Silent, all silent to the passer-by,
Those lonely mounds, or rows of crosses white,
Beyond the reed of bitter words they lie,
But are they eilent to their friends to-night?

Can we stand whole before a crackling fire—
We, who have gone in peace a year and a year,
Singing and jesting, working again for hire—
Deaf to the message they would have us hear?

Not whi'e the red of poppies in the wheat,
Not while a silver bugle on the breeze,
Not whiie the smell of leather in the heat,
Bring us anew in spirit overseas.

And in tha din, that left us deaf and blind,
We eensed the uttered message clear—
"Keep faith."

To every man a different meaning, yet—
Faith to the thing that set him, at his best.
Something above the blood and dirt and wet,
Something apart. May God forget the rest!



Lest we forget! The months swing into years,
Our souls are caught in trivial things again.
We laugh at what we once beheld with tears,
In petty strife we ease our souls their pain.

The cold rain falls in France! Ah, send anew
The spirit that once flamed so high and bright,
When, by your graves, we bade you brave adieu,
When Taps blew so much more than just "Good night."

Or rain drives down the gray road to Verdun,

So long ehall we hear those we left behind,
Where eddying emoke fell like a mountain wraith,

CURTIS WHEELER,
First Division.

WHERE ARMIES OF MEADE AND LEE GRAPPLED

1875

AT 1 P. M., July 3, 1863, the Confederate batteries opened up on Cemetery Ridge. For two hours the air was alive with shells. Then the cannonade lulled, and out of the woods crept the Confederate double battle line, over a mile long and preceded by a cloud of skirmishers. Steadily, with disciplined valor, as if on parade, Pickett's men advanced to the charge.

"The Federal batteries opened and a cannonade such as never before had been heard upon the continent fell upon them. A hundred guns tore great gaps in their ranks but still they pressed on. They rushed upon the Federal front and bayoneted the gunners at their guns. But the assault failed and whole companies rushed as prisoners into the Union lines."

How the savage in the boy's breast thrilled at the stirring recital! All the insult visited upon the unfortunate McClellan in the Seven Days' battle, all the ignominy of Bull Run and Ball's Bluff was wiped out in that fiercer baptism of blood which spelled doom and downfall for the Confederacy. At least 200,000 men engaged on that stricken field! Twelve thousand stretched in death in the three-day battle! Nearly 28,000 muskets picked up on the field after the fighting!

Reveling in the consciousness of a well-earned victory, the boy, born three years after the event, successfully missed the horror of it, O. A. Savage writes, in the Chicago Daily News. He had no more compunction about slaughter in itself than a Roman soldier or an Iroquois brave. His main regret was that he had not been present and leading a charge. He made a mental note to visit the scene of carnage as soon as he could scrape up the train fare.

1910

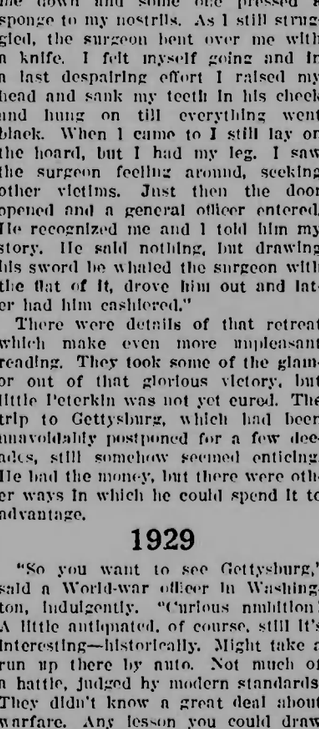
"The farthest north I ever got," said the ex-Confederate adjutant, a physician of San Antonio, "was the Devil's den at Gettysburg. I lay among the rocks for a day and a night, and then, just before we were ordered to fall back, a bullet came along and shattered my foot. The next thing I knew I was put into a wagon with other wounded, and I rode five days and nights during the retreat without a bite to eat or a drink of water. Then we stopped at a church which was quickly converted into a hospital. It overflowed with wounded.



"There was only one surgeon to operate, and he was a drunken brute. I lay on a board stretched over two pews, and he callously announced that he was going to amputate my leg, although my foot had been hurt. I raved and protested, but strong hands held me down and some one pressed a sponge to my nostrils. As I still struggled, the surgeon bent over me with a knife. I felt myself going and in a last despairing effort I raised my head and sank my teeth in his cheek and hung on till everything went black. When I came to I still lay on the board, but I had my leg. I saw the surgeon feeling around, seeking other victims. Just then the door opened and a general officer entered. He recognized me and I told him my story. He said nothing, but drawing his sword he whaled the surgeon with the flat of it, drove him out and later had him cashiered."

There were details of that retreat which make even more unpleasant reading. They took some of the glamor out of that glorious victory, but little Peterkin was not yet cured. The trip to Gettysburg, which had been unavoidably postponed for a few decades, still somehow seemed enticing. He had the money, but there were other ways in which he could spend it to advantage.

1929

"So you want to see Gettysburg," said a World-war officer in Washington, indulgently. "Curious ambition! A little antiquated, of course, still it's interesting—historically. Might take a run up there by auto. Not much of a battle, judged by modern standards. They didn't know a great deal about warfare. Any lesson you could draw from it would be valueless in these days of improved artillery. But don't let me dissuade you, if you think you can get any fun out of it."

STATELY SHAFT

A view of the beautiful war memorial in Edgemont park, Upper Montclair, N. J. The shaft is of granite, while the statues on top and at the base are of bronze. At night this memorial is strikingly illuminated.

The boy that still remained in the man after half a century made up his mind to go. Four women went with him, for what purpose he was unable to discover. There was no indication that any of them had previously heard of Gettysburg. But why do women do anything?

A journey across Maryland, through historic Frederick and Emmetsburg, with the Blue ridge on the west, and thence into southern Pennsylvania! Presently monuments began to appear, springing up unexpectedly in the most incongruous places—beside wayside pumps, in plowed fields, at kitchen doors, beside woodpiles. Like lonesome people wearing their Sunday best in a week-day crowd! Then prosaic Gettysburg, busily tapping cash registers, reaping tangible reward for past misfortunes!

It is easy to visualize the town as it must have appeared when the tide of battle swept through and around it. Little or nothing has been changed. Bullet holes in the buildings have been carefully preserved. An unkind thought that some new holes may have been added since is instantly banished as base and unworthy of the friendly inhabitants.

Out to the battlefield! Oak Hill and Seminary Ridge! The names of heroes preserved in historic landmarks. Reynolds, McPherson, Hancock, Barlow! The Peach Orchard and the Wheatfield! Round Top and Little Round Top! Willoughby Run and Shead's Grove! The Devil's Den and the Valley of the Shadow of Death! Monuments as thick as brigadiers or blackberries! Sergeant Crippon forever shaking his fist! Warren on his rock! Father Corby on his! Culp's Hill and Cemetery Ridge!

Disillusionment! Peach Orchard with the peach trees gone. Like any corner lot! Meade's headquarters looking like a small gas station! The scene of Pickett's charge a stretch of flat field indistinguishable from the monotonous landscape past which your automobile rolls through any average countryside! Not thus did the enthusiast envisage that mighty theater of conflict over which the contending armies struggled in blood and sweat. Only by shutting one's eyes resolutely on the prosaic every-day scene could one call up an adequate vision of that titanic encounter, the long lines of gray moving to mutilation and death, the belching batteries, the riderless horses, the flashing bayonets, the smoke enshrouded field, the horror and frenzy of close combat with cracking pistols and clubbed muskets, the hell that is battle and the Gethsemane that is defeat.

Obligation and Privilege

For twenty-five years to come, so the statisticians tell us, there will be survivors of the Grand Army. That we should cherish them tenderly is an evident obligation as it is a high privilege.

No one could ever meet death for his country without the hope of immortality.—Cicero.

LATER EXPERIENCES OF JEREMIAH

LESSON TEXT—Jeremiah 20:1-6; 37: 11-21; 38:1-13.

GOLDEN TEXT—Blessed are ye when men shall reproach you, and persecute you, and say all manner of evil against you falsely, for my sake.

PRIMARY TOPIC—Being True in a Hard Test.

JUNIOR TOPIC—Being True in a Hard Test

INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—Standing True in Hard Places.

YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—Forms of Modern Persecution.

I. Jeremiah in Stocks (20:1-6).

He had predicted the downfall of Jerusalem because of the disobedience of the people (19:4-14, 15).

Pashur, an officer of the temple, heard him. Pashur gave Jeremiah a cruel beating and placed him in stocks. "Stocks" was an instrument of torture, confining the legs in a cramped position. On being released the next day, Jeremiah predicted the terror which was to be Pashur's portion. His words were literally fulfilled (vv. 4-6).

II. Jeremiah in Prison in Jonathan's House (37:11-21).

He was arrested by Irijah as he was about to leave Jerusalem on an errand. He was charged with deserting to the Chaldeans. While here in prison, King Zedekiah secretly consulted with him and ordered lenient treatment.

III. Jeremiah in the Dungeon (38:1-13).

1. He predicts the capture of Jerusalem (vv. 1-3).

(1) To whom (v. 1)?

Jeremiah had been taken out of the prison by the king (37:17) and ordered to the court of the prison (37:21). Here the people seem to have had free access to him (32:12). From this place of limited confinement Jeremiah announced to the people their approaching captivity.

2. Counsel given (vv. 2, 3).

a. All that remain in the city shall die by the sword, famine and pestilence.

b. He that goeth forth to the Chaldeans shall live. "He shall have his life for a prey," doubtless means that he shall escape with his life, though losing all else.

2. Jeremiah accused by the princes (vv. 4, 5).

(1) He weakened the hands of the men and all the people (v. 4). From a human standpoint what they said was true, but since Jeremiah was but the interpreter of God to the nation, they ought to have heeded his advice to surrender.

(2) This man seeketh not the welfare of this people, but the hurt (v. 4). This charge was utterly false. Jeremiah was the best friend of the people, for he faithfully proclaimed to them God's judgment and advised them how to make the best of their unfortunate situation.

3. The king's cowardly act (v. 5).

The very one whom Jeremiah was trying to help, deserted him. The king was afraid of the Chaldeans, the princes, Jeremiah, and God.

4. Jeremiah cast into the dungeon (v. 6).

This seems to have been a cistern which had been emptied of its water during the siege, leaving only mire. Into this mire he sank, possibly up to his neck. The purpose was to let Jeremiah die there. In this situation he is a type of Christ (Psa. 69). No one ever suffered more unjustly, save Jesus Christ.

5. Jeremiah rescued from the dungeon (vv. 7-13).

(1) By Ebed-Melech, an African servant (vv. 7-9).

The Jewish prophet, whom his own countrymen tried to destroy, is saved by a Gentile. Though Ebed-Melech had a colored skin, he was the whitest man in Jerusalem. He went to the king and boldly declared that the princes had done evil in imprisoning Jeremiah.

(2) The method (vv. 10-13).

The king yielded to his request and furnished a guard to prevent interference with the work of rescue. He let down soft rags and wornout garments by ropes and instructed Jeremiah to put them under his armholes and under the ropes to prevent injury to him as he was being lifted up. He was lifted out of the dungeon and given the freedom of the prison court.

IV. Jeremiah in Egypt (vv. 43:1-7).

His closing years were spent in Egypt. He was taken there by Johanan, where he continued his ministry. He seems to have been unpopular there. Tradition has it that he was stoned to death by the Jews in Egypt.

Rewards Awaiting

When we land on the bleak shore of disappointment we shall make the wonderful discovery that the Savior has anticipated our coming and has made ample provision. There will be heavenly cordials, and there will be comforts of grace, and there will be the exhilarating wine of a new hope. —J. H. Jowett.

Officials' Track Meet

Since the thirteenth annual field meet at the Fair grounds on Tuesday was hampered by the downpour of rain, all officials decided to make a jolly time of it, so they held a meet all their own. They all donned the official uniform (bathing suit) and entered into competition with all the zeal of the younger generation. Grover stemple was barred from the meet because he wore a backless bathing suit which was termed demoralizing to the innocent youth of the country.

B. B. Nethkin, city police force, won the "high" jump, with Col. Bell second; Charles Sprague, Kitzmiller, won the "broad" pump. F. E. Rathbun won the prize for making his feet move the fastest. Foster Speicher was given the title of the "flying red head," when he won first in the flag race. Others taking part in the flag race included Dewey Rice, A. A. LaMar, Jr., John W. McCullough, J. O. Thayer, R. L. Wilson, and Adam Richter.

The race attracting the most attention was the one across the swinging bridge and return. Everybody wanted to enter this event. The winner, Dr. W. C. Nedrow, said he could stand another race like that. Wellington Yutzy, Oakland, won the race to the dome on the exhibit building at the Fair grounds, and may have been awarded the prize right then and there. J. U. Stanton won in squat tag; W. R. Offutt, the potato race; and Lewellyn Blocher was selected the farmer in "The farmer in the dell."

The most popular game was squat tag, and after the first two races they all wanted to squat. The meet was called off when Chahlie Tower refused to play ball because his opponents wanted to call themselves the "Athletics."

The End of Bootlegging

The end of bootlegging is seen in Garrett county since the Society for the cure of D. T's is planning an advertising scheme that will change people's minds for more noble enterprises. So don't be surprised in the near future, if, when you are driving along Cannan valley, Hooppole ridge, in the Bear Hill section, or even on the innocent appearing streets of Oakland, you see signs similar to the following:

You can't go wrong on a bottle of carbonated water.

When bigger jails are built Mabel will fill them.

Try the old oaken bucket, it satisfies.

The entire student body of O. H. S. blindfolded, picked red lemonade as its favorite drink. Milk ran second.

Save the surface (of your stomach) and you save all.

Try H2O—not a burning guzzle in a carload and sparkles like the mountain dew.

The following snapshot was taken by Col. Bell, and shows what a healthy adam's apple and larynx looks like. It is the anatamy of the president of the D. T. society. Nary a drop of the vile liquid ever passed those shining molars.

Weekly Testimonials

"My stomach used to be sour and gassy but after reading The Republican every Thursday for two years, I lost my gas and I am no longer sour because I have learned to appreciate the best news of the county when I see it." —Neil Liller.

"I was half sick and lacked appetite, had dizzy spells, felt bilious and my back pained. A friend advised reading The Republican. Now my other half is sick because it realizes what I lost in not reading it before; I have a ravenous appetite for all the news of the county, have no more bilious attacks. The pain in my back has left and instead have learned what a pain in the neck I have been for thinking The Republican was not worth subscribing for. As for dizzy spells,—well I read about other people having them now."—Irvin Romanus Rudy.

MEMORIAL DAY AN OBLIGATION

The melancholy notes of "Taps," the soldier's requiem, will ring thruout the nation tomorrow as Americans pay their tribute to the memory of the country's hero soldier dead.

Wherever there are soldiers—and there are veterans in every village, hamlet and city within the confines of the nation—there will be some ceremony in memory of the dead.

But scarcely will the last note die out among the hills and crags, or across the wide open spaces—hardly will the echo of the rifle salute die out until the nation will turn itself to pleasure.

There is much that can be done in the way of homage for the departed soldiers aside from an hour's respects on Memorial Day. The principles which sent them to war, the causes of the several conflicts in which the nation participated, are largely unfinished in this day. The nation could well apply itself to bringing about the culmination of these ideals, else those who have died sacrificed themselves in vain.

But in a way Memorial Day is an occasion to rededicate and reconsecrate ourselves to those ideals and is a fitting time to revive our patriotic memories.

Every man and woman in Oakland and Garrett county should take a part in Memorial Day exercises, and every child should be taught the significance of the day. The home should be decorated in the national colors, the flower garden should give its choicest blossoms to those who will decorate the graves of departed soldiers and the whole community should give over at least a part of the day to the Memorial Day observance.

A TRAGEDY!

A Kentucky judge, with the kindly assistance of a Kentucky jury, has just sentenced a six-year-old boy to the reform school for killing his playmate. The tragedy of such a proceeding, as well as the futility of such a punishment, was vividly illustrated by the fact that the youngster did not realize what was going on but played about the courtroom as if it were a lark for his own amusement.

Putting aside the question of whether he shot his playmate, it seems logical to suppose that he would not have thought of doing so, much less carried the idea into execution, unless he had been reared in an environment where guns and death were glorified.

An inquiry concerning the home of that child, the neighborhood in which he lived and the sources of his violent attitude would seem far more appropriate than to visit on him the vengeance of law which was obviously made for older and more comprehending minds.

Whether one approaches the question of punishment from the standpoint of reform, prevention, or revenge, its application to babies is palpably useless. Six years cannot produce enough to make over, enough to be cared or enough to suffer. But if thrown into contact with the idiots, half-wite and perverts that clutter our reformatories, the potential purity of six years can easily be contaminated.

That little Kentucky boy might become a decent man if brought up in the right way and surrounded with the right kind of influences, even tho he did shoot a playmate. To place him in a reformatory, however, where he will be thrown into intimate contact with the outcasts of the State, means a little less than his virtual destruction.

Much as we like to believe that our corrective institutions can take the place of a good home, sympathetic relatives and natural associations, the result is not encouraging. More often than not the inmate falls under the hard influence, absorbing the smart Alec, rebellious spirit of his companions rather than the wise counsels of those in charge. At best, institutional life is a sorry make-shift.

Farm Vacation

"While the earth remaineth, seed time and harvest shall not cease." But this promise is general. The individual seeder and harvester suffers varying fortunes.

A newspaper editor who has "been taking a month's vacation as hired hand on a farm" finds himself impressed with the struggles of the farmer to win the fruits of the earth. Recently he has been plowing, after waiting long for the soil to dry sufficiently, and putting in his time doing a few dozen odd jobs.

"It takes so much work to get the land seeded!" he exclaims. "First comes the plowing, then dise harrowing, once lengthwise and once crosswise, then it must have the iron or smoothing harrows across it, then the seeding, and after that it gets a couple of operations, once with the iron harrows to make sure every seed is covered, and finally the roller to pack the seed bed tight. That makes seven times over the soil to work it properly, and it takes time and labor, with no calculations for rain."

Then the job is only begun. There must be the growing and reaping, with many cultivations in between for crops permitting it. And always, from first to last, there is the peril of ruin by drought or flood.

The city man who goes every morning to work a few hours at some simple, definite task, for which he will unfailingly receive his pay at the end of the week, often criticizes the farmer for complaining about his lot. Those who lack sympathy for the farmer should take similar vacations.

Gunmen Disarm

We have governments within governments, and one of the most interesting of them is that of the Chicago gansters.

These enterprising gentlemen have lately come to an agreement about armament. They find that there has been too much gun-toting and, as a natural consequence, too much shooting and killing. They decide that the several gangs will live hereafter at peace with one another. And to promote this happy ideal, they arrange that the gangsters shall stop the practice of carrying guns. As for machine guns, they are to be the exclusive weapons of the "executive committee," which will use them only to carry out punishments for violations of the peace paet.

Now, to compare small things with great—this sounds surprisingly like a plan proposed by Theodore Roosevelt for the regulation of various military gangs before the World War. Moreover, William Howard Taft thought rather well of it. And other presidents since their time have taken a fling at the idea. But up to date, the world powers do not seem to have come to any thoroughly satisfactory conclusion.

If it works in Chicago, the innovation should be brought to the attention of Washington, London, Paris, Berlin, Rome, and Geneva.

MANY TEACHERS IN STATE WILL STUDY THIS SUMMER

Estimated One-fourth to One-third of State Teachers Will Be Registered This Year

From one-fourth to one-third of the teachers in the counties of the State will attend summer schools this summer, Albert S. Cook, State Superintendent of Education, said Saturday.

Mr. Cook based his prediction upon a report of the county superintendents that 1,200 of the white county teachers and 285 of the Negro teachers employed during the present school year attended summer school for six weeks or longer in the summer of 1928.

Many Attend J. H. U.

The largest numbers, more than 350, attended the Johns Hopkins University and the University of Maryland. Columbia University attracted over 100 of the county teachers and the University of Virginia eighty-three. The Normal Schools at Frostburg and Towson had sixty-five and sixty-two, respectively, of the present teaching staff.

Because all except 250 county teachers now hold first-grade certificates, which means that they are graduates of a normal school or have the equivalent in education, and it is considered desirable that their education be continued in colleges or universities, the State Board of Education has ordered the discontinuance of the summer session at Towson, Mr. Cook said.

Statistics Vary

Of the white county elementary school teachers in service in October, nearly thirty-two per cent attended summer school in 1928. The counties ranged from fifty-one per cent in summer school attendance in Cecil and forty-three, forty-one and forty per cent in Caroline, Anne Arundel and Somerset down to eighteen and seventeen per cent in Carroll and Calvert counties.

"For the renewal of first-grade certificates, teachers are required to attend summer school once in four years," Mr. Cook explained. "Some of the counties employ a large proportion of new normal-school graduates each year, in which case the requirement for summer school attendance would not affect as large a proportion of the staff as in counties having a lower turnover.

Teachers Attend Voluntarily.

"Carroll, Calvert, Queen Anne's and St. Mary's were the only counties that had less than one-fourth of the white elementary staff attending summer school. Many teachers attended because they wished to broaden their knowledge of subject matter or to keep in touch with recent professional thought in education and not merely because they were required to attend to improve the grade of their certificate."

The percentage of white county high school teachers in service in October, 1928, who attended school during the preceding summer was not quite so high, with twenty-eight per cent, Mr. Cook said. The counties ranged from fifty-two per cent for Kent to ten per cent for its neighbor, Queen Anne's. The following counties had more than one-third of their white high school staffs studying last summer: Kent, Calvert, Prince George's, Charles, Garrett, St. Mary's, Dorchester, Allegany and Baltimore. At the opposite extreme, Queen Anne's, Worcester, Wicomico, Anne Arundel, Washington and Frederick counties had less than twenty-two per cent of their staffs away studying.

City Schools Open

Fourteen Baltimore City schools were open during the summer of 1928 for review and advance work, eight for white pupils and six for colored schools. This was an increase of one for white and one for colored over the preceding year. There were 4,650 pupils enrolled in white schools and 2,840 in colored schools. The total enrollment in colored schools increased by nearly 1,100 pupils, due to the large increase in the number of colored pupils taking review work.

The numebr of colored pupils taking advance work decreased. The percentage of attendance was very high, Mr. Cook said. Over ninety per cent of the white pupils earned promotion for the summer work taken, and this also was true for Negro pupils taking advance work. Of the colored elementary pupils doing review work, ninety-one per cent were promoted, but this also was true of any three-fourths of these colored pupils taking review work in the demonstration school and the junior and senior high schools.

The expenditure by Baltimore City for summer schools for pupils in 1928 was $31,326, making the average cost for each pupil who remained to the end of the summer term just $5.00.

16 MARRIAGE LICENSES ISSUED IN PAST WEEK

Number for May Below That for Same Month Last Year

Sixteen marriage licenses were issued during the past week ending Monday at noon from the office of the clerk of the Circuit court, bringing the total for the month of May thus far to 75. With only four days left, it is highly improbable that the record of 119 will be equalled or passed, A. G. Ross, deputy clerk, stated.

Memorial Day, usually an extremely busy day, may help to raise the total for the month. Two licenses issued were marked "don't publish," while one applicant was refused a permit on account of the youthfulness of one of the contracting parties.

MT. LAKE PARK.

LIKE OTHER TOWNS

A neighbor, who spends quite a little time here and whose interests are more or less centered in the Park, met the writer the other day and, as usual, we fell to discussing our community. It was not a case of lambasting the management or of criticizing any of those in authority, but simply a sort of "gossipy" conversation, both trying to hit upon some plan that would serve to bring a good many more visitors here than for several years past. It was just such a discussion as is being held in a lot of other towns that have felt the depression of the last few years. My friend remarked that not many rich people made this their summer home; that it was only the people of moderate means that came here.

To us that was a very hopeful statement—one that should cause rejoicing rather than sorrow. The fact that the summer residents comprise the great financial middle clas is nothing to work about, for the stability of this great country centers about that class.

Statistics show that a very small per cent of the citizenry of this country ever get into the hundred thousand dollar class or even the fifty thousand dollar class. So if this or any other community had to rely for its prosperity on those who possess great wealth, they would be leaning on a broken reed.

Any merchant will tell you that the great bulk of his business comes from the trade of those who are only moderately well-to-do. The very wealthy can afford to, and do, take frequent trips to the larger cities and naturally shop in the stores there, which probably have a wider selection. Again, wealth very often (not always) seems to inspire an inferiority complex for the home town and the home merchants' merchandise and they get the idea that a dress or a suit (although it may be identical with a garment that could be purchased at home) if bought in a large city is just a bit better—and then they have the distinction of buying abroad.

We are of the opinion that it is the great financial middle-class that gives stability to any community. Just give us ten thousand of that class here and we can tell a bunch of other resorts where to head in.

Aside from fright Mrs. Chance fortunately suffered no injury.

Prejudice An Inherent Quality In The Human Race as Shown In the Actions of the Early Settlers In Colonial Maryland.

To the Editor of The Republican.

Prejudice seems to be inherent in the human race. As we look back over the history of a few centuries (we need go no further than the founding of Maryland) the impression is vivid that "brethren can not dwell together in unity."

Lord Baron of Baltimore (Cecelius Calvert), to whom the charter of this State was granted in 1632, was a Catholic, despite which fact he seems to have retained the personal regard of the then King of England, who was a Protestant. It further appears that in founding the province, Lord Baltimore looked more to the welfare of his subjects (for under the grant he was indeed a king in his own right) than the establishment of any particular form of religion. Indeed, within seventeen years after the province was founded, under the reign of Lord Baltimore, the Toleration Act was passed, granting to all citizens the right to worship as their conscience dictated. Yet, altho the people of the province were engaged in a fierce battle to subdue the wilderness, in constant danger of the Indians, and were intent in carrying out their fortunes in a new and unknown land, all of which should have bound them together in unity, we find that in a little more than half a century Protestant is arrayed against Catholic, neighbor against neighbor, friend against friend, resulting, in 1689 in what is known as the Protestant Rebellion. All this because of an inherent inbred prejudice. And even prior to this, yet another revolution was staged by the Puritans, the very people who professed so much and whose objeet was to "purify" the Church of England, the then established church.

Then later, after the Puritans had aided in wrestling the government away from Lord Baltimore and passing laws disfranchising the Catholics, the royal government, which these prejudiced fanatics helped to build, crammed down the throats of the people the Episcopal (or established) church and required every one, rich and poor, Protestant and Catholic, to pay for its support by taxation.

You may well say that all this is interesting Maryland history, but why go back so far for illustrations of prejudice?

We concede the point and agree that even in our own community (and we are not alone in this) prejudice, both political, religious and in the business world, still exists and is a stumbling block to the development of the proper community spirit without which no community can advance. To those not entrusted with church or party government, it seems a waste of valuable time to spend tremendous energy trying to force on those religiously or politically opposed, opinions which we hold, be they right or wrong.

Let us lay aside all prejudice and envy and sink our individual opinions in the far greater and more important work of making our community a better place in which to live, remembering that there is so much bad in the best of us that it ill behooves any of us to criticise the rest of us.

The aim is to improve property along state highways and to use the native shrubbery, which is so plentiful, to the best possible advantage. Everyone, it is felt, will assist in making the place as attractive as possible. Those assisting Miss Elsie Benthien, home demonstration agent, with the work are Mr. and Mrs. O. S. ### Everybody Will Soon Be "Put, Put-Puttin'" on Deep Creek

The activity of a bee-hive with the sound of "put-put" instead of the familiar "buzz", will greet the people who happen to pass along the State road bordering Deep Creek Lake in the near future, if the warm weather of the past few days continues, because motor boats are going to be numerous and noisy. All indications point to a busy season along the shore line and on the surface of Garrett county's great lake.

The first few days of summer have brought out a number of motor boat enthusiasts who are testing their motors and making preparations for the coming season, and already the more daring of the younger generation have plunged into the cold water, only to jump out again, just as quickly.

With the water in the lake at the highest point it has ever been, and just a few inches from going over the spillway of the dam; with the inauguration of the fishing season on June 1; with the addition of several new motor boats, houseboats, canoes, etc., to the list of water craft, and with the erection of several news cottages facing the water at various points along the shoes, everyone is looking expectantly for the opening of the season, which is bound to come with a rush—and within a few short days.

And just as soon as bathing and boating get well under way, then the talk of a second water carnival is bound to be heard on every side. All that remains now is for somebody to open the season. Well, let him get busy!

290,000 TREES PLANTED IN STATE DURING YEAR

Forestry Department Has Just Closed Successful Season

The State Forestry Nursery, established in 1914 for the purpose of growing trees suitable for planting waste lands in profitable tree crops, and also for furnishing trees for planting along highways, has just closed a very successful season according to F. W. Besley, State forester. More than 290,000 trees for forest planting have been distributed at cost in twenty-two counties of the State. Caroline county heads the list with 54,000 trees; Garrett county comes next with 43,000, closely followed by Dorchester county with 40,000; Harford with 25,000, and Frederick with 17,000, showing a wide and growing interest in the matter of reforestation. The principal species used were loblolly pine for the Costal Plain section, and red pine and white pine for the Piedmont and Western Maryland sections.

Comparatively few hardwoods were planted, as the pines are very much better for forest planting, except under certain conditions, where black locust, tulip poplar, ash, and other hardwoods have been used. The largest individual planter is F. F. Nicola, who owns a large tract of land on Meadow Mountain in Garrett county. Here 31,000 red pine were planted this spring from stock furnished by the Forestry Nursery, and under the supervision of the Forestry Department.

The Department estimates that there are 180,000 acres of idle land in Maryland better suited for timber growing than for any other purpose. In order to get this land to produce a profitable crop, it must be planted with trees at the rate of about 1,000 trees to the acre. This will require approximately 180,000,000 trees, and in order to speed up the reforestation program, it will be necessary to enlarge greatly the output of the Forest Nursery. Next year it is planned to increase this output as the demand develops, as it promises to do from present indications.

Large trees, suitable for roadside planting are being grown at the Nursery and distributed at cost for that purpose. During the last season, approximately 5,832 trees of this class were sent out, going into nineteen counties, sufficient to plant both sides of 43.0 miles of highway. Of this number, 587 trees were furnished free for specific demonstrations of roadside planting in the vicinity of Cumberland, Frederick, Cheltenham, Upper Marlboro, Linthicum Heights, Cambridge and Point Lookout.

Interest in roadside planting is just developing, and in the next few years as people are able to visualize the improvements which result from planting trees along the highways, this interest will rapidly increase. The chief difficulty is that so many of our highways have such a narrow right-of-way that planting is not practicable, but there are sufficient stretches throughout the State to require 10,000 trees. A survey of roadside conditions along 293.0 miles of main state highways made last summer, showed that approximately 40% of the distance was suitable for roadside planting, and this, probably, is a fair average for all of our main highways, where the right-of-way is 40 feet or more.

The Pictures In Your Home

By Helen Shelby, Home Furnishing Specialist

The pictures you place on the walls of your home are important because of their influence upon the life of the home and the part they play in the decorative scheme of the home. Good pictures are worthy of study.

Pictures make their appeal to individuals through their story, their beauty of line, the quality of color, or through the interest of their pattern.

The pictures we place on the walls of our home should be there for the decorative effect they produce in their surroundings with the other furnishings of the home. They should be there because of the joy, the brightness, the color, the intelligent stimulation they can bring into the lives of those who are to see them. If the pictures on our walls were more alive, more in hormony with our daily lives, or more suggestive of ideal lives that might be ours, then we would find them more friendly and more companionable while many homes are uninteresting because of the absence of pictures. Most homes have too many pictures on the walls. To take down the small and meaningless ones would require courage but produce more restfull walls. The Japanese custom of using only a few pictures at a time and changing them often has its merits. People who never change their pictures get so that they never see the ones they have.

Rules for Hanging Pictures

1. Hang tall pictures in vertical wall spaces and broad pictures in horizontal spaces. Pictures may be grouped so that two or three vertical ones will give a horizontal effect.

2. Hang pictures low. The center of interest in the picture should come at about the eye level, unless it is hung over a piece of furniture which causes it to be placed slightly higher or lower.

3. Pictures should be hung over a single piece or a group of pieces of furniture so that they form a part of the group.

4. Hang pictures so that the tops or bottoms are on a straight line. If hung over an object that has a straight line across the top then the bottoms of the pictures should repeat that line.

5. Pictures should hang flat against the wall and not tip forward. If pictures are to be hung with visible wires they should be suspended by two parallel wires.

6. Group pictures so that the wall is marked by a few large masses. Let ample free space separate groups.

7. Do not clutter walls with too many pictures. Rest spaces are as essential to walls as to music.

ALL BIRTHS SHOULD BE REGISTERED PROPERLY

900 New-Born Marylanders Each Year are Not Recorded

Every year, nearly 900 of Maryland's new-born citizens are deprived of their birthright to have their names, sex, color, place and date of birth, and names of parents, properly recorded in the Bureau of Vital Statistics of the State Department of Health, according to a checking up by Dr. John Collison, Bureau Chief.

"Because a record of birth is of such importance to the individual, all possible effort is made." Dr. Collinson said, "to have every birth registered, but in spite of this, we estimate that approximately 3.8 per cent of the births in the counties and 1.8 per cent in Baltimore City are not reported. This does not seem to affect many lives when we express it in terms of per cent, but it is startling when we consider it in relation to the total births in the State. A total of 32,458 births were reported in 1928, 16,012 in the counties and 16,446 in Baltimore City. Our estimate of the total unreported births is based upon a checking up of the death certificates of children under a year old, who died in 1928, with the records of births. Similar studies made previously gave practically the same results.

"Every birth that is recorded by the State Department of Health furnishes legal proof of:

1. PARENTAGE: To establish the right to inherit and bequeath property; to establish identity; to obtain settlement of insurance; to prove parents have dependent children; to prove legitimacy.

2. TIME OF BIRTH: To prove age; to obtain admission to school; to establish right to work; to qualify for civil service examination; to hold public office; to establish the right to vote; to obtain a marriage license; to prove qualifications for, or exemption from civil and military duty.

3. PLACE OF BIRTH: To establish citizenship; to establish residence; to obtain passport.

"The law of Maryland requires every physician or midwife who is in attendance to report within four days of its occurrence. Within a week after the birth report has been received, an attractive engraved certificate is sent to the parents notifying them that the record is on file.

"Parents of children born in the counties of Maryland, who have not received such a certificate are requested to communicate with the State Department of Health, 2411 N. Charles Street, Baltimore. It will be of assistance in tracing the record if they give the name of the child in full, date and place of birth, name of physician or midwife, and full names of parents, and present address."

The Tomb of the Unknown Soldier, in all its plainness and simplicity, before the Memorial Amphitheater in Arlington National Cemetery.

WOMEN OF SOUTH FIRST TO LAUREL GRAVES OF FOES

Institution of Memorial Day Credited to Action of Feminine Relatives of Confederate Soldiers in Strewing Flowers Indiscriminately Over Their Own and Federal Dead.

ROMANCE blended with tender sympathy lends a sacred atmosphere to the origin of that peculiarly American celebration termed Memorial day. In the spring of 1867, two years after the Civil war was ended, a New York newspaper published a paragraph briefly reciting that "the women of Columbus, Miss., have shown themselves impartial in their offerings made to the memory of the dead. They strewed flowers alike on the graves of Confederate and of National soldiers."

The announcement sent a thrill through the heart of the whole country, Henry Rood writes in the New York Times, for it was the first application of that healing balm to a nation which for four years had been fiercely engaged in the most terrible fratricidal conflict known to human annals.

Anger, hatred, suspicion still were rife in 1867 when the little newspaper paragraph appeared telling of the tender action.

General Logan's order, instituting the ceremonies of Memorial day, concluded as follows:

"It is the purpose of the commander in chief to inaugurate this observance with the hope that it will be kept up from year to year while a survivor of the war remains to honor the memory of the departed."

North in Hearty Response.

The value of the idea at once was appreciated, and legislatures of a large number of states designated May 30 as a legal holiday. So great was the response of the North to the unselfish action of the women of Columbus, Miss., that it struck fire in the heart of a young lawyer, Francis Miles Finch of Ithaca, N. Y., who wrote a poem entitled "The Blue and the Gray," which since then has become closely identified with the day. Not long afterward Henry Grady, Georgia statesman, writer and orator, in one of his famous addresses made the following reference:

"In soliciting the participation of Confederate soldiers in the solemnities of this day, you mean to tender them an overture of reconciliation, to avow your good will toward your recent adversaries, and to proclaim your desire for the prevalence of peace and fraternal feeling between the belligerent sections.

"By no token more touching and impressive could you make manifest those liberal and patriotic sentiments. To proffer your former foes a share in the simple, but pathetic ceremonial by which, on this hallowed anniversary, you symbolize the perennial bloom and fragrance associated with the memory of your departed comrades, and allow us to unite in the homage you render to the fallen heroes of the Union, is indeed so affecting a testimonial of your kindness and magnanimity that we unreservedly yield ourselves to its benign influences and reciprocate, with all the warmth of our ardent southern natures, the inarticulate but heartfelt aspiration for the reign of peace and good will over our agitated and afflicted land."

New Wars and New Graves.

Principally under the auspices of G. A. R. posts all over the country Memorial day became more and more widely celebrated, probably reaching its peak more than three decades ago—the year of the grand review of G. A. R. veterans in Washington. Then, little by little, as comrades began to drop out by reason of advancing age, the annual ceremonies attracted less general attention. The men who fought the Civil war were passing. Young men who knew of it only by hearsay were coming forward in the full tide of activity. Modern conditions of life swept to the fore, with all their weight of business, industrial and social strain. Added to this, immense throngs of immigrants from other lands swarmed hither, most of whom had but the slightest interest in the struggle between North and South which ended so long before; who could not understand the sacredness of this American national observance which was as foreign to them as the national holidays of Lithuania or Croatia, for example, would be to Americans.

Day Restored to Honor.

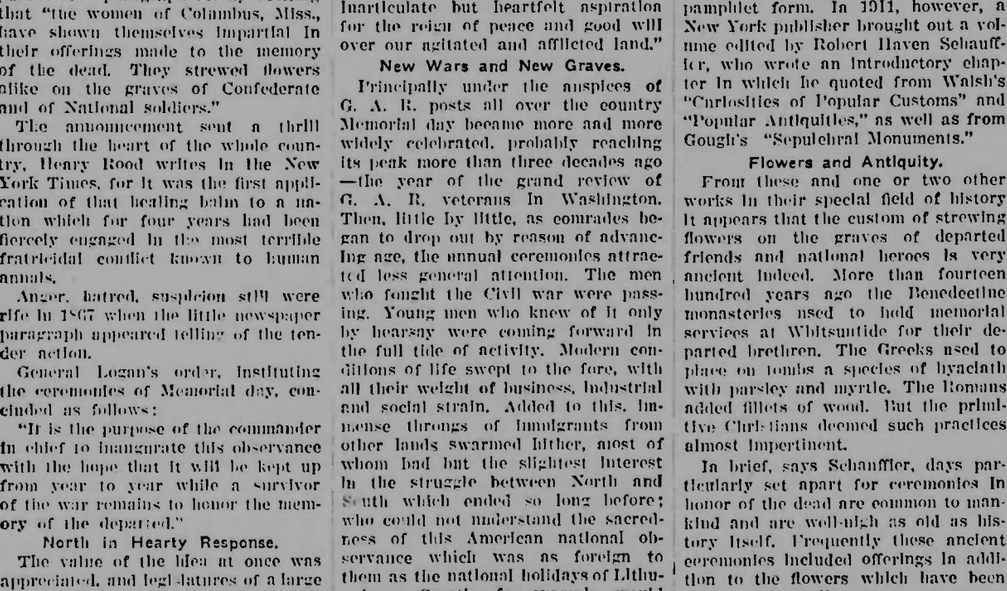
The Spanish war and its attendant loss of life caused a renewal in the numbers of those who observed Memorial day. And when May 30, 1918, rolled around, with the first harvest of American lives gathered by the Grim Reaper because of the World war, the observance again swung to its full height as a ceremonial of honor, personal sorrow and national gratitude.

In many of the older parts of the country are decorated not only the graves of those who fell in the Civil war, the Spanish war and the World war, but, owing to the influence of patriotic societies, graves are decorated, and reverent mention is made of those who died in other conflicts—the Revolutionary war, when about 310,000 Americans were engaged; the War of 1812, with 576,222 Americans on land and sea; the Mexican war and the Indian campaigns. It is possible that also one decorated the graves of some who were engaged in the naval war with France, when 4,593 Americans manned warships in hostilities lasting from July 9, 1798, until September 30, 1800.



Little has been written or published regarding the origin and development of the American Memorial day. Search in libraries brings to light almost nothing save newspaper reports of local celebrations here or there and speeches usually privately printed in pamphlet form. In 1911, however, a New York publisher brought out a volume edited by Robert Haven Schauffler, who wrote an introductory chapter in which he quoted from Walsh's "Curiosities of Popular Customs" and "Popular Antiquities," as well as from Gough's "Sepulchral Monuments."

Flowers and Antiquity.

From these and one or two other works in their special field of history it appears that the custom of strewing flowers on the graves of departed friends and national heroes is very ancient indeed. More than fourteen hundred years ago the Benedictine monasteries used to hold memorial services at Whitsuntide for their departed brethren. The Greeks used to place on tombs a species of hyacinth with parsley and myrtle. The Romans added fillets of wood. But the primitive Christians deemed such practices almost impertinent.

In brief, says Schauffler, days particularly set apart for ceremonies in honor of the dead are common to mankind and are well-nigh as old as history itself. Frequently these ancient ceremonies included offerings in addition to the flowers which have been almost universally strewn on graves. Savage or semi-savage peoples, like some of the North American Indian tribes, killed ponies or dogs, which were placed with hunting implements on the grave of a departed chieftain; and as every one knows, tombs of the pharaohs were depositories of valuable offerings.

As civilization advanced, here and there, toward the more poetic and the more spiritual, material gifts for the departed were changed into beautiful symbols, such as fragrant blossoms—these being of a nature different from monuments or other structures of stone or metal which served primarily as marking places and for brief inscriptions.

COUNTY AGENT'S COLUMN.

J. H. CARTER,
Resident County Agent,
Oakland, Md.

June is here and most of our planting will be done by the middle of the month and the battle with the weed will begin. June and July are the months to cultivate. Proper cultivation is cultivating often enough to keep the weeds down and keeping the top of the soil stirred to admit air and consume moisture. If this is done properly plant food is more available for the roots of the growing plant thereby causing a rapid plant growth.

Alfalfa hay should be cut when in bloom. Cutting at this time seems to give a higher yield over a period of years and a better stand of plants maintained.

Grow legume hay for your dairy cattle. If you find you are not going to have at least two tons of good legume hay for each cow, you can still sow soybeans and produce a high grade of hay.

Some early varieties should be sown such as the Midwest or Wilson 5. Special bulletin No. 123 Minnesota Agricultural Extension division gives a good comparison on the efficient feeding of dairy cows. A herd of cows fed timothy hay and grain returned $28 per cow over feed cost. Whereas the same herd fed alfalfa hay, corn silage and a liberal amount of grain returned $57.88 per cow over feed cost.

This bulletin may be obtained by writing to Minnesota Agricultural Extension Division, St. Paul, Minnesota.

Spraying with sodium chlorate has been found very effective in the control of small areas of quack grass and Canada thistle. If you are interested, get in touch with the County Agent.

Continue to cull and market the non-laying hens and the undersized chickens. Also all cockerels that are not needed for breeding purposes next winter. Save early hatched, well-grown pullets for fall and winter layers. Skim milk and buttermilk keep the young chicks growing and thrifty.

JUDGE ALBERT A. DOUB'S CHARGE TO GRAND JURY

Full Text of Jurist's Address to Body When Sworn In For Service Monday Morning

The June Term of the Garrett County Circuit Court convened Monday morning at ten o'clock with Associate Judge Albert A. Doub presiding.

Mr. Charles W. Ream, appointed by the Court at the time the jury was drawn, with his fellow-members of the body, were sworn by Clerk Tower, after which Judge Doub delivered his charge to the Grand Jury, the full text of which appears below:

"Gentlemen of the Grand Jury:—It is an age-long custom, and the statutes of the State of Maryland now require that the Court shall deliver to you a charge outlining to some extent the duties which you are to perform and the responsibilities of your office.

"It would seem to be unnecessary to do this so far as some members of the Grand Jury are concerned, because I observe that several of you if not the most of you, have served upon the Grand Jury of this county before. It is unnecessary for me to remind you, perhaps, that you are an essential part of the administration of justice in Garrett county. Under our system of jurisprudence the Grand Jury initiates the charges against traversers. Witnesses will be produced before you, complaints will be made, and after you have heard the testimony it will be for you to determine whether, if you were sitting as petit jurors to try the guilt or innocence of the party charged, you would find him guilty upon the evidence produced before you. If the evidence be such that you, applying the law as you understand it, would find the traverser guilty without hearing any evidence in his behalf, it will be your duty to find an indictment. You can find no indictment, however, unless twelve of the twenty-three jurors vote in favor of the indictment, but if twelve or more jurors vote in favor of a presentment or indictment, then the indictment is found by you and prepared by the State's Attorney.

"The State's Attorney will be with you. He will be your adviser. He will lay before you the statutes when there are statutes applicable to the specific crimes charged against the different individuals, except in cases where there are no statutes, in the class of offenses known as crimes at the common-law.

"The court is very much gratified to learn from the State's Attorney and the members of the bar here that there have been no very serious crimes since the last Grand Jury was convened in December.

"We hear a great deal now about the apparent increase in crime and the disposition to break the law on the part of the people generally. I am very glad to be able to state publicly that the court has not recognized that condition anywhere in the Fourth Judicial Circuit either in Garrett, Allegany or Washington counties. My observation has been that crime has very much decreased in those three counties within the past twenty-five years and what increase there has been has been of minor offenses and

THREE YOUTHS ARE FINED WHEN SEEN AROUND JAIL

Act Very Suspicious and Are Arrested on Drunk Charge

John House, Herbert Barnes, and Alfred Barnes, all of Lonaconing, were arrested Friday night by policeman B. B. Nethkin, on a charge of being drunk and disorderly, following the discovery by Rev. Fr. W. J. McVeigh that they were acting rather suspiciously around the county jail.

Both Sheriff W. D. Casteel and his deputy, Joy Griffith, were away with Federal prohibition officers, but the town officials were notified and they caused their arrest.

At a hearing before E. I. West, justice of the peace, Saturday morning, it was learned that these boys were on their way to Michigan and attempted to talk to the mother of one of the youths, who is in the Garrett county jail on a liquor violation charge in Allegany county. No evidences were found of attempting to pass saws or other material in to the prisoners.

They were fined $15 and costs each. House paid his fine but the other two are serving 30 days in jail in default of payment.

MEMORIAL DAY OBSERVED WITH IMPRESSIVE SERVICE

Legionairre George Henderson Spoke After Taps Had Been Sounded and Graves Decorated

Memorial Day in Oakland was observed with a parade of veterans of three wars, the decoration of the last resting place of the deceased soldiers and an appropriate service conducted at the grave of the "unknown soldier," at which time George Henderson, Cumberland attorney, and a World War veteran, addressed the gathering.

Mr. Henderson, in an address of about twenty minutes, emphasized the thought of profiting from the mistakes of our predecessors. He stated that history was not a subject for school children to memorize but something to be studied with a view to correcting the errors committed then, in case a similar circumstance should again arise.

Only by profiting by such mistakes, Mr. Henderson stated, would the death of so many men engaged in battle be justified in any way. In speaking of the national defense he quoted a noted general, who said, "That country is the murderer of its citizens who sends them untrained to fight in battle".

The parade was held at 10:30 a. m., and headed by the colors and the Gilbert-Brown Boys' Band, passed thru the streets of Oakland and thence to the cemetery.

A large number of the members of the American Legion, one marine, 30 of the local Boy Scout troop, many grammar and high school students, a number of the members of the local lodge Knights of Pythias, and the Crellin Band were in the line of march, and in a car rode Capt. James A. Hayden, Henry Sines and David Durst, Civil War veterans, and Simon Meyers, Spanish-American soldier.

At the grave of the "unknown soldier" taps was sounded and a firing squad of the Legion discharged three volleys from their rifles. The graves of more than sixty veterans of the various American wars and that of one English soldier who took part in the East Indian war, were then decorated by members of the Legion, assisted by the local scout troop.

Mr. Henderson then made his address, which closed the services.

MRS. ROSIER AWARDED $300 IN DAMAGE SUIT

Kitzmiller Woman Wins Suit in Court Against Police Officers For False Arrest

Two cases of considerable interest to the people living at Kitzmiller, this county, were tried in the Circuit Court at Cumberland Tuesday and Wednesday of last week. The cases were brought by Mrs. Florence Ethel Rosier against the Mayor and Council of Kitzmiller and against James Burton, Samuel J. Cole, Robert Sellers, police officers, and the six members of the town council, and in each case the sum of $10,000 damages was claimed.

The cases arose out of the arrest of Mrs. Rosier on the night of April 19, 1927, on the charge of conducting a disorderly house in Kitzmiller. The evidence showed that acting under orders from T. W. Ebert, then Mayor of Kitzmiller, the officers went to the home of Mrs. Rosier after a number of complaints had been made as to her conduct and arrested her without a warrant on the disorderly house charge. Mrs. Rosier was found on an upper floor of the house behind a door and a man by the name of Bill Cornell was found downstairs in a drunken condition and with a revolver in his possession. Both were taken to the town council chamber and were then held in custody until the following day when Cornell was fined on a charge of carrying concealed weapons and Mrs. Rosier prayed a jury trial on the charge lodged against her, and upon failure to give bond was brought to Oakland to await the action of the June Term and confined in the County Jail. At the time of her trial in the Circuit Court insufficient evidence to warrant a conviction was produced and she was acquitted and later instituted two suits for false imprisonment.

The attorneys for the town demurred to the suit against the Mayor and Council on the ground that a town is not responsible in a case of that nature for the acts of its police officers and after consideration of the question the point was ruled good by the Court and a verdict entered for the defendant corporation. The case against the officers was then taken up before a jury and after all the other defendants had been eliminated a verdict was rendered in favor of the plaintiff and against the police officers for $300, $100 being assessed against each officer by the jury. The case attracted considerable attention because of the question raised as to the liability of the town of Kitzmiller.

Attorneys J. Philip Roman, of Cumberland, and H. G. Shores, of Keyser, represented Mrs. Rosier, while the Mayor and Council of Kitzmiller and the other defendants were represented by Attorneys E. R. Jones, of Oakland, and George W. Legge, of Cumberland.

LOCAL TALENT PROGRAM GIVEN MONDAY BY RADIO

First of The Series of Four Heard From Station WMMN

The program for the second week for Oakland Hour which will be given through Station WMMN, Fairmont, West Va., on Monday night, June 9, between the hours of nine and ten o'clock, has just been completed, according to Mayor L. M. Fraley, and will include a talk by Dr. Henry W. McComas, music by Gilbert's orchestra, a vocal solo by Mrs. Frederick Thayer, a saxophone solo by Mr. R. R. Gilbert and possibly other numbers.

The first week's program, which was given Monday night of this week, was considered a success by the Oakland merchants, who are sponsoring it. Radio reception was only fair in Oakland, but in the community surrounding Fairmont it was said to be exceptionally fine and several congratulatory telegrams and telephone messages were received.

The program consisted of a talk by Mayor Fraley on Oakland and the surrounding community, music by the Harmony Boys, Hawaiian Trio, a piano solo by Bill Gibson, and an accordion solo by Wilmer Brown. Music by the Hawaiian Trio carried exceptionally well over the air, it was said, and they are expected to return again during the month of June.

These programs will be heard every Monday night between the hours of 9 and 10 o'clock during the month of June and are being sponsored and financed by a number of the Oakland business men.

MARYLAND THEATRE WILL REOPEN FRIDAY, JUNE 14

Management Hopeful That Repairs Will be Completed Then

An almost new Maryland Theatre in appearance will be opened to the public Friday evening, June 14, in all probability, Bernard Gonder, local manager, announced yesterday. The theatre has been closed since it was partially destroyed by fire on May 15.

The upper floors of the building are being strengthened by the introduction of a steel beam supported by two steel pillars resting upon a reinforced foundation. The stage is also being remodeled. A new lighting system is being installed, new seating placed in the balcony and the interior will be redecorated.

Stanton D. Whipkey has charge of the repair work.

'CAL' MENHORN ARRESTED FOLLOWING INDICTMENT

Alponse Borelli Also Falls Into Clutches of the Law on Alleged Violation of Prohibition Law

Calvin Menhorn and Alfonse Borelli, both of Oakland, were arrested yesterday afternoon following indictments found by the Grand Jury charging violation of the prohibition laws. Bond in the sum of $1,000 was furnished by Menhorn and Borelli is in jail on account of not being able to produce the required surety for his appearance when his case is called next week.

Prohibition enforcement officers entered the blacksmith shop owned and operated by John Menhorn with his son Calvin, at that time in charge, late Saturday night, in an attempt to discover the presence of some moonshine liquor, and remained in that vicinity for about three hours, it is said, before giving up the search. They failed to find anything, it is said, but a jug of vinegar.

Everything in the shop was inspected except the safe, and this was not opened as the officers had no search warrant.

The officers returned again on Monday and after another search threatened to padlock the establishment if there was the least intimation of any moonshine liquor being sold therein.

Fined For Contempt

Ira Beeman was fined $100 or sixty days in jail by the Court when he refused to answer questions propounded him by the Grand Jury.

Beeman was called as a witness before the inquisitorial body and upon his refusal to answer certain questions he was taken before the Court who instructed him as to the proper procedure in such matters, but when he again refused to make answer he was presented to the Court a second time and was fined as above. Refusing to pay the fine he was taken to jail for the term of sixty days.

Officers Find Outfit

A seventy-five gallon still and five barrels of mash were discovered and destroyed by Sheriff W. D. Casteel, Deputy Joy Griffith, and Federal officers in the vicinity of John Swauger's farm, near Jennings, last Friday night. The still was hot when discovered and had evidently been in operation.

The outfit was discovered near the county road, but the men who were in that vicinity, took alarm and fled to the mountains as the officers approached. The officers had to approach the still through an open field.

After the still and mash and other equipment were destroyed the officers returned to Oakland.

Probability of Water Carnival Discussed at Meeting

The probability of having a water carnival again this year on Deep Creek Lake was discussed at a meeting of the Allegheny Boat club held on Tuesday night. More definite plans for these races will be made at a meeting to be held next Thursday night, June 13, at the City hall, at 7:30.

Mrs. Josiah Umble, of Terra Alta, was here on business Monday.

We have had before us and have examined 80 witnesses and have found 27 indictments and presentments.

We have inspected and examined the Court House, the county records, the Sheriff's residence, County Jail and find the county buildings in excellent condition and good repair and very neatly kept. The County Jail is clean and in a sanitary condition.

We are pleased to note the neat and excellent manner in which the county records have been kept by the officials having the same in charge.

The Grand Jury was greatly impressed with the splendid charge by the Honorable Judge Doub to this body, and we hope that it will be widely published and read by not only the citizenship of this county but throughout the nation.

We desire to express our thanks to Judge Doub and the several officers of the county for the courtesies shown us while in the discharge of our duties; we also wish to express our deep thanks to our efficient State's Attorney, Mr. J. C. Renninger, for the valuable aid and assistance given us during our investigation and service.

We now beg to be discharged.

Following the discharge of the Grand Jury, court recessed until next Monday morning when the members of the petit jury will be required to report when the trial of traversers against whom indictments were found by the grand jury will be taken up.

Judge D. Lindley Sloan will probably preside next week.

ANNUAL JUNIOR-SENIOR PARTY HELD ON FRIDAY

High School Auditorium Decorated in Circus Regalia

The annual Junior-Senior party was held in the school auditorium Friday, May 31, at 8 o'clock. The hall was decorated in circus regalia and the usual pink lemonade, hot dogs, popcorn, ice cream, etc., were served. Music was furnished by the Oakland orchestra, and there were a number of special attractions. The party was considered one of the best in a number of years.

The seniors gave a weiner roast in honor of Louise Lauer and Kermit Lohr, winners of school declamation contests, on Thursday, May 25, at Table Rock. The crowd left school about 3:30 in the afternoon and returned to Oakland by 8 o'clock. Those present included members of the faculty and the senior class. Louise and Kermit are the first two seniors to represent Oakland in the contests for several years.

Senior examinations were held on June 3, 4, and 5. Classes continued as usual for the lower classmen.

School examinations will be held June 7, 8, 9, and 10. Classes will continue as usual after the examinations. Questions will be thoroughly discussed by pupils and teachers. Classes at this time are extremely important. Miss Katharine Conley, principal, stated, as they are determining whether or not a pupil will fail in his subject or not they determine whether or not a mark will be an A, B, or C. A's and B's are required for entrance to college.

Lesson for June 9

THE STORY OF THE RECHABITES

(Temperance Lesson.)

LESSON TEXT—Jeremiah 35:1-19.
GOLDEN TEXT—We will drink no wine.
PRIMARY TOPIC—Strong to Do the Right.
JUNIOR TOPIC—Loyal to Do the Right.
INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—Accepting a High Moral Standard.
YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—Forms of Modern Persecution.

I. Who Were the Rechabites? (I Chron. 2:55).

They were Kenites of Hemaath of the family of Jethro, Moses' father-in-law (Num. 10:29-32, cf. Judges 1:16). They entered Canaan with the Israelites. It seems that in order to preserve their identity they chose a nomadic life. Saul was considerate of them (I Sam. 15:6). They were characterized by:

1. Abstinence from strong drink (35:8). 2. Voluntary poverty (35:9). 3. A nomadic life (35:10).

II. The Rechabites Tested (vv. 1-5).

In the days of Jehoiachim the Lord charged Jeremiah to bring the Rechabites into the house of the Lord and test them regarding the drinking of wine. This he did in a place where the people might behold them, the aim being to teach Judah by example. The father of the Rechabites had given the command that they should not drink wine. Their filial obedience put to shame the children of Judah for their lack of obedience to their Heavenly Father. Jonadab, the father of the Rechabites, was only a man, but the commands which Judah disregarded were from the Almighty God, their Creator and Savior. They stood the test. They were loyal to the traditions of their fathers, even turning away from the luxury and degeneracy of Judah and maintaining their simple life. It is God's plan that every man be tested. Being a free agent, he can have character only through testing. It was for this reason that God placed Adam and Eve in Eden and permitted the devil to test them. While we should be concerned about the removal of temptation from men, we should be more concerned with showing them how to overcome it.

III. The Filial Loyalty of the Rechabites (vv. 6-11).

Though they were out of their own country and among a foreign people, they refused to drink wine, declaring that they had been true to the instructions of Jonadab all their lives. Obedience to his instruction had been practiced by the men, women and children. It is a fine thing when children keep in mind their fathers and render obedience to their commands.

IV. The Loyalty of the Rechabites Contrasted with the Disloyalty of Judah (vv. 12-16).

1. The appeal (vv. 13, 14). This appeal was made on the basis of the filial loyalty of the Rechabites. He reminded them that though their father had been dead a long time, the Rechabites remained loyal to his command. The prophet appealed to them not only on the ground of this example, but on the ground of God's earnest entreaty through the prophets.

2. The ministry of the prophets (vv. 15, 16). When the people failed to render obedience to God, He sent them prophets who pleaded with them to amend their ways by turning away from idols. Matthew Henry indicates the points of contrast as follows:

(1) The Rechabites were obedient to one who was but a man. The Jews disobeyed the infinite and eternal God. (2) Jonadab was dead long since and could not know of their disloyalty or correct them concerning it. God is all-wise, lives forever and will punish the disobedient. (3) The Rechabites were never put in mind of their obligations, but God sent His prophets who rose up early to remind Judah. (4) Jonadab left the charge, with no one to bear the expense of the charge, but God gave Judah a goodly land and blessed them in it. (5) God never tied up His people to any hard task as did Jonadab, but God's people disobeyed Him, while the Rechabites obeyed their father.

V. Judgment Upon the Jews for Disobedience (v. 17).

God declared that He would bring judgment as pronounced against them.

VI. The Rechabites Rewarded for Their Loyalty (vv. 18, 19).

Because they had been true to the commands of Jonadab, they should have continued representation before God.

Walk While Ye Have Light

The people answered Him, We have heard out of the law that Christ abideth for ever; and how sayest thou, the Son of Man must be lifted up? Who is this Son of Man? Then Jesus said unto them, Yet a little while is the light with you. Walk while ye have the light, lest darkness come upon you; for he that walketh in darkness knoweth not whither he goeth. While ye have light, believe in the light, that ye may be children of light.—John 12, 34 to 36.

Child Injured in Auto Accident

Glenn Alexander, 7-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Alexander, was struck Saturday evening on Main street by a car driven by Mr. Iman, of Oakland. The lad was thrown over by the car and dragged approximately eighty feet along the highway and suffered very serious and painful injuries. His right thigh was fractured and he also suffered a fracture of the skull and received a number of contusions about the face and body. The child was immediately taken to the Western Maryland Hospital at Cumberland where he is being treated. Latest reports from his bedside are to the effect that he is resting as comfortably as could be expected but is yet in a serious condition.

The accident was unavoidable, as the boy did not see the approaching car driven by Mr. Iman and stepped from a truck directly in front of it.

WAR HAS BEEN DECLARED AGAINST WINGED ENEMIES

State Board Of Health Will Carry On Battle Against Pests

The appearance of scouting groups of bloodthirsty winged enemies, in various parts of the State, has resulted in a declaration of war against them. Surveys are being made, State and Federal forces are mobilizing and in some sections of the State, notably in the lower sections of the Eastern Shore, an aggressive campaign is under way.

The invaders have been identified as the ordinary, but also, the exceedingly irritating species of mosquito, close relatives of the malaria bearing type, the breakbone fever sort and of other varieties of this winged pest. The mobilizing grounds, in other words, the breeding places of the enemy—swamps, marshes, stagnant waters, whether in pools or streams, or in small quantities in discarded tin cans—are being sought out and duly treated, oiled in some cases, drained in others, stocked with the minnows that thrive upon the mosquito larvae in others, or gotten rid of, in the case of the disreputable tin can.

Speaking of the anti-mosquito warfare, Dr. R. H. Riley, Director of the State Department of Health, said: "Very often when members of the Department are asked to locate the sources of the early visitation of mosquitoes at resorts or summer camping grounds, they come back with the report, 'found a lot of empty tin cans, not properly disposed of, partly full of water, loaded with mosquito larvae.'

"These mosquitoes are literally 'clouds of witnesses' against the careless camper or householder and there is no doubt but that volunteer action is needed as much as community interest and cooperation in our warfare against mosquitoes. We depend upon community action for mass movements—draining swamps, oiling of streams, screening houses and other measures of that sort. But the public-spirited volunteer can be of tremendous help by simply clearing out all possible breeding places on his own premises or his own picnic or camping grounds.

"Under their own power, mosquitoes are said to be able to fly about half a mile from their breeding places, but the distances they are carried by the wind, by autos, boats, trains, and by other means of transportation, are practically immeasurable. The best way to get rid of them is to get rid of their breeding places. Every tin can left by the roadside or thrown on the refuse heap after the picnic meal, is a potential breeding place. If we could get every hiker, every householder, every summer cottager, every boy and girl scout, every camper, to make proper disposition of their discarded, empty, tin cans and other containers, we would all be saved much discomfort."

MT. LAKE PARK.

TEAM WORK.

Nothing, of course, can be accomplished without individual effort. But after all it is team work that brings best results. The individual has only one brain and two hands and there are only twenty-four hours in a day. Part of that must be spent in rest. But if each citizen of the park would resolve himself or herself into a committee of one to see that the visitors of the coming season are entertained as well as our resources will permit, then the one brain and the two hands and the number of hours that can be devoted to work, will be multiplied in proportion to the number of committees functioning.

Superintendent Baker, of course, is the responsible head and upon him will be visited the praise or blame for the success or failure of the season. But, I wonder, if we have considered the fact that one can't do it all, however efficient he may be? Every resident, whether here permanently or just for the summer, is interested in making each season just a little bit better than the preceding one. One of the ways of accomplishing that result is to get behind the Superintendent and push.

The Park looks better than it has looked for a good many years. The trimming of the trees along the boardwalk has helped. Brightening up the buildings at the head of the lake, fixing up the surroundings at Crystal Spring, lining up the walks around the Auditorium, cutting the grass on the vacant lots—all these things add to the beauty of our surroundings.

We have enough confidence to believe that other things will be done.

Mountain Lake Park will come into her own.

Elmus L. Ream, of Loch Lynn, was a member of the Senior class graduating from Bridgewater College on Tuesday of this week, being awarded the degree of Bachelor of Arts with honor for high scholastic work during the year.

The Ladies' Aid of the U. B. church will give a roast beef supper this evening in the Aid Hall, Loch Lynn, at 6:00. Liberal patronage of the public will be appreciated.

Capt. B. L. Hardesty has returned from a visit to Rowlesburg, West Va.

Oak Lodge No. 8, I. O. O. F., will hold its annual memorial service on Sunday afternoon at three o'clock in the U. B. church. The address will be delivered by Rev. W. D. Cunningham, of Terra Alta, West Va.

Mr. and Mrs. John O. Morgan and family and Mr. and Mrs. Anthony Bowen, Fairmont, spent the week-end at the Morgan cottage here in the Park.

Mrs. R. L. Cunningham, Mr. Lawrence Cunningham, Mrs. Howard Ogden and Mrs. Cora Bishop, all of Fairmont, spent Sunday at the Park with friends.

Mrs. Daisy Hicks, Moundsville, has opened her cottage for the season.

Mr. and Mrs. H. R. Beckman and children, Mrs. Maelta Sebold and Miss Virginia Athey, all of Cumberland, spent the week-end here with Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Brenneman.

A corps of workmen is located at the Park and preliminary work has been started on the installation of an electric signal system between here and Grafton by the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad Company, which when completed will add greatly to efficiency in speeding up transportation.

PRESIDENT HAS WHITE HOUSE TELEPHONE SYSTEM ENLARGED

A Two-Position Switchboard Will Replace the Present One-Position Board Now In Service—Larger Quarters Necessary to Increase Efficiency of Executive Offices Being Provided

(Top) Wiremen adding additional equipment in what will be the "first switchboard of the land" to be installed in the White House Executive Offices about June 1. These switchboards will replace the one-position board over which Fred Hohbien, White House telephone operator is making a call. (Oval) A front view of the White House.

To the people of the United States there is only one White House. Not that it is the only house painted white, for it isn't. But the residence of the President and the "First Lady of the Land," first called the executive mansion, has long since come to be known everywhere as the White House.

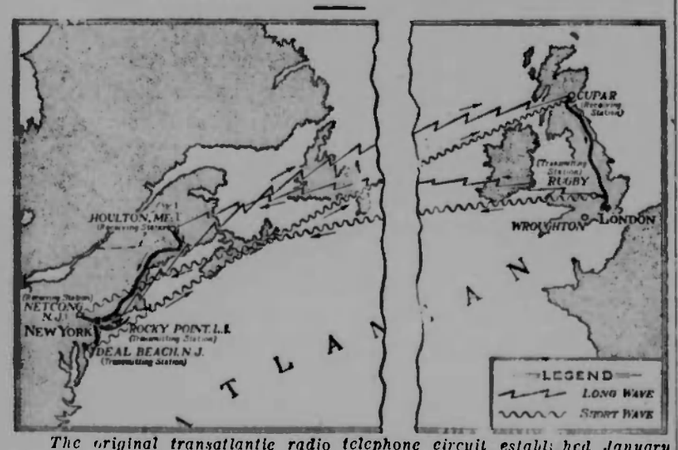
It is at the White House that the President maintains the executive offices where he directs the operations of the Government. In his campaign for election, Mr. Hoover promised if called to this high office by the people, to bring about a more efficient operation of the Government. In his inaugural address, he confirmed this promise and immediately upon assuming office, he began to fulfill his promises.

Among the first moves he made to show that he was going to give a business-like administration was to see that the White House was adequately equipped with telephones. An order was issued for the installation of a telephone on his personal desk which was something no other President has had.

Then it was brought to his attention that other desks in the executive offices were not supplied with telephones and he immediately gave orders to remedy this condition. It then developed that the telephone private branch exchange system serving the White House was not of sufficient size to take care of the increased number of telephones.

Before a new switchboard could be installed, it was necessary to provide a larger room in which to place the new equipment. Since other office space was needed, the President gave orders to excavate under the present office building to provide another floor which will be used for offices and file rooms. It is in the new space that the switchboard and associated apparatus, the terminal frame and storage battery equipment to serve the White House and executive offices will be installed.

This new switchboard will be equipped for eighty telephone lines and forty trunks and tie lines to connect with the main city central offices and with other Government departments. The present one-position switchboard which now serves forty-three telephones is equipped for sixty lines and twenty trunks and tie lines.



While the White House has had telephone service for more than fifty years, the first switchboard system was not installed until 1901 and since that time, except during the World War period there have not been more than eight or ten telephones connected with it until the present administration. Present indications point to the fact that the telephone will be called upon to play an important part in the affairs of government under Mr. Hoover, and the engineers of the Chesapeake and Potomac Telephone Company are planning to install equipment that will in every way meet all of his requirements.

Not only are telephone facilities being provided for the President in the White House, but since he has signified his intention of spending his vacation periods in certain sections of Maryland and Virginia, special telephone installations have been made or are now under way at at least two of the recreation spots that he has indicated will be used.

The first of these telephones to be installed was at Catoctin Manor near Thurmont, Maryland. The other, a fishing camp located on the headquarters of the Rapidan River in Madison county, Virginia, requires more preparation and the telephone company's forces are now engaged in constructing a new pole line between Madison and the Camp and in strengthening an existing line between Madison and Orange over which two copper circuits are now being placed to connect with the White House switchboard.

With these facilities there is no question but that the President of the United States will be able to keep in touch by telephone with the affairs of government as he wishes.

TWO RADIO CHANNELS REQUIRED FOR TRANSATLANTIC TELEPHONE

Big business which is ever on the alert for speedier methods of operation now does not hesitate in transacting affairs by telephone across the Atlantic—so much so that the volume of transatlantic telephone calls continues to increase and has at times overloaded the radio facilities, officials of the company state.

To overcome this condition a short wave channel has now been provided supplementing the long-wave channel first placed in service between the United States and Europe in 1927. In addition, further transatlantic radio channels are being planned and according to Walter S. Gifford, president of the American Telephone and Telegraph Company, plans are under way for the establishment of a short-wave channel between the United States and the Argentine which should maintain the initial requirements for telephone communication between the two countries.

Years of service in MODEL T FORDS

THE Model T was so strongly and sturdily built that it is still rendering reliable, economical service to motorists in every section of the country. Millions of these cars can be put in shape for two, three and five more years of use at very small cost.

So that you may have this work done economically and satisfactorily, the Ford Motor Company is still devoting a considerable section of its plants to the manufacture of Model T parts. It will continue to do so as long as they are needed by Model T owners. The following list gives the approximate labor charges for reconditioning the Model T Ford:—

COMMENCEMENT

The strenuous—and glorious—days of the commencement season are here.

At this time life for the graduates is one continuous round of pleasurable excitement and anticipation. For the teachers and parents, days of anxiety and heartbreaking effort.

Young men and young women thruout the nation are emerging from the theoretical into the practical phases of life. For long and wearying years their instructors have labored day by day, year in and year out, imparting to them that knowledge which they will soon find all important in fighting life's battles. Many of the theories and facts drilled into their minds in school will perhaps lay dormant in their subconscious minds for many years, until suddenly they will be marshalled by some mysterious process, we know not how, and aid to solve some important problem of life.

Just now class dinners, class plays, musical entertainments, baccalaureate services, commencements with graduating orations, diplomas, flowers and general rejoicing come and go in dizzy succession.

In the passing years, when the cares of life bring greying hair and furrowed brow, these will be the red letter days, long to be remembered as the happiest of life.

DISARMAMENT NO NEARER

Now that the Geneva conference on the limitation of armaments has adjourned and the alibis and counter alibis have been for the moment, at least, forgotten, one is forced to the conclusion, after examining all the evidence at hand, that little if anything was accomplished in the matter of making prospect of limitation of armament any rosier in the near future. All nations of course have subscribed to the Kellogg peace pact, and all of them admit, publicly at least, that they regard it as a good thing. But the significant fact of course is that nothing has been done by the nations of Europe to put the theories and good pretentions of the Kellogg treaty into actual practice.

Europe is still an armed camp and it will continue to be one so long as each European nation has a suspicion that other countries regard it with unfriendly eyes. There are many sore spots in Europe, in the east and in the south especially, and overshadowing all of this is the great military menace of Soviet Russia where even the women and children have been organized for military purposes.

For these reasons nothing constructive could be done in Europe and nothing can be done by the League of Nations or any other human agency. The nations who won something out of the World War are anxious to keep it and they have a suspicion that the nations who lost territory are only waiting for a favorable moment to recoup their losses. Hence preparations for war continue and would be even greater were it not for the exhausted condition of the various countries.

The situation was aptly summed up in a newspaper article recently by Frank A. Simonds, the noted American student of European affairs, when he said:

"Europe is not ready to disarm, it is not even ready to consider real limitation of armaments. This is the fact, but does this fact mean that Europe is today planning a new war? No. What it more clearly means is that Europe is still under the shadow of the last war and still fearful of the next. No nation is visibly preparing for aggressive war—unless it be Italy; but all the great continental peoples believe that you must have security before you can have limitation, much less disarmament. And none feels that it has security save through its military establishment.

Thus, despite all the camouflage spread from Geneva, the best one can say Is that the whole question of disarmament in Europe, even the more precise problem of limitation, has been postponed. The league has tried and found it insoluble in all present time."

Now it will be noted that all of the jealousy, all of the suspicion and fear of danger is in Europe. It is a little difficult to see how the internationalists in our own country can therefore blame the situation on the United States, although they will of course try to do so whenever the occasion offers.

Cretainly the United States cannot dispel the suspicion and discord of Europe by moral suasion. We did not make and we cannot unmake it. We might of course enter into an agreement to maintain the status quo in Europe, but we could only guarantee this by offering the force of our young manhood in any future difficulty which might occur in Europe, and certainly no sane American will agree that such a commitment would be worth the sacrifice, especially as there is serious doubt whether any real good could even then he accomplished.

It would seem therefore that the pacifists and internationalists in America, who are so busy trying to scuttle the navy of their own country and to entangle it in quarrels of Europe "in the name of world peace" as they put it, would take a trip over the briny Atlantic and attempt to spread a little of the oil of peace on their European brethren who seem to need it in large measure.

Uncle Sam has no great army which is menacing anybody. He has only a mobile but very efficient national police force. The armed camp is not in America but in Europe. Let our international brethren therefore turn their efforts to doing good for the cause of peace where good is done. When one is suffering with toothache we do not amputate one of his feet. The toothache is in Europe, and the international pacifists here are wasting their talents in attempting to cure it by removing one of Uncle Sam's pedal extremities.

COST OF MEDICAL CARE

The belief has been expressed—without statistical backing—that the American people pay less for medical care than the actual cost of the service they receive. This may be questioned by the rich who undoubtedly pay more than the cost, and will be hardly convincing to the masses of the people who groan under and find it difficult to meet the cost of such medical care, particularly surgery, as modern custom demands. Perhaps only the poor will unreservedly agree, for they—at least in the large cities—get expensive treatment for which they pay nothing.

Granting that medical care costs more than is paid for it, how is the difference made up? There are just three answers: drafts on the tax fund for public health service, the philanthropy of individuals who endow hospitals and the generosity of the medical profession than which no other profession gives the public so much unpaid service. The Secretary of the Interior has appointed a committee to investigate the cost of medical care in a nation demanding the best of such care. When this committee has concluded its labors it may—or may not—be able to render an interesting showing as to just how much of the cost of medical care is borne by the patients, how much is borne hy the community, how much is met by philanthropy, and how much for which kindly physicians make no charge.

Why Not Make Oakland As Attractive As Possible By Clearing Our Premises of Unsightly Outbuildings and Cleaning Up Generally, Especially at the Cemeteries.

To the Editor of The Republican.

Just a word for the good of our community. We as citizens need to awaken to the fact that summer is here and that we must dress accordingly. First of all, clean up; dig out the weeds, tear down the old shacks on our premises. Then lend this copy of The Republican to the neighbors who have these unsightly places.

Let's make our town attractive. It requires cooperation to do this.

How about the cemetery where our loved ones are resting? It would be well if Decoration Day came at least once a month instead of once a year. Unsightly with its weeds and briers, discredit rests upon each lot owner who neglects his duty.

Why not have a meeting of all lot owners and decide now, before we must be placed beneath these weeds and briers, to have a caretaker, have the whole place cleared and kept in condition and also have water piped into the cemetery. It could all he done with very little cost to each individual and the satisfaction of it would be beyond measure.

If you desire to do your part address a note to The Republican and a meeting will be arranged in the near future, not only to talk over our desires but to arrange for permanent improvements in the town.

TEACHERS' SALARIES ARE BEING RAISED STEADILY

Except For One Year, Annual Increase Has Been Shown In Maryland Since 1917

With the exception of the year 1919 the average salary of teachers in the white elementary schools in the counties of Maryland has increased steadily since 1917, although no change in the State salary schedule has been made since the 1922 session of the Legislature, according to a report issued Saturday by the State Department of Education.

Between 1917 and 1923 the increases, the report says, are explained by the salary schedules adopted by the Legislatures of 1918,1920 and 1922 to meet changes in the cost of living. As a result of the World War, it became extremely difficult to keep the schools in session because of the many remunerative opportunities available to teachers paid low salaries and to those high school graduates who, under ordinary conditions, would have entered into the normal schools to become teachers.

Schedule Is Fixed

Since 1922, the minimum State salary schedule has remained fixed, the report states. The increases in salaries are due to the appointment each year of a larger number of trained teachers. Whenever positions formerly held by teachers holding lower grades of certificates because of inadequate training became vacant, the positions have been filled by the graduates of the normal schools and colleges of the State.

The average salary of white county principals and teachers for the last twelve years is as follows:

| Year. | In Elementary Schools. | In High Schools. |
|---|---|---|
| 1917..... | $491 | $798 |
| 1918..... | 542 | 841 |
| 1919..... | 521 | 908 |
| 1920..... | 631 | 1,017 |
| 1921..... | 881 | 1,289 |
| 1922..... | 937 | 1,345 |
| 1923..... | 990 | 1,436 |
| 1924..... | 1,030 | 1,477 |
| 1925..... | 1,057 | 1,485 |
| 1926..... | 1,103 | 1,517 |
| 1927..... | 1,126 | 1,534 |
| 1928..... | 1,155 | 1,544 |

The average salary of teachers in the elementary and high schools of Garrett county during the past eight years shows a decided increase in salaries for elementary teachers.

| Year. | In Elementary Schools. | In High Schools. |
|---|---|---|
| 1920-21..... | $503 | $1,136 |
| 1921-22..... | 571 | 1,192 |
| 1922-23..... | 646 | 1,311 |
| 1923-24..... | 722 | 1,375 |
| 1924-25..... | 784 | 1,439 |
| 1925-26..... | 867 | 1,468 |
| 1926-27..... | 952 | 1,525 |
| 1927-28..... | 1,016 | 1,467 |

Minimum Is $950

The State salary schedule provides a minimum salary of $950 for a white normal school graduate, but requires that $100 additional be paid those in charge of one or two teacher elementary schools. After three years of experience, white elementary teachers receive $100 additional. After two more years they receive $50 increases and finally, after three more years another $50, making the maximum $1,150 for teachers in the larger schools and $1,250 for those in charge of one or two-teacher schools, in the ninth year of service.

Principals of the white elementary schools receive salaries which vary with the size of the school, but the maximum provided in the State schedule for a school with nine assistants and 360 pupils in average attendance is $1,750 after eight years experience.

Salaries Are Increased

In white high schools the average salary for a county principal and teacher for last year was $1,544, or $10 more than the preceding year. The minimum salary for high school assistants ranges between $1,350 and $1,450, the latter salary being paid only after seven years experience. Principals of county approved high schools receive salaries $400 to $1,000 higher than the salary for assistant teachers, depending on the size of the school.

As a result of the legislation in 1927 county teachers contribute from four to eight percent of their salaries each year to set aside funds for an annuity which the State matches to provide a pension.

A teacher may retire at 60 and must retire at 70.

For those who have taught at least thirty-five years there will have accumulated sufficient money to provide a retirement allowance equal to one-half the average salary for the last ten years of service.

SARAH'S POT-CHEESE VENTURE

(©by D J Walsh.)

SARAH DAVISON stood with clenched hands staring at the door which Doctor Forrest had just closed behind him. It was a dingy door, with one cracked panel, and she was at that moment acutely conscious of the dinghiess and the crack. Her whole being, hitherto comfortably sluggish, seemed to have been aroused by what she had just heard.

From an inner room the sick man, her husband, called to her.

"Sate! Sate!"

She unclenched her hands and went to him. Standing at the foot of the bed, she looked down at him as he lay there, a great helpless bulk with pathetic anxiety in his haggard eyes.

"What'd Doc say about me, Sate?' Ira Davison demanded.

"Why, he seemed to think you were getting along all right," Sarah answered.

"But when'd he say I'd be up?"

Sarah thought of the doctor's terse last words, spoken low so that her husband could not hear.

"He'll be all summer getting well, and even then he's got to be careful for a good while." But she could not tell Ira that.

"He didn't say," she replied.

"If I have to lay here a month, having a doctor every day, it'll take every dollar I've saved up," fretted the man.

Sarah smiled.

"Oh, pshaw," she said. "You're seeing a lot of trouble over nothing. Now you go to sleep and when you wake up we'll talk it over."

Outside the door she stood until she heard him breathing long and softly in slumber, then she tiptoed to the kitchen. She wanted to think, to think hard. If Ira was all summer recovering from the sickness that had attacked him so suddenly and so violently it would take every penny they had, even perhaps necessitate putting a mortgage on the house. They were poor, yet they had always been frugal. Ira had worked hard but he had earned only enough for their needs and the tiny rainy-day fund, which would now so soon be dissipated. She had kept the house. For fifteen years the gentle monotony of their lives had been broken by one event—the death of their child. That event, however, had merely proved a great sorrow. This event of Ira's sickness involved a problem.

"It looks as if I'd have to do something," Sarah said to herself. "But what can I do that won't interfere with my taking care of my man?"

She looked around the neat, plain room helplessly. Her eyes fell upon a bowl standing upon the table. She had been on the point of taking that bowl to Mrs. Swan's when the doctor came. Mrs. Swan had been so kind to Ira, bringing him broth and fruit, that Sarah had wanted to make some slight return.

"I'll have to take it right over if she's going to have it for supper," she thought, and, snatching up the bowl, she darted out of the house.

Her next-door neighbor was in her kitchen and she opened the door smiling.

"Here's a bowl of pot-cheese for you, Mrs. Swan," Sarah said. "I made some this morning, more than I need. Ira won't touch it, you know." This was her excuse for her offering.

Mrs. Swan looked at the contents of the bowl.

"I love pot-cheese," she said. "This looks very nice. How is Ira?"

"Doctor thinks he'll be a long time getting well." Sarah turned away. She was proud and did not want to say more than that.

When she returned home she boiled the teakettle and made a pot of tea. She could not eat any supper. Her mind was too full of anxiety.

Two or three times she went softly to look at Ira. He was sleeping, and as sleep was what he needed, she moved away without waking him.

In order to keep the house quiet, she flung a shawl about her and sat down upon the back steps. The sky was warmed by the spring afterglow. It was a time for great peace and contentment for all save such troubled ones as Sarah.

There Mrs. Swan found her when she came to return the empty bowl. She sat down beside Sarah so close that their shoulders touched.

"The pot-cheese was delicious," she said. "I never ate such pot-cheese. Mrs. Corbin had supper with me and she raved about it. She wanted me to ask you if you would sell her some every day. She takes it with cream and sugar."

"Of course I'll make it for her," Sarah replied, "or any one else who wants it. It doesn't cost anything but time. Mr. Armstrong gives me the milk."

"One has to have a knack for making pot-cheese," Mrs. Swan said. "I never had any luck with it. And you can't buy it at the groceries. I've often thought that a good trade might be worked up on it. It's one of these simple things that take."

Was she trying to help Sarah, knowing how great a need there was of such help? Sarah did not know. But the idea had caught in Sarah's harassed brain. Pot-cheese! It seemed ridiculous, but still, if Mrs. Corbin wanted it others might. She would see what she could do.

"That's a lovely sunset,' remarked the little neighbor after an instant.

"Yes, lovely," responded Sarah.

Next morning Sarah rose not without hope. She gave Ira his breakfast, ate some herself, put her house in order and made ready for the street. She told Ira as she kissed him goodby that she had an errand to do, and he never questioned further.

Sarah stepped fast. There was a glow on her plain, sweet face under the shabby hat-brim. She went first to the grocery, where she paid her bills promptly, even in this time of stress, then to the other groceries.

"Pot-cheese?" said genial Mr. Crum. "Sure! Bring it right along. I often have customers ask for it, specially those city people over on Oak street."

Sarah went home elated. It did not seem possible! She had orders for six dozen balls of pot-cheese. Six dozen was seventy-two, and five times seventy-two—"

She laughed as she took off the shabby hat. Ira heard her.

"What's up, Sate?" he asked in his weak voice. "Something's tickled you."

"Of course. You're getting well," returned Sarah with almost sprightly wit.

That was a busy day, bargaining with Mr. Armstrong for cans of the skim milk which he found such a nuisance to dispose of, boiling the snowy curd, working in butter, pepper, salt. Sarah sang like the wren in the apple tree outside the open window where she worked.

That night Ira had a bit of broiled steak for his supper. That night Sarah looked half a dozen times in her purse to see if what was so fortunate, so unbelievable, were really true.

Sarah's pot-cheese sold almost faster than she could make it. She grew a little reckless, putting in cream, streaking the snowy mass with pimento. Mr. Crum said it was amazing what a taste folks had for pot-cheese.

"If you keep on like this," he said, "you'll have to have an assistant."

Sarah laughed. She could laugh at anything now. Ira was much better. Any day now he might be up and around the house. Then she would have to tell him what she was up to, divulge the secret which was keeping her so happy.

"Now, Sate, you've got to tell me what you're up to. You're up to something," Ira demanded a day or two later.

Sarah brought a bank-book and showed him an entry. She brought her grocery bills, each one marked paid; brought her purse, which was comforting, if not plethoric.

"Everything's paid, Ira—doctor and all. I've never touched a penny of our savings," she said.

"You wonderful girl!" Ira's eyes filled. "And to think you did it all with pot-cheese!"

Laborador Fir Forests of Enormous Value

Labrador, since the definition of its boundary with Canada, is being discussed as a possible summer haven for yachtsmen and a source of wood pulp. Though the southern end of Labrador is in the latitude of London and the northern tip opposite Petrograd, no warm ocean current washes its shores to produce the temperate climate of northern Europe. Cold winter winds sweep down from the Arctic across a rocky and sparsely inhabited coast, though explorers say the short summers are delightful.

The entire region at present has only about 3,600 population, about 700 less than forty years ago. North of the settlement of Hopedale, half way up the coast from Newfoundland, the country is peopled mainly by Eskimos, who have been largely Christianized and live in neat wooden houses, supporting themselves by seal and cod fisheries. In the interior scattered Indians and halfbreeds hunt the fox, marten, bear, wolverine and other fur-bearing animals which haunt evergreen woods stretching as far north as the Arctic boundary of forestation.

This fir belt covers large areas of the interior of Labrador in all but the extreme northern part, but only touches the rocky coast at the heads of long narrow bays and the mouths of rivers. As a future course of paper pulp this hitherto little regarded region is of immense value, and already a few mills have been established and concessions granted. Pulp forests are one of the potential sources of wealth. Another asset is unlimited water power of the numerous coastal rivers.

White settlements are mainly on the southeastern coast of Labrador. There a sparse but sturdy population of Scotch and Scandinavian extraction, together with a few French Canadians, carry on cod and whale fisheries. The number of white inhabitants is quadrupled in the summer months by Newfoundlanders who go north for cod fishing, the principal industry. Of late years the whale, seal and cod have all decreased in numbers in Labrador waters. This is thought to be one reason for the steadily diminishing population of the coast. Another factor is that contact with diseases of civilization has proved fatal to whole communities of Eskimos and Indians. Missionaries are making heroic efforts to save the remainder of the native races from extinction by teaching them to adapt their mode of living to changed conditions, and these good offices have met with considerable success.

"Traveling" Libraries

The first traveling library in America was established in 1902 at Hagerstown, Md. It is called the Washington County Free library. There is a central library in Hagerstown and stations in the small towns in the county. These latter are supplied with books from the central library, and a book wagon especially planned to carry nearly a thousand volumes makes trips throughout the county with house-to-house delivery of books.

Facts And Figures On Your Telephone

By EDWIN F. HILL

Edwin F. Hill

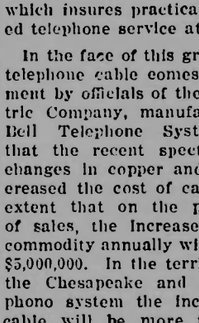
How to spend a million dollars is something that would give the average individual cause for much concern. In the first place the average man never really expects to have that much money, but if he should come into it unexpectedly, no doubt finding how to spend this amount judiciously would give him something to think about, and would be cause for much worry and concern.

In some industries, however, a million dollars is a relatively small sum. Take the Bell Telephone System as an example: This great communication utility, which furnishes local and long distance service to every section of the United States and whose lines connect with foreign countries, both on this side of the Atlantic and in Europe, is now spending more than $1,000,000 a day for additional facilities necessary to meet the demands of the public for adequate telephone service. The additions and improvements to the system include the establishment of new central offices, construction of pole, wire and cable lines, and replacements to existing plant.



One of the major items in this gigantic construction program is the extension of cable lines to connect cities and communities. Telephone cables are now being used extensively, not only for local telephone service in cities and towns, but also for long distance lines. Today many of the important cities of the country are connected by storm-proof cable which insures practically uninterrupted telephone service at all times,

In the face of this great demand for telephone cable comes the announcement by officials of the Western Electric Company, manufacturers of the Bell Telephone System's supplies, that the recent spectacular market changes in copper and lead have increased the cost of cable to such an extent that on the present volume of sales, the increased cost of this commodity annually will be more than $5,000,000. In the territory served by the Chesapeake and Potomac Telephone system the increased cost of cable will be more than $300,000 each year.

Telephone cables are composed of paper insulated copper wire and covered with lead sheathing to protect them from the elements. Telephone cables are used both overhead and underground. This type of telephone plant has been in use since 1879, but it has only been within the past few years that it has been used in such an extensive manner as at present.

Telephone Employes Steadfast To Duty

'The Message Must Go Through' Spirit Considered Every Day Affair

She sticks to her post

Emergencies call for quick action. Accidents, fires, floods, storms and other disasters startle people everywhere, and when such calamities occur the public wants the facts quickly and accurately.

In such times of stress people instinctively turn to the telephone, and it is on the shoulders of the men and women who construct, operate and maintain the telephone system that the brunt of such activities fall.

Disastrous storms and floods have occurred recently in various parts of the country, and in nearly every case mention has been made of the service rendered by telephone operators and linemen. The operators sit coolly at their switchboards sending warnings to those in the path of the rushing waters or call for help in time of storms. On the heels of such disasters come the repair crews, men ready to work day or night, to keep up the lines so that the messages may go through.

The loyal telephone men and women who maintain service, restore broken lines and keep the switchboards in operation in great emergencies seem to consider their actions as all in the day's work. They do not seem to feel that they have rendered any spectacular service or given more than their everyday devotion to duty. It is on these men and women of the telephone system that the public relies, unknowingly in many cases for the news of what has happened in emergencies. Such service is dependable and the public has long since come to accept it as such.

NEW FORD FINANCE CO. MAKES IT EASIER TO BUY

Universal Credit Co. Developing Organization to Handle Ford Model A Time Payments

One of the developments of the past year which created national interest in both automotive and financial circles was the organization of Universal Credit company for the purpose of financing exclusively the time sales of Ford products thruout the country. Ultimately service of a similar nature will be provided in all countries where Ford products are sold.

Universal Credit company is a specialized financial institution created to provide uniform and authorized time payment plans at low cost on an instalment basis. The company in the first year of business just closed has made sound and gratifying progress. The reception accorded the authorized Ford Finance plans by the public and Ford dealers in the 21 large cities where branch offices have been established is indeed impressive.

Today UCC has purchased instalment contracts in excess of $75,000,000 which establishes a new record in instalment financing for an institution which has only been in operation for one year. It is anticipated that the volume of business handled will exceed $25,000,000 monthly from now on. In the short space of a year, the UCC organization has grown from an organization of ten people to one employing almost a thousand.

Already there has come a realization that the Universal Credit company was created primarily for the sound financing of the Ford dealer and the purchaser, and not with the primary object of profit. Its establishment is thus squarely in conformity with the reiterated Ford policy of creating and developing every possible economy from mine to consumer, for the benefit of the public.

The purpose is to reduce the cost of credit, to the individual who buys on time, commensurate with sound business policies. This reduction in the cost of credit is made possible by the many economies that arise from the operation of an authorized plan, on the basis of nation-wide volume, and dealing exclusively with the Ford dealer organization. Simplicity of forms, special bookkeeping and statistical machinery and general uniformity of procedure all under centralized control and management, are constantly contributing to cut these costs.

This cost of credit is just as vital as the cost of any of the material that goes into the building of the automobile. It is in every sense a commodity which becomes a part of the completed article before it is ultimately sold to the public.

Thus the Universal Credit company's low finance charges are equivalent to a price reduction on the Model A car and other Ford products.

Then there is that important matter of good will. A buyer delights in dealing with an organization that gives him prompt, courteous service, that deals fairly with him, that maintains scrupulously the standard of its product and that is constantly instilling in that buyer a sense of reliability and confidence and appreciation of the seller and his product.

UCC is serving a still greater purpose in the economic and social phase of our national life. In addition to adding to the advancement of organized industry, UCC is at the same time contributing substantially to the happiness and contentment of society. By extending credit to every deserving person in the nation at the lowest possible cost, UCC is helping to bring greater health and happiness to a large group of American people, heads of families as well as their children. In the process of transition from the crowded city to the healthy country district, UCC is aiding the American family to establish itself with economic advantages in more desirable locations and is thus helping to raise the standard of American living conditions.

Thomas A. Edison, an outstanding genius of our time has recently said on the subject of instalment selling:

"What we call instalment buying is one of the methods by which we are preparing to take immediate advantage of the opportunities for a higher standard of living thru machine production. That is a method of saving in goods instead of saving in money. In the old days a man spent most of his life getting ready to die. He saved against a rainy day—against old age. Now, altho it is a nice thing to have a fund to fall back on, a family thinks more of living than of dying.

"People who work for wages seldom come into possession of considerable funds. Unless they save, they can hardly ever buy an article costing over $50 or $100. Their incomes, however, justify the possession of more expensive articles that contribute to their comfort or their enjoyment, such as automobiles, phonographs, radios and books, as well as many household conveniences. There is no reason why the manufacturers of these articles should not aid in the purchase by shifting the point of saving from before purchasing until after purchasing.

"If the cost of living goes down—and invention and engineering are bound to drive it down—and wages go higher—and they are bound to go higher with more efficient production—then still more attention can be paid to living rather than dying. This whole instalment system which is gradually developing along business lines will be a necessary part of the job of having consumption both increase and diversify in order to take care of production.

"Saving by people of moderate means, in order to provide funds for investment, is not so necessary as it used to be. The big companies are able to provide their own investment funds to a considerable degree out of their own earnings. We are getting a new slant on savings by the individual of comparatively small earnings. One evidence of that is the giving of more attention to living than to dying. That means that people in general have greater confidence in the future than they used to have."

Sound spending by the recipients of American high wages logically follows. If industry is to continue to create products they must be consumed. To make this consumption possible by the wage earner who helps create the product, the manufacturer presents low cost finance plans and makes available credit where credit is due. A sound instalment plan is now one of the necessary elements of our modern business system and is so recognized.

The institution of instalment selling has contributed a monumental share in the development of industry. Scoop has been receiving a number of testimonials concerning the value of The Republican, which show that if you haven't been reading the newsiest paper in this part of the country you are liable to suffer a stroke of halitosis immediately, if not sooner. Remember, your best friends won't tell you, and you can't be sure unless you read and subscribe for The Republican, Garrett County's best newspaper.

I tried many suggestions and remedies until one day I was told to read The Republican. My toenails now stand straight out, my dandruff never sticks to my coat any more, and I have given my tonsils to the fish to be used as gills. I will never do without The Republican any more." After subscribing for The Republican for two years I am still baldheaded, am now on my third carload of cigarets, but can breathe more freely because I know that I am learning more about the county than I ever knew before." Filipino Roast

One and one-half pounds ground beef, 1 green pepper, ¼ teaspoon pepper, 1 cup bread crumbs, 5 thin slices bacon, ½ lb. ground pork, 1½ teaspoons salt, 1 small onion. 1 egg. 2 cups tomatoes

Add to the steak and pork the onion and pepper, bread crumbs, salt, pepper and beaten egg. Mix well and shape into a roll. Arrange the bacon on top and pour tomatoes over the loaf. Bake in a moderate oven.

Cabbage Ala Hamburger

Boil one large cabbage until tender in salted water to cover it. Drain, cool. Scoop out the center very carefully. Prepare a stuffing of hamburg steak chopped fine. This size cabbage will take about one pound. Fry 2 onions, add the center taken from the cabbage. Cook three minutes. Add meat and let it cook until seered a little bit, not quite done. Take from the pan, add ½ cup bread crumbs and 1 cup of tomatoes. Season with salt and pepper. Fill center of cabbage with mixture and cover the top with some leaves of the cabbage that were trimmed off and tie the whole firmly together with a string. Line a deep baking dish with thin slices of bacon. Put in the cabbage and pour 1 cup of hot water over it. Bake for one hour or more, according to size of cabbage, basting frequently. Remove the cabbage from baking dish, take off string and leaves and place in a pan and put in a hot oven to brown just a little. Garnish the top with slices of hard boiled eggs and serve. Sausage meat can be used in the place of hamburger if desired.

JUDGE ALBERT A. DOUB'S CHARGE TO GRAND JURY

not in the more serious breaches of the law.

"There seems to be a feeling thruout the country that crime has been increasnig and that the organized forces for the protection of society are breaking down, and you may have noticed that the other day the President appointed ten very distinguished men and one distinguished woman as a committee to make a rigid and thorough investigation of the conditions throughout the United States and to make a report as to what ought to be done to correct the difficulty. It is not for me, therefore, at this time, to undertake to mention what may be the causes, but one thing all of us must understand, that it is now more than one hundred and twenty-five years since this government was established. Our ancestors came from Europe in order to find a better government than existed there, to find more freedom and a state of society which allowed them greater opportunities to live their own lives without interference, especially with respect to religion and some other things, and the men and women of that generation, therefore, had a deep appreciation of the value of the government which they established. They knew what it was to live under a government, and their immediate ancestors had lived under a government which oppressed them, which did not protect them and which did not give them the rights to which they were entitled by nature and nature's God. Therefore they recognized the inestimable value of good government and perhaps our ancestors were more careful to live within the law. So many generations have passed since then and we have lived our lives under good government so long that we have begun to look upon good government as a matter of course and think therefore that we don't need to worry about it, forgetting that government and law is the most sensitive and delicate thing in the world; that we do not live under law and under the principles of freedom arising from the law as a matter of course. Eternal vigilance is the price of liberty, and eternal vigilance is the price of the maintenance of law and the maintenance of the rights of the people.

"Human passions and hopes, and fears and griefs, all these things enter into organized society and many of the worst and some of the better elements are trying to take advantage the one of the other, and the thing, and the only thing that can preserve your rights and your freedom, is the maintenance of law.

"I mention this so that we may all understand that as officers of this Court and as officers of the law we have a sacred duty to discharge, and when you are sworn as Grand Jurors you have become a part of the machinery of the law, and you must look upon it and understand it to be the most sacred thing in life.

"I said a while ago that I do not think that crime is upon the increase in this country and I am sure I am correct in that statement, and yet there are certain aspects of society that would cause us to fear somewhat for the future.

"In the beginning the father was head of the family and the family was the first state. Later there developed an association of families under the same grandfather or great-grandfather, and then we had what is known as a patriarchal government, the great-grandfather being at the head of the little state; and gradually from that emerged a socitey in which the inheritance of the right of kingship descended from father to son, which was nothing more than a survival of the old patriarchal state, and from that we drifted into republics and into democracies, but you will see that the very foundation and basis of all these societies and forms of government was the family. So that our society today depends upon the maintenance of the sacred relationship between the husband, the wife and the children. If there is any breaking down anywhere, that breaking down is in the family—the forgetting upon the part of fathers and mothers that the end of marriage is the rearing of children and not the indulgence of themselves, and so we have divorces multiplying rapidly in number, and we have a brood growing in this county and throughout the State and elsewhere of fatherless and motherless children.

"It was Rousseau, a great Frenchman, who wept bitter tears at the end of his life for the sins of his youth, and perhaps on that account he understood this better than anybody else when he said: 'When a father has brought children into the world he has only done one-third of his duty. To the race he owes men; to society men fit for society, and to the state citizens. Any man who can discharge this triple duty and does not do it is a guilty man, and he that discharges it by halves is perhaps more guilty still.'

"And so one of the offenses that you will have to investigate will be that of husbands and fathers abandoning their wives and their children and failing to support them. I cannot say that I know that problem is as serious in Garrett county as it is in other portions of the State, but I mention it now beeause I hope it may never beeome as serious here as it is in some communities.

"It may be, and I am inclined to think that one of the causes of this problem of the maintenance of the law arises from the feeling that seems to be developing that there isn't anything very noble about mankind any more and that he does not have any special obligations to anybody but himself. Our civilization has resulted from one thing more than anything else, and that is the urge in mankind that has arisen from the eonsciousness of the nobility of man and the Fatherhood of God and man's responsibility for his aets in the future, and if it had not been for that urge implanted within him in his earliest days man would never have developed from the most brutal stage of his life.

"Since the newspapers of the country, many of the learned men of the United States and the schools as well undertake to teach that doctrine of materialism—that there is nothing of nobility about man and there is no overruling Providence directing and controlling him and holding him responsible for his acts, we cannot be surprised that there would naturally be a breaking down and a breaking away from those high standards of morality which ought to exist in society.

"Again, there seems to be a misunderstanding as to why courts are maintained. Learned people in some of the professions and some statesmen seem to advocate a change in the method of trial of prisoners—a change in the punishment and a change in the form of the tribunal that administers the criminal law of our country. Some of them urge that we transfer that duty from the judges to expert physicians who have a knowledge of the mind—who have a special knowledge of psychology—to determine whether the man ought to be punished or whether he ought not to be punished. The very basis of that doctrine is wrong. It is founded on the theory that the object and purpose of courts of justice is to take care of morons and criminals; that their object is to act as a school for the training of the crimnal and defcctive. That is not the purpose for which courts are maintained. The object of the courts is to maintain and proteet society. Why, sometimes this Court has received requests from ten, twenty and thirty people asking that traversers—and I don't mean boys, but I mean grown men—confirmed criminals—be turned loose upon society on the theory that they are defective, proceeding altogether upon the idea that the traverser, the rights of the traverser and his interests must be considered.

"The number of criminals in this country is very small in comparison with the great body of people, and our courts are maintained for them. It is to protect the lives and the property of the men, the women and the children who are not offenders against society that courts are maintained, and not in order to take care of the irresponsible and the criminal. There are agencies and societies whose duty it is to do what they can to help those who cannot help themselves, and that is right, and it is a great work which needs to be done, but it is not for the courts to do. Courts are not organized for that purpose. We have juvenile courts in some of our counties, and this Court acts as a juvenile court for some purposes where children are involved, but this Court is not maintained for the purpose of caring for and of trying to see what can be done to reform criminals. The object of this court is to protect society against the criminal, and that is the idea that must be borne in mind by the Grand Jury in all its deliberations. The Grand Jury is the foundation stone of our criminal law, and if the courts are to accomplish the ends for which they are designed they can only do so if the jurors perform their duties properly.

"There is one more thing that I want to call to your attention, and that is that the men who are selected and summoned for this important duty constitute the Grand Jury from the time they have been so ehosen, even though not yet sworn. They are men set apart for this work just as truly as if they were in session in the grand jury room. No man has a right to approach any member of the Grand Jury about anything having connection with his duties, either during the sessions of the Grand Jury or at any time. No one can properly appear before the Grand Jury except in the Grand Jury room, as witnesses, and if anyone should attempt to discuss any matter of official business with any of you it is your duty to warn them that you are members of the Grand Jury. If they persist in the attempt after warning it is your duty to bring it to the attention of the Court or the State's Attorney.

CLASS SERMON WILL OPEN SENIOR WEEK ACTIVITIES

Rev. B. T. Trevey to Deliver Baccalaureate Sermon—Play to be Presented Class Night

Thirty-seven Seniors of Oakland High School will participate in the Commencement Week program on Sunday evening, June 16, when the baccalaureate sermon will be preached to the graduates in the High School auditorium at eight o'clock. The sermon will be delivered by Rev. B. T. Trevey, pastor of St. Paul's M. E. church. Rev. C. A. Shilke will offer the invocation and Rev. W. B. Brock, of the Garrett Memorial Presbyterian church, will pronounce the benediction. All parents and friends of the graduates are invited to attend this service.

Class Night, June 19.

A play entitled, "Oh, Kay!" will be presented by the members of the Senior class on Class Night, at the Maryland Theatre, Wednesday evening, June 19, at 8:15 o'clock.

This play is a three-act comedy with plenty of mystery and thrills. Strange things occur before your eyes. "Gramp," with his flivver and never ending accessories, and "Gram" with her habit of trying every patent medicine on the market are comedy roles which will furnish a couple hundred of laughs.

Admission will be 50 cents and it is said that if one ever saw a play worth while it will certainly be "Oh, Kay!"

Graduation, June 20.

The High School Commencement exercises will be held at the Maryland Theatre on Thursday evening, June 20, at 8:00 o'clock, at which time 37 Seniors will be presented with their diplomas. Other awards will also be made at this time.

Alumni Feature

Whether or not there would be an annual alumni dance will be decided before the end of the week by Miss Kathrine Conley, principal of the High school, and the alumni president. It is felt that the alumni and seniors should have some sort of social function, but due to lack of the necessary funds it was undecided concerning the annual dance. Should it be determined to hold a dance it will be held on a date following graduation exercises.

The graduation exercises for the other four high schools will be held as follows:

Kitzmiller high school, Wednesday evening, June 19.

Grantsville High school, Wednesday, June 19.

Friendsville high school, Wednesday, June 19.

Accident high school, Thursday, June 20.

Sheriff Casteel Assists Preston County Officers in Making Arrest

With the aid of Sheriff W. D. Casteel, who was awakened at 4 o'clock Sunday morning, West Virginia State Policemen Murphy and Donaldson, in company with Deputy Sheriff Carl Roth, of Preston county, arrested Percy and Victor Martin, wanted on a charge of larceny, at a point eight miles east of Oakland.

The arrest of these two young men climaxed more than a six-weeks' hunt for them by the West Virginia officers and followed a "tip" which the officers had received concerning their whereabouts. After making the arrests the officers left with their prisoners for Kingwood where they lodged them in the Preston county jail.

COUNTY SUPERINTENDENT RELATES SCHOOL GROWTH

Tells Radio Listeners How Educational System Has Advanced

The educational advancement made by the public schools in Garrett county was told through Station WMMN, Fairmont, last Monday evening by F. E. Rathbun, county superintendent of schools, during the Oakland hour from 9:30 to 10:30 o'clock, in the address of the evening.

The second week's program also included musical selections by Gilbert's orchestra; Hawaiian trio, saxophone solo, R. R. Gilbert; piano selections by Julius Littman and Mrs. L. K. Dixon and vocal numbers by the Four Horsemen.

Due to particularly bad reception by many radio listeners, L. M. Fraley, one of the sponsors of the Oakland Hour, has succeeded in having the hour changed from 8 to 9 o'clock, p. m. Morning and afternoon programs from the station are said to come in splendidly, while the evening programs barely can be heard.

The entertainment and speaker for next Monday have not yet been determined, it was stated this morning.

Following is Mr. Rathbun's address:

Ladies and Gentlemen:

It is a privilege to be able as the county superintendent of schools of Garrett county to join with the business men of Oakland, Maryland, in putting this program upon the air through station WMMN, at Fairmont, West Virginia. All of our business men have always joined us in our endeavors to have better schools in our county for our young Americans, and therefore it is a source of genuine pleasure to assist in their present endeavor to provide an hour's program over this station for the pleasure and profit of those who listen in.

Among the comments received upon the program broadcast from this same station one week ago was one from a former resident of the county in which he said that Mayor Fraley had not told one-half of the scenic beauty and attractive outpourings of nature throughout Garrett county. Many of these scenes, I am told, however, are being reproduced in the coming Sunday's pictorial edition of the Pittsburgh "Sun Telegraph."

So, in your summer travels, include Oakland and Garrett county in your trip and come over and see our people and our county for yourselves—both of which are the best in the world. It is the superlative county of Maryland—the largest, the youngest, the most scenic and by far the most vigorous.

However, I am to talk upon the public schools of the county and shall discuss only two of the agencies that have contributed most to the recent decided advancement of the public schools of our State, and Garrett county in particular.

These two agencies are:

Adequate financing and professionally trained teachers.

The success of the State's efforts to secure good schools in the 23 counties is evident when we study the results attained during the past ten years as measured in the terms of Dr. Leonard Ayres' somewhat supreme Scale for measuring the efficiency of a school system.

The Ayres' scale consists of ten units, five of which bear upon financial support and the remaining five upon the attendance of pupils.

The ten units of measuring the efficiency of a school system followed by Dr. Ayres, are:

Per cent of children 5 and under 18 years in average attendance; Average days attended by each child 5 and under 18, divided by 2; Average days schools were kept open divided by 2; Ratio of high school attendance to total attendance; Per cent of boys and girls in high school; Total expenditure per child in average attendance; Total expediture per child 5 years and under 18; Total expenditure per teacher and principal divided by 24; Expenditure for other than salaries per child in attendance; Average monthly salary per teacher.

Measured by these ten units, the 23 counties of Maryland in 1918 had an index number of 32—a trifle less than ⅓ efficient. During the following brief period of ten years, this same index number, however, was more than doubled, since for the school year of 1927-28, it was raised to 69.8—a gain of 37.8, which score of 69.8 gives the rural and suburban counties of the State a school system more than 2-3 efficient according to the Ayers' scale of measurement—more points gained during the past ten years than secured throughout the entire history of the State, and Maryland, you will recall, is one of the original 13 colonies!

This remarkable achievement for the schools of our State has been only through following the two essentials for good schools named a few minutes ago: Adequate finances and trained teachers.

Our own county of Garrett has

SECOND "SAVE-A-LIFE" CAMPAIGN WILL BE HELD

June 15 to July 15, Inclusive, Are Dates Designated for Free Inspection of Cars

The second "Safe-a-Life" campaign will be held in the State of Maryland from June 15 to July 15, inclusive, L. M. Fraley, mayor, has announced, and in accordance with a request of Albert C. Ritchie, governor, he has issued a proclamation ealling upon all owners and operators of motor vehicles to avail themselves of this opportunity to have their cars inspected without charge, and to eliminate defects if found.

The first save-a-life campaign was held from October 24 to November 12, 1927, and a total of 1,003 cars were inspected free of charge. It was estimated that about 63 percent of vehicles inspected throughout the State two years ago were in perfect condition.

Mayor Fraley's proclamation follows:

"WHEREAS. Experience has demonstrated that a considerable portion of the accidents involving motor vehicles is directly chargeable to defective mechanism or equipment; and

"WHEREAS, These accidents leave in their wake untold suffering and loss of human life and limb, entirely aside from wanton waste of, and damage of and to property; and

"WHEREAS, It is believed that careful and frequent inspection of said mechanism and equipment will eliminate most, if not all, accidents chargeable to such defects; and

"WHEREAS. Numerous owners of garages and service stations throughout the state have been designated by the commissioner of Motor vehicles to make the said inspections without expense to the state or to the owner of the motor vehicle; and

"WHEREAS, E. Austin Baughman, commissioner of motor vehicles, has arranged for such inspection, free of charge, the same to include examination of brakes, horns, lights, steering mechanism and mirrors, during the period June 15 to July 15, inclusive.

NOW, THEREFORE, I, Lawrence M. Fraley, mayor of Oakland, declare the period from June 15 to July 15, inclusive, at SAVE-A-LIFE period.

And I hereby order and direct, and earnestly eall upon, all owners and operators of motor vehicles to avail themselves of this opportunity to have their vehicles inspected without charge, and upon learning of any defects in mechanism or equipment or the adjustment thereof, to have such defects eliminated immediately."

Scouts Planning for Out-of-doors Meeting Tomorrow

An out-of-doors meeting for the local troop of Boy Scouts is being planned for tomorrow night, when a camp fire service will be conducted and a few games enjoyed in the open. The members will meet at the City Hall at 7:00 o'clock as usual and will go to the place selected in a body.

A small sample of what the two-weeks' camping trip will be like was experienced on Saturday and Sunday, when fifteen members of the troop and the scoutmaster eamped at the quarters on Deep Creek Lake. Games, speed ball and swimming were enjoyed by all. Carl Hinebaugh and Gene Nordeck both passed their first elass swimming tests.

All returned home from the eamp late Sunday afternoon. Those in the party ineluded Arthur Lawton, Richard Stemple, David Walter, Harley Dawson, Carl Hinebaugh, Walter Dawson, Richard Gonder, Donald Stemple, Lewis Wildman, Ward Hinebaugh, Bernard Gonder, Gene Nordeck, Elvin Iman, James Nordeck and Thomas Gonder.

A meeting of the members of the Allegheny Boat Club will be held this evening in the City Hall, Oakland. All those interested in having a water carnival this year are requested to attend the meeting.

SEVERAL ENTER PLEAS OF GUILTY IN CRIMINAL COURT

Wesley Kunkel Fined $100 For Selling Liquor Unlawfully—Ray Kight Now on Trial

Entering self-confessed pleas of guilt as charged in the indictments returned by the Grand Jury last week in the Circuit Court for Garrett county, the trial of cases in the criminal division of the court was somewhat speeded up and a number of cases against the traversers were thus disposed of before Judge D. Lindley Sloan, who is presiding at the sessions this week.

The petit jury reported Monday at ten o'clock, when the criminal appeals docket was taken up. This docket consisted of but two cases.

Criminal Appeals.

The first case to be tried was that of Elzie McRobie on an appeal from Justice Pool, of Kitzmiller. Before the Justice McRohie was charged with having operated a motor vehicle while under the influence of liquor or drugs. He was found guilty and sentenced to serve a year in the House of Correction. He appealed the case and the jury also found him guilty. Judge Sloan sentenced McRobie to pay a fine of $250 and costs.

The second case was that of E. A. Browning vs. the State of Maryland, being appealed from the decision of Justice Gonder. Mr. Browning was charged with having carelessly and negligently set on fire or causing to be set on fire woods, brush, etc., at his farm near Sang Run. The charge against Mr. Browning was pressed by State Forester's Assistant Buckingham and District Fire Warden A. L. Sines and attracted much attention. The case was given to the jury shortly after noon on Tuesday. The body failing to reach a verdict and at 9:30 Tuesday evening was discharged by the Court.

Criminal Trials.

Following the disposition of the two appeal cases above, the criminal trials docket was taken up.

State vs. Ray Kight, charged in an indictment returned by the Grand Jury at the December Term, 1927, in which Kight was charged with the illegal manufacture of liquor, is now on trial before a jury. Kight's trial was of necessity postponed from time to time because of the inability of the State to bring into the jurisdiction of the Court James Hebb, upon whose land it is alleged Kight's still was located. Hebb was found at his home over in District No. 8 several weeks ago and brought to Oakland by the officers, where he was placed in jail on a contempt charge and held there until the case was called yesterday.

State vs. Louis Waingold, indicted at the December Term of last year for having permitted the operation of slot machines on his premises, entered a plea of guilty and was fined $50 and costs by the Court.

Wesley Kunkel, charged with the sale of liquor at a roadhouse on the National Highway three miles east of Grantsville, was fined $400 and costs or to serve a term of eight months in the Maryland House of Correction.

Mrs. J. C. Kendall, indicted for the sale of liquor at the roadhouse operated by Kunkel, was pronounced not guilty by the Court.

State vs. Charles (Leech) Wilson, larceny of a sum of money at the store of W. E. Shirer, entered a plea of guilty.

State vs. Zadick Wilt, bastardy; required to pay to the prosecuting witness, Lora Alice Broadwater, the sum of $5 per month for fourteen years.

State vs. Harry W. Stuart, bigamy. Plea of guilty confessed. Stuart came to Garrett county ahout a year ago and married a young woman whose home was at Friendsville while he had a wife still living at Cincinnati, Ohio. Following the visit of wife No. 1 to Oakland a warrant for Stuart's arrest was issued and he was taken into eustody.

State vs. Ernest Bishop and Joseph Likins, charger jointly in an indictment with the theft of copper wire at a mine operating in the Potomac Valley. Trial before a jury and a verdict of guilty returned with a recommendation to the Court in the case of Bishop.

Joseph E. Duckworth, larceny and receiving stolen goods, entered a plea of guilty, and was parolled by the Court.

Olan Amtower, indicted for burglary and the theft of merchandise at Shallmar, entered a plea of guilty. Parolled by the Court.

Elwood Bowers, a youth, sale of liquor, plead guilty and was parolled.

Lesson for June 16

JUDAH TAKEN CAPTIVE

LESSON TEXT—II Kings 25:1-21.

GOLDEN TEXT—Righteousness exalteth a nation, but sin is a reproach to any people.

PRIMARY TOPIC—A Nation That Forgot God.

JUNIOR TOPIC—A Nation That Forgot God.

INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—Paying the Price of Sinning.

YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—National Accountability to God.

Zedekiah was made king of Judah by the king of Babylon (II Kings 24:17), but in spite of this kindness and the word of the Lord spoken to him by Jeremiah (Jer. 34:17, 18, cf. Jer. 52:3), he rebelled against the king of Babylon. He relied upon the help of Egypt, but all that Egypt could do was to cause temporary interruption of the siege of Jerusalem.

I. The Siege of Jerusalem (vv. 1-3).

1. The time (vv. 1, 2).

It began on the tenth day of the tenth month of the ninth year of Zedekiah's reign and lasted about eighteen months. The tenth month, according to the Jewish calendar, corresponds to our December, January, as their calendar year began about the middle of March. The reason the exact time is given is that this was to be an event of great importance to the Jews in their exile.

2. The method (v. 1). Nebuchadnezzar came with a large army and encamped against Jerusalem and built forts against it round about. It is thought that siege walls were built around the city, shutting it in. On the tops of these walls forts were built from which missiles of destruction could be hurled by their engines of war against the city.

3. The famine (v. 3).

Gelkie says, "It was speedily followed, as is always the case, with an outbreak of pestilence. Food was well-nigh gone. There had long been no bread. Mothers were at last driven to murder and eat their children. The richest citizens wandered about searching for scraps in the dung hills." It is estimated that one-third of the people of Jerusalem died of starvation.

II. Zedekiah's Flight and Fate (vv. 4-7).

1. "The city was broken up" (v. 4).

The Chaldeans had succeeded in making an opening in the wall so large that they could make their way into the city in spite of all that the Hebrews could do.

2. Zedekiah's flight (v. 4).

The king with his men of war fled by night toward the plain. His object no doubt was to cross the Jordan at Jericho and hide in the mountains east of the river.

3. Zedekiah's fate (vv. 5-7).

(1) He was overtaken in the plains of Jericho (v. 5). When his flight was discovered, the Chaldean army pursued and captured him. (2) He was brought to the king of Babylon at Riblah (v. 6), a town north of Damascus. It was the king's headquarters from which he directed his armies against Tyre and Jerusalem. Zedekiah was tried as a criminal before Nebuchadnezzar. (3) His fate (v. 7). His sons were slain in his sight; his eyes were put out; he was bound with fetters of brass and they carried him to Babylon where he remained prisoner until the day of his death (Jer. 52:11).

III. Jerusalem Destroyed (vv. 8-10).

The dismantling of the city was delayed a month, perhaps awaiting instructions from Nebuchadnezzar, who was at Riblah.

1. They burnt of the house of the Lord (v. 9).

This was the sacred temple built by Solomon, with additions and modifications. Before burning it was despoiled of all its sacred contents.

2. Burnt the king's house (v. 9).

This was doubtless the palace built by Solomon.

3. Burnt all the houses of Jerusalem (v. 9).

The implication is that the common houses were left for the people (v. 12).

4. They broke down the walls of Jerusalem.

IV. The Disposition of the Temple Furniture and Priests (vv. 13-21).

1. The temple furniture (vv. 13-17).

The pillars of brass and the brazen sea were broken into pieces by the Babylonians and were carried to Babylon.

2. Certain officers and priests (vv. 18-21).

Certain officers, priests and threescore men were taken to Riblah by the king of Babylon, and were slain.

From Small Beginnings

Prayer brings God into what men are pleased to term the little affairs of life. The lives of people are made up of these small matters: yet how often do great consequences come from small beginnings!—E. M. Bounds.

Color-Blind Towards God

Man is color-blind towards God. The blue of God's truth is to him an arousing, angering red. The soft, soothing green of His love becomes a noisy, irritating yellow.—Dr. S. D. Gordon.

New York-London English Differs

Telephone Operators Find Lack of Universal Speech in Passing Calls Across the Atlantic

The English language may have the same meaning on both sides of the Atlantic, but it is certainly used in a different way in America and Europe. This was never so noticeable before the opening of transatlantic telephone service. New York English as spoken by the operators on the transatlantic service does not seem to sound just right to the London telephone operators any more than does the English spoken at that end of the line to the operators over here. In fact, one thing that has bothered transatlantic telephone operators to a certain extent has been the lack of knowledge of European languages and they have had to attune their ears to the difference in speech between the nations of the world.

The reactions of the first telephone conversation across the ocean, according to transatlantic operators are about the same with almost everyone. The first time a person talks he is usually so thrilled over the idea of having his voice span the Atlantic that he forgets what he wants to say. The bankers and other business men who now hold daily conversations, talk as casually to London, Brussels, Berlin or Paris as the New Yorker does when he talks to Washington, Chicago, or San Francisco. While there are a great many business calls over the transatlantic telephone system nearly half of the calls now being made are of a social nature, because as one of the operators explains, American men traveling in Europe feel that they must call up their families at home to see how they are getting along without them.

The personnel necessary to operate the transatlantic circuits does not consist of switchboard operators only. Each conversation is carefully supervised in order to protect the patrons from a possibility of overcharge due to static or other atmospheric disturbances possible in radio communication. If any interruption occurs, time allowance is made in fixing the charge.

Between thirty-five and forty telephone experts are needed for operating and controlling the radio channels. They maintain the six stations, three of which are located in each country. They, as well as the operators, are all specialists in their respective lines, and they too get "thrills" aplenty in watching and in helping in the development of this marvelous phase of telephone work.

Research Essential To Forest Problems

If Business Corporations Do Research To Increase Service, Why Not the Forestry Department, Editor Asks

Forest service believes the essentials in the solution of the forest problem can be obtained only through research. The editor of Forestry Facts asks the question, "Why Forest Research?" and "Why as a National Undertaking." The answer, he states, may be referred in part to what American industry in general is doing in research. A paragraph in this publication reads:

"Corporate groups such as the American Telephone and Telegraph Company, General Electric Company, Du Pont Company, General Motors Research Corporation and the Eastman Kodak Company spend millions of dollars yearly in research to increase service to society which may be either in the discovery of new or improved materials and uses or in better uses of distribution."

The research and development work of the American Telephone and Telegraph Company and its Bell Telephone Laboratories is a principal factor in the improvement and extension of telephone service and in the maintenance of low costs of furnishing that service.

COUNTY SUPERINTENDENT RELATES SCHOOL GROWTH

Tells Radio Listeners How Educational System Has Advanced

more than kept in the race with the other counties of the State, measured by these same ten units. In 1918, for instance, the index number of the efficiency of the schools of the county was 28.8—a trifle more than one-fourth efficient. But today, for the school year of 1927-28, only ten brief years later, this same index number was raised to 67.1—for 1928 the efficiency of the county's public schools was 2½ times greater than it was only ten years ago.

Perhaps this advancement of the schools has come more through a correct analysis of the problem confronting the people of the State as learned by them from the ⅓-efficiency rating of its public schools as announced in 1918 than through any other means. The plan for securing better schools was directed along the lines of more adequate financing and securing professionally trained teachers, each of which will be considered in the order named.

Just how much money is necessary in order to finance adequately a school system?

The State legislature of Maryland answered this question in 1922, after setting up an advanced scale of teachers' salaries, by saying through legislative enactment, that for every 76 cents spent for teachers' salaries, paid according to the State scale, 24 cents additional shall be provided for all the other school expenses, excluding capital outlay or new building costs.

If the necessary amount is not secured through a county tax rate of 67 cents upon each $100 assessed valuation of property, and from other sources, then the State shall provide the necessary remaining balance. Nor is this amount secured by the State wholly from a State direct tax but in great measure from the income of the State from indirect taxation which form of indirect taxation is less burdensome upon the taxpayers.

This end has been accomplished largely through following the principles set up at the time the campaign was on for more comprehensive financing of the schools which principle is as follows:

"The wealth of the State shall educate the children of the State, regardless of where the wealth is located and where the children reside."

In following the above formula of determining the financial needs of a school system, the salaries of the teachers of the counties of the State have increased over $3,000,000 during the past ten years. In Garrett county, they have increased, for practically the same number of teachers during the same period, from $59,000 in 1918, to $218,000 for 1928, or an average annual increase of about $16,000. The same result is evident when we see that the average salary of elementary teachers in Garrett county in 1918 was $542, whereas for 1928 it was $1155—more than double in ten years.

These additional expenditures automatically lead us to our second goal of employing only professionally trained teachers.

A trained teacher is defined in Maryland as one who has four years of high school and two years of normal school training or the equivalent.

In 1922 there were 21 such professionally trained teachers in Garrett county in the staff of 180 elementary teachers, whereas, today every teacher in the rural and town schools is a trained teacher according to the above definition with only 6 exceptions.

This result has grown out of the State's second goal set up in 1922 when school improvement was in the air, which was:

"A competent, well-trained teacher, in hearty accord with American ideals, in every public-school position in Maryland, so that there may be an equal opportunity for all the children of the State."

Back of all and over all of these advancements in the schools of Garrett county, have been the best wishes for success in improving the schools from our merchants, bankers, farmers, professional men and women, and all of the patrons, without which active support there could not have resulted the gratifying conditions that crown our public schools today.

This liberal spirit of cooperation is furthering transportation of pupils and consolidation of schools, adequate supervision, good attendance of pupils, increased number of high school graduates and making equal educational opportunities for rural and town boys and girls, as also similar accomplishments which bring still closer to every home in the county that public institution which is already the closest and most important of all—the American public school.

Our offices are located in the beautiful county court house in Oakland, situated in one of the most beautiful spots in town, upon a rising elevation, and we shall be delighted to have any one interested while driving to Oakland, drop in and see us. You will find a hearty welcome.

Our people are back of our public schools. They delight and are enthusiastic in their improvement. They are united in their efforts to continue to have the very best school system that money and interest make possible.

Mayor Fraley Invites People to Visit Oakland

In an address over station WMMN, Fairmont, on Monday, June 3, people of the entire section were invited to pay Oakland a visit and enjoy the beautiful scenery and many advantages of this ideal climate. His address follows:

"It is my privilege this evening to tell the radio audience something about the City of Oakland, Maryland. This beautiful town of approximately 2,000 inhabitants, is situated on the crest of the Allegheny mountains, nearly 2,800 feet above sea level, and for many years has been widely known as a health resort.

"It is the county seat of Garrett county, and is on the main line of the Baltimore and Ohio railroad, about midway between Cumberland, Md., and Grafton, West Va.

"Oakland is a pleasant and wholesome place in which to live, being amply equipped with hotels, churches, schools, stores, three banks with total assets 3 million; garages, drug stores, bakery, laundry, creamery, and also a number of professional men, and is only two miles from Mt. Lake Park, Md., which is also a widely known summer resort. Six miles east of Oakland is the Deer Park hotel, which for many years has enjoyed a wide reputation as a summer hotel. It has a beautiful golf course.

"Oakland's water supply is obtained from a nearby spring and there is always an ample supply for all needs. The water is tested monthly by the State department of health and always has been found pure.

"Electrical power is furnished by the West Maryland Power company, a subsidiary of the Monongahela West Penn Power company. Natural gas is furnished by the Cumberland and Allegany gas company, being piped into Oakland from nearby West Virginia points.

"Oakland has unsurpassed fire protection for a town of its size. There was recently installed an American LaFrance fire engine at a cost of $12,500.

"Oakland is unusually fortunate in having complete automobile bus service. The Monongahela West Penn Power company operate busses into Oakland from Fairmont and Morgantown and also operate a line connecting with busses operating on the National Pike to all points east and west.

"We also have a bus line operated by the Meyer Transit company connecting Oakland with Davis, Thomas, and Elkins, W. Va., and for points along the Northwestern Turnpike, route 50. In just a few hours, Oakland can be reached by bus from Connellsville, Pittsburgh, Uniontown, Washington, Pa., Cumberland, Fairmont, Clarksburg, Morgantown, and Grafton. We have excellent hotel facilities. There are five hotels and a number of good restaurants with ample and complete accommodations.

"Oakland is only 27 miles south of the National Old Trails road, one of the principal transcontinental roads, reaching from coast to coast. We are reached by turning south off the National road at Keyser's Ridge. The Northwestern Turnpike, route 50, passes through Garrett county, only eight miles south of Oakland. The well known Brookside Inn is located on this highway, eleven miles from Oakland. Our city is connected with both of these routes by improved roads.

"The largest artificial fresh water lake in the Eastern part of the United States is located only seven miles north of Oakland. This beautiful body of water, lying between hills and mountains, is fourteen miles long and has a shore line of approximately seventy-five miles. It affords trout and bass fishing, duck hunting, motor boating, bathing, sailing and canoeing, and many summer homes and cottages are now being built on its shores and with many beautiful sites still available, it is being made into one of the beauty spots of the eastern part of the United States.

"This lake can be reached by turning off the National Old Trails road at Keyser's Ridge and from the Northwestern Turnpike by turning South at Red House and passing through Oakland. The lake is on an improved highway and is visited by thousands weekly during the summer months.

"Oakland is located in the heart of a rich agricultural and dairying section. There are numerous desirable industrial sites in and around Oakland, particularly concerning same will be furnished upon request.

"Oakland extends a cordial invitation to everyone to visit it and to drive through the beautiful section adjoining."

$28,000,000 EXPENDITURE FOR MARYLAND TELEPHONES

Five-Year Construction Program Provides Additional Facilities in Every Section of State. Will Operate 243,000 Telephones by 1934 is Estimate

Graham K. McCorkle, General Manager

The business expansion now under way in Maryland is making itself felt in nearly every industry. Particularly is this true with the Chesapeake and Potomac Telephone Company of Baltimore City which furnishes telephone service throughout the State. This company now operates more than 202,000 telephones, which is an increase of about 40,000 during the past five years. Five years hence the company expects to operate about 243,000 telephones, according to Graham K. McCorkle, general manager of the telephone company.

To provide the necessary facilities for this anticipated growth, the company's construction program calls for additions and improvements to the telephone system in the State involving gross expenditures of more than $28,000,000.

This five-year program will include new central offices and office buildings involving expenditures of $4,400,000: telephone equipment including private branch exchange systems and associated apparatus, $6,000,000; long distance facilities including pole lines, wire and cable, $2,900,000; and underground and aerial cable extensions, pole lines and wire $10,500,000.

Plaas are under way for the construction of five new central offices and major additions to switchboards and associated equipment in a number of existing offices. Fifteen hundred miles of open wire copper toll lines and 150 miles of toll cable will be added to the system by the end of 1933 in order to meet the increasing demands of the public for telephone service, Mr. McCorkle states. The placing of long distance lines in these storm-proof cables not only provides additional facilities for the growth of the toll service, but also materially reduces the storm hazards of sleet, wind and rain in the maintenance and operation of these telephone lines.

While the telephone was more universally used in Maryland last year than ever before, approximately 285,000,000 local calls being made, it is expected that at the end of the next five years the yearly calls will number about 350,000,000. Telephone users are now making 15,250,000 out of town calls each year. Mr. McCorkle estimates that Maryland telephone users will be making about 23,000,000 toll calls annually by 1933, which is an increase of nearly fifty per cent over the number now being made.

During the last few years a very appreciable improvement has been made in both local and toll telephone service. This improvement has been most marked in out of town calls. The average interval between the time a telephone subscriber files the call and the time he starts his conversation or is given a definite report has been decreased from three minutes in 1926 to 1.2 minutes in 1929. While this is a striking improvement in the service, still further improvements may be expected.

Today about 98 per cent of the toll telephone calls in Maryland are completed or the subscriber is given a definite report without hanging up his receiver. Where the calling party knows the number of the party wanted in the distant place a toll call is made in practically the same way as a local call.

PAPER INSTALLS AMPLIFIERS THOUSANDS APPLAUD FEATURES

Herald-Advertiser Editors Give Out News and Sporting Events, Interested Audiences Gather in Streets Around Newspaper Offices to Receive Latest Returns

Editor P. Walker Long, of the Huntington Advertiser, at microphone of public address system. Audience in street listening to news bulletins.

When Mark Anthony said "Friends, Romans, countrymen, lend me your ears," he very probably addressed a small audience, some of whom were able to hear what he had to say, while others on the outskirts of the group very likely looked at each other in a blank sort of way and wondered what it was all about.

According to the encyclopedia Mark Anthony was at the height of his power about 30 B. C. Strange as it may seem, from that far distant date until the second decade of the twentieth century, there was no change in the method of a speaker getting his message across to large audiences.

Public speakers not blessed with stentorian voices were handicapped in addressing large gatherings whether in the open or in auditoriums, churches, schools, and theaters having poor acoustic properties. Frequently such speakers were unjustly criticized when in reality they were doing their level best to be heard. But the natural conditions were against them to such an extent that they could be heard by just a few.

With the Presidential inauguration of March 4, 1921, a great change was brought about in public speaking. At that time the Bell Public Address System came into use and since has been used on similar occasions and as well at State inaugurations and for many other occasions where large groups assembled.

The public address system developed by the Research and Development Department of the Bell Telephone System is an amplifying apparatus which is now installed as a permanent unit in many institutions, where almost any number of people can hear speakers who in no wise need strain their voices.

The Huntington (West Virginia), Herald-Advertiser Company has installed a public address system that has brought pleasure to thousands and thousands of people. This company is the publisher of a daily morning and afternoon paper. When important events are announced, people gather in the streets on the two sides of the building to hear the returns.

Public address system installations in nationally known institutions include the Johns Hopkins Hospital, Baltimore; Mayo Clinic, Rochester, Minnesota; Mills Memorial Hospital, San Francisco; Sacred Heart Church, Pittsburgh; Grace Church and the Central Synagogue, New York City; Miami Beach Chamber of Commerce; Municipal Auditorium, Minneapolis; and the City Auditorium, Frederick, Maryland. Installations of the public address system are also found in many amusement parks, some of the outstanding including the Million Dollar Pier, Atlantic City; Playland Park, Rye Beach, N. Y.; Watonowan County Fair Grounds, St. James Minnesota, and many others. The Lord Baltimore Hotel, Baltimore, and the Hotel Washington, Washington, D. C., are also equipped with public address systems.

AFTER COMMENCEMENT—?

At this time of the year the young men and the young women, flushed by their first commencement, are enthusiastic and optomistic as to the future. It is well for them to pause and think that this, indeed, is only the "commencement" of life's struggles.

It is a fact well recognized by all students of business and educational history, that the graduates of our day are sent into the world's work with far better preparation than that which their fathers and mothers received less than a generation ago. Methods have been perfected, teachers are more efficient, our school superintendents are better qualified, our housing conditions are better, good roads and transportation facilities concentrate effort and the value of a thorough knowledge of principles and basic information more generally appreciated. But in face of all this, competition is more intense so that the graduate of today has but little advantage over those of a generation ago. We are all judged by the standards of the age in which we live.

Advice is easier given than followed. For the last few years those who have won the honor of a diploma have, consciously or unconsciously, been dominated by the personality of their teachers, whose sole aim has been to instill into their minds the things that will serve as the foundation upon which to erect the moral and business structure of their future careers and with patience and skill they have endeavored to place within their grasp the equipment necessary for success. But after all they could but lay the ground work.

The graduates, as well as those of us to whom commencement day is but a joyful recollection, should remember that we are living in an age of marvelous achievement. Every day records some advance in methods of thought and life. It is necessary to frequently make quick decisions in order to adjust ourselves to rapidly changing conditions. Methods of accomplishment though perfect today, are discarded as obsolete tomorrow. Consequently, it is necessary for the young men and women graduates of today, to lay out their plans, then bend every effort to accomplish their desires, recollecting, however, that life's currents are swift, and that he indeed is fortunate who does not have to row against the tide.

An Appreciation Expressed by a Native of the Hoyes Community.

To the Editor of The Republican

If the old adage, "A community is to be judged by its churches, schools and cemetery," still holds true, the community of Hoyes, Garrett county, ranks high.

For nearly one hundred years it has had a successful Methodist Episcopal church, supported by a loyal, God-fearing people. Its school has kept up with the progress of the times.

Decoration Day, with a number of my loved ones, I was privileged to visit this, to me, a sacred shrine. I was delighted to see the great improvement in the church cemetery. It has been enlarged, doubling its size. Improvements have been made by erecting a fine wire fence with suitable gates around the property. Interested friends have graded their lots and placed shrubbery and flowers, which not only beautify the lots and cemetery, but bespeak ministrations of love.

All this has been accomplished by the fine class of loyal people of the community, aided some little by friends from a distance.

I wish to commend and congratulate these faithful people for their praiseworthy achievements. It was in the Hoyes Methodist Episcopal church that I went to Sunday school and church in my youth and found Christ as my personal Saviour.

I had good and faithful teachers whom I shall cherish in everlasting remembrance. Some of my dear ones sleep in the beautiful cemetery. I make long, yet loving, journeys to visit this sacred shrine. Some day we will make the last journey. Then we will be home and with loved ones evermore. J. H. ENLOW.

TWO ARMY AIRMEN DIE IN PLANE ACCIDENT IN COUNTY

Machine Nose Dives Into Large Oak Tree Near Johnson's on National Highway Saturday

Two army airmen, First Lieut. Harry A. Saunders, of Arizona, and Sergeant Edwin Woodward, Waynesville, N. C., were burned to death about 4 o'clock Saturday afternoon when the O-2 type army observation plane in which they were en route east crashed and burned on the farm of Thomas J. Johnson on the summit of Little Savage Mountain, in Garrett county.

According to information gleaned by First Lieut. Edgerton F. Powell, of the Pittsburgh recruiting office, who was driving along the National Highway in an army truck en route to spend the week-end with his family in Cumberland and who arrived shortly after the crash, the road was obscured by a dense fog and in his opinion the crash was caused by the low visibility.

Saw Mill Operator Hears Crash

Several persons, including Raymond Minnick, who was operating a saw mill but three hundred feet away, told Lieut. Powell that the engine of the plane seemed to be missing and that it was having trouble in maintaining its already low altitude when first seen.

The plane crashed nose-first into a good sized oak tree, tearing it away by the roots and then landing in a hickory tree which turned the plane over and it was set on fire.

Minnick tried to extricate the men, but both were burned beyond recognition before he could move the plane with a fence rail employed as a lever.

The bodies of the two fliers were taken into Frostburg and government officials at Boiling Field advised of the crash by Lieut. Powell.

Letters Identify Saunders

Lieut. Saunders was identified by letters on his person which were not burned. Lieut. Powell said that the parachutes of both men were loosened and that indications were that they were preparing to jump but did not have a chance before the plane went down.

Shortly after the crash hundreds of persons from near-by points and tourists passing over the National Highway congregated at the scene and impeded traffic as a result of the parking of cars on both sides of the highway.

The instrument board of the ship was salvaged by a farmer and taken to Cumberland. The rest of the plane was a complete wreck.

Monday Captains O. F. Peak and W. F. Hackett, U. S. Army Air Service, Langley Field, Va., arrived at Frostburg to conduct a preliminary investigation of the crash.

HIGH SCHOOL GRADUATES INCREASE IN MARYLAND

Number to Receive Diplomas This Year Largest in History of State—Garrett Has 99

If all the seniors graduate for whom diplomas have been ordered the increase in the number of graduates this year will be larger than ever before in the history of the Maryland county high schools, the State Department of Education announced Saturday.

Diplomas have been ordered for 2,067 girl graduates and 1,350 boy graduates. There are 208 more boys and 216 more girls to graduate this year as compared with the preceding year.

Figures Show Increase

The steady increase in the number of graduates in the four-year white county high schools is shown as follows:

| Year. | Boys. | Girls. | Total |
|---|---|---|---|
| 1919..... | 323 | 681 | 1,004 |
| 1920..... | 378 | 772 | 1,150 |
| 1921..... | 470 | 893 | 1,363 |
| 1922..... | 599 | 1,034 | 1,633 |
| 1923..... | 686 | 1,267 | 1,953 |
| 1924..... | 813 | 1,405 | 2,218 |
| 1925..... | 929 | 1,610 | 2,539 |
| 1926..... | 1,045 | 1,574 | 2,619 |
| 1927..... | 1,071 | 1,816 | 2,887 |
| 1928..... | 1,142 | 1,851 | 2,993 |
| 1929..... | 1,350 | 2,067 | 3,417 |

The counties vary in the number of graduates this year from 408 in Allegany and 348 in Baltimore county, to 26 and 24, respectively, in St. Mary's and Calvert counties, the announcement said.

Four counties have over forty more graduates this year than last year. They are Prince George's, Dorchester, Allegany and Anne Arundel.

The number of graduates this year in each county is as follows:

| County. | Number of Graduates 1928. | 1929. | 1929 Increase Over 1928. |
|---|---|---|---|
| Allegany..... | 364 | 406 | 42 |
| Baltimore..... | 311 | 348 | 37 |
| Frederick..... | 242 | 273 | 31 |
| Washington..... | 266 | 272 | 6 |
| Montgomery..... | 158 | 197 | 39 |

| Caroline..... | 72 | 106 | 34 |
| Somerset..... | 89 | 105 | 16 |
| Garrett..... | 90 | 99 | 9 |
| Kent..... | 70 | 96 | 26 |
| Talbot..... | 98 | 85 | —13 |
| Howard..... | 42 | 70 | 28 |
| Charles..... | 55 | 64 | 9 |
| Queen Anne's... | 61 | 61 | .. |
| St. Mary's..... | 21 | 26 | 5 |
| Calvert..... | 23 | 24 | 1 |
| Total.....2993 | 3417 | 424 | |

If the number of boy and girl graduates of 1929 is compared with the first-year high school enrollment four years earlier, the announcement said, it is possible to get an idea of the number who persist to graduation and the number who drop out before completing the course. Of 7,558 boys and girls enrolled in the first year of high school in 1925-26, 3,417 or 45.2 per cent remained to graduate in 1929.

The persistence for girls, 51.3 per cent, was higher than that for boys, 38.3, but the boys show a gain of 2.7 per cent over 1928, while the girls graduating in 1929 show a persistence lower by .7 of one per cent than that for 1928.

Maryland University Graduates

The graduating class for College Park branch of the University of Maryland was the largest in the history of that branch of the institution, numbering almost two hundred. In addition to those receiving their bachelor degrees there were fifty who were given their advanced degrees for either the Master's work or Doctor's. In Baltimore over four hundred diplomas were given out, making a total of over six hundred for the University.

Miss Alverta P. Miller, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. P. Miller, of Grantsville, was among those to receive their diplomas at the annual graduation exercises last Tuesday. Miss Miller received the degree of Bachelor of Science in the Home Economics college.

Miss Miller has been attending the State University for only her junior and senior years but while there has been active in many extra-curricular activities. She was a member of the Y. W. C. A. and served on the cabinet during her senior year. She was also on the Women's Student Council, the Women's Athletic Association, a member of the baseball and bowling teams and was associated with the student grange.

Merle Franklin Hershberger, son of Mrs. Ida M. Hershberger, Grantsville, was also graduated from the University last Tuesday. He was a student in the College of Agriculture and received the degree of Bachelor of Sciences.

While a student at the State University he has still found time to interest himself in extra-curricular activities, and took active part in the Student Grange and in Y. M. C. A. He is a member of the Sigma Tau Omega, social fraternity on the campus.

As a member of the Alpha Upsilon Chi, social sorority, she was elected to the Panhellenic Council, the governing council for all sororities on the campus. She also was a member of Theta Gamma, honorary Home Economics fraternity at the University.

Miss Miller received her teacher's certificate together with her diploma and will probably accept a teaching position next fall.

Dreams Disturbed Him

Many more testimonials have come into Scoop's office this week but he has not had time to open them all. From the few he did open he picked the following:

"For years I suffered from indigestion. Wild dreams would disturb my rest and I'd wake up in the morning half-baked. Spots of all description danced before my eyes—two spots, treys, five spots, and jacks, and I couldn't see for looking. I couldn't sleep at night until four o'clock.

Thanks to a friend I am now reading The Republican regularly and find it a panacea for all ills. The articles in it are relaxitive and are good for what ails you. "- - - -Frank Lyon.

Picnic To Be Held On July 4

The Mt. Bethel Sunday school will hold its annual Children's Day and Sunday school picnic at the Truesdale gate, two miles east of Deer Park, along the State highway, July 4, beginning at 10 o'clock.

The entertainment of the day will consist of the children's program, music and races. There will be a weiner roast and marshmellow toast at night. Refreshments and dinners are for sale, the proceeds of which will go for the benefit of the Sunday school. Everybody is invited to attend.

Ross Teats, of Lake Ford, was a visitor at The Republican office yesterday.

Mrs. H. A. Loraditch went to Keyser, W. Va., yesterday for a visit of a few days with friends.

Mr. and Mrs. Howard P. Stuck, who spent upwards of a month at Los Angeles, Cal., and other Pacific Coast cities, returned to their home in Oakland Monday night. While in Los Angeles Mr. Stuck attended the Shrine convention.

The black bear at the Houck filling station on the edge of town, where it was an attraction for more than two years, succeeded in slipping its collar Monday, the second time in as many weeks. The animal was cornered by Mr. Houck's employes but put up a stiff fight against being recaptured with the result that it had to be shot.

Last night at the Manhattan Hotel a dinner was served at which plans were discussed relative to the organization of intensive work among the Sunday schools in the county and the holding of conferences at four different points in the county during the last week in August. The conference was attended by about fifteen local people with Dr. Davies of Baltimore, State Superintendent, as the visiting guest.

Out of town people who attended the funeral of the late Mrs. Lillian Blake Ours, which was conducted on Friday afternoon, were Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Ashby, Washington, D. C.; Mr. W. O. Ashby, Wheeling, W. Va.; Miss Adeline Ashby, Fairmont, W. Va.; Mr. and Mrs. T. W. Ashby, Cumberland; Mr. and Mrs. S. G. Ashby and family, Elkins, W. Va.; Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Connell, Washington, D. C.; Miss Daisy Godlove, Morgantown; Mr. and Mrs. W. O. Blake and Mr. and Mrs. Earl Blake and family, Keyser, W. Va.

Oakland High Given Second Place in Recent Meet

Due to a disqualification of a Grantsville boy in the baseball throw for accuracy at the County meet on May 28, James Treacy, Oakland High, has been awarded third instead of fourth place, according to Foster Speicher, chairman of the committee.

This is just enough of a difference to break the tie Oakland High school had with Kitzmiller high for second place honors in the meet. The revised figures for the first three places are: Accident, 118; Oakland High, 74; and Kitzmiller High, 73.

Fined For Violating School Attendance Law

Mrs. Zelphina Bowers of near Deer Park, was arrested by Constable Andrew Shartzer one day last week on the charge of keeping her children out of school. She was fined $4 and costs when given a hearing before A. S. Teats, Justice of the Peace. When about to be committed to jail, the woman decided to pay the fine, did so and was released.
